The right to annul marriages is reserved for the Dominion Parliament, was a declaration by Mr. Justice Sutherland at Osgoode Hall yesterday, which gave Reginald Muir-Barlow, of Havelock, Peterboro County, a young man, to hope that his marriage to a young woman on the eve of his going overseas could be set aside in Ontario, but his lordship reserved judgment on the motion to set aside an agreement under which Barlow pays his wife $25 per month. C. W. Kerr, who appeared for Barlow stated that the marriage had not been consumated, and it did not seem right to him that the stigma of the word divorce should be attached to any case of the kind, or that the expense of securing an annulment of such a marriage should be considerable when a change of the law could make procedure by court so much cheaper.

SOURCES OF PLATINUM.

Ninety-five Per Cent. Came From Russian Before the War.

The state of affairs in Russia makes the discovery of platinum in the Serrania de Ronda, in the south of Spain, announced in a special memoir issued by the Geological Institute of Spain, specially interesting. The rocks in this region were studied because of their similarity to the platinum-bearing rocks in the Ural Mountains. The Ural deposits yielded in pre-war days about 300,000 ounces (troy) per annum—about 95 per cent. of the world's yearly output. In 1916 this figure had fallen to 86,000 ounces. Platinum has also been found in some quartz deposits in the Ober Rosbeck district of the Taunus Mountains, Germany, and these deposits are being worked. The chief source of the Entente supplies is now presumably the mines in Columbia, where the metal was first discovered in 1735. Their output is comparatively small; in 1916 it was 25,000 ounces, rather more than double what it was before the war. Other possible sources of supply are the river gravels in Southeast Borneo, where further prospecting is required, and various districts in North America, more especially Sudbury, Ontario, and the stream placers in Alaska, which are being investigated by the United States Geological Survey. Considerable activity is also reported in the Similkameen and Tulameen districts in British Columbia, which are the chief localities of platinum production in Canada. New South Wales has produced some 2,000 ounces in the course of the last five years.—Science Progress.

Meat From Far North.

The prudent and economical citizen whom war has deprived of his sirloin steak will be interested in the statement that in another year or two Alaskan reindeer meat will be coming into the market in sufficient quantities to give the public a chance to partake of choice cute at reasonable prices.

Inspired by the example of Uncle Sam, Canada is now encouraging reindeer breeding in its northwest territories, and on the crown lands of the western provinces. An Indiana company has recently applied for and been granted a permit for the use of certain territorial grazing lands for thirty years. Private capital is invited to invest in the industry, which is regarded as an important feature of Canada's future development.

The western ranges long ago ceased to furnish any important source of beef supply in the United States, due to the settlement of these districts by farmers and the utilising of the ranges for growing crops. Canada and Alaska have vast tracks of land suitable for the reindeer industry, but too far north for cattle to do well. In this situation reindeer ranches promise profitable earnings, as well as some relief to the public in market prices.

Tank's Crew Active.

A tank crew's activity is not necessarily terminated if their ship is put out of commission, as was proved several times. One sergeant got out of a disabled tank, took command of an infantry platoon, and fought for two days. The crew of a second tank, when their unnatural means of locomotion went out of commission, detached their machine guns and went forward as an improvised machine gun squad. An another occasion an officer, seeing an American tank stalled, asked for two volunteers to replace two gunners who had been wounded. Everybody volunteered, but the officer would take only two. A dispute followed which was settled in a military manner. There were two lieutenants in the tank. They issued an order to themselves to go and then instructed all the enlisted men to stand by the tank.

The Tanks.

The tanks usually line up and start from a tape very much like foot racers at a track meet. The tape is laid by reconnaissance men. It is usually a little distance behind the front line. On one occasion, so it seemed to the tank men, it wasn't very far behind the front line, however. On the other hand it seemed to be in front of it. The tanks got under way all right, but they had gone only a few yards when they found themselves in the thick of it with German machine-gun nests on all sides. The men that laid that tape," observed the sergeant, "was the greatest optimist I ever saw."

Can you find them? It is notany task but by patience and endurance can be accomplished.

Contestancy wins a cash prize by doing so. Many have done this as will be shown by the names and addresses which we will send you. If you find the faces mark each one with an X, cut out the picture and send it to us, together with a slip of paper on which you have written the words "I have found all the faces and marked them." Write these nine words plainly and neatly, as in case of ties, both written and mechanical are considered factors in this contest.

Institution of Masonic Lodge Was Followed By Banquet Last Evening

Two Hundred and Sixty Members of the Masonic Fraternity Participated—A Presentation.

THE ADDRESSES

Following the conclusion of the Institution Ceremony in connection with the dedication of the new lodge, the brethren assembled at the Empress Hotel, to attend the banquet and fraternal conference. As provision had to be made to entertain as many as two hundred and sixty not only was the large dining room set with its usual ample number of tables, but additional service was provided in the main rotunda, by two long tables. When all had been seated it was found that not more than the accommdation provided would be necessary. It was the largest gathering held under Craft auspices for many years.

The banquet was most excellent and the service notably and conspicuously good. At such gatherings it is often the case that the service is retarded by the throng and by need of sufficient skilled help. So well had the host arranged matters that the viands were served with promptitude and decorum. This feature elicited general approval. The handsome room was profusely decorated and everything done for the comfort of the brethren.

Guests of the Evening.

At the head table, extending across the room were seated the guests of the evening, grouped on each hand of the chairman, Rgt. W. Bro. Kenner. These included M. M. Bro. W. H. Wardrope, K.G., Grand Master, Rgt. W. Bro. W. M. Logan, Grand Secretary, Rgt. W. Bro. Pearson, Act. Dir. of Cer., and many of the local brethren, including Rgt. W. Bros. D. Walker, E. H. D. Hall, Benj. Shortly, R. Thorndyke, (Millbrook), Dr. S. P. Ford, (Norwood), H. C. Winch, H. Rush, D. Burritt, (Toronto), and several others.

The chairman, in a brief address of welcome, referred to the occasion of the day, and to the satisfaction of the local lodges at the completion of an important work, the housing of the Craft.

Opening Toast.

"The Grand Lodge of A. F. & A. M. of Canada in the Province of Ontario," the first toast, was proposed by Rgt. W. Bro. D. Walker, and in so doing said that the Craft in the city having gone through the ordeal of fire, and risen phoenix like from the ashes, was some evidence that some virtue had triumphed over trials. There was ample evidence that the local Craft had been governed wisely and well by a long succession of rulers well chosen and faithful to the trust. In a larger sense this applied to the Grand Lodge, and these things were well exemplified in the person of the present incumbent who would address the gathering, the immediate Grand Master.

Then Rgt. W. Bro. J. L. Goodwill rose, and stating that a pleasant duty was to be performed, handed with expressions of good will and appreciation, a handsome club bag to the Grand Master, adding that it was a most pleasing thing that so busy a professional man should take the time to come and dedicate the new home of the local Craft.

M. W. Bro. Wardrope, on rising, expressed his thanks for the gift, which was acceptable and would be useful, and in carrying it he would also carry his remembrance of the kindness of brethren in making the gift. He followed this by saying that he agreed most heartily with the statement of Rgt. W. Bro. Walker that Masonry brought to the front the best of men, both in an administrative and in a personal sense. His own elevation to the governing chair had been a personal gratification, realizing that the jurisdiction over which the Grand Lodge presided was one of the most important on the continent.

A New Country.

Then departing from the generally accepted tradition that the Grand Master should talk about Grand Lodge only, he gave a most interesting relation of his experiences when on official visits to the Masonic districts in the north country, which has been newly developed from a Masonic point of view. He had gone for two hundred miles beyond Haileybury, in the comparatively unsettled mining district, into the pulp wood and paper territory of Timmins and Cochrane and he was delighted with the class of men he met and who were of the lodges in Masonry. He had a royal welcome. On every hand he found loyalty to the Craft and an earnest progress. At Iroquois Falls, and all along the difficult route the spirit developed was most surprising, and the progress remarkable. Many instances were related of the fraternal benefits accruing to men from their connection with the Craft. It was a great leavening influence in the lives of the people who were hewing out their subsistence in that unsettled territory.

True Officers.

He found the same spirit at Cobalt,

PETERBORO' VILLAGES WANT HYDRO LINE FROM HEALEY'S FALLS

Representatives of the County Council, City Council and Board of Trade arranged last night to send a deputation to Toronto in the near future to urge upon the Hydro-Electric commission the desirability of stringing the new power line from Healey's Falls through or adjacent to the villages of Hastings, Norwood and Havelock. These communities will take at the outset 700 h.p. for lighting and manufacturing, and it is hoped that some effort may be made to supply the farmers along the proposed route.

The city representatives assured their neighbours of their fullest cooperation in supporting their petition. This new line will connect with Peterboro and will form a loop giving the city two direct routes from the Healey Fall's and Campbellford generators.

The villages to the east intend to impress Sir Adam Beck as strongly as possible with the reasons why the loop should follow the route they have mapped out.

Workmen Have Revolted in Bremen

Hard Fighting is Expected When Government Troops Arrive.

(United Press.)

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 1.—Workmen have revolted in Bremen and have decided to defend the city against Government troops, which are marching from Berlin, according to despatches received here to-day. Hard fighting is expected.

THE STRIKE SITUATION

Half a Million Railway Workers Threaten to Strike Unless Government Intervenes — Troops Patrol Streets.

THE DEMANDS

(United Press Service.)

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Nearly half a million railway workers will strike next week unless the Government intervenes, the United Press was informed by labour leaders to-day. Such a strike would completely paralize transportation in Great Britain and Ireland.

The walk-out would affect more than four hundred thousand manual workers including trainmen, engineers and switchmen, and over seventy thousand clerks, including telegraphers. The manuel workers demand equal representation with employees on all railway managing boards and a wage advance of ten shillings ($2.50) a week. The clerks want joint control of all promotions and shorter hours, the day workers asking a thirty-six-hour week and the night workers a thirty-four-hour week. The manual workers, who are now controlled by the "shop stewards," which are generally regarded as constituting a soviet form of management, already have issued an ultimatum that they will strike February 9th, unless their demands are granted. The clerks, who are still represented by their regular union officials are said to be prepared to walk out next week, however. If the clerks walk out it seemed certain that the manual workers would take advantage of this opportunity to set the date of their own strike ahead, and would quit simultaneously with the clerks.

Will Not Intervene.

(United Press Service.)

BELFAST, Feb. 1.—Premier Lloyd George, telegraphing from Paris, today informed Arthur Devlin, Irish leader, that he would decline to intervene in the Belfast strikes.

"I am in complete agreement with Chancellor Bonar Law, that the same considerations which apply to Glasgow apply equally to Belfast," the Premier declared.

The attitude of the Government as previously announced, is that the strikers and employees should settle their differences at a joint conference.

Strikers' Police Force.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Feb. 1.—The administration of Belfast from the Artisan's Hall by self-constituted rulers, continues, the organization of a police force of 300 special constables by the strike committee having been effected. This force is co-operating in perfect harmony with the city police, and window smashing and other disorders have virtually ceased. The entire city has accepted the rule of the committee, which prohibits extreme agitators and Sinn Feiners from speaking. Football matches, dances and concerts at which strike leaders will be star performers have been arranged for the week-end. The wives of some of the workers, however, grumble because they are obliged to continue working in textile factories while their husbands are idling.

Troops Patrol Streets.

(United Press Service.)

GLASGOW, Feb. 1—Troops were patrolling the streets to-day as the result of a clash between the Clyde shipyard strikers and the police yesterday. Chiswell, who became leader of the strikers after the arrest of Kirkwood, also has been taken in custody.

Quiet This Morning.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

GLASGOW, Feb. 1.—Everything is quiet this morning. Thousands of troops have arrived and sentries with fixed bayonets are stationed at strategic points. Councillor Shinwell, a strike leader in the Clyde district, has been arrested.

THE WEATHER

The month of January had but five zero days, as far as Peterboro was concerned. The lowest temperature was on the 12th, with 19 degrees below zero. January of last year had 20 zero days. The most marked feature of the month was the long spell of mild weather from the 13th to the end of the month. The rainfall and snowfall were light. Combined they amounted to but 1.23 of an inch. The coldest weather of last winter was during the first week of February. On the 5th the thermometer went down to 29 degrees below zero. This was the lowest of a cold winter. This Saturday morning showed the lowest for a number of weeks, namely 2 degrees above zero. To-morrow will be Candlemas Day, when Bruin comes out of his hole to make his usual spring forecast.—W.P.

THE MONROE DOCTRINE

This Will Not be Disturbed, as it Fits in With the League of Nations.

WARRING FACTIONS

(By Fred S. Ferguson.)
(United Press Service.)

PARIS, Feb. 1.—The usual plenary session was postponed to-day to permit the Peace Bureau to speed up action on the frame work for the League of Nations.

The belief was expressed in certain quarters that a demonstration of the practicability of the League, as evidenced in several recent decisions by the Bureau, would hasten agreement on the details of its make up. The German colonial question was virtually settled in accordance with the principles of the League. Previously, the Bureau had acted in the capacity of an association of nations in warning Central and Eastern European countries to cease warring over disputed territories.

Sent Delegates.

The Bureau assumed a similar capacity yesterday when it decided to send delegates to straighten out the argument between the Czechs and the Poles over the possession of that rich industrial district. A queer tangle has developed in the relations of the Czechs and Poles in that their representatives are sitting at the same Peace Conference to arrange a treaty with a common enemy, yet there are outbursts of fighting between their own troops over the question of readjustments of their new boundaries. A temporary settlement by the Allied Commission will be followed by final settlement by the League of Nations, when the latter institution is formerally established.

Speculation as to whether the Philippines and the Panama Canal will be considered in the internationalization of colonial possessions and waterways was ended to-day when it was authoritatively stated that neither would be brought up, as both are strictly American and free from any dispute, it was pointed out that the Monroe Doctrine will not be disturbed as it will fit in automatically with the League of Nations.

PERFECTLY CLEAN AND NEW STOCK

"No Disappo'intment" is the Reason for a Full Sweep.

"It is not true, as I heard hinted in one quarter that my stock was smoke-damaged by the fire in the cigar store adjoining my shop," said Frank L. Jenne. I was away from home on the day in question, and so was spared the worry of watching a blaze so close and so dangerous to anyone's peace of mind.

"My stock of both Semi-ready clothing is all new and all purchased from manufacturers who have earned a reputation in their respective lines. I carefully avoid the second-class, and the makers who are striving always to see how cheap they can make a thing without being found out.

"I recall the story told of a Toronto department store which was specializing on silverware—or silverplated spoons. They wanted to get a cheap price still cheaper so they could make a bigger profit.

"Put more lead in those spoons," they order the makers.

"Can't; the last lot was all lead," was the response.

"Look over my store during my Peace Benefit Sale. You will see the names of manufacturers who are known where quality is asked for.

"This Peace Benefit Sale of mine is an opportunity to stock up for a year on men's wearing essentials," concluded Mr. Jenne.

Lindsay's Chinatown Wrecked by a Mob

Ire of Citizens, Aroused by Story of Abuse of Woman by Chinese, Results in Spectacular Raid Upon Laundries and Dominion Chinese Cafe.

MUCH DAMAGE DONE

Last night was one at the most exciting in Lindsay's history—not because the midget defeated the Peterboro Juniors and tied up are group race. Although that in itself was a notable event, but on account of a series of raids by a mob of several hundred men and boys upon the property of the Chinese residents of the city, during the course of which two Chinese laundries and the Dominion Chinese cafe were completely wrecked.

The cause of the rioting was the alleged persecution of a Chinese woman by a number of Chinese connected with the Woo Chang laundry on William street. It is stated that for the past month she has been practically a prisoner and has been most inhumanly used by her fellow country men. At all events the woman escaped from her captors by smashing window yesterday morning and the news of the manner in which she is said to have been treated aroused the ire of the people of Lindsay and they determined to show the celestial offenders that women cannot be ill-treated in Canada with impunity. It was decided to "clean-out" the William street Laundry and the attack was first planned for 7 o'clock but eventually was postponed until after the hockey match.

The trouble started about 11 o'clock and the Lindsay police consisting of Chief Short and Constable Parks although they did their best, were powerless to stop the rioting. For a short time they succeeded in keeping the mob away from the front of the laundry but some future Currie among the rioters led flank attack and succeeded in breaking in the back door. Then the excitement started in earnest. Bricks and stones began to fly and the fusilade soon smashed the glass out of the front windows and the crowd surged inside. In a few minutes, laundry was completely wrecked. The furniture was destroyed and everything that could be broken up was smashed when parcels of laundry were scattered every where until the air was full of collars and shirts. In the midst of the excitement the stove was overturned and the fire department had to be called out. Chief Short staged a counter-attack and using his big stick clubbed down one of the rioters who received a deep gash in his head. A moment after a large piece of ice flung by somebody with a marksman's eye and an arm like Walter Johnson's caught the chief on the side of the

BEATTY WILL VISIT CANADA.

(United Press Service.)

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Admiral Beatty, commander-in-chief of the British Navy, will visit America after the Grand Fleet is demobilized, according to the Paris correspondent of the London Times.

He is expected to command a fleet of several types of British warships.

Increase in Railway Fares

New Rates Become Effective To-day —Peterboro Offices Notified.

Commencing to-day the railway rates on return tickets on all Canadian railways take a jump. Formerly the reduction on all return tickets was 16 2-3 per cent., but it has now been reduced to 10 per cent. A return ticket from Peterborough to Toronto, which formerly cost $4.50, will now cost $4.90.

The tariffs providing for this adjustment have been filed with the Railway Commission, but no approval of that body is necessary, because what is proposed is less than the standard rate of 3.45 cents per mile. To increase this would need the concurrence of the board.

The new tariff provides that in place of 16 2-3 per cent. off for return tickets the reduction will be only 10 per cent.

AN INCREASE IN THE BIRTH RATE

PLUNKETT ARRIVES

Sir Horace Wants to Learn Something About Agriculture.

(United Press.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 1. — Sir Horace C. Plunkett, the Irish leader, started on a tour of the United States today to gain first hand information "on a number of things," as he said.

Asked if he had come to the United States to agitate the Irish question, he said he did not think that that would be necessary, as everybody understood the situation.

"I am simply going out west to study the agricultural conditions. You know I have always been interested in agriculture, particularly that of the United States."

Noticing a newspaper heading reading, "Self-determination of Small Nations Debated by the Supreme Council,' Plunkett said with a smile, "I wonder if Ireland is one of those small nations."

Farmers Want Tariff Reduction

Western Minister Sees Little Hope of Future Prosperity.

Special to The Examiner:

WINNIPEG, Feb. 1.— Hon. Val. Winkler, Minister of Agriculture, referring to uncertainty prevailing in the market prices of foodstuffs, declared that unless the demands of the western farmers are met by a reduction of tariff he could see little hope of future prosperity.

"Our farmers certainly cannot continue to make headway under their present handicap," said the Minister, "and it was absolutely essential that speedy relief in the way of tariff reduction be given."

Mr. Winkler operates farms in Manitoba on a large scale.

COUNTY COUNCIL AND MR. HATTON EXCHANGE NEW OLIVE BRANCHES

The County Council and Crown Attorney Hatton ironed out some of their differences or at least misunderstandings yesterday afternoon, but they failed to reach a definite agreement upon the "suitable" rooms which Mr. Justice Latchford has ordered the county to provide at the court house for the Crown Attorney. Both sides were flying the white flag of truce, and it transpired that disputes between the two parties had arisen out of the typewriter incident for which Mr. Hatton, carefully reviewing the affair, declared he was not responsible.

Mr. Hatton stated that it was repugnant to him to have any contentions with anybody, and to strain relations where only friendship was desired. This sentiment was echoed by Reeve Anderson and others, and in that spirit the conference approached the question of rooms.

Mr. Hatton declined the three rooms on the east side of the north wing. The law library suite was acceptable, but he refused to seek them from the Law Association.

"It is not for me to pick out the rooms, gentlemen, but I will consider anything you offer."

A committee was appointed by the Council to meet the Law Association in the hope that the lawyers may be persuaded to accept the rooms on the east side, and vacate their present quarters for Mr. Hatton's office, and the returning "bonne entente."

THE McINTOSH FUND.

It is pleasing to be able to record that many donations have already been received for the fund that is being collected by the G.W.V.A. on behalf of D. J. McIntosh, the blinded soldier whose home was destroyed by fire a week ago. Already considerable progress has been made towards comfortably establishing this afflicted soldier and his family in a new home, but more funds are still urgently needed for this purpose, and the Examiner again directs public attention to this most distressing case in the hope that there will be a ready response. The case is in every way a deserving one. Mr. McIntosh, badly wounded in France, is now almost totally blind, and has to have an attendant with him. When the destruction of all his belongings is added to the affliction of blindness it will be recognized that the family is badly in need of assistance. Donations will be gladly accepted at the headquarters of the Great War Veterans, George street, on behalf of this unfortunate soldier.

A WELL-KNOWN CANADIAN.

In the death in England of General John Steele, Canada has lost one of her best known and most popular military men. For many years he had been a prominent figure in Canadian military life, and it was a source of deep regret to him that he was not permitted to go to the front in the present war, although he had the honour of going to England as the officer commanding the 2nd Canadian Division, and afterwards commanding British and Canadian troops in the Shorncliffe area. In the stormy years of Canada's Northwest General Steele played a prominent and important part. He first saw service during the Red River Rebellion in 1871, and afterwards joined the Royal North West Mounted Police, in which body he served with distinction and gained rapid promotion. During the North West Rebellion in 1885 General Steele commanded the cavalry and scouts, and two years later he was in charge of the force which quelled the Kootenay trouble.

The South African war gave him a chance to show his ability as a leader. He was chosen to command the famous Strathcona Horse, and led that corps so successfully that he was mentioned in despatches by Lord Kitchener and General Buller, and was made a member of the Order of the Commander of the Bath, and of the Victorian Order. In more recent years he did valuable service as inspector-general of the military forces in Western Canada.

General Steele's career was a brilliant one. He was a Canadian of whom the people of the Dominion might well feel proud and whose memory should be preserved by the country for which he has done so much.

A BIG YEAR'S BUSINESS.

The business of the North American Life can justly be said to be forging ahead, as evidenced by the figures presented in their 28th Annual Report. Business issued and revived in 1918, amounting to $11,552,762, was over $1,000,000 in excess of the previous year and brings the total business in force to $40,950,116, the highest mark yet reached in the history of the Company.

Some conception of the vast scope of the Company's business is to be found in the fact that during the past year there was paid to Policyholders and beneficiaries over $1,000,000. This amount included $285,339.48 paid as dividends, while in contrast to this it is noted that only $6,000 was paid to Guarantors. The death losses incurred during the year were $300,000 in excess of the previous year, due to the Influenza Epidemic and the war. Notwithstanding this, however, the Company rendered still stronger their financial position. The President, Mr. L. Goldman, in his address to the Policyholders at the recent Annual Meeting made the important announcement that the large sum of $418,083.77 has been apportioned for dividends to Policyholders in 1919. These figures are indicative of the fact that in this Company the interests of the Policyholders are paramount.

The President pointed with just pride to the increase of nearly $1,000,000 in Assets during the year, bringing the total amount now to $18,185,—. After liabilities have been all provided for, there is a substantial net surplus of $2,751,990.60 establishing beyond a doubt the unexcelled financial position of the Company, which has entitled it to be known everywhere as the Company "Solid as the Continent."

THE COMING SESSION.

The forthcoming session of the Canadian Parliament will be one of the most momentous in the history of the country. Union Government must face its masters and give an account of its stewardship in the conduct of public affairs during the last year.

First of all we may expect the smoke screen of attacks upon Laurier and the Liberal party as a customary method of preventing the searchlight from reaching the proper object of attack. Then the old-time gag, so handy an instrument during wartime, and the special creation of the present rulers, will be brought out, as well as every other device by means of which fair criticism may be curbed, and the people of Canada further deprived of to the record, not only of the old crowd which was camouflaged in the big drive for Unionist rule, but of the present administration.

Try as they will, with the force of their close-shaved newspapers and their trained corps of publicity agents, the ministers have been unable to hide the bad record of the present Government.

To a large extent they have saved themselves from criticism by holding up the shield of the war and the army. But the few acid tests applied have shown up the weakness in the spurious metal of their defence. Every great project has been carried forward because the country gave without limit in the name of the war. Scandals of the most glaring character remained unexposed because those who held the facts felt that first of all the country must be protected and held together. But the lines were not lost. The misdeeds of the Tory and Unionist Governments from the first horse and shoe scandals up to the queer manner of conducting affairs at the present time will be revealed by Liberalism. At least, if Liberalism does not reveal this ground and smash through the subterfuges that will be placed before them, it might as well quit as a political party.

Liberalism must challenge the present Government as an administration unfit to rule the country. It must reveal the crooked methods employed to secure the power that Government now holds. It must prove to the hilt the unfitness of the present ministry. It must also give credit for any worthy things that have been accomplished. There must be no indecisive skirmishing with the enemy. Liberalism knows what has been done and Liberalism must achieve victory by the most smashing attack in Parliamentary history. All very well to talk of letting the Government talk itself out of power. It must be forced out of power with the record of its own misdeeds.

Matters of the most startling character are certain to be aired on the floor of the house during the session. The Government may not be able to stand for many weeks before the Liberal onslaught, and it would not be surprising if an election contest would engage the country's interest before many months have passed. The coming session is likely to be a brief, but chapter in the history of the pseudo-Tory administration that controls the ship of state.—London Advertiser.

THE WAR VETERANS' GRANT.

The Finance Committee of the City Council has recommended that a grant of $10,000 be made to the Peterboro Branch of the Great War Veterans' Association for the purpose of assisting them in securing and furnishing suitable quarters. It is expected that the committee's recommendation will be passed by the Council at the next meeting of that body, and while there may be a certain amount of grumbling from those of the citizens who look only at the tax rate, the action of the council will be endorsed by the great majority of the people of Peterboro, who will feel that the city has in a measure by this grant discharged its duty to the men who helped to win the war. Ten thousand dollars represents approximately only $4 per man of all those who donned the khaki during the war, and this is a small enough reward when viewed in that light. The plans of the veterans have not yet been made public, but it is understood that the grant will enable them to establish quarters commodious enough for this rapidly-growing organization, and worthy of the spirit shown by its members. It is not in any sense to be merely a building for recreation, although social enjoyment has a place, and will not be forgotten by the Veterans. It will rather be the headquarters of Peterboro's returned soldiers, where the important work of the Association can be carried on and the objects for which the Veterans are banded together can be realized. They include the following:

"To ensure that proper provision is made for the due care of the sick, wounded and needy among those who have served, including reasonable pensions, employment for such as are capable, soldiers' homes, medical care and equitable provision for dependent families of enlisted men."

"To constantly inculcate loyalty to Canada and the Empire and unstinted service in their interests."

"To impress upon its members that they are to continue in their service to Canada as citizens the same spirit of sacrifice and loyalty which they have shown to Canada and the Empire as soldiers, and to remain as members of the association, non-sectarian and non-partisan."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The restaurant restrictions having been rescinded by the Canada Food Board, you can get a steak in a restaurant any time—if you can afford to pay for it.

Patriotic organizations can have no fault to find with the County Council. Its grant to the Salvation Army, Y.M.C.A. and Knights of Columbus have been substantial.

The Bolshevik threat to punish by death the officials who imbibe too freely from the flowing bowl, shows the Reds are extreme in everything they undertake.

Lindsay's Chinatown Wrecked by Mob

More Damage

Satisfied with the result of the first raid the mob started in to attack the laundry operated by Lee Chung and the Dominion Chinese Cafe managed by Charlie Ling. Both situated on Kent street. There did not seem to be any interference on the part of the police in these later raids and the crowd had its own way. The laundry was almost as completely wrecked as was the first one attacked while the restaurant was similarly treated. The window of the cafe was shattered and the crowd swarming inside smashed furniture and mirrors, hurled pies in all directions and caused all the damage that could be thought of. Looters got in their work at the same time and the cafe's stock of cigars and tobacco was carried off as were chop sticks, clocks and many other articles.

The Chinese in all cases escaped personal injury but there premises were as badly wrecked as some of the Belgian towns. It was a wild night and the prophesy is made in Lindsay that the town will be free of Chinese in a few days.

The Peterboro Hockey team and the fifty fans who accompanied them to Lindsay were interested spectators of the rioting.

With Other Councils

An attempt on the life of ex-Police Chief Taylor of Windsor was made by several men, two of whom Taylor and the provincial police succeeded in arresting.

Inspectors Appointed.

Durham and Northumberland Counties Council appointed Major F. F. Snider and Major J. W. Odell, Public School Inspectors.

Good Roads.

Elgin County Council decided to spend $102,000 on good roads construction and maintenance this year.

Flanders Poppies.

Chatham is to have two beds of Flanders poppies.

Rural Education.

Brant and Norfolk county rural school trustees formed a permanent organization on rural education.

Labour Demands Share of Benefits From Scientific Methods and New Machines

Meeting to Promote the Organized Movement Addressed by Prominent Leaders Last Night — Haven't Due Share in Vast Improvements in Industry.

AIMS OF THE MOVEMENT

The first of a series of meetings in the interests of organized Labour, held in St. Alphonsus Lyceum last night, attracted several hundred workers, who listened with wrapt attention to thoughtful, forceful and impelling addresses by four prominent leaders of the Labour movement in Canada, Mr. John Bruce, organizer for the Plumbers and Steam-Fitters; Mr. Harry Harper and Mr. J. A. McClelland, of the International Machinists' Association, and Mr. W. G. Powlesland, of the Blacksmiths' International. Mr. Peter McArthur presided.

Mr. Bruce made a particularly effective address, presenting the aims and ideals of Labour, pointing out the difficulties that confront it, and stressing the need of thorough, intelligent and energetic organization, in a manner that held his audience to every word and frequently moved them to loud applause. The fact of having Labour unions, he said, was because of the tyranny and injustice of the past, which continued even to to-day and was found in the introduction of machinery and efficiency from which workers were not receiving the benefit that should be derived from them. This was one of the principal themes of Mr. Bruce's address, and it recurred several times, emphasizing his argument that under the industrial system of to-day, Labour was deprived of the advantages which should accrue to it from the machinery and efficiency that had been highly developed.

Are the men who produce the most wealth, he asked, to get the least? Labour had put wealth in the hands of the few who in turn were grinding workers by the very wealth they had produced, but which the few control. When the producing machinery belonged to the producers then could they realize their ideals and be emancipated.

THE OLD AND THE NEW SYSTEMS.

Mr. Bruce briefly contrasted the old and the modern methods of industry, stating that articles that used to be made by hand were now vastly multiplied in production by machinery. In the clothing trade many suits were now manufactured in the time that used to be required for one in the old days of tailoring. In the metal trades articles that consumed the hand labour of mechanics were now shaped and finished by deft machines. And during the war girls were introduced into shops to perform work that would ordinarily have been done by men. Machines turned out the work. Other branches of manufacture were also mentioned, illustrating the manifold production that had resulted from highly developed machinery, efficiency and speeded-up work.

What has Labour received from this progress, Mr. Bruce asked. Has the worker got better wages, is the working day shortened by this efficiency? In the clothing trade they were not only working in the day time and at long hours but many employees took work home to do at night.

"We want to change this system. That's what we're fighting for, shorter hours and better wages. We want some of the advantages that accrue because of this scientific development."

With the retention of the old system that prevailed before the war, long hours together with the greatly increased production, decreased the available employment, created periods of unemployment and consequent distress among workers, who thus became economic waste, and led to other evils.

"Is it not better that all men should work six hours a day than that only some should work ten and the rest walk the streets, or that all men should work five days a week than part of them six days, while the rest are idle? We are not worrying now so much about production as we are about occupation."

THE EATON COMPANY'S PLAN.

Mr. Bruce referred to the reduced hours that now prevail in the T. Eaton Company's shops. Employees work 71-2 hours a day for 51-2 days a week, and during the summer months only five days a week. "And Sir John Eaton is making more millions than ever. He used machinery and scientific methods that advanced production." And as a result, the speaker continued, he found it a safe, economic policy out of which he could well afford to provide better advantages for his employees.

"If Sir John Eaton can do this others can, and it is near time we attempted to get some of the advantages without waiting until those in control decide to introduce it."

Turning to reconstruction which was preached to-day, Mr. Bruce declared that employers simply wanted to pull out a few old bricks and put in a few new ones to keep the building up a little longer. The worker demanded a new building.

During the war Lloyd George had asked organized Labour in England to give up some of the conditions they had won. "Without you," he said, "we can't win the war; when it is over you can go back to the old conditions."

"In to-day's papers you will observe that the British workers are determined not to go back to the old conditions," said Mr. Bruce. "They are going to enjoy the ideals for which their organizations were founded and for which they fought. They want a forty-four-hour week, and because of that they are called Bolsheviki. I am branded a Bolshevik and I accept the odium. I don't care what they call me. I am working for the better things for the class from which I come, for more light, more life and happiness."

Mr. Bruce spoke of the methods by which workers were kept divided. Attempts were made to create distrust in their organizers, and not so long ago, he recalled, a workman shivered if the boss saw him talking on the street to a Union organizer. Workmen who met on the street generally asked each other in their first questions why they were out. It seemed natural that they should be at work every day. But no one stopped to ask why the "boss" was out in his big car, or how he got the car.

"Are you proud of your poverty?" Mr. Bruce thrust at the audience. "Are you proud of your homes, of the conditions around you? If you are, I'm not. And I know there is no real life, no real sunshine in some respects in many of your homes because of the deplorable conditions under which you have worked. The Labour movement was out for less poverty, more happiness, more of the good things of life for the workers who produce wealth, that he may produce his own kind in the happiness they too should enjoy."

MAKE DEMOCRACY SAFE.

Democracy, Mr. Bruce said, meant the greatest good for the greatest number, for the people at all times. The workers after all were the only people who were loyal. They had fought and suffered, and were now going to do the paying. "Have you often thought why they did not conscript wealth? In England the tax was removed from food and put on wealth. Canada had a better way. We took the tax off wealth and put it on food. We have piled up a debt for eight million people, under which they will groan before it is paid. They tell you the working people bought up the Victory Bonds. You will find the people who bought them were the munitions contractors and other wealthy men. We subscribed to the loan, of course we did, but our few miserable dollars didn't amount to much. We didn't have the money to do it."

Mr. Bruce appealed to Labour to strengthen their organizations, to get out of the old rut. "Bread optimism, solidarity, co-operation, and the movement will rise triumphant and the workers will be freed from the chains that bind them to the wheels of industry."

HOLD RANKS INTACT.

Admitting that the wages of machinists had increased from 25 or 30 cents to 55 cents during the war, Mr. Harper recalled that the cost of living had gone up 145 per cent., according to Government statistics. Labour had made no money out of the war.

"We have 10,000 more millionaires. They are the fellows who made the profits. Our wages were actually reduced, and the man who did not receive an increase of 145 per cent. in his wages knows that they were reduced. I say Labour is the patriotic class, and yet in many places they are being villified by the press. Are we, as tradesmen, going to be prepared for the future? Are going to keep our organizations or are we going back to the divisions we were in four years ago? We must be prepared to go ahead, and every tradesman should associate himself with the Federated movement. It is the only way to sell his Labour. Federate and use your collective strength to get what you want."

Mr. Harper spoke strongly against the Government's Orders-in-Council. By the provisions of one of them, big contracts were allowed to go to the United States that could have been filled in Peterborough when this work was actually needed here.

The other speakers emphasized the value of organization of Labour to meet the present and future conditions with the success that has been so long desired, and is already within the workers' grasp.

WHOOPING COUGH.

Mr. Arthur Halsam, Ashton Farm, Pense, Sask., writes: "Two years ago whooping cough was very bad in this part of the country; our eight months old boy caught it and had a very severe attack. A neighbor advised the use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine and we gave it and nothing else with splendid results. When the older brother took the whooping cough we used this medicine promptly and prevented serious trouble and the cough passed off in two or three days".

FOOD VALUE OF THE OYSTER

A PINT OF OYSTERS ENOUGH MEAT FOR A FAMILY OF FIVE.

Oysters are a good food. Oysters come nearer in composition to cow's milk than do most other meats, as all the four kinds of nutrients needed are present in good degree. Oysters have a larger excess of the flesh building substance relative to the other constituents than milk, so we "balance the ration" by addition of starchy food and fats when eating oysters, thus securing a good meal at a cost that compares favorably with that when other meats are chosen. The sea salts that they contain are useful in regulating and stimulating nutritional processes.

A Breach of Promise Case

Omemee Man Was Found Guilty of Jilting Woman Whom He Had Courted for Three Years.

A peep into the future was accorded those who attended the mock trial and concert held in the Normal School last evening.

The judge, the jurors and the policemen were all members of the female sex. The lawyers and a few witnesses were the only men who were present at the trial. The short addresses to the jury by the defence and prosecuting lawyers contrasted strongly with the general tone of the court. The judge (or judgess), who was clothed in her official ermine robe, had a strenuous time keeping the feminine jury awake and preventing some of the male witnesses from wearing their headgear in the presence of the King's representative. Mr. Billings, from Omemee, was even arrested for contempt of court—he did not like the questions of the legal lights. The witnesses all through the trial turned their backs on Her Honour, but were very careful to keep their fingers away from the judicial hammer wielded by the judgess.

THE CASE.

The trial revolved around the case of Miranda Briscoe of Omemee, who, being courted by Silas Sorgum, of the same community, for a period of nine years, suddenly finds herself jilted by the said Si., who asks her to leave his buggy one Wednesday night when returning from a prayer meeting. Silas always used to take Miranda home from prayer meeting every Wednesday night.

Miranda ascribes Si's defection to his visit to the white lights in Peterborough, where, meeting some of the Normal students, he becomes infatuated and spends most of his $12 a month salary on the movies. Unfortunately one of Miranda's girl friends happens to see Si with one of the Normalites, and promptly, in true feminine style, informs Miranda of the fact.

RESULT WAS DISASTROUS.

The result was disastrous. After being verbally ejected from Si's buggy, she brings a suit of damages against Si.

Silas, giving his own evidence, said he had never been engaged to Miranda, but that she had found a ring in some popcorn which he had presented to her as a love philtre, and she promptly used it as a wedding ring. But the result was the same. After countless bobbing of heads, the jury brought in a verdict of guilty, without even leaving the courtroom. It damaged Silas to the extent of $1,499.49.

Victoria Park May Run to Grass and Hay This Summer

A letter from the Horticultural Society declining the responsibility for the care of Victoria Park this year caused scarcely a ripple on the placid surface of the County Council's deep pool of thought, when it was read yesterday afternoon.

It was greeted with something of the "we should worry" spirit, otherwise expressed in coruscations of wit pointed at the members of the Council living near the city who might be called upon to bring in their lawn mowers and do statute labour on the long green grass.

Reeve Shaw, speaking seriously, said the city forgot that the county alone owned the upper half of the park which was used more popular than any of the parks and was used by few farmers. The County was paying $100 for the upkeep of that park [illegible] extra grants for its improvement a few years ago, and the least the city could do was look after the rest.

The present situation regarding the parks, therefore, is that the county and city council's committee will have to meet and make the best arrangements they can. The Horticultural Society apparently intimate that they have been the "goat" too long.

Institution of Masonic Lodge

even unto Port Arthur and the Sault. The one outstanding impression he brought back was that masonry was making true citizens, these, realizing that being true to the Craft meant that they were true to the daily life in which they progressed. Men of large hearts, and large measures, and willing in difficult surroundings to live clean lives and who would try to accomplish that for whoch they had been created. Where men gathered together as Masons we knew that the fundamentals of citizenship," as laid down by the Great Architect of the Universe, were being respected in a moral and upright life.

He concluded a most interesting and instructive address by saying that no man can be a Mason and take upon himself the vows and be recreant to those vows. His responsibilities are as great as his privileges. And this carries away out into public life, and we must watch that the men we support in public life are responsible, earnest citizens, and if so that they receive from Masons the support that honest men can give. Canada is the home of clean men and women, and he trusted these men to accept responsibility, to be citizens and an asset to the country, to show that Masonry was a great moral force, all combined to place the Craft on a plane of numbers and influence that kept pace with the growth of the Dominion and its world wide importance as a model country, habited by model people.

Mr. Frank Oldfield.

At such Masonic gatherings it has been the rule to provide something of entertainment, in song and music, and generally taking the service of local brethren. On this occasion the rule was set aside and Bro. Frank Oldfield, the noted baritone of Toronto came and delighted the brethren with fine songs, just the kind of song that men like to listen to. Big, bold vigorques songs, that carry with them something of inspiration and glory. Bro. Oldfield has made himself notably conspicuous and valued by his rendering of that favourite, "Sussex [illegible] as the opening number in fine style. Gained as deserved, a hearty encore. Fly-thes on in the evening he sang a rousing air and appropriate words, "Sons of the Sea," and was again urged to repeat. His closing number was that old and well tried and valued favourite, "The Skipper," sung with the rip and rollicking movement that has endeared the song to man for years. Bro Oldfield was an acquisition to the evening well acquired and highly esteemed.

"Our Visitors."

Rgt. W. Bro. John Crane, proposed the toast of "Our Visitors," with a cheerful introduction. He added that following the years of quietude ensuing on the loss of the local hall, we were now entitled to our place in the sun and going to have it. He expected our visitors to tell us what they thought of things in general and the Craft in particular.

The Grand Treasurer, M. W. Bro. E. T. Malone had expected to be present but had been detained, and the office of making a reply to the toast fell to good hands and excellent voice in Rgt. W. Bro. W. M. Lamb, Grand Secretary. He said that following the Secretary. He said that following the remarks of the Grand Lodge, make a few remarks on subject in general. This he did, his address illuminated with many incidents, stories and anecdotes all appropriate to the meeting.

The New Hall.

Complimenting the local brethren of the new hall, he said that he had met with much kindness and solicitude for his comfort and entertainment. He had viewed local industries and objects that impressed him with much respect for the locality, and for the city. The brethren had made, in their new accommodation, a set of rooms not ornate but beautiful, voicing a feeling of reverence for the principles of the Craft. A place where the business man can come and sit and relax and enjoy clean and helpful associations. The completeness of the rooms, the finish and fittings, the provision for comfort was most appealing. It was a home for the Masonic family. The Grand Lodge officers have an outside view of Peterborough and what is was doing. The district was an important one, quite one of the most important. The visitor gets a view, and carries away with him impressions. These in the case of Peterborough were notably good. Impressions of virility, of activity in and around the lodges, of an expanding membership. He would impress on the younger members to honour the traditions of Craft, for traditions were an inspiration and the fundamental tenets of Masonry. The landmarks were our snubbing posts to which we tied and held. And so it followed that we should interest our younger members in the work. Give them responsibility, gratify the thirst for Masonic information, and teach them the principles of loyalty, helpfulness and brotherly love. But first and always loyalty. To home, family, lodge, country and king.

A Privilege.

Acting-Director of Cer. Rgt. W. Bro. Pearson made a very brief address in response to the chairman's suggestion that the evening would be incomplete with something from him. He complimented the architect and designer of the masonic premises Bro. W. H. Barry, and the sub-committee on the work, W. Bro. J. E. Goodwill and Bro. Robt. Rose, who had overseen the work and especially that of the decorative features. The colour scheme was admirable, the lighting effects exquisite, the fittings completeness itself. He urged the Lodge to guard well the portals, to make access to masonry a privilege and association with its membership, a benediction. In a city the size of Peterborough, men knew one another better than in metropolitan centres and it [illegible] that membership in Peterborough lodge carried with it the assurance of clean citizenship, and creative life. As a visitor he was pleased to say truthfully the most complimentary things of Peterborough and the Craft.

Rgt. W. Bro. Alex. Gibson proposed "The Junior Warden's Toast," "happy to meet, sorry to part, happy to meet again," and being well received the National Anthem was sung and the gathering dispersed.

Juniors Lose at Lindsay and Are Tied For the Group Title

Maroon and White Team Beaten by 12 Goals to 10, After a Lightning Fast Game in Which the See-Saw Scoring Kept the Fans Enthused —First Game of Play-off Here on Wednesday.

WILL BE GREAT SERIES

The Lindsay Midgets upset the beams in the Junior O.H.A. race last night when in a lightning fast game at Lindsay they beat the Peterborough Juniors by 12 goals to 10, after a battle that was in doubt until the last minute. As a result of Lindsay's win, the two teams are tied for the group title and will play home and home games to settle the argument, the first game in Peterborough next Wednesday night and the return in Lindsay on Friday night.

It will be a grand series.

There was little to choose between the teams. They skated at top speed all night, and the closeness of the play may be judged by the fact that the score was tied four times. The Petes led by 4 to 3 at the end of the first period, and the teams were even with eight goals each when the second session ended. In the closing period Lindsay outscored the maroon and white team by four goals to two.

The Midgets were the first to score in the opening period, and after Jerry Coughlin's squad equalized the Lindsay gang came back with two more. The Petes rallied, and, scoring three in a row, had a margin of one when they skated off for the first rest period. Lindsay opened the second period with a spurt that had the Petes momentarily dazed. In ten minutes Lindsay found the net four times, and were out in front 7 to 4. Peterborough rallied then, and, playing grand hockey, evened up the game again, and it was even Stephen at eight goals each at the two-thirds mark.

Once again in the last period Lindsay had all the better of the first few minutes, getting three goals in a row. As in the other two sessions, Capt. Cherrett's crew finished strong, but this time failed to draw up on even terms.

Without dissecting anything from the clever hockey shown by the winners, it may be said that the Petes did not show their best form, although they tried until their tongues hung out to pull the game out of the fire. They had the usual difficulty they have always experienced on the Lindsay rink of being unable to get the rubber away from their own nets, and they made the handicap worse by failing to cover the man in centre ice, the Midgets bagging three or four goals through this weakness. It was a bad night for the goalkeepers, the puck being hard to see owing to the fact that the board floor showed through the thin ice and made the surface seem black.

It was a great game to win and a hard one to lose, and the Midgets are to be congratulated upon their victory. They showed speed and cleverness, checked effectively, and took full advantage of the openings they were given. Wilford, Kelly and Killen, the three regular forwards, all showed to great advantage, the work of the line being much superior to that shown in Peterborough. Wilford's back checking helped a lot, and Kelly and Killen, besides doing some effective shooting, worked well together. Garnett played sterling hockey on the defence.

Cherrett was the best of the Peterborough crew, doing some great rushing and back-checking, and leading the scoring section as well. Williams was used more often than usual, and did some very effective work, incidentally getting two goals. The rest of the squad have played better hockey than they showed last night. They were out there working their heads off, but failed to work as effectively as usual. Over-confidence may have had something to do with their showing, and now that they realize that they have a real battle on their hands to decide the district honours, the fur will fly the next time they start.

The teams were:

It was fast from the start, and both teams had early opportunities to score, McClory making a nice save on a shot from Park. Wilford broke away and passed to Kelly, who found the nets on a quick shot.

Then Lindsay came back, and when Hagerman lost the puck in trying to break out of the corner, Killen slammed it by Flowers for an easy counter.

Wilford drew a penalty for tripping Park, and while he was off the Petes almost scored when Park got inside the defence, McClory saving well. Wilford came back and, grabbing a wild pass by Frost, tore down the ice for a pretty goal, and the Midgets were 3 to 1 in front.

That tied the score. Williams came on for Hagerman, and shortly after was benched for tripping. Wilford was chased for the same offence, and when this pair were back Girard was sent away for loafing. Nothing happened while he was off, and he came back in time to get away for a nice rush that wound up in scoring, and the Petes were ahead 4 to 3. The figures remained that way for the rest of the period.

Lindsay cut loose at the beginning of the second period. Garnett opened the ball with a nice rush, and a shot from outside that beat Flowers cleanly.

The same pair worked the same play a minutes after, Kelly doing the scoring on this occasion. Bell got away nicely, and when the Peterborough defence pair both went after him, slid the rubber over to Killen, who scored easily.

That left the score 7 to 4, and the Petes looked to be on the run. However, Stoddard drew a penalty for tripping, and while he was off Cherrett went down alone and beat McClory. Stoddard came back, and then Bell was sent away for tripping. He was followed to the fence by Wilford and Girard for holding each other. Park got away nicely, and although his shot was blocked, Williams batted the rubber into the net and the score was 7 to 6. Wilford made it 8-6 when he scored from a scrimmage, but Garnett was benched for tripping, and while he was off Cherrett got away and scored a neat goal past McClory.

The teams were tied when the third session started, but Lindsay soon flashed in front again. A face off near the Peterborough nets gave Kelly a chance and he found the nets. He came back a minute later, and by a slide shot from an almost impossible angle, again beat Flowers. When Killen took a pass from Kelly and scored, putting Lindsay three goals in front, it looked to be all over, but the Petes had a kick left yet. Wilford, Green and Garnett were all penalized in turn for tripping. Finally Hagerman scored on a pass from Cherrett. That left it 11 to 9, and shortly after, when Park had made a nice rush, only to have the rubber go behind the nets, Cherrett secured possession and slipped the puck around the post for an easy counter.

The Petes were only one goal down, and going strong. Williams lost a beautiful chance to even the game up when he took a pass inside the defence and failed to pick the open side of the net. Two or three other good opportunities were thrown away, but the Petes still looked good to even the game up, when Cherrett was chased for a body check and the chance was gone, as Wilford slipped down and put the game on ice by scoring.

There was a little over a minute to play, and the Petes were held safely.

CONNIE MACK MONEY SAVER

Will Do Away With Training Trip for Athletic Crew.

Dubbed the tall tactician and credited with uncanny power in assembling baseball winners, Connie Mack has received only half the honours due him. He now bids for recognition as a money maker with a tailend team, and if not a money maker a money saver. He has just decided that the 1919 Athletics shall be trained at Shibe Park in Philadelphia. No southern training trip and little expense is Mack's idea.

Mask will have few well wishers outside of the owners of the Athletics. There is sound argument against teams entering the major league races out of condition. Last season the National league was almost ruined because only the Giants were able to take the field in any sort of condition to furnish a fight. Had it not been for the advance of the Cubs the National league owners would have lost more heavily than they did, for no other reason than that the players were not in condition to start the race, and the Giants made the race look hopeless in three weeks.

KITCHENER FUEL OFFICE CLOSED.

KITCHENER, Jan. 27.—The Fuel Control office of the City Hall, which has been under the management of John A. Lang for about eighteen months, was closed this week. Consumers will heretafter secure their coal from the dealers without requiring a permit issued from the Fuel Controller's office. The distribution of coal under the direction of the Fuel Controller's office was quite satisfactory, and all classes of consumers received their proper allotments as specified by the Fuel Control regulations.

Pugilistic Crop Seems to Run to Certain Cities

Emerald Isle at One Time Was Well to the Fore But of Late Years It's Dropped Back Considerably.

It is strange, but it is true, that pugilists seem to develop best in certain localities and cities, and one could almost count on the fingers the places that have been prolific producers of mighty men of the ring. Going back to the early days of the game, take the case of Bristol. It isn't and wasn't much of a city, compared with many others in England, but it turned out a dozen or more great fighters. No less than four of the early champions of the ring—George Meggs Jem Belcher, Ben Pearce and John Gully—were Bristol men. Later Ireland became a pugilistic producing centre, and turned out many dashing fighters, but of late the Emerald Isle has gone back in that regard.

In the early days of American pugilism, Troy, N.Y., although a comparatively small city, produced a crop of boxers that has never been excelled. John Morrissey, the great heavyweight champion, worked on the docks and in the foundries of that town, and as a deckhand on a Troy steamboat, John C. Heenan, the first American to win the heavyweight championship of the world, was a Troy blacksmith. Paddy Ryan, the predecessor of John L. Sullivan, was another Trojan, and so was Mike Lucie. Troy was also one of the pioneer cities to take up baseball, and in old Haymakers had the crack club of America at the time.

California has always been a great producer of pugilists. Corbett, Jeffries, Abe Attell, Joe Choynski, Kauffman, Willie Ritchie, Jimmy Britt, George Green, Tommy Warren, among a host of others, were products of the Golden State.

Boston has turned out a number of champions, including John L. Sullivan, Joe Walcott, George Dixon, Ike Weir, Sam Langford and the Sullivan twins, to mention only a few.

Australia once turned out champions and near-champions by the dozen Bob Fitzsimmons, Peter Jackson, Frank Slavin, George Dawson, Joe Goddard, Don Creedon, Jim Hall, Young Griffo, Billy Murphy, Tommy Tracy, Billy McCarthy Shadow Maher, Jim Burke, Abe Willis—these and others all came from the Antipodes.

Fast Ice Assured for Monday's Game With Oshawa Team

The prospects of a lightning fast sheet of ice for Monday's big game between Oshawa and Peterborough intermediates at Brock street rink are welcomed by the Petes, who should be at their best on a fast cushion. The Peterborough team is light and speedy and will be right at home under the conditions that promise to prevail on Monday. It will be a great battle and the fans are predicting a close score and excitement enough for half a dozen games. Manager Bradley's outfit expect to win the championship this year and anticipate no difficulty in winning the group from the Petes. They may get a surprise on Monday night for the local gang have been showing great form in practice.

Fans are asked to note that smoking during the game will be prohibited and that this rule will be strictly enforced. It is hard on the players to have to struggle with a smoke screen, and the local management is determined to cut it out.

There has been a slight raise in prices for this game. This was inevitable, as owing to defaulted games and the fact that so far the Petes have only had one home game, the finances of the club are far from being in a good condition.

There will be a grand crowd in attendance, judging by the interest that is being shown around town.

COUNTY ROAD SYSTEM FINDS SOME FAVOR WITH THE COUNCIL

TOWNSHIP NOT YET READY

A free and easy, withal an earnest discussion of the Good Roads question, whiled away the hour between five and six o'clock yesterday afternoon while the County Council was waiting for several by-laws that were being drawn up for the required readings. There was nothing very definite educed, but the air was cleared of some minor misunderstandings, and it was evident from the expressions of the members that the sentiment toward the Provincial scheme is leaning thoughtfully toward the County Roads system, with a likelihood of final acceptance provided the system can be modified to remove the features that are not approved by the local municipalities.

Reeve Nicholls—The majority of our ratepayers in Smith are not ready for the County Roads system yet. They think the expense would be too great to maintain the roads. For my part I think it is nearly time we did something to keep our roads up to the standard.

Reeve Coughlin questioned the advisability of adopting the system now because of the heavy expenditure entailed. He quoted the 1917 Provincial outlay on 249 miles' construction, showing a cost of considerably more than one million dollars.

Reeve Anderson said that he hesitated to commit his township without the sanction of the ratepayers, but it devolved upon him to examine the advantages held out to meet the needs.

"We have been spending on 45 miles of road a sum equal to 1 1-2 mills on the entire assessment of the township. If we avail ourselves of the County Roads system we would have more money to expend on our roads. If we doubled our own appropriation it would provide $6,600 and the government would grant us $4,400, not counting the Provincial road or suburban area. We would be getting a certain amount from the Government instead of nothing as at present. If Otonabee doubled its expenditure it would get nearly dollar for dollar from the Government. If we double our own amount we would have three times what we are now spending."

Mr. Anderson stated that an honest effort should be made by Peterborough township to evolve a scheme that would be satisfactory to them and to the Provincial Department.

Heavier traffic on improved roads was predicted by Reeve Shaw, and Mr. Anderson admitted that there was no hope of building permanent roads. They would be torn up by automobile traffic almost as fast as they could be built.

"It is only a question now," Reeve Anderson continued, "whether we are going to keep on paying for the upkeep of our roads as we are doing now or whether we are going to have others bear a share of it."

Mr. Eason explained that the county was at present building culverts and bridges on roads that could be designated and were paying the whole cost of this work. If, however, the county signified its intention of adopting the proposed system, they automatically qualified for the government's assistance in the cost of such culverts and bridges.

"That's something we are not taking advantage of at all," Mr. Eason said.

It was explained that the Peterborough plan for the township's payment of a construction superintendent was proposed to be according to its mileage in the system. If the government would increase its percentage of payment to 40 and 60, Peterborough would quickly accept the County Roads System, as soon as the townships were in full accord.

Mr. McLean told us in Toronto that there was no likelihood yet of this increase," Mr. Nicholls stated.

Another point was that any action begun in this county need not be confined to the southern townships. Reeve Shaw ventured the opinion that Harvey might be willing to enter the scheme.

Questions dealing with machinery required, road material used and kindred topics were discussed.

"For economy there's nothing can beat a drag," said Mr. Eason. "When the gravel gets out of the wheel tracks it is then useless. The drags fills it in and levels off the road."

Mr. Griffith inquired as to how many townships were willing to vote on a by-law for the system.

"There must be not less than four adjoining townships accept it," Mr. Anderson said.

SMASHED THE EGGS LOOKING FOR BOOZE

A few days ago License Inspector Gooderich visited Newtonville on business. Several suit-cases and club bags were on the platform at the station and the Inspector immediately started to shake the grips, thinking he might discover some wet goods. But there was not a single gurgle. The Inspector returned to Newtonville this morning and a lady resident of the western village was right on the job to tell him a few things. This lady's club bag was among the number to come in for a shaking from the inspector's first visit and when she examined it she found nothing but scrambled eggs. The lady had purchased the eggs in Port Hope that day and had left her grip on the station platform until she took the balance of her groceries to her home. The inspector we understand, has made good [illegible]

The delightful and refreshing success "Sweet Innisfallen," with the noted tenor, Bernard Daly, will be the attraction at the Grand Theatre next Friday, February 7, Matinee and night.

Mr. Daly, in this charming play, has enpoyed particularly successful engagements in all parts of the country, and he has proven to the theatregoers of America that he is an actor of high standard as well as a singer of no mean ability, while the play has been hailed by the most hardened and severe critics as being one of the most delightful and entertaining stories that has been produced in several years.

The story of "Sweet Innisfallen" is clean and wholesome. The advent of Larry O'Connell's young life is the coming of the sweet colleen, Nora Shannon, into his heart. He has learned to care for little Mollie, the child of his sister who has been deserted soon after the birth of her baby. The lad sets out to avenge himself on the rich scoundrel. He is successful in his endeavours for Myles Regan, having killed Lord Ashton and the guilt being thrown on the shoulders of Grace Moore in order to get her into the clutches of Carlton, confesses it was he who did the deed and was paid by the Squire to hold his tongue. Carlton is accused of the murder of Regan and arrested but not before he learns that the child Larry has loved and shielded is none other than his own. Having avenged the death of his sister, the lad marries Nora Shannon and lives together with her and Little Mollie in the golden sunshine of Sweet Innisfallen.

Mr. Daly will render some of his far-famed selections included among which is "Believe Me of all Those Endearing Young Charms," "Hide and Seek," "Wearing of the Green," "Mavis," "Sweet Innisfallen" "Call of the Wind," "Song of the Dove," "Foggy Dew" and others.

Admiral Schroeder became notorious when he ordered the execution of Captain Charles Fryatt of the British Mercantile Marine.

Difficult to Keep Track of Soldiers

Reason Why Local Authorities Fail to get Advance Information

A despatch from Ottawa regarding the arrangements for the return of soldiers to their respective homes states that the authorities in Kingston has been asked to do all in their power to send notice well in advance as to the time men are to arrive so that the local reception committee will be able to arrange for the necessary receptions. A good deal of the present difficulty is due to the fact that the men are allowed to stop over on furlough and it is difficult to say by what train they will arrive in their home towns. These furloughs are to be stopped and then it will be a simple matter to supply the necessary advance information.

LOCAL RED CROSS ROOMS ARE CLOSED.

It is hoped that all who have been working for the Red Cross will hand in their finished work not later than Feb. 4th, as the packing must be finished at once.

THE MEN WHO COME BACK

In every town—and that means Peterboro—the men are coming back again. Many of them have already arrived. Some of them held jobs with you before they went away. They helped you make your business successful—and then they went away to fight for you. Some of these men who have come back and others that are coming back, have left arms or legs over there on the battlefield. They did that so that you and I might carry on our work here undisturbed. Those men are going to call on you as soon as they are discharged, and they are going to ask for their old jobs back, or they are going to ask you to create new jobs for them. After their soldiering over on the battlefields under strict discipline, you are going to find them better workmen, in spite of the fact that they may be crippled. England is full of physical cripples to-day, and yet very few of them are without work. They are making good in the factories of England to-day as they made good on the battlefield. Science has given them new arms and new legs, artificial it is true, but nevertheless useful. They are doing things that we never thought possible before. They know that a man can make of himself just what he wants to be—they are making good. Don't turn these men from your factory. Give them at least their chance—you will find that they will help make your success.

Shipping Worries Bother Government In Conveying Our Soldiers Back

Some of the difficulties encountered in shipping in connection with the returning of soldiers to Canada, which, perhaps, have not been understood and appreciated by the public, are outlined in a cable received from the Canadian overseas authorities.

One of the difficulties is that frequently after certain boats have been promised to the Canadian Overseas Ministry by the British Ministry of Shipping, it has been found imperative to cancel the arrangements, and at the last moment the Canadian authorities have had to look about for the best ships that are available. Ships must be used whenever they are made available. Should the Canadian authorities not take ships according to dates of sailings, which are available, they then would be used for other purposes and would be lost to Canadian use.

Also it must be borne in mind that there are not only Canadian troops to be returned, but also United States, Australian, New Zealand, and South African and troops to be transported to the Mediterranean, India and many other places. To add to the problem it must be remembered that some of the best ships, which carried troops in the early part of the war, are now, as a result of the submarines, lying at the bottom of the ocean. There is also the tremendous problem of transporting troops by boat from France.

It may be stated that everything possible is being done to return our men to Canada as early as possible, and there is no better way of handling returning troops than that now in existence. Every effort is being made to return troops to Canada in a manner that will be satisfactory to the Canadian troops and to the public in Canada.

USEFUL FIREWORKS

It is not generally known that the smoke screen which played so vital a part in the famous British naval attack on Zeebrugge, was devised by the late Commander Brock, of fireworks fame. The firework maker was also kept busy during the war producing flares, parachute lights, and other things for turning night into day. At first there was no means of finding out which composition or size of flare gave the most efficient light, and the Illuminating Engineering Society of Great Britain was asked by the government to solve the problem. A new type of photometer or light-measurer was forthwith invented to give a rapid reading of the light given off at any moment by a brilliant source like a star shell or flare. It consisted of a small tube with a tiny electric light inside it at one end. An opening is cut in the tube lengthways to admit a strip of metal stencilled with the letters of the alphabet. When the lamp is on each letter of the alphabet is illuminated in a descending scale according to its distance down the tube. If the light which falls on the instrument from the outside happens to be the same as the internal illumination of any particular letter, that letter will vanish. Thus this ingenious instrument provided a scale on which an observer could read off, second by second, the light provided by a flare. By its use the composition of flares was improved and the Ministry of Munitions found that the British chemists were able to make better flares than any of those captured from the enemy. Three or four British flares burned together reached a brilliance of from 120,000 to 130,000 candle-power, which is equal to about 1000 arc lamps.

Aim at the Socialization of All Industries, Says Member of Shop Stewards

Strikers in Great Britain Admit Sympathy With Bolshevist Philosophy—Hope to Attend Congress to be Called by Lenine.

STRIKE CONTINUES

(By Edwin Hullinger.)
(Copyright 1919, by the United Press.)

LONDON, Feb. 3. — The present strikes in Great Britain and Ireland, are the first step toward Socialization of all industries and the establishment of revolutionary committees like those in Russia, William C. Watson, a member of the Shop Stewards National Administrative Council, declared to-day.

Watson frankly admitted the shop stewards sympathise with Bolshevist philosophy, and declared that they hope to participate in the international revolutionary congress to be called by Premier Lenine.

"The shop stewards hope to establish revolutionary committees like those in Russia," said Watson. "The present strikes are the first step toward socialization of British industries and their control by the workers. We sympathise with Bolshevist philosophy and hope to enter the international revolutionary congress to be called by Lenine."

A NEW STRIKE.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Feb. 3. — The employees of five electric tube lines struck this morning to enforce a demand for a half hour lunch period in an eight hour day. The electric train service on the Brighton line is also affected. Threats are being made to extend the strike if any troops are brought into the strike district. Hundreds of thousands are being inconvenienced being unable to reach their work.

Lloyd George in Paris.

Canadian Press.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—The Cabinet has the strike situation always in mind, but the fact that Premier Lloyd George remains in Paris leads to the conclusion in many quarters that Cabinet members do not consider the situation as serious as it looks on its face.

The presence of large bodies of troops in Glasgow is believed to insure continuance of the present state of order there, but at Belfast the second week of the strike begins, according to reports received here, with increased uneasiness. For eight days Belfast has been using candle for lighting at night.

SINN FEINERS ARE TRYING TO FORCE A GENERAL STRIKE.

(United Press.)

LONDON, Fe. 3. — Sinn Feiners are co-operating with the workers to force a general strike throughout Ireland, according to a Dublin despatch published in the Daily News to-day.

By combining forces with the strikers the Sinn Feiners hope to force release of their members now in jail, in addition to obtaining concessions for the workers. Placards were being posted throughout the country bearing the slogan, "Release prisoners; grant forty-four hour week."

Thousands of people are reported to be storing food and candles in anticipation of the threatened strike.

A MOVEMENT TO CREATE SYMPATHY FOR FORMER KAISER

Petitions Circulated Throughout Germany Lead to Discovery of Plot.

(By Lowell Mellet.)
(United Press.)

American Headquarters in Germany, Feb. 3. — A plot to line up sentiment in Germany behind the former Kaiser, has been unearthed by the American secret service, it was announced to-day.

A number of supporters of the old regime was discovered circulating petitions, assuring Wilhelm that his people still maintain confidence in him. Many signatures had been obtained in various parts of the region occupied by the Third Army. The American authorities are investigating to determine who is back of the movement, which apparently is widespread, and probably originated in Berlin.

American military officials have ascertained that the present strength of the German army shows that the of the German army shows that the war regiments is being maintained, except those of Alsace and Lorraine, although some of these regiments have been reduced to a thousand men.

Prevention of Armed Conflict

Plan Recommended by Charles J. Doherty, Canadian Minister of Justice.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Feb. 3.—Charles J. Doherty, Canadian Minister of Justice, who has proposed to the Peace Conference that an international peoples' house of representatives be established, said to-day in discussing the subject:

"Prevention of war is not the concern of governmental power alone. It is in the interest of humanity itself. A sovereign state is not organized with a view to exerting any restraining influence over its own action toward other states. If war is to be prevented, or its likelihood diminished, success can be attained only by the existence somewhere, of a power that will control, or at least an influence which will restrain the sovereignty of organized states in dealing with each other. The most important function of a suggested representative body would be to exercise in times of peace constant influence upon states in their relations with others, tending to keep them from those differences which give rise to conflict and make war imminent. It would perform that work of investigation, discussion, deliberation and legislation which would take form of adoption of recommendations addressed to individual states.

SIX JOY RIDERS AT LARGE IN THE NIAGARA DISTRICT

Canadian Press.

ST. CATHARINES, Feb. 3.—After ripping off the platforms of two trolley cars, an automobile, containing six joy riders, plunged down a 35-foot embankment near Welland. None of the six were hurt, but conductor Dr. Vanderburg, passenger on the trolley car, was badly hurt in the smash-up.

SOLDIERS REVOLTED

Reports Say Premier Lenine is Preparing to Surrender to the Entente.

RUSSIAN SITUATION

(United Press Service.)

LONDON, Feb. 3.—An unconfirmed despatch from Petrograd to-day reported that soldiers had revolted there and that there was considerable machine-gun fighting going on in the streets. Troops from Kronstadt were said to be bombarding Petrograd. Rumours were current in the latter city that Premier Lenine is preparing to surrender to the Entente.

The Stockholm correspondent of the London Telegraph reported that Bolsheviki troops are withdrawing in the Baltic provinces, particularly in Esthonia.

The Bolshevik official communique, received by wireless from Petrograd to-day said: "In the Archangel region we occupied fortified positions near Tarasevo, capturing three machine guns, a large quantity of provisions and considerable military material."

KIEV CAPTURED BY BOLSHEVISTS

WARSAW, Feb. 3.—Kiev had been taken by Bolshevist troops, General Petlura's troops partially going over to the enemy.

The Ukraine government has been moved from Kiev to Winnitza. To the southwest railway communication with Kiev is cut off at Kovel, where there is a body of German troops attempting to keep order among disorderly Germans who are retiring from the Ukraine. The cold wave here has resulted in the deaths of hundreds, especially babies who were frozen to death while being transported on railways. This probably refers to refugees fleeing to Warsaw to escape from advancing Bolshevists. Telegraph lines and railways in the direction of Vienna were cut by Czecho-Slovaks last Thursday.

WILL CRUSH SPARTACANS

German Government Will Concentrate a Large Body of Troops For this Purpose.

(United Press.)

BERLIN, Feb. 3. — The Staatsrat of German-Austria, has unanimously passed a bill providing for the unification of that country with Germany; it was announced to-day.

BERLIN, Feb. 3. — The German government was preparing to-day to crush the Spartacan revolt in Bremen by the greatest concentration of troops since the recent uprising in Berlin. The Spartacans were reported to be preparing for a stubborn defence of Bremen, protecting all the strategic points with machine guns.

After putting down the Bremen revolt, the government intends to send the troops against Shamburg and Wilhelmshaven, where the Spartacans are still quite active.

An official statement was made today that the damage resulting from the Spartacan uprising in Berlin totalled 10 million dollars.

The German railway workers in Cologne were reported to be threatening a strike against the entente order for a ten hour day. They want shorter hours.

RUG CONTEST RESULTS ANNOUNCED TO-MORROW

The coppers will be counted this evening at 7 p.m. and it might be to your advantage to scan the list in the window to-morrow afternoon during your shopping tour.

HAMILTON'S MAYOR IS FACED WITH DIRE THREAT

HAMILTON, Feb. 3.—The board of control was advised by Bell & Pringle, acting for the Stripe estate, that unless the nuisance caused by the city for allowing sewage to flow into Stripe's Inlet is stopped application will be made for the commitment to jail of Mayor Booker and City Engineer Gray.

Several Peterboro Soldiers Reached St. John Yesterday

Names of Six Local Men Who Crossed on the "Grampion"—Had An Uneventful Trip—Two of the Men Receive Military Awards.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Feb. 3.—The S. S. Grampian arrived here this afternoon with 1,200 returned soldiers from Liverpool. The trip across was uneventful, being made in good time. The troops were perfectly satisfied with the treatment on the way across, there being no complaints. The trip was brought to a sad ending here yesterday, for just as the liner was docking, one of the soldiers, Private McCabe, who had been ill during the voyage with influenza, from which pneumonia developed, passed away. He was a member of the 38th Battalion from Ottawa and was forty-eight years of age. He leaves a family in Ottawa.

Following were the Peterborough soldiers who crossed on the Grampian: Edward Brazendale, Joseph Rogers, James E. Weese, Henry Wyatt, M.M., formerly of the 93rd, James Robertson, D.C.M., 2nd Battalion.

German General Staff Prepared For Germany's Annexation of Belgium

Documents Were Captured by the Belgians—Papers Filled An Entire Freight Car—Systematic Destruction

(United Press Service.)

PARIS, Feb. 3. — The Belgian Government has in its possession what are believed to be the complete documents of the German General Staff relating to Belgium, including the details for Germany's annexation of the country and instructions for carrying off and destroying machinery. The story of the capture of the documents—one of the most unique of the war—together with what their examination revealed so far, reached the United Press to-day from authoritative Belgian sources.

A FREIGHT CAR

The papers fill an entire freight car. In the rush of evacuation after the armistice was signed, this particular car was run on a side track by mistake. As soon as its absence was discovered, the General Staff naturally ordered a quick and complete search for it. They chose, to direct the search, a lowly civilian official, in the person of the head of the "Barley Department." His most exciting work heretofore, had been to get the last grain of barley from the Belgian fields. The persistence and anxiety displayed in his search led Belgian officials to assign a secret service operative to trail him. When the car was finally located on an isolated siding the Belgians arrested the German and seized the car.

SIGNED BY HOLLWEG.

Examination of the papers is not completed, but it is declared they show the annexation plans provided for splitting Belgium into two provinces, in an effort to line up the Flemish and the Walloons against each other. The plan, which even went into administrative details, were signed by former Chancellor Von Bethmann Hollweg at a time when he was assuring the world that Germany had no intention of annexing Belgium.

According to the documents Germany ordered systematic destruction of Belgian machinery last spring. At first, instructions were issued to carry off the machineryq. Later, as transportation became taxed, orders were issued to smash all machinery that could not be moved readily.

The Belgians are in a quandry as to where to begin reconstruction work. They want to reopen their mills and factories but lack machinery, and their railways and canals are so badly damaged as to effect transportation.

Huns Were Arrested

Offences Committed Within The Zone of American Occupation

(United Press.)

AMERICAN HEADQUARTERS IN GERMANY, Feb. 3.— Two hundred and nineteen Germans have been arrested and tried by American courts martial during the two months of American occupation, according to figures made public to-day. There were 206 convictions. Imprisonments ranged from 1 to 90 days and fines of from one mark (25 cents) to 500 marks ($125.)

Offences included violation of liquor relations, wearing German military uniforms and holding unauthorized meetings. There was on arrest for failure to salute an American officer.

A Soccer Game.

Army officials are investigating a soccer game which was played at Ehrenbreitstein to-day between a team composed of men from a New York and Kentucky pioneer regiment and one made up of German soldiers, many of whom wore parts of their uniforms. The players were good natured throughout, the Germans submitting willingly to the decisions of the American umpire. The game was not scheduled and probably was started on the spur of the moment, but apparently it violated both the regulation against fraternizing and that of wearing German uniforms.

Peterboro Men Of "Princess Pats"

Mill Workers Out On Strike

Strikers Want Shorter Hours—Big Silk Mills Close Down.

(United Press Service.)

PATERSON, N.J., Feb. 3.—More than twenty-five thousand silk mill workers went on strike here to-day, according to an unofficial estimate, following the refusal of the employers to meet the demands for a forty-seven-hour week. It is believed thousands of others will follow the example of those already out, as the mill owners say they will close the plants rather than grant the demands.

The strikers' original request was for a forty-four-hour week, but they decided to arbitrate with the employers and an agreement was reached on the forty-seven-hour weekly basis.

Are Foreigners.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Feb. 3.—Not more than half of the 30,000 textile operatives here went on strike to-day to enforce their demands for fifty-four hours' wages for a forty-four-hour week.

The majority of those who struck are foreigners.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Striking garment workers to-day threw a cordon of pickets around the clothing factory area in downtown Manhattan, and greeted with cries of "scab" non-union employees on their way to work.

Strong forces of police were called to preserve order.

Returned Prisoner Thanks Red Cross

Private Tom Casey, who returned to his home in Douro recently, after being held a prisoner of war in Germany since June, 1916, desires to thank the Red Cross Society and the citizens of Peterborough generally, for the regular supply of parcels which he received during those years. Private Casey stated that he could not express his feelings of gratitude for the unfailing pains and thoughtfulness with which these supplies were prepared and forwarded. They had not only provided food that actually kept him alive, but they also brought the comfort of realizing that the people at home had not forgotten the prisoners of war, but had helped them continuously and in a most practical manner.

BOLSHEVIK DOCTRINES

Russians Are Led to Believe That Land Will be Taken From Them If Bolshevists Are Beaten.

ALLIED TROOPS

(United Press.)

PARIS, Feb. 3. — The Special Committees to which details of the peace settlement are referred, are doing their work efficiently and rapidly, according to Foreign Minister Pichon.

"Some people may take it for granted that little work is being done because the plenary sessions are infrequent," he said, "but the special committes are now at work. Soon results will begin to show with greater continuity and the work of the conference as a body will be maintained on a schedule of greater regularity."

Regarding the Russian situation, Pichon said the position of the allied troops on the Archangel front is not desperate. He declared that while the Bolsheviki are strengthening their army in that region, they are being defeated in other parts of the country and that this condition must soon have an affect on the northern front.

"The greatest hold of the Bolsheviki on the people is that the people are led to believe that if they were beaten their land will be taken away from them," said Pichon. "If we could show the people that their land will remain in their own hands, three-fourths of Russia would be against the Bolsheviki."

Believes Former Russian Emperor Is Still Living

Dowager Empress Refuses to Leave Russia Until Death of Former Ruler is Confirmed.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Feb. 3.—Dowager Empress Marie Feodorovna, of Russia, has clung so firmly to her belief that her son, former Russian Emperor and Grand Duke Michael are not dead that many of her friends have been won over to that view and rumours in the European press concerning Nicholas Romanoff's alleged whereabouts are attracting much attention.

The aged Empress resolutely refused to leave Russia until she learned positively of the fate of her son. She continues to live simply at Yalta, Crimea, declining the invitation to visit the King and Queen of Roumania, and even her sister, Queen Mother Alexandria of Great Britain. Lieut.-Col. J. W. Boyle( formerly of the Canadian Militia, who was commissioned by King Ferdinand of Roumania to induce the Dowager Empress to seek safety in Roumania, recently arrived in Paris and told the Associated Press that the Dowager Empress' declination was most affecting.

Conflicting Reports Come From Portugal

Both Republican and Monarchist Parties Claim Victories.

(Special to Examiner.)

MADRID, Feb. 3.—Both Monarchists and Republicans claimed victories in despatches received here from various Portuguese sources to-day.

An official statement issued by the Republican Government in Lisbon, said the Monarchists fled after a nine hour fight near Agueda in which they sustained great losses, including their commander. The statement also denied the Royalist claims of the capture of Aveiro and Chaves.

A Monarchist wireless statement said Royalist troops were advancing southward and that a monarchy had been proclaimed throughout the country.

THE PEACE CONFERENCE

Balkan Situation Was Discussed a This Morning's Session—A Special Committee.

HOUSE RECOVERING

(By Fred S. Ferguson.)
(United Press.)

PARIS, Feb. 3.—President Wilson to-day began his drive for the consummation of the League of Nations programme before the end of the week.

Refreshed by a day of complete rest the President, following his address on the subject of the League before the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon, was to confer with the special committee which is working on details of the League's outline. In this meeting, to be held at the Hotel Crillon, work was to be taken up on the definite constitution of the League upon which several tentative agreements have already been reached.

The President is working in the closest unanimity with Lord Cecil and Gen. Smuts on the draft for the constitution, which provides for a permanent organization to meet regularly and to have machinery for arbitration and economic punishments. Complete agreement on the framework is generally anticipated before Premier Lloyd George leaves for London at the end of the week.

Balkan Situation.

President Wilson met with the Peace Bureau this morning. The Balkan situation was discussed with particular reference to Greece's political and territorial claims Premier Venizelos was the principal speaker.

The President has under consideration plans for reporting progress of the peace conference parley to the Congress in future. Reports from the United States indicate that there is need of explaining details of various problems being worked out, as a misunderstanding is obvious.

When Wilson arrives in the United States three weeks hence—he is scheduled to sail February 14—he expects sufficient progress to have been made for a comprehensive report to Congress. After that, important negotiations will be reported to the American Legislative body as they transpire.

Col. House is recovering rapidly and is expected to take a full part in the peace work this week.

THE HEALTH ASSOCIATION.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Health Association, called for tomorrow afternoon in the Bank of Montreal chambers, should be largely attended. No organization in Peterborough is doing a better or finer work than the Health Association which, in spite of circumscribed funds and a deplorable lack of general public support, has "carried on" faithfully through the distressful war years and which, with the coming of peace, is looking forward to a future of useful and extensive service. It is an Association which should have the wholehearted support of the citizens of Peterborough because its only motive is to be of assistance. That it has realized this aim will be readily affirmed by those who have occasion to realize what the work of the Health Association really means. Public-spirited citizens who are looking for an opportunity to serve the community could not do better than to attend tomorrow afternoon's meeting in order to acquaint themselves with the story of what the Association has been able to carry out and what it hopes to accomplish during the coming year.

THE VALUE OF PUBLICITY.

One feature of Mr. Justice Hodgins' report in connection with the "Northland" inquiry that should not escape notice was the Judge's statement that he had investigated carefully the stories published in the newspapers in support of conditions on the transport and that he had found that these had been honestly written and published in good faith. Judge Hodgins expressed his belief that publicity of this kind was of benefit in drawing attention to grievances and giving an opportunity for them to be rectified. This point should be noted by some of the slavish press supporters of the government who have a habit of criticising every newspaper that ventures to print anything that smacks of faultfinding in regard to the work of the government. These government organs, or some of them at least, have persisted in blaming the British Admiralty for the conditions about which the soldiers have complained, but Judge Hodgins' report, with its condemnation of the lack of efficiency of the military conducting system on board the Northland cannot by any journalistic ingenuity be twisted into censure of the Admiralty.

Publicity that leads to the correction of the grievances complained of, and to an official inquiry into why such conditions should be allowed to exist, is beneficial. There is no doubt in the world that it was the stories printed by the newspapers that forced the investigation in the case of the Northland, and if there are any good results from that investigation, the credit must go to the newspapers. Already it is reported that more attention is being paid to the food served on the transports and that other reforms are being undertaken. If the newspapers had kept silent on this question the old conditions would still be in existence.

WELCOMING THE SOLDIERS.

The announcement that returning soldiers are not to be given leave until they have reached their proper destination may not be pleasing to the soldiers themselves, but it will be received with satisfaction by those who are in charge of the arrangements for the reception of veterans in their home towns. Up to the present the difficulty of securing any authentic information as to the arrival of the men from overseas has interfered considerably with the desire to give them a proper reception. Even when a list of men was sent in advance there was trouble, for the soldiers were dropping off the train all along the line visiting friends, and often did not reach the city until several days after they were officially supposed to be here. The new system will make this impossible and will be of great assistance to the Reception committees in the different centres.

THE LINDSAY RIOTS.

The wrecking of Chinese business places by a mob of Lindsay citizens the other night, furnishes rich food for investigation by the physicologists. Why should men who would usually hesitate a long time before they would carry off five cents' worth of anything that did not belong to them, coolly help themselves to boxes of cigars or anything else they took a fancy to from a damaged store? Why should they deliberately wreck a place like the Dominion Cafe, the proprietor of which had no connection whatever with the outrage that was said to be responsible for the rioting? Why should they run the risk of arrest or being injured by a policeman's baton? Was it because of a deep appreciation of the wrong done to a woman? Or was it simply that our civilization is but thinly veneered and that we welcome an opportunity to get back to the primitive? That in the average man's heart, however deeply it may be buried there exists an instinct inherited from the old days that leads him to destroy and mutilate when opportunity offers

These questions presented themselves to a spectator of Friday night's rioting. There did not seem to be any strong indignation on the part of those who were responsible for the damage. Rather they went about the business of wrecking everything they could lay their hands on with a schoolboy-like joy. Are we, in spite of our boasted superiority, only savages after all?

WAS CANADA HOOVERIZED?

Hoover seems to have Hooverized us out of our foreign trade. When Herbert C. Hoover started overseas some weeks ago to organize the feeding of the continental nations, he was in reality the biggest, smartest, commercial traveller the world has ever seen. We in our innocence thought of the big orders for foodstuffs that would shortly be coming Canada's way. The packers, for instance, got busy figuring ways and means whereby they could meet the demand. In the country districts the farmers and drovers were studying how best to move their hogs cheaply and quickly to points where they could be more readily turned into exportable meat products. Everything was lovely, and the goose hung high. And then we were awakened with a jolt. The train had stopped. Orders began pouring in—yes, into the United States—but devil an order did we get. Hoover is looking out for "his," and "his" happens to be the United States of America. Hoover says: "Give me your orders. How many million dollars worth of food do you want? Never mind the money, just sign here. We will finance it for you." And he does. No one may blame Hoover for conducting his trade to his own country when that country is finding the money. Out in the West they tried to get around this difficulty by shipping hogs from a Canadian to an American point. But at the border they were told that when Hoover had sold all the hogs there were in the United States, it would be time enough for the Canadian hogs to come into the middle of the United States. So it was that the drovers turned sadly on their heels and took their hogs back home with them.

It might be timely to inquire what our "bright young men," as Sir Joseph Flavelle would say, are doing over in Europe. Goodness knows, enough of them went over. If I recollect rightly, there must have been pretty nearly a shipload, headed by Sir Robert Borden and Sir George Foster, erstwhile Minister of Trade and Commerce, but now greatly taken with the idea of sitting on the steps at Versailles, or possibly walking up and down in the orangery, while matters of State are being discussed by those who have a real interest in the topic. Anyhow, Sir George is not interested in such vulgar things as the price of bacon, or wheat products, and as to whether there is an opportunity to sell some to the hungry Roumanians or starving Poles. He is a real—I was going to say a live—delegate to a Peace Conference, so what does it matter if Hoover does have shipped from the United States everything there is to sell, and we ship nothing? However, this would probably appear to be but a mere detail to such statesmen as Sir Robert and Sir George. And, besides, Sir Robert has taken occasion to warn the fellow members of his Cabinet—that is, the precious few who remained at home—that he must not be bothered with any such details. It took, he said, his mind off the real work at the Peace Conference.

An interesting point in connection with the Hoover idea of trade and commerce is that which deals with the maintenance of prices in the United States. Some time ago a huge deputation of United States packers visited Washington with the idea of having that Government take a hand in reducing meat prices. The packers were not making this request from any philanthropic motive. Their principal object was to stimulate trade. That country, like Canada, was simply flooded with swine and beef cattle for which there was no market. They went on the principle that a reduction in prices would mean larger consumption, which it no doubt would. However, Hoover set his foot down. Not a cent decrease in price. The packers wanted to buy hogs at fifteen and one-half or sixteen cents, and then gradually reduce the price month by month until a reasonable figure was reached. Hoover's orders were: "Nail the price at 17 1-2 cents and keep it there." Long-headed Hoover. He and his "bright young men" knew what they were about. What is the use of going out to feed the world on a scant margin of profit when you can get a big one just as well? If Europe was to get its food on "tick," then Europe must pay the piper; in other words, the long price. What is the use of an American farmer selling a 200-pound hog at $17.50, and one quite possibly, when he can just as well get $35.40 for it? Of course, this all means that the folks at home will continue to pay high prices for their food; but it also means an augmented trade balance that promises to pay the war debt of the United States in a precious short time. Smart man that Hoover. However, as to the morals of a transaction whereby impoverished countries are made to pay through the nose for the right to survive, the less said the better.—Toronto Saturday Night.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The wrecking of the Chinese laundries the other night furnished many a Lindsay citizen with a perfectly new excuse for not going to church yesterday.

The drop in the temperature is appreciated alike by the coal man and the ice man.

The more the county council talks about good roads the less chance there will be for the travelling public to talk about bad ones.

LITERARY NEWS NOTES

The publication of Col. John McCrae's "In Flanders' Fields," which was announced for fall, but owing to several unavoidable reasons was delayed, is now announced by William Briggs for spring. Not a great many Canadians are aware that beside the title poem, whose popularity has swept around the world, Col. McCrae wrote considerable other verse. This has been collected from several sources, and with a somewhat comprehensive biography from the pen of a literary friend, will make up a book which a good many Canadians should be interested in.

From a sales standpoint, "Dere Mable," which brought so much healthy, hearty laughter into so many homes at the Christmas season, is quite within sight of the record set by "David Harum," "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," and three or four other books of the last decade. This book, too, illustrates remarkably how very uncertain the publishing business is. The American firm who discovered the "Dere Mable" manuscript, it is reported, took hold of it with some little misgiving, and printed first a comparatively small edition. Something in the infectiousness of the humour of the book, however, seemed to catch the public spirit in a wonderful way, and at one time in October and November, three big manufacturing houses in New York had large sections of their plants engaged in the production of the book, and then could not fill the demand. That the sales went forward similarly in Canada is illustrated by a story from the Canadian Publisher. One day in December, 15,000 copies were on hand in the firm's warehouse. Next day, not a single copy was to be purchased. Those who like the ridiculousness of "Dere Mable" will be interested in the fact that Lieut. Streeter's unique letters have been continued in another similar volume, "That's Me All Over, Mable," and that innocent "Bill" writes further of his life on shipboard and experiences on landing in France. The second book is said to be just as laughable as the first.

Stories of prisoners and their experiences have been very much to the fore within the last few months. While some of these may be more thrilling, none of them can present more human interest than that of Hon. Henri S. Beland, M.P., formerly Postmaster-General of Canada, which will be issued by William Briggs in book form this spring. Although Dr. Beland was promised immunity from arrest, when he was found ministering to wounded Belgians, on the German entry into Belgium, he was given but a few minutes to say good-bye to his wife, whom he never saw again, and was hurried to Berlin, where he was imprisoned. Appeals that he might visit Mrs. Beland on her deathbed, and the strongest representations which could be made by Canadian and British authorities were of no avail. A fact not generally known is that Dr. Beland finally obtained his release in exchange for Von Buelow, secretary of the Krupps in England, and a nephew of the German statesman of the same name. Dr. Beland tells his story under the title, "My Three Years in a German Prison," frankly and comprehensively, and it throws light on German political conditions which has not hitherto been made public.

Most of us in our earlier years read "King Solomon's Mines," "She," and others of Sir Rider Haggard's romantic Eastern stories. Possibly we have not kept very closely in touch with his later productions, and do not know that he is regarded as one of the most prolific of English writers. Although he has reached the hale age of sixty-three, he still keeps on writing, as witnessed by the fact that another characteristic novel, "Moon of Israel," is announced by William Briggs for publication this spring. The book gives colourful pictures of life in ancient Egypt, as it was known to the high-born, presenting among other things, the betrothal of proud Userti, an Egyptian princess, and is made up of the usual procession of picturesque and thrilling events. The title comes from the heroine, a Hebrew maiden named Marahi—"Moon of Israel."

The fact, well-known among publishers, that an author's first book seldom makes any profit, and that his subsequent writing must be counted on to carry matters through, is well illustrated in the case of V. Belasco Ibanez, author of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," published last fall. This, the first book, was hailed as a "different" type of novel, and while its sales were exceedingly good for a "first" novel, they served more pafticularly to introduce the author. The same United States publisher announces the second book, "The Cabin," for spring publication, which is considered to be quite as characteristic, and even better, than the original. "The Cabin" will be published in Canada by William Briggs.

HAD WEAK and FAINTING SPELLS

Those feelings of faintness, those weak, "all gone" sinking sensations, which come over most people from time to time, are warnings that must not go unheeded.

They mean an extremely weakened condition of the heart and a disordered nervous system.

When the system is in this condition there is no time for delay. One fainting spell may be recovered from—will the next? One dizzy spell may pass off, but the next may be more serious.

Those who are wise will start taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, before their case becomes deep rooted and perhaps hopeless.

They will act directly on the disordered heart and weakened nervous system and restore them to full strength and vigor.

Miss Mary McCoy, Algoma Mills, Ont., writes:—"I was awfully troubled with fainting and weak spells, and I could never get any doctor's medicines to help me. One day a friend of mine was at the house when I took one of those spells, and she got me a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. That was six years ago, and from that day to this I have never had any of those spells. I would not be without your pills for any money and can highly recommend them to any one."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Beautiful things are everyday things now—

Look around you. See the large number of dainty silk blouses in beautiful tints that are being worn. And the quantities of dainty underwear the stores are showing—sheerest, most beautiful things you have ever seen. It was not so a few years ago. What has caused the difference?

Certainly and surely—one big factor has been Lux. Women would not buy these things right along unless there was a gentle, sure way of washing them—without discoloring, warping or fading.

There is—it's the Lux way. Won't turn silks yellow—won't hurt chiffons—won't shrink woollens. Lux won't hurt anything that pure water itself may touch.

Annual Business Meeting of Park Street Baptist Church

Considerable Progress Made During the Year—Officers Elected —Increase in Membership.

Park street Baptist church held its annual general business meeting on Wednesday evening last and interest was shown by the good attendance of members.

The pastor, Rev. Dougald Brown presided. After devotional exercises the pastor briefly reviewed the work of the church for the past year, his remarks of encouragement and admonition being received with marked attention.

The minutes of the last general meeting were then read and confirmed, after which the reports of the treasurers and secretarys of the church and various organizations were submitted.

The total receipts of the church from all sources show $3,481.82, an increase of over $200 more than the previous year, practically every department showing development.

The amount of $382.00 has been forwarded to missions, an increase of $146.60.

The Membership.

There has been added to the church membership during the year, by baptism and letter, 17.

Letters of transfer granted and members died, 12.

The soldiers' honour roll shows 57 names—36 church members and 27 adherents—of which 6 members and 2 adherents have been killed. The mid-week services have been somewhat broken by various union and other meetings, but especially by influenza notwithstanding which the recorded average attendance stands at 35 members.

The Sunday school has a very good showing. Out of a roll of 332 members the average attendance has been 201.

The various organizations are in a good and sound condition.

JUDGE HUYCKE WAS IN LINDSAY

Medals Presented to Thirty-seven Lindsay Boys.

His Honour Judge Huycke was the speaker of the evening at Lindsay on Thursday evening at the armouries, when, before eighteen hundred people, medals were presented to thirty-seven Lindsay boys. Rev. Mr. F. H. McIntosh presided.

In opening his address, Judge Huycke, who was greeted with loud and prolonged cheers at rising, said he brought the greetings of the people of Peterborough, who rejoiced over the successful conclusion of the war and sorrowed with them who sorrowed. Continuing he referred to the past four years of sorrow, sadness and suspense from which, happily, victory had at last been dearly bought. In bringing about the victory the Canadians had won undying glory for themselves and their country. He referred particularly to the fame achieved by the boys at the capture of Vimy Ridge and at Passchendaele. The latter battle, he said, meant a tremendous number of deaths besides glory.

Preserve Peace.

In referring to the glory and fame brought to Canada by the boys who fought, he said: The whole fabric of civilization was attacked and if the fight had not been won life would not be worth living. All do well in honouring the record of the boys in preserving peace and liberty for those at home. Honour must also be paid those who have fallen. We have a corps of the immortals he said, the brave lads who sleep overseas and who brought imperishable fame and glory to Canada, and whose memories will be forever enshrined in the hearts of a gratifying people. Too much honour could not be paid to those who had gone forth to fight for liberty, and lay down their lives for others.

Warm Tribute.

He concluded by paying a warm tribute to the boys who, in meriting the presentation of medals, had brought exceptional honour to Canada.

PRESENTATION TO MISS B. ELCOME

Has a Perfect Record for Attendance At Sunday School

At Murray Street Baptist Sunday School yesterday the pianist, Miss Bessie Elcome, was presented with a gold wrist watch on behalf of the officers, teachers, and pupils on the event of her completing at the end of 1918 fifteen consecutive years during which she attended Sunday School every Sunday and was always on time. The following letter was read by the Superintendent.

To Miss Bessie Elcome,
Pianist, Murray Street Baptist Sunday School.

Dear Miss Elcome:—

The Officers, Teachers, and Pupils of the Sunday School wish you to know that they esteem it a proud privilege to have in their midst one who probably holds the first place in the Dominion for faithfulness in Sunday School service. The end of 1918 marked the fifteenth year that as pupil and pianist you have obtained a perfect record for consecutive, punctuality and attendance, something perhaps unparalleled in any other Sunday School. At the same time they also wish you to know that your devotion and sweetness of character has endeared you to the hearts of all and as a token of their love and esteem they ask you to accept this wrist watch which has engraved upon it your name and the one word "Fidelity" the keynote of your Christian Service.

Joseph Wearing
Superintendent
Wilmot Browette,
Secretary

Miss Elcome who was completely taken by surprise expressed her thanks and stated she had never received more pleasure out of anything than her Sunday School work. A former teacher, Miss Emma Aldridge who has been absent for sometime through illness gave a short but forcible address taking as her subject the word inscribed on the watch presented to Miss Elcome.

War Service Gratuity Is Not For War Widows

Answer to Enquiries Made by Local Patriotic Fund Office

Following enquiries made at the Peterborough Patriotic Fund Office by several of the widows of men failed information in papers that such wi e information in papers that such widows would be entitled to a share of the War Gratuity that would have applied in the cases of men killed, up to the time of the casualty, the office has made enquiry from the Paymaster-General, and the reply is printed below:

"There is absolutely no truth in the statement appearing in certain newspapers that the war service gratuity payable to the men of the Canadian Expeditionary Forces, on retirement or discharge, will also be paid to war widows, dependents and next-of-kin of soldiers killed in action or who died of wounds. An official denial of this statement was issued to-day, (31st Jan.) by the Militia Department, and at the same time it was pointed out that the Order-in-Council makes no provision of this nature. The next-of-kin of deceased soldiers are provided for under the pension regulations.

"The Order-in-Council does make provision for payment of the gratuity to the dependents of a soldier who dies subsequent to his discharge or retirement, and before he or his dependents have received any part of the whole of the gratuity. It states that if there survive him dependents who would have been entitled to a portion of the gratuity equal to the Separation Allowance the portion of the gratuity unpaid at the time of his death shall be payable to such dependents.

"In the case of a soldier who has no dependents entitled to Separation Allowance, and who dies subsequent to his discharge, before receiving any or all of the gratuity, the portion of the gratuity unpaid at the time of his death shall not be payable."

How One Returned Man Made Good

"Does it pay the returned soldier to look into the re-education courses offered by the Government," says F. Hopkinson, a returned man?—"Well I should say so," and the happy smile with which it is said proclaims the truth of the sentiment more than any amount of speech. Nevertheless this man's story is full of interest.

Hopkinson, who is an Englishman by birth, has travelled over many parts of the globe and like the adventurous ones beloved of Bob Service, has done his share of "grubbing for gold," as he had a shot at gold mining in South Africa, took a hand in the building of the Hudson River tunnels, and in his own pre-war trade—that of bricklayer—has been engaged upon some of the finest buildings erected.

A good tale of bricks which added to the erection of the "World" building in Vancouver, claimed to be the largest skyscraper in the British Empire, go to the credit of this man. (By the way he had a partiality for skyscrapers, which may account for his determination to strike skywards after his disability instead of remaining in a rut. But this is to precipitate the story.)

Well at the outbreak of war Hopkinson was down in Texas and it did not take him long to make up his mind that in khaki he would be. He arrived in Torono one evening at 9:30, having taken the old steamer Antilles from New Orleans to New York, which boat was the first American transport to be sunk. By ten a.m. the next morning Hopkinson had enlisted. He recounts with glee the story of how eight doughty comrades in Texas, who volunteered to come East with him, all funked at the last minute and a few months later were scooped up by the draft.

Two Years At Front.

After two years at the front, during which time he had been through Belgium with the Imperials, Hopkinson was invalided home with pneumonia and bad feet, due to the constant state of mud over there. He has left one brother with the Imperial Army and a third lost his life while fighting at the front.

"I was feeling pretty sick," says Hopkinson, "when I arrived back to be told that I could not engage in my former occupation nor enjoy my old globe trotting habits, as the doctors here have prescribed for me sedentary occupation. I must say that I did not place much faith in the promises held out by the Government for returned men, but I went to the Central Technical School in Toronto to have a look into the thing and afterwards decided to try out a course in drafting. I received a letter from the Government that a cheque would be sent every month. I thought to myself—well this seems O.K., so I guess it is up to me to do my bit. The drafting course was suggested to me as the one most closely allied to my past work in the building trade, and it was suggested that I might afterwards be able to take a position as inspector of building plans. My own notion of it was that I would take it with the idea of working on my own—at designing or carrying out small plans for interior work. The pay I received while in training amounted to $46.00 a month. Not a great deal, but I found it sufficient to pay my board and laundry, and take a girl to a show once in a while. There were fifteen other fellows taking the course with me. Their previous occupations included the trades of boiler-maker, carpenter and farmer. About the time I was through with my course the Canadian Aeroplanes applied for some one to do drafting, offering three weeks work at $25.00 a week. I was taken on and stayed for four months, where I earned a steady wage with some overtime until peace was proclaimed. The Government offered one month's post discharge pay to all re-educated soldiers who came through their course successfully. This, added to the money I earned at the Aeroplanes, gave me a nice little sum to start with. My work at the Aeroplanes factory was making comparative charts. It was absolutely new to me and the nature of it, by comparison with my previous occupation, was very fine work, but I found it interesting and was commended by the Canadian engineer there."

Serious Handicap.

Comparative charting being one of the most up-to-date methods of tracing business progress, the Business Department of the Repatriation Committee made search for a man to undertake this work, and the good record of Mr. Hopkinson coupled to the fact that he is a returned man, at once assured him the job.

With regard to the re-educational classes held at the Central Technical School, Toronto, and other centres, Mr. Hopkinson offers a suggestion, based not only upon his experiences, but also upon the opinions of some of his comrades, who have gone through. "It must be borne in mind," he says, "that the majority of us fellows who enter the classes, have had very little schooling and feel ourselves to be under a serious handicap as compared to many taking similar courses at the same time who have had advantage of a high school education, and have folks with money to boost them further on college, etc. Then the fact that recognition in the form of a certificate or any written statement of ever is given to the soldier makes good is, I think, a deterrent ambitious work. I think it would a tremendous incentive to better more continued effort if some recognition were given. Better could not a certain number of scholarships be offered? This would some of the more brilliant one chance to go up to the university if they so wished. I am sure there would be hundreds who would at such an advantage."

Mr. Hopkinson is very modest about his own achievements, saying that dozens of the fellows did better work than he, but the sample of his professional work, which is lying around, showed his work to be exceedingly neat and accurate. Indeed it is marvellous to think in short a time this man made good is an instance where a returned man whose entire environment and look on life has been elevated to a higher plane, changed from a mechanical hand worker to one co-ordinating the work of brain and hand a position which gives him remuneration equal to that earned by his pre-war days.

WOULD GO FROM HOUSE TO HOUSE

Mrs. Harrington Feels Like Going Out and Telling Everybody About Tanlac.

"I would just like to go from house to house and tell the people about Tanlac," said Mrs. Mollie Harrington, of 111 Third street, Peoria, in a recent statement which she requested published for the benefit of others.

"My health gave way years ago," Mrs. Harrington continued, "and I had long since despaired of ever getting any better. I was very weak and pale—hardly had the colour of blood in my face—suffered terribly from stomach trouble and was extremely nervous. I was really in a brokendown condition and being past fifty-eight years of age, which I thought was against me, I had no hope of getting well and nothing to look forward to but the end, which I often felt was drawing near.

"Then I got to reading about the wonderful results others were getting from Tanlac and yet I could not make up my mind at first to try it, as I had little idea it could help a person of my age, especially, one in such a low state of health. But somehow I was influenced to buy a bottle and that was about the luckiest day of my life, for when I finished taking it there was a wonderful improvement in my condition.

"Then I had something to look forward to—hope of complete recovery—so I bought a few more bottles of Tanlac and now I don't have to tell my friends I am well again, for they can see that from my looks an often speak of it. I am more thankful to Tanlac than I can express for now I am enjoying life and good health, which I never expected to enjoy any more, and I want this testimonial published in all the papers in Illinois that everybody may know what Tanlac will do, for I feel that I ought to tell all suffering people about this wonderful medicine."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co. Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co. Ltd.; in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood by O. Pringle & Son.

Rev. C. E. Manning Issues a Call For Christian Workers

The Mission Fields of the East and West Present Wonderful Opportunities for Those Who Wish to Serve—Address in George St. Church.

In the evening Mr. Manning delivered a very interesting address, based on the text, "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature."

The speaker very fittingly compared the difficulties of the missionary to work that the disciples of Christ had to perform, to the difficulty of the missionary work at the present time.

For the disciples to accomplish their work it was necessary that they overcome two very difficult tasks: First, they had to change the mental attitude of all mankind to that of a Christian; and secondly, change the customs and habits of all the people. While doing this, the disciples had to oppose all other classes who were very bitter against them. The Jews in particular endeavoured with all their power, even resorting to murder, to stop the Christian missionary work. The missionary work of to-day is just as difficult. To illustrate his point, Mr. Manning asked the audience: Suppose that some foreign missionary should come to Peterboro with a new religion, and attempt to change the mental attitude, customs and habits of all the citizens of Peterboro, to that of his new religion. Would he have a difficult task? The same hard task faces some of our missionaries in the East, when they attempt to teach Christianity. At first the Chinese were very superstitious, but at last some have learned to trust and believe the Christian missionary.

Effects of the War.

Mr. Manning spoke of the effects that the war had on many Christians. When the war started people were amazed and wondered what was the use of preaching the Gospel. Germany was considered to be one of the leading Christian nations. This country to which our young men and women went to finish their education and that was the foremost in science, planned for this Great War, and inflicted such cruelties upon innocent Christians. But Mr. Manning stated that it had been a wrong Christianity that has been taught or preached to the German people. The great leaders of the country have committed the wrong of teaching the people that war is righteous. The hope of the world, he said, is in preaching the Gospel. Christianity must win its way in Japan, China, India and every other country, until Jesus is King of all. If no gospel were taught in the East for the next four or five years, so that Christianity would lose its hold, and if China were to rise against the world as Germany had done, with her 400,000,000 people united with that enterprising nation, Japan, and India probably, they could build the largest fleet in the world and organize the largest army in the world. The world would soon be dominated by the heathen.

Higher Education.

To-day the Methodist Missions in China are the best, strongest, and most successful there. The Methodist church of Canada, together with three other denominations, are planning to build a great university in China, which will give an education not only along the line of preaching the Gospel, but also of medicine, science, and all other modern courses. As many missionaries will be sent from the continent to China as will be needed until the Universities in China, can graduate enough students for their own need. The same is the case with Japan.

But, at the same time, Mr. Manning pointed out, we must not let the missionary work in our own land be neglected. On the Pacific Coast there are thousands of miners and canners, mostly foreigners, that receive no Christian preaching.

The Methodist Church owns a large ship, the "Thomas Crosby," which plies up and down the Pacific Coast periodically, visiting as many settlements as possible. But far more boats are needed. The Methodist Church is planning to outfit a number of motor boats that may be able to take missionaries up and down the coast on certain circuits. All over Canada there is a lack of missionaries. In the Prairie Provinces there are about 60 unsupplied missions, due to the enlistment of missionaries in the war. In the Peace River district there are no missionaries.

The Presbyterian and Methodist Churches are organizing committees in the west to prevent overlapping of missionary work and to avoid competition.

Lady Teachers.

Mr. Manning in conclusion, emphasized the lack of efficient lady teachers in the public schools of the West, and said that they could do a greater work there than in the East, but also stated that the inducements were not as good. He pointed out that it was a good opportunity for young ladies to help Christianity, and also for young men who were willing to make sacrifices, not for wealth, but for a better contribution to their fellow men and women.

Mr. Manning also spoke of the help that young ladies could renrer in serving as nurses in hospitals in China. In making an appeal for young men and women to go west to teach, he appealed to their higher motives. He said that he thought that young ladies could render in to teach in a foreign settlement has a harder task to perform than a man who goes to the trenches, mainly from the standpoint of solitude.

PETERBORO SOLDIER GATHERED BANANAS ON HIS WAY HOME

Two Peterboro boys, Corporal J. L. Johnston and Private Clayton Martin returned home on the "Empress of Asia," from Liverpool to Vancouver by way of the Panama canal They sailed on January 2nd and arrived at Vancouver on January 25th. At Colon the Atlantic station at the mouth of the canal, the men were given a day on shore, and Corp. Johnston enjoyed the unexpected experience of picking bananas in the tropical groves about the town. It was exceedingly warm, but this phase of the journey was well worth the trip. It was a case of the longest way round being the sweetest way home. The Empress entered the canal at 8 a.m. and steamed into the Pacific ocean at 5 p.m. on the same day.

The forty mile passage across the isthmus was made in the stretches of the canal 10 feet above the sea level.

Corp. Johnston said that 1,500 men returned on the Empress of Asia. In the first and second class sections there was accommodation for 1,050 men, but it was monopolized by just 350 officers. The 1,050 privates were crowded below decks in the quarters fomerly occupied by Chinese, who had been transported to France. Much feeling was stirred up in Vancouver when this condition became known. Corp. Johnston intimated that he had fared well enough. He had no complaits to make of the treatment he received. He had expected to pay his railway fare from Vancouver to Peterboro, in fact had left Liverpool with that understanding, but was agreeably surprised when he was given first class railway transportation, meals included, from Vancouver east.

Illness Prevented Pte. A. E. Naish From Reaching Germany

Mr. Alfred Naish, 311 McDonnel street, formerly of the 93rd Battalion, has received the following letter from his brother, Private A. E. Naish, who went over with the 39th Battalion and saw three years of fighting:

No. 4 Canadian Hospital, Basingstoke, England, Hants.

Dear Brother and Sister,—Just a few lines in answer to your letter. I am in hospital in England, and just got over a very bad sickness of broncho-pneumonia and hemorrhage of the lungs and dropsy in my left leg. So you see it was pretty rough. I am expecting to come back to Canada for my discharge in a very short while, for I have to come back to draw my $700 that is coming to me for my three years' service in France. Then I am coming back to England again, for I do not think I shall make my home there any more. I did not have a very merry Christmas for I was on my last legs about that time. You ought to see my German revolver that I took from a German officer. It is a beauty. I was through Mons and only three days' march from the Rhine when I was taken sick, and I was made because I could not see Germany after going through three years of hard fighting. I have done my bit and I am proud of it. Remember me to all I know. I hope to spend a few days in Peterborough before long.

Your affectionate brother,
BERT.

GOVERNMENT TO TAKE ACTION

Severe Repressive Measures Promised and Hard Fighting is Looked For.

BERLIN, Feb. 3.—The new Spartacan outbreak is gaining strength in various parts of the country it was revealed in despatches received here to-day. The government has decided upon severe repressive measures and hard fighting is looked for.

Government troops were reported to be marching against the Spartacan forces which are entrenched around Dusseldorf. The government has obtained consent from the Entente to take this action since Dusseldorf is in the neutral zone.

At Eisenach, workmen and soldiers held a Spartacan uprising yesterday. They seized the telegraphs and decided to oppose the government.

Has Resigned.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

BREMEN, Feb. 3.—The Spartacan government in Bremen has resigned. Workmen have agreed to deliver their arms to the Ninth Army Corps. Majority Socialists here joined with the workmen in asking Military Governor Noske to withdraw his troops. So far the Berlin government has not accepted the proposition for mediation.

The government is sending picked troops to prevent disorders in Weimar. Any one boarding a train for Weimar must have a special permit, and all undesirables are being weeded out in that city. Bremen was reported to be practically a great Spartacan camp. It is cut off from all telegraph and telephone communication with the outside world. Spartacan leaders have threatened to mobilize their entire strength and fight to the finish unless Military Governor Noske recalls the troops he has sent to restore order. In the meantime he is attempting to persuade the Spartacans to evacuate peacefully to save historic public buildings from destruction, as Noske has announced he will bombard the city.

Hamburg and Wilhelmshaven, where Spartacan uprisings were reported, are said to be quiet.

Cash With Order When Huns Import

Plenty of Markets for Canadian Crops, But Baton Not So Satisfactory.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—As a matter of international policy to prevent the spread of anarchy, the blockade will have to be raised to this extent. Germany will be allowed to import food in exchange for a considerable amount of the gold available for this purpose, together with exports of potash to an amount to be fixed. Private German credits in Germany, and in other parts of the world, may also be available for these food purchases. It is believed that the demand from all these sources will absorb all supplies now offering. There does not appear to be ground for any apprehension that Canada will not be able to dispose of this year's surplus at fixed prices. As to what will happen with respect to next year's crop only inference can be drawn, but there is much to indicate that there will be a return virtually to the pre-war conditions of trading.

With respect to meat products the prospects for Canada are not so good. Huge quantities of bacon, much of it of an indifferent brand, is in storage in England, is being sold under Government control at prices fixed by its cost, thus restricting the consumption. London papers report a strong movement that the Government should accept a loss and put bacon on the market at lower prices, but, in any event, the market is likely to be overstocked for at least six months.

Advertising Talks
By P. E. HAYES

An Ideal Attainment

The ideal attainment of a local merchant is to make every possible customer say of him: "He is honest, his goods are honest and his methods and principles are of the highest character; it is as safe to send a child to his store as to go yourself."

Many a store which by square dealing has earned this reputation has really attained it among only a comparatively few people. Advertising, persistent advertising, would spread the news and bring the full measure of success that is deserved.

Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., Accuses the Government With Being Dilatory

Parliament Should Have Been Called December the First and Not February the Twentieth—Deplores Lack of Understanding of Economic Principles.

Regarding the Independent Labour Party resolution appearing below Mr. J. H. Burnham M.P. said:

"I think that I am entirely in accord with the sentiment expressed in this resolution. Parliament should have been called on Dec. 1 and not on February 20th. One troublt in our national education is in our lack of understanding of economic principles even at Ottawa. If the C.P.R. were handled the way Canada is, it would be on the rocks in a week. It is the fault of the system of government. The business of 8,000,000 of people is treated by 90 per cent. of the members as a mere sideshow to their own business and many constituencies think that the member's duties outside their own constituencies are nil.

The Resolution

J. H. Burnham Esq., M.P.

Sir, —At a public meeting of the Independent Labour Party of Peterboro, Ontario, the following resolution was carried unanimously, that this public meeting of the Independent Labour Party, Peterboro' do respectfully call upon the Federal Government to proceed at once with public works in this locality, as the present condition of unemployment has already reached a very strenuous point, owing to factories dismissing thier men to go hungry, while their establishments are packed from floor to ceiling with foodstuffs and no market.

Every week's delay means more families on the point of starvation and immediate action is necessary. The public patience will be greatly strained to have to wait until Parliament meets and the general routine methods followed; immediate action is most essential for the well being of the community.

We wish also to bring your attention to the high cost of living and the greatly reduced wage of the worker; which also calls for immediate action to help the toiler face the strenuous times under which we are now existing.

We would suggest that a "Peace Loan" be floated for industrial reconstruction and that a clause be provided for the larger concerns who received war contracts during the past four and a half years to be able to subscribe to the loan without interest, as a patriotic endeavour to adjust the industrial situation.

This we respectfully submit on behalf of the meeting held January 30, 1919, Labour Hall, Peterboro.

Peter McArthur, President.
Thomas Tooms, Secretary.
Brownton, Peterboro, Ontario.

Palm Beach Modes Forecast the Summer Favourites

Simple Lines in the New Suit Dress

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.— The warm breezes of the southland beckon and the chilled mortals of the north heed. Every train brings to the sunny south those who would be comfortable during the cold wave. And as comfort is largely a matter of clothes, the trip affords for the woman an excellent opportunity to rebuild her wardrobe which, perhaps, has been neglected during the war. What is worn at Palm Beach is always a forecast of what will be worn in New York for the late spring and early summer. All the pretty light things that are now shown for southern wear will be the very same in design and line that those who remain at home will don as soon as the temperature permits. Wise, indeed, is she who takes advantage of the sales at the shops of this flimsy material now, for she has a wider selection and the quantity being more abundant will make the material cheaper in price.

Overdress for Ladies.

It is safe to say that any design which is copied from the models now will be very smart next summer. Therefore, to stock up now would be far more discreet than rushing, as the majority will be, in the hot summer days. Many novel styles, of course, that could not be worn about town are shown, but the discretion of the average woman may be relied on sufficiently to warrant her correct choice.

Extreme But Charming.

One of the shops is showing a dainty little hat developed in raspberry-dotted dimity with a parasol to match. The crown of the hat is slightly shirred and a coy little rose of raspberry-coloured satin rests confidently on the brim over the right eye. The handle of the parasol is ivory and the mate of the satin rose on the hat is vainly pursuing its companion, for it is stopped abruptly about two-thirds of the way up the handle by a hand-painted ring of ivory. This attractive set can well be imagined shading the hot rays from some pretty thing who was just made for raspberry-dotted dimity.

Georgette dresses seem to be favoured. Pale shades, such as flesh and robin's egg blue with white in the lead, are most numerous. Many of these frocks are embroidered elaborately with beads of contrasting colours. The lines are simple and the unsophisticated appearance of the soft mass of material is fascinating.

The Successor of Khaki-Kool.

A new novelty weave is on the market which resembles very strongly the khaki-kool of last season. The material is silky in its composition, but has a surface which is made rough by the irregular lines of silk of various thickness running through it. This is used for the new suit dress. This ultra smart mode is extensively in view, and there is no doubt that the woman of refined taste will admire it for it is simple and serviceable.

For Velvet or Satin.

Then there is the lingerie to be considered. Point d'Esprit, which is hand embroidered with silk floss and sometimes combined with Georgette, is popular. The craze for embroidery extends from the tip-top of the parasol to the alluring envelope chemise. Sometimes it is silk, sometimes worsted, and many times wooden beads.

Rose Point and Venetian Lace.

For breakfast coats and boudoir use, lace is in demand. A gorgeous thing of heavy Venetian, with bits of Georgette of a flesh tint slipped in, makes a breakfast jacket fit for a queen, but worn by the queenly American woman.

The vest of the satin dress illustrated could be made of lace if desired or the guimpe of the overdress might show bits of flesh through the screen-like mesh of some delicate lace. The satin frock features the one-sided drapery and rather extreme narrowness at the lower edge.

'LAME DUCK' TOURISTS FLOCKING TO COBLENZ

COBLENZ, Germany, Feb. 3.—Coblenz is rapidly becoming a winter tourist resort. It is the goal of visiting lame duck Congressmen and others who have managed to wheedle official Washington into giving them a free trip across the ocean. Delegations of Congressmen in weird attire, and most of them in the twilight of public life, have been arriving daily during the past week.

A regular sightseeing trip, including an officer in the role of "barker," has been arranged through the American bridgehead. Among the sights exhibited is Krupp's castle with its unique devices; Kolsberg castle with living countesses and the Prince of Wierd's castle with afternoon tea. There is also a shopping excursion in which German souvenirs and post cards for the home folks are the chief purchases.

Bringing Back the Wives of Soldiers From Overseas

Free Transportation for Soldiers' Dependents—Definition of Who Shall Be Given Transportation.

Enquiry having been made as to the reason why, when soldiers are being brought home at the country's expense, why the wives and children of these soldiers should not share in the free transportation. The answer to this inquiry is given in the following pronouncement, which may be accepted as authoritive.

In view of the many inquiries which you will doubtless receive, I beg to advise that the Federal Government has decided to return all soldier's dependents to Canada, free, and at the public expense, from the United Kingdom, irrespective whether or not such dependents were previously resident in Canada.

The term dependents being interpreted as covering a soldier's wife, or a soldier's child under the age of eighteen years.

Third-class accommodation to the port of embarkation in England, on board ship and by rail to destination in Canada will be furnished by the Dominion Government. Should commissioned or warrant ranks desire that their dependents should travel first or second class, they will be required to pay the difference in cost of transportation. This arrangement is to take effect immediately.

A further question of interest that will open up is with regard to the status of those who have already paid passage to Canada. In many cases those coming across pledged the separation allowance and assigned pay for one or more months to raise the funds for passage. It is not stated that the order as above is to be retroactive, but it would seem reasonable that if in the future the dependents are to travel free that those who have paid for passage should be refunded the amounts.

Bernard Daly

Here Next Friday With Special Performance.

The sweet singing Irish star, Bernard Daly, will appear at The Grand Theatre, next Friday February 7 with special matinee in his greatest success "Sweet Innisfallen". Through the plays runs a sweet love story, with the beautiful lakes of Killarney for a setting. The scenery is beauiful and appropriate; the costumes well designed and harmonize with the period represented in the play.

Bernard Daly, as Larry O'Connell keeps the audience in good humor with his songs and brilliant display of Irish wit. "Mavis," "Hide and Seek," "Song of the Wind," "Believe Me if all Those Endearing Young Charms" and "Sweet Innisfallen" are a few of the hits this noted star will render during the performance.

STATEMENT OF POLICY DOMINION PROHIBITION

Following is a statement of policy as adopted by the Dominion Prohibition committee:

In view of the benefits now generally recognized by the people of Canada as having resulted from Prohibition, as provided by means of Order-in-Council, limiting the trade in intoxicating liquor to sacramental, industrial, artistic, mechanical, scientific and medicinal purposes, thereby greatly reducing drunkenness, crime, and waste of money and manhood; and

In view of the general desire that every precaution shall be taken to reduce to a minimum the social, industrial, and political unrest incident to the restoration of the affairs of the nation to normal peace conditions; and

In view the status of the Order-in-Council of March 11, 1918 (P. C. 589), when the articles of peace shall have been signed; and

In view of the impossibility of submitting at this time the question of making Prohibition permanent to a vote of the people of Canada without a manifest disregard of the right of soldiers overseas to a vote thereon;

Therefore, we recommend:

(1) That the Prime Minister and Government of Canada be requested to take the steps necessary to continue in effect the provisions of the Order-in-Council of March 11, 1918 (P.C. 589), by having the same embodied in Legislation to be enacted by the Parliament of Canada.

(2) That the Legislation so enacted be continued in effect until such time as a vote of the electors of the Dominion of Canada shall have been taken on the question of its continuance or discontinuance.

(3) That the vote on this question be taken at a date to be fixed by the Government of Canada at least six months prior to the day of voting, and with due regard to the restoration to civil life in Canada of the Canadian soldiers now overseas.

President of North Russian Republic En Route to Paris.

(United Press Service.)

LONDON, Feb. 3.—"The suggestion that the north Russians meet with the Bolsheviki is impracticable; one of us must prevail over the other," declared President Tchaikovsky, of the North Russian republic, in an interview to-day. He is en route to Paris to confer with other anti-Bolshevik leaders.

Returned Hero Taxed $8 a Call

That is Charge a War Veteran Makes Against Hamilton Physician.

HAMILTON, Feb. 1.—Another case of alleged exorbitant charges made by a Hamilton physician for professional services has been reported, and the matter has been placed in the hands of a lawyer. A returned soldier employed at an east end plant lost his wife during the recent "flu" epidemic. His four children became ill with the same malady a few days later. A physician was called to attend them. They required quite regular attention, these four sick little kiddies, all fighting the dreaded "flu" together in one room, and their father thought that he had his full share of worry and care. However, when he received the doctor's bill he thought again, very hard. The bill totalled $230, and among the items on the itemized account were quite a number of "calls" which were charged for at the rate of $8 each.

THE CHINAMEN.

The Rev. Dr. S. Banks Nelson intends to personally interview the doctors he had in mind when he said that local Chinamen were being grossly overcharged for medical services. The Knox Church pastor so announced. He further stated that a certain doctor had called him up and asked him if he (Dr. Nelson) had him (the speaker) in mind when he made the statement about overcharging.

"Well, is that doctor one of those you had in mind?" Dr. Nelson was asked.

"I won't say, because I have more than one doctor in mind, and it wouldn't be fair to announce the name of one without giving them all. I told the Medical Society I would give it the names whenever it was ready to investigate the cases," replied Dr. Nelson.

"But the society does not seem to be ready."

"Well, there's a detective from Toronto investigating the matter. He called on me for information."

Improvement in Business Conditions

Better Demand for Metal Products —The Steel Market.

There are some signs of an improvement in business conditions in so far as they have to do with the machine tool trade, but these are rather local, and can hardly be interpreted as forerunner of a general revival in this line of business. However, there are lines that are buying quite heavily, viz., some of the agricultural implement shops, rubber goods works, knitting mills, planing mills and furniture factories.

It is interesting to note as an aftermath of the war that British lines are making their appearance once more on the Canadian market. This week a good sized tube order went to a British house. They are also in the market now for furnaces, chains, anchors, and kindred lines. Exportation of these was prohibited during the war, but it is possible now, and there are increasing facilities for transportation as well.

NEED REPAIRS.

Warehouse interests report that there is a lot of business moving in their lines. It is not coming from any particular section, but from shipyards, mines and repaid requirements to existing plants. Some of the latter have been run at top speed 24 hours a day for the last three years, and it is easy to see that they need repairs.

The Canadian National Railways are out this week with specifications for satisfactory orders for tubes, plate, etc., for boiler work. In fact, their buying of this material and of supplies for the machine shops has been about the best business offering.

Prices of steel are standing at the marks that has been passing for some weeks. Indications are that they will not move to any lower levels. There is talk of labour trouble breaking out in the Pittsburgh district, and it will be largely through prices that such trouble will come. The trade feels that it cannot keep prices up as levels and get trade, nor can prices drop until production costs are cut. In such circumstances it is not a hard matter to create trouble.—Canadian Machinery and Manufacturing News.

Voice of The People

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir: I noticed in The Examiner that there are being called in question my motives in publishing certain matters lately relative to Labour. Surely, trying to get the community to take an interest in Labour and Labour's condition at the time of a municipal election, when Labour men were standing for the Council, cannot be criticized, and not less certainly trying to get Labour in touch with Parliament cannot.

Labour wants fair play; not special privileges. It wants the fair play that every decent man and woman and child and animal is entitled to and any man who measures up to that standard of understanding is fit to represent Labour or anybody else.

The bane of Parliament has been the representation of special classes and interests, and see what it has brought us to. If we cannot get rid of class strife, but are to have more of it, there is no end to it but class war, and no such thing as the common brotherhood and the common interest of mankind.

Labour was viewed as a curse in the Bible, and to make it stronger humanity was further condemned to be fruitful and to multiply. We have all been trying to get out from under that curse ever since. But let me tell my critic that I am running after no man and no class. If it is better to bring out a Labour man, bring him out. It is easy no doubt to get a better man than I am. But sitting still in Parliament won't do Labour or anything else much good. One must be prepared to jump in at the right time and to know something more of Labour or Capital and of the people than merely to be able to "raise hell" at local meetings, or to sit in a corner and to look wise. I have given all my time to public work and have had no private interests of any kind to serve. No man should represent the people who can give but part of his attention to this the greatest of all human duties. He will do little more than represent his own interests. I am thousands of dollars behind where I was when I entered politics My Parliamentary record is in Hansard, which is at the Public Library There was but one Labour man in the last House, Verveille, M.P. of Montreal, and he was a supporter of Laurier. I will even leave my record to him. But I am asking no favors and have not yet even made up my mind to stand again. The way is clear for anybody who feels called to engol himself in the great cause of Peace and Industry. But let us keep the anonymous vilifier and hedge-hunter out of it. I am obliged to my critic for coming out in the open.

DERNBURG REPUDIATES NOTE.

Says Message to von Papen Before Senate Committee Was Spurious

BERLIN, Feb. 1.—In the recent investigation by the United States Senate Judiciary Committee into German propaganda, a letter, said to have been signed by Dr. Bernard Dernburg, former German agent in the United States, addressed to Capt. von Papen, former German military attache in Washington, and said to have been found by the British when they captured German headquarters in Palestine, was read into the record A copy of the published letter was sent to Dr. Dernburg and he authorized the following statement today:

"The letter ascribed to me is a pure fake from first to last. I never wrote von Papen either this or any other letter. As bearing on the reliability of material placed before the Senatorial committee, I would consider it of importance that this, my categorical denial, be transmitted to the other side."

On Dec. 18 last papers of Captain von Papen were placed on the record of the Senate Judiciary Committee, They included a letter of Dr. Dernburg to von Papen, dated at Berlin, Oct. 18, 1916, in which veiled reference was made regarding German submarine activity against Holland and the Scandinavian countries. What the plan was not disclosed fully.

Oysters are a good food. Oysters come nearer in composition to cow's milk than do most other meats, as all the four kinds of nutrients needed are present in good degree. Oysters have a larger excess of the flesh building substance relative to the other constituents than milk, so we "balance the ration" by addition of starchy food and fats when eating oysters, thus securing a good meal at a cost that compares favorably with that when other meats are chosen. ## CAN TRANSPORT LIQUOR.

Justice Bigelow Quashes Saskatchewan Conviction on Dominion Order-in-Council.

REGINA, Sask., Jan. 28.—By the decision of Justice Bigelow, of the court of King's bench, it is now legal to transport liquor from one point to another in this province, contrary to the general impression that the law prevented this. The decision was in an appeal case from the conviction of a justice of the peace who sent accused to jail for transporting a quantity of liquor into the town of Shaunovon, contrary to Dominion Order-in-Council No. 889, Section 4.

The judgment says that the Order-in-Council never intended to cover transportation from one point in a province to another point in the same province and the conviction was quashed without immunity being granted to the convicting justice of the peace.

Ruth Argues With Brian

Chapter CIX.

When Brian said that he was going to enlist with the Canadians Ruth simply stood still and stared at him. But every vestige of color had left her face and after a moment she swayed slightly. Brian thought that she was going to fall and put his arm about her. She shivered and drew slightly away.

"Will you say that again—the whole of it?"

"I said that you would not have to pay rent for me much longer—that I was going to enlist with the Canadians."

"You mean that?"

"Yes."

"And it is because I paid the rent? Oh, Brian!"

"Not—not entirely—though—if you hadn't—perhaps I wouldn't have gone unless Uncle Sam got into the scrap. But you can take care of yourself, better care than I can of you. You don't need me, and the army does."

"I don't—need you?"

"No. You never really have. From the very first you have been able to earn more than I did; to provide yourself with things I could not have hoped to give you for years—if ever. I realize that I am not, never shall be a success—as far as making big money goes. I thought when I married you that I was going to become a big lawyer," his tone was contemptuous and bitter, "but you took all necessity for pushing myself away from me. I could have braced up for you—not for yourself. You earn about three times what I do. You don't need me."

The tone of finality in the last words struck Ruth like a blow. He was going and because she had made him think she did not need him. Not need his love! His companionship! What was he thinking about? No woman ever needed her husband more. But could she make him believe it? Could she make him understand that he meant more to her than all the world beside?

Ruth had forgotten Mandel, and that she had really, seriously, wondered if she cared for him. She thought of nothing no one, but Brian—her husband.

"Brian—I want you to believe me when I tell you that I do need you. Need your love, your dear companionship. Money isn't all, dear, even though it may have seemed to you at times that I thought it was. I happened to have a gift for a particular kind of work. Work which is always highly paid. It was congenial work, too. That it has occasionally taken you from me for a little while, has been a drawback—the only one. Yet, dear we have been very, comfortable, and it has given you opportunity to feel that you could better equip yourself. You see we have not needed all we both earned."

"Study—equip myself—what for?" To sit alone while you are working for Mandel? Not on your life! A man has to have a motive to do these things—and I have had none. Perhaps my pride should have been spur enough—my ambition. Well, my pride wasn't and you have killed all the ambition that I ever possessed. Not intentionally, perhaps"—the look on Ruth's face caused him to soften his words, "but killed it just the same. I have a home which you provide. A servant whom you pay. Food which you often pay for and so on. Nice position for a man to be in, isn't it? Do you wonder that I cannot bring myself to let more people know that my wife supports me in a style in which I could not support her? It is unbearable that it should go on. Unthinkable that I should not take the first opportunity that offers to escape from such an humiliating position."

"But Brian—"

"There is no use talking any longer. My mind is made up. We have talked of, quarrelled over this money question until I am tired and sick of this very word 'money.' I would rather live in one room and cook the meals myself than go on."

"As Mollie King does?"

Ruth never could have explained what made her ask that question. She had not thought of Molly while Brian had been talking; she had not in any way connected her with Brian's decision. The question had slipped out.

"Yes, if you will, just like Mollie King does. She at least spoils no one's life by aspiring to things beyond her reach. Just why you should bring her into this I can't see."

"I didn't mean anything. I spoke without thinking."

"Since you have referred to her, I may as well tell you that Mollie is going over too—she is going as a nurse. For six months she has been training."

"Mollie King is going, too?" once more Ruth seemed unable to grasp what she had been told.

"Yes, Mollie is going—too."

To-morrow—Ruth Spends Unhappy Hours.

'OUNGSTER HAD RIGHT SPIRIT

Newsboy's Appreciation of Work of "Our Boys" a Valuable Object Lesson in Patriotism.

"The other evening as I was walking over the long bridge that extends back of the Union station in Baltimore, my eye, searching for something interesting, caught sight of a small newsboy—just a little, dirty-faced chap that one does not look at twice. What especially drew my attention to him, however, was something unusual in the way he drew out one of his papers, folded it into very small compass, and tossed it over the railing into the freight yard below. My eyes involuntarily followed the direction of the paper, and as I peered over the balustrade I saw a stirring scene, numbers of big army trucks and scores of 'our boys' bustling round busily and cheerily unloading and reloading them. One of the soldiers was in the act of waving his hand in thanks to the boy whose paper he had just picked up.

"Much interested, I moved over to the little fellow. Under cover of buying a paper and getting change, I put casual question: 'How do you expect to get your money from that soldier down there?' My little friend looked disgusted. 'I gave it to him!' he instantly retorted. Then he turned to gaze again on the fascinating scene below, and added very softly: 'He's doin' more'n a cent's worth for us.'"—Indianapolis News.

Pimples Broke Out All Over Face, Arms and Neck

While the skin is the seat of the irritating, unsightly pimples, the real disease is in the blood.

Medicated lotions and powders may allay the itching and the irritation, but never cure, no matter how long and faithfully continued, and the condition is often aggravated, and the skin permanently injured by their use. The disease is more than skin deep; the entire circulation is poisoned.

Burdock Blood Bitters quickly and effectually cures blood and skin troubles because it goes direct to the root of the disease and stimulates and restores normal, healthy action to the different organs, cleanses and enriches the blood, and thus relieves the system of all poisonous secretions.

B. B. B. cures permanently because it leaves none of the original poison to ferment in the blood and cause a fresh attack.

Miss E. M. Davidson, Daysland, Alta., writes: "Last summer I was greatly troubled with pimples breaking out all over my face, arms and neck. I was advised to try Burdock Blood Bitters and after taking two bottles the pimples had almost all disappeared. I shall always recommend this remedy to anyone afflicted with skin troubles."

HAD MODIFIED HIS DESIRE

After Experience in Airplane Man Decided He Would Prefer to Travel to Heaven on Foot.

"Does it ever fall?" timidly quivered the novice as the airplane climbed higher and still higher.

"Only when I let it do so," answered the airman. "Now and then I drop her backward. Here we go!"

On the backward descent, a mile or more, the passenger clung to the pilot with both arms and never breathed. At last the machine resumed its horizontal traveling.

"Great Jehoshaphat!" escaped the novice with relief.

"Say, look here; didn't you say you wished to fly on high like a gliding sunbeam?" complained the aviator.

"Yes," admitted the passenger.

"Then shut up. You're going to get your wish."

Suddenly the airplane dived and looped the loop, then traveled upside down.

"Hold fast."

"What's that?"

"We're going to land."

Gently the airplane glided to earth. Released from his seat, the passenger knelt and lifted both hands solemnly.

"Once I prayed to be an angel," he said. "But it doesn't go any more unless on foot."

Held No Grudge.

Time brings many changes. Take for instance the fellows who volunteered their services when war was declared and who have since been promoted to be commissioned officers. Some of these men toiled in shops and offices and had to toe the mark for clerks or foremen to get fired. Then came the draft and these same clerks and foremen became doughboys and now take orders from their former office boys and employees. Some humorous stories have come to light from the nearby cantonments, but let it be said to the credit of the former office boys, they have not made life unbearable for their superiors, although they have had the opportunity to do so. As an illustration of this the other day a doughboy was serving mess to his top sergeant. As he did so he spilled some dressing from the salad. The sergeant noticed this and yelled. "Just about a year ago I was serving you with soup," said the sergeant, at the same time mastering the hotel where he had worked as serving man, "and you gave me the devil because it was cold. You are going to think because you spilled the dressing. I'm going to treat you right." And that is the general spirit throughout the service.

KEEP URIC ACID OUT OF JOINTS

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly; keep the feet dry; avoid exposure; eat less meat, but drink plenty of good water.

Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid which is absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which helps overcome uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.

Lakefield Men Return Home

Lakefield Happenings—Visitors to the Village.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 3.—Another soldier who returned to Lakefield on Friday from overseas was Pte. Fred. Graham. Though Pte. Graham resided in Peterborough for some time before joining the army, he was a Lakefield boy, and his friends are glad to have him back. He went overseas in the spring and was sent to France with reinforcements of the P.P.C.L.I. He was wounded in September, and has been in hospital since.

RETURNED SOLDIERS

Pte. Lawrence Charlton returned to the village on Friday, after an absence of more than three years and a half. Pte. Charlton enlisted with the Lakefield quota of the 39th Battalion, and was transferred to another battalion in France, where he was severely wounded.

Pte. Norman Hurl returned on Friday morning from overseas. He left Lakefield in November, 1914, with the 21st Battalion, and served with his battalion at the front until last spring, when he was wounded. Both Pte. Hurl and Pte. Charlton were detained in their homeward journey by the heavy snowfalls near Quebec.

Mr. H. Batten was in the village on Thursday.

Mothers!

Your little one won't smile
If its liver's full of bile.
Cascarets set things right
When kiddies' tongues turn white.
They bring relief and joy
To constipated girl or boy.
Children think them dandy—
They are mild cathartic candy.

Children gladly take Cascarets when cross, feverish, bilious, constipated, because Cascarets taste like candy. If your child has a tainted breath, coated tongue or a cold—give Cascarets as directed on each 10 cent box. Then don't worry. Cascarets work while a child sleeps and can not harm the tender little stomach, liver and bowels.

L. F. Swift Urges Control of Food Prices be Kept Up

Decline of Cent on Pork Would Cause His Concern $2,500,000 Loss, He Says.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31.—Louis F. Swift, president of Swift & Co., told the House Interstate Commerce Committee that the Food Administration in stablizing the live stock market had accomplished "wonderful things, both for the producer and the consumer," and that its control was needed now as much as ever.

"This is a critical time and everybody is loaded up with meat," said Mr. Swift. "We haven't had many shipments. The only possible way to have made shipments abroad as we did was through Food Administration control."

The witness declared that a decline of one cent a pound in the pork market would mean a loss of $2,500,000 to his firm on the great amount of meat it had prepared for the world market. He expressed a belief that with government control continued prices would be high for some months, but then probably would decline.

The bill before the committee to license packing plants and permit the government to take over adjuncts, such as stockyards, newspapers and refrigerator cars, was opposed by Mr. Swift as class legislation and certain to be hurtful to the general public by crippling industry.

"Government supervision through full access to the packers books was advocated by him as a "less dangerous" method of procedure. The primary desire of Swift & Co., was declared to be efficient service in the stockyards and readiness was expressed to sell the firm's interests in various yards, if present standards of operation could be maintained.

Regarding the Federal Trade Commission's allegation that packer ownership of refrigerator cars prevents the small packers from competing with the big firms, Mr. Swift suggested that instead of taking the cars away from the big firms the government or railroads should build five thousand cars and let the small packers use them. He said refrigerator cars were a losing investment to his firm, which maintained them only to assure efficient service.

Charges of collusion by the Federal Trade Commission were denied by Mr. Swift. He said there were 25,000 stockholders in Swift & Co., and that his family did not own a majority of the stock. The witness said his salary was $50,000 a year, and that his four brothers, all practical meat packers, draw from $25,000 to $35,000 each.

Keen competition between the five big packers was declared to exist, and Mr. Swift said this apparently was a good time for new firms to enter the business. He said he never before knew of so many new plants under construction, and told the committee the Anheuser-Busch brewing interests of St. Louis were starting a new packing company.

LONDON, Feb. 1.— It is officially reported that the British and French have taken over all the railroads in European and Asiatic Turkey, also the Constantinople police and German and Austrian banks in the Turkish capital.

Old Rivals Meet at Brock St. Rink in To-night's Battle

Manager Bradley and Childs, Rowden Jacobi and the rest of his stars of the Oshawa team last year's runners up for the intermediate championship arrive on the 5.35 G. T. R. train this evening to meet the Peterboro intermediates in the first game of the big series that will decide which team will have the honour of going into the second round.

There promises to be a grand crowd at Brock street rink when the puck is faced at 8:15 o'clock to-night and with the best ice of the season available there is every reason to expect a memorable game. The Oshawa team contains no new stars but is a fast well balanced collection of seasoned performers. Peterboro fans have reason to remember "Kip" Rowden the clever centre player of the Oshawa gang because of his sensational playing as a junior for the Oshawa outfit. On one occasion in a junior game here Rowden not only pulled the game out of the fire for Oshawa by tying it up with a couple of minutes to play by a spectacular rush but eventually won in the overtime period by an equally cever play. He is the ace of the Oshawa scoring section and will need to be watched all the way. Childs the former Woodstock goal-keeper who was a member of the Western All-Stars on several occasions is still with the Oshawa squad. He is a clever net guardian but not entirely unbeatable for the local fans still have recollections of Bobby Armstrong and Co-driving seven counters past him two years ago. The Oshawa fans also remember this occasion which put a crimp in many a bank-roll.

The Petes are in good shape for to-nights battle and hope to surprise the visitors, who according to reports regard the Peterboro series as a mere formality before meeting the Kingston squad in the next round. The Petes, however, may be able to upset these calculations and judging by the pace they have been setting in practice. The fast ice to-night is thoroughly to the taste of every member of the local squad and they should be at their best to-night.

The Peterboro team will line-up as follows:—
Goal—Legros.
Defence—Halpin, Evans.
Centre—Murphy.
Right Wing—Laundrault.
Subs—Rose, Jackson.

CURLING

Peterboro's two district cup rinks skipped by J. W. McDermid and Ray Best went to Lindsay to-day for the District Cup games. The rinks were as follows: Herb. Hair, J. Metheral, Percy Fitzgerald and J. W. McDermid; and Ross Dobbin, Alex. Archibald, W. D. Campbell and R. P. Best

Tankard Games To-morrow

The tankard games will be played here to-morrow, with Lindsay probably the only competitor with Peterboro. R. M. Waddell has called these games which are already two weeks overdue.

The Vice-Skips' Bonspiel.

Chis. Graham's rink is the only one of the vice-skips that have reached the fours in their bonspiel. The others are in the eights round, but it is expected that the bonspiel will be concluded on Wednesday night. There will be a draw at seven o'clock and it is the intention to continue the play until the bonspiel is decided no matter how late the games may run. The ice is in splendid condition, and the Club realizes that full advantage must be taken of the frost to make up for the time that was lost during the January thaw.

Graham's rink went into the fours by defeating R. F. Downey in a hard fought game that ended with the score of 9-8.

The other games in the eights that have yet to be decided are as follows:
W. H. Taylor vs. George Hill.
Sam Ray vs. F. Brownscombe
R. L. Dobbin vs. Grant Copping.

Fast Junior Teams Clash Here Wednesday in Decisive Battle

While the Lindsay Midgets and Peterborough Juniors clash at Brock Street Rink on Wednesday night in the first game of the home and home series to decide the group title, the fans will see the most exciting junior battle of many a season. The first game between the two teams at the beginning of the season was a corker, but both teams have improved since then, and they will set a faster pace than ever when they are set at each other on Wednesday night.

Size it up for yourself.

The first game played here was won by the Petes, 7 to 4. The second game in Lindsay was captured by the Midgets, 12 to 10. That makes the score on the round, after two hours of lightning hockey, 17 to 16, and the closeness of the score shows how well matched are the two teams. In Friday's game in Lindsay no one could predict the final result with certainty until the last minute of play, and Wednesday's contest promises to be of the same calibre. No one who saw that game or the first one here between the two teams could be kept out of the rink for Wednesday's clash. Although no special train can be secured there will be a big bunch of Lindsay fans down for the game. They are raving about the Midgets up in Lindsay claiming this to be the best outfit that has represented the town since the old Midgets won a championship. They have some reason for their elation too, for the Midgets are a hustling, clever outfit. The Peterborough fans, however, feel that the local gang has the edge on the Midgets, and will prove it in this week's series. There are still other people that say it is a toss up, and the team that gets the breaks in the two games will go into the next round.

Any way you look at it, however, Wednesday's game promises to be a thrille from the first face-off.

Biggest Week of O.H.A. Season For Two Peterboro Teams

After waiting patiently for over three weeks for a chance to see a hockey game the Peterboro fans are at last given an opportunity of seeing two great battles in three days.

To-night the all-important intermediate series between Oshawa and Peterboro opens with a game at the Brock street rink, while on Wednesday night the Lindsay Midgets will be here for the first game of the home and home series with the Peterboro Juniors that will decide the championship of the group. The return game in each case will be played on Friday night, so that this is the biggest week of the season for the two Peterboro teams.

The fans should understand that in the Oshawa-Peterboro series it is games and not goals that count and that to win the group one or other of the teams will have to win both here and in Oshawa.

On the other hand, as the Lindsay and Peterboro Juniors have already completed their group schedule, and are tied with three wins and one loss each, the series that starts Wednesday is a play-off and the team that wins the majority of goals in the two games will go on into the next round.

The standing in the two groups is as follows:

Intermediate—

| | Won | Lost | Goals For | Agst. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Peterboro | 4 | 0 | 27 | 19 |
| Oshawa | 4 | 0 | 28 | 10 |
| Whitby | 2 | 4 | 17 | 31 |
| Lindsay* | 0 | 6 | 12 | 24 |

*Defaulted.

Junior—

| | Won | Lost | Goals For | Agst. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Peterboro | 3 | 1 | 25 | 16 |
| Lindsay | 3 | 1 | 23 | 20 |
| Port Hope* | 0 | 4 | 5 | 15 |

*Defaulted.

"Home Run" Baker Will Stay on the Farm

It is reported that "Home Run" Baker will work his farm and play with a local team in the Maryland County league this year instead of holding down third base for the New York Americans.

It is no secret that the famous home run king is anxious to quit the game and when he says something—which isn't often—he generally means it.

If Baker is lost to the American league it will mean the passing of a great player and one of the finest characters that ever graced the national pastime. Baker's name will always live for his remarkable home run drives that won the world's championship for the Athletics against the Giants in 1911. He drove the ball over the fence on two dramatic occasions, winning games that seemed lost — and the sobriquet of "Home Run" Baker. He often led the league in home runs and extra base hits, and although never regarded as a great fielder, the records prove that he handled more chances than any other third baseman of his time.

Despite the adulation heaped upon him Baker remained unspoiled. He is all he wants to be—a simple farmer. He owns a farm in Maryland and always begrudged the time spent away from it during the baseball season. Even when with his team he kept rustic hours. He went to bed at 9 o'clock and was up with the sun. He has no bad habits—nobody ever heard him swear. His only vice was checkers.

Four Handsome Trophies and a Wealth of Prizes For Peterboro's Open Bonspiel

Three of the Silver Cups Are New Ones, Presented to the Peterboro Club for Annual Competition by G. W. Morrow, the Matthews-Blackwell Co. and R. M. Waddell.

BIG ENTRY LIST EXPECTED

Peterborough's open bonspiel, the draw for which will be made here on Tuesday, February 11th at 9 a.m., promises to be the biggest curling event in the province this winter if the weather and other affecting conditions facilitate the plans that have been prepared by the committee.

Four handsome silver trophies, three of them new ones that are offered for the first time, together with rich prizes donated by the Curling Club should attract the large number of rinks that are expected for this bonspiel. The silverware and prizes may be briefly enumerated as follows:

The W. G. Morrow Trophy.

Mr. W. G. Morrow, chairman of the bonspiel committee, has presented for annual competition at the bonspiel, a large and beautifully designed sterling silver trophy valued at $200, and with it the Club offers a first prize of four mahogany cabinets of silver worth $80, and a second prize of four cut glass bowls worth $32. These prize become the permanent possession of the winners, but the Morrow cup shall be held for only one year.

The Matthews-Blackwell Trophy.

Another new trophy has been presented by the Matthews-Blackwell design, and with the Morrow trophy is a splendid addition to the Peterborough Club's list of prizes for the bonspiel. With this trophy the club offers as first prize, four oak cabinets of pearl-handled knives and forks valued at $80, and as second prize four silver casseroles worth $28.

The Peterborough Curling Club Trophy.

The Curling Club's old silver cup which this year has been the only offered at the bonspiel must not be overlooked. It is valued at $100, and with it goes the associations of past contests. It is open to the losers in the Morrow and Matthews-Blackwell events, and with it are given as first prize four mahogany clocks worth $48 and four silver plates worth $24. The number of rinks entering this competition shall be decided by three skips from the visiting clubs and the Bonspiel committee.

The R. M. Waddell Trophy.

R. M. Waddell has donated for annual competition between visiting curlers at the bonspiel and curlers of the Peterborough club, a beautiful silver trophy with which the Club offers four silver tea sets valued at $80 and four thermos bottles worth $24, as first and second prizes respectively. It shall be open to twelve rinks from the local club and to an equal number of rinks from all visiting clubs at the bonspiel. Other rules have been drawn up by Mr. Waddell with a view to making this competition one of the features of the bonspiel.

Both the Charlotte and Brock street rinks will be utilized by the curlers for this big event, the success of which depends solely upon favourable —that is cold—weather. Mr. Morrow and his committee have sent out a special booklet to many clubs and everything is ready for an entry list of one hundred or more rinks is slightly laxative and acts upon the liver as well. It is especially suited for those suffering from Bilious Indigestion. It corrects at once the formation of Gas. It assists in the assimilation of food and protects the Inflamed Lining of the stomach in Gastritis.

It strengthens and relieves the whole Digestive Tract. This preparation used in connection with proper diet and nerve sedatives, gives the most satisfying results in Nervous Dyspepsia and Hyperacidity.

Even the old chronic cases show a decided improvement under treatment with this remedy.

It is proving as successful in the treatment of the above weaknesses as MONCUR'S DOUBLE STRENGTH LUNG SYRUP has proven in the treatment of OBSTINATE AND RACKING COUGHS, COLDS AND BRONCHITIS.

100th Anniversary Of Cobourg Church

Rev. F. J. Sawers is Present Rector of St. Peters Church.

St. Peter's Anglican Church, Cobourg, celebrated its 100th anniversary on Sunday, January 26th. The present rector is Rev. F. J. Sawers, formerly rector of St. Luke's Anglican Church of this city. For the past hundred years there has been but five ministers in charge of St. Peter's. Rev. William McCauley from 1818 to 1827; Rev. A. N. Bethune from 1827 to 1866, he afterwards becoming Archdeacon of York and Bishop of Toronto; Canon A. W. Spragge from 1899 to 1914. The present rector, Rev. F. J. Sawers, entered on his fifth year of service at St. Peter's on Monday, January 27th.

During this time there have been important changes in the church and its membership. The first church was commenced in the spring of 1820 and opened on Christmas Day of that year. Up to October, 1854, various additions were made to the building, and in that year the present handsome edifice was built, being constructed over the old church which was used for service until the present building was opened.

At the fiftieth anniversary of the present church in 1905, the spire of the old tower was removed and a memorial chime of bells was placed in the tower. As a permanent memorial of the hundredth anniversary it has been proposed to join the church and the parish hall which is alongside the church and make one large building.

Aim at the Socialization of All Industries, Says Member of Shop Stewards

Strikers in Great Britain Admit Sympathy With Bolshevist Philosophy—Hope to Attend Congress to be Called by Lenine.

STRIKE CONTINUES

(By Edwin Hullinger.)
(Copyright 1919, by the United Press.)

LONDON, Feb. 3. — The present strikes in Great Britain and Ireland, are the first step toward Socialization of all industries and the establishment of revolutionary committees like those in Russia, William S. Watson, a member of the Shop Stewards National Administrative Council, declared to-day.

Watson frankly admitted the shop stewards sympathise with Bolshevist philosophy, and declared that they hope to participate in the international revolutionary congress to be called by Premier Lenine.

"The shop stewards hope to establish revolutionary committees like those in Russia," said Watson. "The present strikes are the first step toward socialization of British industries and their control by the workers. We sympathise with Bolshevist philosophy and hope to enter the international revolutionary congress to be called by Lenine."

A NEW STRIKE.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Feb. 3. — The employees of five electric tube lines struck this morning to enforce a demand for a half hour lunch period in an eight hour day. The electric train service on the Brighton line is also affected. Threats are being made to extend the strike if any troops are brought into the strike district. Hundreds of thousands are being inconvenienced being unable to reach their work.

Lloyd George in Paris.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Feb. 3.—The Cabinet has the strike situation always in mind, but the fact that Premier Lloyd George remains in Paris leads to the conclusion in many quarters that Cabinet members do not consider the situation as serious as it looks on its face.

The presence of large bodies of troops in Glasgow is believed to insure continuance of the present state of order there, but at Belfast the second week of the strike begins, according to reports received here, with increased uneasiness. For eight days Belfast has been using candle for lighting at night.

SINN FEINERS ARE TRYING TO FORCE A GENERAL STRIKE.

(United Press.)

LONDON, Fe. 3. — Sinn Feiners are co-operating with the workers to force a general strike throughout Ireland, according to a Dublin despatch published in the Daily News to-day.

By combining forces with the strikers the Sinn Feiners hope to force release of their members now in jail, in addition to obtaining concessions for the workers. Placards were being posted throughout the country bearing the slogan, "Release prisoners; grant forty-four hour week."

Thousands of people are reported to be storing food and candles in anticipation of the threatened strike.

GENERAL JOHN J. PERSHING, the American commander-in-chief, who has been called to Paris, and will be the military member of the American representation of the joint commission.

A MOVEMENT TO CREATE SYMPATHY FOR FORMER KAISER

Petitions Circulated Throughout Germany Lead to Discovery of Plot.

(By Lowell Mellet.)
(United Press.)

American Headquarters in Germany, Feb. 3. — A plot to line up sentiment in Germany behind the former Kaiser, has been unearthed by the American secret service, it was announced to-day.

A number of supporters of the old regime was discovered circulating petitions, assuring Wilhelm that his people still maintain confidence in him. Many signatures had been obtained in various parts of the region occupied by the Third Army. The American authorities are investigating to determine who is back of the movement, which apparently is widespread, and probably originated in Berlin.

American military officials have ascertained that the present strength of the Germany army shows that the of the German army shows that the war regiments is being maintained, except those of Alsace and Lorraine, although some of these regiments have been reduced to a thousand men.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Feb. 3.—Charles J. Doherty, Canadian Minister of Justice, who has proposed to the Peace Conference that an international peoples' house of representatives be established, said to-day in discussing the subject:

"Prevention of war is not the concern of governmental power alone. It is in the interest of humanity itself. A sovereign state is not organized with a view to exerting any restraining influence over its own action toward other states. If war is to be prevented, or its likelihood diminished, success can be attained only by the existence somewhere, of a power that will control, or at least an influence which will restrain the sovereignty of organized states in dealing with each other. The most important function of a suggested representative body would be to exercise in times of peace constant influence upon stases in their relations with others, tending to keep them from those differences which give rise to conflict and make war imminent. It would perform that work of investigation, discussion, deliberation and legislation which would take form of adoption of recommendations addressed to individual states.

SIX JOY RIDERS AT LARGE IN THE NIAGARA DISTRICT

Canadian Press:

ST. CATHARINES, Feb. 3.—After ripping off the platforms of two trolley cars, an automobile, containing six joy riders, plunged down a 35-foot embankment near Welland. None of the six were hurt, but Coroner Dr. Vanderburg, passenger on the trolley car, was badly hurt in the smash-up.

SOLDIERS REVOLTED

Reports Say Premier Lenine is Preparing to Surrender to the Entente.

RUSSIAN SITUATION

(United Press Service.)

LONDON, Feb. 3.—An unconfirmed despatch from Petrograd to-day reported that soldiers had revolted there and that there was considerable machine-gun fighting going on in the streets. Troops from Kronstadt were said to be bombarding Petrograd. Rumours were current in the latter city that Premier Lenine is preparing to surrender to the Entente.

The Stockholm correspondent of the London Telegraph reported that Bolsheviki troops are withdrawing in the Baltic provinces, particularly in Esthonia.

The Bolshevik official communique, received by wireless from Petrograd to-day said: "In the Archangel region we occupied fortified positions near Tarasevo, capturing three machine guns, a large quantity of provisions and considerable military material"

KIEV CAPTURED BY BOLSHEVISTS

WARSAW, Feb. 3.—Kiev has been taken by Bolshevist troops, General Petlura's troops partially going over to the enemy.

The Ukraine government has been moved from Kiev to Winnitza. To the southwest railway communication with Kiev is cut off at Kovel, where there is a body of German troops attempting to keep order among disorderly Germans who are retiring from the Ukraine. The cold wave here has resulted in the deaths of hundreds, especially babies who were frozen to death while being transported on railways. This probably refers to refugees fleeing to Warsaw to escape from advancing Bolshevists. Telegraph lines and railways in the direction of Vienna were cut by Czecho-Slovaks last Thursday.

WILL CRUSH SPARTACANS

German Government Will Concentrate a Large Body of Troops For this Purpose.

(United Press.)

BERLIN, Feb. 3. — The Staatsrat of German-Austria, has unanimously passed a bill providing for the unification of that country with Germany, it was announced to-day.

BERLIN, Feb. 3. — The German government was preparing to-day to crush the Spartacan revolt in Bremen by the greatest concentration of troops since the recent uprising in Berlin. The Spartacans were reported to be preparing for a stubborn defence of Bremen, protecting all the strategic points with machine guns.

After putting down the Bremen revolt, the government intends to send the troops against Shamburg and Wilhelmshaven, where the Spartacans are still quite active.

An official statement was made to-day that the damage resulting from the Spartacan uprising in Berlin totalled 10 million dollars.

The German railway workers in Cologne were reported to be threatening a strike against the entente order for a ten hour day. They want shorter hours.

RUG CONTEST RESULTS ANNOUNCED TO-MORROW

The Elliot store wish you to know that to-morrow in the front window will be shown those estimates that are the closest to the right number of coppers, also the winning estimate, and to-morrow evening's paper will contain a like list, so that all those interested will be able to see just where they stood from the top, providing they are within 50 of the correct amount. The coppers will be counted this evening at 7 p.m. and it might be to your advantage to scan the list in the window to-morrow afternoon during your shopping tour.

HAMILTON'S MAYOR IS FACED WITH DIRE THREAT

HAMILTON, Feb. 3.—The board of control was advised by Bell & Pringle, acting for the Stripe estate, that unless the nuisance caused by the city for allowing sewage to flow into Stripe's Inlet is stopped application will be made for the commitment to jail of Mayor Booker and City Engineer Gray.

Several Peterboro Soldiers Reached St. John Yesterday

Names of Six Local Men Who Crossed on the "Grampion"—Had An Uneventful Trip—Two of the Men Receive Military Awards.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Feb. 3.—The S. S. Grampian arrived here this afternoon with 1,200 returned soldiers from Liverpool. The trip across was uneventful, being made in good time. The troops were perfectly satisfied with the treatment on the way across, there being no complaints. The trip was brought to a sad ending here yesterday, for just as the liner was docking, one of the soldiers, Private McCabe, who had been ill during the voyage with influenza, from which pneumonia developed, passed away. He was a member of the 39th Battalion from Ottawa and was forty-eight years of age. He leaves a family in Ottawa.

Following were the Peterborough soldiers who crossed on the Grampian: Edward Brasendale, Joseph Rogers, James E. Weese, Henry Wyatt, M.M.; formerly of the 93rd, James Robertson, D.C.M., 2nd Battalion.

German General Staff Prepared For Germany's Annexation of Belgium

Documents Were Captured by the Belgians Papers Filled An Entire Freight Car—Systematic Destruction

(United Press Service.)

PARIS, Feb. 3. — The Belgian Government has in its possession what are believed to be the complete documents of the German General Staff relating to Belgium, including the details for Germany's annexation of the country and instructions for carrying off and destroying machinery. The story of the capture of the documents—one of the most unique of the war—together with what their examination revealed so far, reached the United Press to-day from authoritative Belgian sources.

A FREIGHT CAR.

The papers fill an entire freight car. In the rush of evacuation after the armistice was signed, this particular car was run on a side track by mistake. As soon as its absence was discovered, the General Staff naturally ordered a quick and complete search for it. They chose to direct the search, a lowly civilian official, in the person of the head of the "Barley Department." His most exciting work heretofore, had been to get the last grain of barley from the Belgian fields. The persistence and anxiety displayed in his search led Belgian officials to assign a secret service operative to trail him. When the car was finally located on an isolated siding the Belgians arrested the German and seized the car.

SIGNED BY HOLLWEG.

Examination of the papers is not completed, but it is declared they show the annexation plans provided for splitting Belgium into two provinces, in an effort to line up the Flemish and the Walloons against each other. The plan, which even went into administrative details, were signed by former Chancellor Von Bethmann Hollweg at a time when he was assuring the world that Germany had no intention of annexing Belgium.

According to the documents Germany ordered systematic destruction of Belgian machinery last spring. At first, instructions were issued to carry off the machineryq. Later, as transportation became taxed, orders were issued to smash all machinery that could not be moved readily.

The Belgians are in a quandry as to where to begin reconstruction work. They want to reopen their mills and factories but lack machinery, and their railways and canals are so badly damaged as to effect transportation.

Huns Were Arrested

Offences Committed Within The Zone of American Occupation

(United Press.)

AMERICAN HEADQUARTERS IN GERMANY, Feb. 3.— Two hundred and nineteen Germans have been arrested and tried by American courts martial during the two months of American occupation, according to figures made public to-day. There were 206 convictions. Imprisonments ranged from 1 to 90 days and fines of from one mark (25 cents) to 500 marks ($125.)

Offences included violation of liquor relations, wearing German military uniforms and holding unauthorized meetings. There was on arrest for failure to salute an American officer.

A Soccer Game.

Army officials are investigating a soccer game which was played at Ehrenbreitsein to-day between a team composed of men from a New York and Kentucky pioneer regiment and one made up of German soldiers, many of whom wore parts of their uniforms. The players were good natured throughout, the Germans submitting willingly to the decisions of the American umpire. The game was not scheduled and probably was started on the spur of the moment, but apparently it violated both the regulation against fraternising and that of wearing German uniforms.

Peterboro Men Of "Princess Pats"

A Call For the Names and Ranks of the Men Who Took Service in This Famous Regt. From Peterborough City and District.

It is proposed to make to the Princess Patricia, the so to speak, Patron Saint of the famous regiment, the best that Canada sent overseas, a wedding present and attached to the present will be a scroll having entered on its pages the names of the men who served in the regiment, and also it is proposed that they have a chance to donate to the funds of the gift.

Names and addresses of all the men are desired, and if these be communicated to the Patriotic Fund Office, 'Phone 211W, will be forwarded at once. Kindly oblige. The request is put forward by Major R. J. Buchanan, late of the Princess aPs' Regt., now in Toronto.

Mill Workers Out On Strike

Strikers Want Shorter Hours—Big Silk Mills Close Down.

(United Press Service.)

PATERSON, N.J., Feb. 3.—More than twenty-five thousand silk mill workers went on strike here to-day, according to an unofficial estimate, following the refusal of the employers to meet the demands for a forty-seven-hour week. It is believed thousands of others will follow the example of those already out, as the mill owners say they will close the plants rather than grant the demands.

The strikers' original request was for a forty-four-hour week, but they decided to arbitrate with the employers and an agreement was reached on the forty-seven-hour weekly basis.

Are Foreigners.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Feb. 3.—Not more than half of the 30,000 textile operatives here went on strike to-day to enforce their demands for fifty-four hours' wages for a forty-four-hour week.

The majority of those who struck are foreigners.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Striking garment workers to-day threw a cordon of pickets around the clothing factory area in downtown Manhattan, and greeted with cries of "scab" non-union employees on their way to work.

Strong forces of police were called to preserve order.

Returned Prisoner Thanks Red Cross

Private Tom Casey, who returned to his home in Douro recently, after being held a prisoner of war in Germany since June, 1916, desires to thank the Red Cross Society and the citizens of Peterborough generally, for the regular supply of parcels which he received during those years. Private Casey stated that he could not express his feelings of gratitude for the unfailing pains and thoughtfulness with which these supplies were prepared and forwarded. They had not only provided food that actually kept him alive, but they also brought the comfort of realizing that the people at home had not forgotten the prisoners of war, but had helped them continuously and in a most practical manner.

BOLSHEVIK DOCTRINES

Russians Are Led to Believe That Land Will be Taken From Them If Bolshevists Are Beaten.

ALLIED TROOPS

(United Press.)

PARIS, Feb. 3. — The Special Committees to which details of the peace settlement are referred, are doing their work efficiently and rapidly, according to Foreign Minister Pichon.

"Some people may take it for granted that little work is being done because the plenary sessions are infrequent," he said, "but the special committes are now at work. Soon results will begin to show with greater continuity and the work of the conference as a body will be maintained on a schedule of greater regularity."

Regarding the Russian situation, Pichon said the position of the allied troops on the Archangel front is not desperate. He declared that while the Bolsheviki are strengthening their army in that region, they are being defeated in other parts of the country and that this condition must soon have an affect on the northern front.

"The greatest hold of the Bolsheviki on the people is that the people are led to believe that if they were beaten their land will be taken away from them," said Pichon. "If we could show the people that their land will remain in their own hands, three-fourths of Russia would be against the Bolsheviki."

Believes Former Russian Emperor Is Still Living

Dowager Empress Refuses to Leave Russia Until Death of Former Ruler is Confirmed.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Feb. 3.—Dowager Empress Marie Feodorovna, of Russia, has clung so firmly to her belief that her son, former Russian Emperor and Grand Duke Michael are not dead that many of her friends have been won over to that view and rumours in the European press concerning Nicholas Romanoff's alleged whereabouts are attracting much attention.

The aged Empress resolutely refused to leave Russia until she learned positively of the fate of her son. She continues to live simply at Yalta, Crimea, declining the invitation to visit the King and Queen of Roumania, and even her sister, Queen Mother Alexandria of Great Britain. Lieut.-Col. J. W. Boyle( formerly of the Canadian Militia, who was commissioned by King Ferdinand of Roumania to induce the Dowager Empress to seek safety in Roumania, recently arrived in Paris and told the Associatel Press that the Dowager Empress' declination was most affecting.

Conflicting Reports Come From Portugal

Both Republican and Monarchist Parties Claim Victories.

(Special to Examiner.)

MADRID, Feb. 3.—Both Monarchists and Republicans claimed victories in despatches received here from various Portuguese sources to-day.

An official statement issued by the Republican Government in Lisbon, said the Monarchists fled after a nine hour fight near Aguesa in which they sustained great losses, including their commander. The statement also denied the Royalist claims of the capture of Aveiro and Chaves.

A Monarchist wireless statement said Royalist troops were advancing southward and that a monarchy had been proclaimed throughout the country.

THE PEACE CONFERENCE

Balkan Situation Was Discussed a This Morning's Session—A Special Committee.

HOUSE RECOVERING

(By Fred S. Ferguson.)
(United Press.)

PARIS, Feb. 3.—President Wilson to-day began his drive for the consummation of the League of Nations programme before the end of the week.

Refreshed by a day of complete rest the President, following his address on the subject of the League before the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon, was to confer with the special committee which is working on details of the League's outline. In this meeting, to be held at the Hotel Crillon, work was to be taken up on the definite constitution of the League upon which several tentative agreements have already been reached.

The President is working in the closest unanimity with Lord Cecil and Gen. Smuts on the draft for the constitution, which provides for a permanent organization to meet regularly and to have machinery for arbitration and economic punishments. Complete agreement on the framework is generally anticipated before Premier Lloyd George leaves for London at the end of the week.

Balkan Situation.

President Wilson met with the Peace Bureau this morning. The Balkan situation was discussed with particular reference to Greece's political and territorial claims Premier Venizelos was the principal speaker.

The President has under consideration plans for reporting progress of the peace conference partly to the Congress in future. Reports from the United States indicate that there is need of explaining details of various problems being worked out, as a misunderstanding is obvious.

When Wilson arrives in the United States three weeks hence—he is scheduled to sail February 14—he expects sufficient progress to have been made for a comprehensive report to Congress. After that, important negotiations will be reported to the American Legislative body as they transpire.

Col. House is recovering rapidly and is expected to take a full part in the peace work this week.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

MONDAY FEBRUARY 3RD, 1919.

THE HEALTH ASSOCIATION.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Health Association, called for tomorrow afternoon in the Bank of Montreal chambers, should be largely attended. No organization in Peterborough is doing a better or finer work than the Health Association which, in spite of circumscribed funds and a deplorable lack of general public support, has "carried on" faithfully through the distressful war years and which, with the coming of peace, is looking forward to a future of useful and extensive service. It is an Association which should have the wholehearted support of the citizens of Peterborough because its only motive is to be of assistance. That it has realized this aim will be readily affirmed by those who have occasion to realize what the work of the Health Association really means. Public-spirited citizens who are looking for an opportunity to serve the community could not do better than to attend tomorrow afternoon's meeting in order to acquaint themselves with the story of what the Association has been able to carry out and what it hopes to accomplish during the ensuing year.

THE VALUE OF PUBLICITY.

One feature of Mr. Justice Hodgins' report in connection with the "Northland" inquiry that should not escape notice was the Judge's statement that he had investigated carefully the stories published in the newspapers in regard to conditions on the transport and that he had found that these had been honestly written and published in good faith. Judge Hodgins expressed his belief that publicity of this kind was of benefit in drawing attention to grievances and giving an opportunity for them to be righted. This point should be noted by some of the slavish press supporters of the government who have a habit of criticizing every newspaper that ventures to print anything that smacks of faultfinding in regard to the work of the government. These government organs, or some of them at least, have persisted in blaming the British Admiralty for the conditions about which the soldiers have complained, but Judge Hodgins' report, with its condemnation of the lack of efficiency of the military conducting system on board the Northland cannot by any journalistic ingenuity be twisted into censure of the Admiralty.

Publicity that leads to the correction of the grievances complained of, and to an official inquiry into why such conditions should be allowed to exist, is beneficial. There is no doubt in the world that it was the stories printed by the newspapers that forced the investigation in the case of the Northland, and if there are any good results from that investigation, the credit must go to the newspapers. Already it is reported that more attention is being paid to the food served on the transports and that other reforms are being undertaken. If the newspapers had kept silent on this question the old conditions would still be in existence.

WELCOMING THE SOLDIERS.

The announcement that returning soldiers are not to be given leave until they have reached their proper destination may not be pleasing to the soldiers themselves, but it will be received with satisfaction by those who are in charge of the arrangements for the reception of veterans in their home towns. Up to the present the difficulty of securing any authentic information as to the arrival of the men from overseas has interfered considerably with the desire to give them a proper reception. Even when a list of them was sent in advance there was trouble, for the soldiers were dropping off the train all along the line visiting friends, and often did not reach the city until several days after they were officially supposed to be here. The new system will make this impossible and will be of great assistance to the Reception committees in the different centres.

THE LINDSAY RIOTS.

The wrecking of Chinese business places by a mob of Lindsay citizens the other night, furnishes rich food for investigation by the physiologists. Why should men who would usually hesitate a long time before they would carry off five cents' worth of anything that did not belong to them, coolly help themselves to boxes of cigars or anything else they took a fancy to from a damaged store? Why should they deliberately wreck a place like the Dominion Cafe, the proprietor of which had no connection whatever with the outrage that was said to be responsible for the rioting? Why should they run the risk of arrest or being injured by a policeman's baton? Was it because of a deep appreciation of the wrong done to a woman? Or was it simply that our civilization is but thinly veneered and that we welcome an opportunity to get back to the primitive? That is the average man's heart, however deeply it may be buried there exists an instinct inherited from the old days that leads him to destroy and mutilate when opportunity offers.

These questions presented themselves to a spectator of Friday night's rioting. There did not seem to be any strong indignation on the part of those who were responsible for the damage. Rather they went about the business of wrecking everything they could lay their hands on with a schoolboy-like joy. Are we, in spite of our boasted superiority, only savages after all?

WAS CANADA HOOVERIZED?

Hoover seems to have Hooverized us out of our foreign trade. When Herbert C. Hoover traveled overseas some weeks ago to organize the feeding of the continental nations, he was in reality the biggest, smartest, commercial traveller the world has ever seen. We in our innocence thought of feeding orders for foodstuffs that would shortly be coming Canada's way. The packers, for instance, got busy figuring ways and means whereby they could meet the demand. In the country districts the farmers and drovers were studying how best to move their hogs cheaply and quickly to points where they could be more readily turned into exportable meat products. Everything was lovely, and the goose hung high. And then we were awakened with a jolt. The train had stopped. Orders began pouring in—yes, into the United States—but devil an order did we get. Hoover is looking out for "his," and "his" happens to be the United States of America. Hoover says: "Give me your orders. How many million dollars worth of food do you want? Never mind the money, just sign here. We will finance it for you." And he does. No one may blame Hoover for confining his trade to his own country when that country is finding the money. Out in the West they tried to get around this difficulty by shipping [illegible] Canadian to an American [illegible]. But [illegible] Hoover had sold all the hogs there were in the United States, it would be time enough for the Canadian hogs to come into the market via the United States. So it was that the drovers turned sadly on their heels and took their hogs back home with them.

It might be timely to inquire what our "bright young men," as Sir Joseph Flavelle would say, are doing over in Europe. Goodness knows, enough of them went over. If I recollect rightly, there must have been pretty nearly a shipload, headed by Sir Robert Borden and Sir George Foster, erstwhile Minister of Trade and Commerce, but now greatly taken with the idea of sitting on the steps at Versailles, or possibly walking up and down in the orangery, while matters of State are being discussed by those who have a real interest in the topic. Anyhow, Sir George is not interested in such vulgar things as the price of bacon, or wheat products, and as to whether there is an opportunity to sell some to the hungry Roumanians or starving Poles. He is a real—I was going to say a live—delegate to a Peace Conference, so what does it matter if Hoover does have shipped from the United States everything there is to sell, and we ship nothing? However, this would probably appear to be but a mere detail to such statesmen as Sir Robert and Sir George. And, besides, Sir Robert has taken occasion to warn the fellow members of his Cabinet—that is, the precious few who remained at home—that he must not be bothered with any such details. It took, he said, his mind off the real work at the Peace Conference.

An interesting point in connection with the Hoover idea of trade and commerce is that which deals with the maintenance of prices in the United States. Some time ago a huge deputation of United States packers visited Washington with the idea of having that Government take a hand in reducing meat prices. The packers were not making this request from any philanthropic motive. Their principal object was to stimulate trade. That country, like Canada, was simply flooded with swine and beef cattle for which there was no market. They went on the principle that a reduction in prices would mean larger consumption, which it no doubt would. However, Hoover set his foot down. Not a cent decrease in price. The packers wanted to buy hogs at fifteen and one-half or sixteen cents; and then gradually reduce the price month by month until a reasonable figure was reached. Hoover's orders were: "Nail the price at 17 1-2 cents and keep it there." Long-headed Hoover. He and his "bright young men" knew what they were about. What is the use of going out to feed the world on a scant margin of profit when you can get a big one just as well? If Europe was to get its food on "tick," then Europe must pay the piper; in other words, the long price. What is the use of an American farmer selling a 200-pound hog at $17.75, or 8 3-4 cents per pound, when he can just as well get $36.50 for it? Of course, this all means that the folks at home will continue to pay high prices for their food; but it also means an augmented trade balance that promises to pay the war debt of the United States in a precious short time. Smart man that Hoover. However, as to the morals of a transaction whereby impoverished countries are made to pay through the nose for the right to survive, the less said the better.—Toronto Saturday Night.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The wrecking of the Chinese laundries the other night furnished many a Lindsay citizen with a perfectly new excuse for not going to church yesterday.

The drop in the temperature is appreciated alike by the coal man and the ice man.

The more the county council talks about good roads the less chance there will be for the travelling public to talk about bad ones.

HAD WEAK and FAINTING SPELLS

Those feelings of faintness, those weak, "all gone" sinking sensations, which come over most people from time to time, are warnings that must not go unheeded.

They mean an extremely weakened condition of the heart and a disordered nervous system.

When the system is in this condition there is no time for delay. One fainting spell may be recovered from—will the next? One dizzy spell may pass off, but the next may be more serious.

Those who are wise will start taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, before their case becomes deep rooted and perhaps hopeless.

They will act directly on the disordered heart and weakened nervous system and restore them to full strength and vigor.

Miss Mary McCoy, Algoma Mills, Ont., writes:—"I was awfully troubled with fainting and weak spells, and I could never get any doctor's medicines to help me. One day a friend of mine was at the house when I took one of those spells, and she got me a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. That was six years ago, and from that day to this I have never had any of those spells. I would not be without your pills for any money and can highly recommend them to any one."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

LITERARY NEWS NOTES

The publication of Col. John McCrae's "In Flanders' Fields," which was announced for fall, but owing to several unavoidable reasons was delayed, is now announced by William Briggs for spring. Not a great many Canadians are aware that beside the title poem, whose popularity has swept around the world, Col. McCrae wrote considerable other verse. This has been collected from several sources, and with a somewhat comprehensive biography from the pen of a literary friend, will make up a book which a good many Canadians should be interested in.

From a sales standpoint, "Dere Mable," which brought so much healthy, hearty laughter into so many homes at the Christmas season, is quite within sight of the record set by "David Harum," "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," and three or four other books of the last decade. This book, too, illustrates remarkably how very uncertain the publishing business is. The American firm who discovered the "Dere Mable" manuscript, it is reported, took hold of it with some little misgiving, and printed first a comparatively small edition. Something in the infectiousness of the humour of the book, however, seemed to catch the public spirit in a wonderful way, and at one time in October and November, three big manufacturing houses in New York had large sections of their plants engaged in the production of the book, and then could not fill the demand. That the sales went forward similarly in Canada is illustrated by a story from the Canadian Publisher. One day in December, 15,000 copies were on hand in the firm's warehouse. Next day, not a single copy was to be purchased. Those who like the ridiculousness of "Dere Mable" will be interested in the fact that Lieut. Streeter's unique letters have been continued in another similar volume, "That's Me All Over, Mable," and that innocent "Bill" writes further of his life on shipboard and experiences on landing in France. The second book is said to be just as laughable as the first.

Stories of prisoners and their experiences have been very much to the fore within the last few months. While some of these may be more thrilling, none of them can present more human interest than that of Hon. Hugh S. Beland, M.P., formerly Postmaster-General of Canada, which will be issued by William Briggs in book form this spring. Although Dr. Beland was promised immunity from arrest, when he was found ministering to wounded Belgians, on the German entry into Belgium, he was given but a few minutes to say good-bye to his wife, whom he never saw again, and was carried to Berlin, where he was imprisoned. Appeals that he might visit Mrs. Beland on her deathbed, and the strongest representations which could be made by Canadian and British authorities were of no avail. A fact not generally known is that Dr. Beland finally obtained his release in exchange for Von Buelow, secretary of the Kroppa in England, and a nephew of the German statesman of the same name. Dr. Beland tells his story under the title, "My Three Years in a German Prison," frankly and comprehensively, and it throws light on German political conditions which has not hitherto been made public.

Most of us in our earlier years read "King Solomon's Mines," "She," and others of Sir Rider Haggard's romantic Eastern stories. Possibly we have not kept very closely in touch with his later productions, and do not know that he is regarded as one of the most prolific of English writers. Although he has reached the hale age of sixty-three, he still keeps on writing, as witnessed by the fact that another characteristic novel, "Moon of Israel," is announced by William Briggs for publication this spring. The book gives colourful pictures of life in ancient Egypt, as it was known to the high-born, presenting among other things, the betrothal of proud Usera, an Egyptian princess, and is made up of the usual procession of picturesque and thrilling events. The title comes from the heroine, a Hebrew maiden named Marabi—"Moon of Israel."

The fact, well-known among publishers, that an author's first book seldom makes any profit, and that his subsequent writing must be counted on to carry matters through, is well illustrated in the case of V. Belasco Ibanez, author of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," published last fall. This, the first book, was hailed as a "different" type of novel, and while its sales were exceedingly good for a "first" novel, they served more particularly to introduce the author. The same United States publisher announces the second book, "The Cabin," for spring publication, which is considered to be quite as characteristic, and even better, than the original. "The Cabin" will be published in Canada by William Briggs.

Beautiful things are everyday things now—

Look around you. See the large number of dainty silk blouses in beautiful tints that are being worn. And the quantities of dainty underwear the stores are showing—sheerest, most beautiful things you have ever seen. It was not so a few years ago. What has caused the difference?

Certainly and surely—one big factor has been Lux. Women would not buy these things right along unless there was a gentle, sure way of washing them—without discoloring, warping or fading.

There is—it's the Lux way. Won't turn silks yellow—won't hurt chiffons—won't shrink woollens. Lux won't hurt anything that pure water itself may touch.

The pastor, Rev. Dougald Brown presided. After devotional exercises the pastor briefly reviewed the work of the church for the past year, his remarks of encouragement and admonition being received with marked attention.

The minutes of the last general meeting were then read and confirmed, after which the reports of the treasurers and secretarys of the church and various organizations were submitted.

The total receipts of the church from all sources show $3,481.62, an increase of over $200 more than the previous year, practically every department showing development.

The amount of $382.00 has been forwarded to missions, an increase of $146.00.

The Membership.

Letters of transfer granted and members died, 12.

The soldiers' honour roll shows 37 names—30 church members and 27 adherents—of which 5 members and 2 adherents have been killed. The mid-week services have been somewhat broken by various union and other meetings, but especially by influenza notwithstanding which the recorded average attendance stands at 35 members.

The Sunday school has a very good showing. Out of a roll of 332 members the average attendance has been 200.

Preserve Peace.

In referring to the glory and fame brought to Canada by the boys who fought, he said: The whole fabric of civilization was attacked and if the fight had not been won life would not be worth living. All do well in honouring the record of the boys in preserving peace and liberty for those at home. Honour must also be paid those who have fallen. We have a corps of the immortals he said, the brave lads who sleep overseas and who brought imperishable fame and glory to Canada, and whose memories will be forever enshrined in the hearts of a gratifying people. Too much honour could not be paid to those who had gone forth to fight for liberty, and lay down their lives for others.

Warm Tribute.

He concluded by paying a warm tribute to the boys who, in meriting the presentation of medals, had brought exceptional honour to Canada.

Miss Florrie Cooper one of the Girl Guides, was asked to make a speech she replied by saying she was proud to have helped the boys who fought.

JUDGE HUYCKE WAS IN LINDSAY

Medals Presented to Thirty-seven Lindsay Boys.

His Honour Judge Huycke was the speaker of the evening at Lindsay on Thursday evening at the armouries, when, before eighteen hundred people, medals were presented to thirty-seven Lindsay boys. Rev. Mr. F. H. McIntosh presided.

In opening his address, Judge Huycke, who was greeted with loud and prolonged cheers at rising, said he brought the greetings of the people of Peterborough, who rejoiced over the successful conclusion of the war and sorrowed with them who sorrowed. Continuing he referred to the past four years of sorrow, sadness and suspense from which, happily, victory had at last been dearly bought. In bringing about the victory the Canadians had won undying glory for themselves and their country. He referred particularly to the fame achieved by the boys at the capture of Vimy Ridge and at Passchendaele. The latter battle, he said, meant a tremendious number of deaths besides glory.

Preserve Peace.

In referring to the glory and fame brought to Canada by the boys who fought, he said: The whole fabric of civilization was attacked and if the fight had not been won life would not be worth living. # PRESENTATION TO MISS B. ELCOME

Has a Perfect Record for Attendance At Sunday School

At Murray Street Baptist Sunday School yesterday the pianist, Miss Bessie Elcome, was presented with a gold wrist watch on behalf of the officers, teachers, and pupils on the event of her completing at the end of 1918 fifteen consecutive years during which she attended Sunday School every Sunday and was always on time. The following letter was read by the Superintendent.

To Miss Bessie Elcome,
Pianist, Murray Street Baptist Sunday School.

Dear Miss Elcome:—

The Officers, Teachers, and Pupils of the Sunday School wish you to know that they esteem it a proud privilege to have in their midst one who probably holds the first place in the Dominion for faithfulness in Sunday School service. The end of 1918 marked the fifteenth year that as pupil and pianist you have obtained a perfect record for consecutive, punctuality and attendance, something perhaps unparalleled in any other Sunday School. At the same time they also wish you to know that your devotion and sweetness of character has endeared you to the hearts of all and as a token of their love and esteem they ask you to accept this wrist watch which has engraved upon it your name and the one word "Fidelity" the keynote of your Christian Service.

Joseph Wearing
Superintendent
Wilmot Browette,
Secretary

Miss Elcome who was completely taken by surprise expressed her thanks and stated she had never received more pleasure out of anything than her Sunday School work. A former teacher, Miss Emma Aldridge who has been absent for sometime through illness gave a short but forcible address taking as her subject the word inscribed on the watch presented to Miss Elcome.

War Service Gratuity Is Not For War Widows

Answer to Enquiries Made by Local Patriotic Fund Office

Following enquiries made at the Peterborough Patriotic Fund Office by several of the widows of men killed information in papers that such widows would be entitled to a share of the War Gratuity that would have applied in the cases of men killed, up to the time of the casualty, the office has made enquiry from the Paymaster-General, and the reply is printed below:

"There is absolutely no truth in the statement appearing in certain newspapers that the war service gratuity payable to the men of the Canadian Expeditionary Forces, on retirement or discharge, will also be paid to war widows, dependents and next-of-kin of soldiers killed in action or who died of wounds. An official denial of this statement was issued to-day, (31st Jan.) by the Militia Department, and at the same time it was pointed out that the Order-in-Council makes no provision of this nature. The next-of-kin of deceased soldiers are provided for under the pension regulations.

"The Order-in-Council does make provision for payment of the gratuity to the dependents of a soldier who dies subsequent to his discharge or retirement, and before he or his dependents have received any part of the whole of the gratuity. It states that if there survive him dependents who would have been entitled to a portion of the gratuity equal to the Separation Allowance the portion of the gratuity unpaid at the time of his death shall be payable to such dependents.

"In the case of a soldier who has no dependents entitled to Separation Allowance, and who dies subsequent to his discharge, before receiving any or all of the gratuity, the portion of the gratuity unpaid at the time of his death shall not be payable."

How One Returned Man Made Good

"Does it pay the returned soldier to look into the re-education courses offered by the Government," says F. Hopkinson, a returned man?—"Well I should say so," and the happy smile with which it is said proclaims the truth of the sentiment more than any amount of speech. Nevertheless this man's story is full of interest.

Hopkinson, who is an Englishman by birth, has travelled over many parts of the globe and like the adventurous ones beloved of Bob Service, has done his share of "grubbing for gold," as he had a shot at gold mining in South Africa, took a hand in the building of the Hudson River tunnels, and in his own pre-war trade—that of bricklayer—has been engaged upon some of the finest buildings erected.

A good tale of bricks which added to the erection of the "World" building in Vancouver, claimed to be the largest skyscraper in the British Empire, go to the credit of this man. (By the way he had a partiality for skyscrapers, which may account for his determination to strike skywards after his disability instead of remaining in a rut. But this is to precipitate the story.)

Well at the outbreak of war Hopkinson was down in Texas and it did not take him long to make up his mind that in khaki he would be. He arrived in Toronto one evening at 9:30, having taken the old steamer Antilles from New Orleans to New York, which boat was the first American transport to be sunk. By ten a.m. the next morning Hopkinson had enlisted. He recounts with glee the story of how eight doughty comrades in Texas, who volunteered to come East with him, all funked at the last minute and a few months later were scooped up by the draft.

Two Years At Front.

After two years at the front, during which time he has been through Belgium with the Imperials, Hopkinson was invalided home with pneumonia and bad feet, due to the constant state of mud over there. He has left one brother with the Imperial Army and a third lost his life while fighting at the front.

"I was feeling pretty sick," says Hopkinson, "when I arrived back to be told that I could not engage in my former occupation nor enjoy my old globe trotting habits, as the doctors here have prescribed for me sedentary occupation. I must say that I did not place much faith in the promises held out by the Government for returned men, but I went to the Central Technical School in Toronto to have a look into the thing and afterwards decided to try out a course in drafting. I received a letter from the Government that a cheque would be sent every month. I thought to myself—'well this seems O.K., so I guess it is up to me to do my bit.' The drafting course was suggested to me as the one most closely allied to my past work in the building trade, and it was suggested that I might afterwards be able to take a position as inspector of building plans. My own notion of it was that I would take it with the idea of working on my own—at designing or carrying out small plans for interior work. The pay I received while in training amounted to $46.00 a month. Not a great deal, but I found it sufficient to pay my board and laundry, and take a girl to a show once in a while. There were fifteen other fellows taking the course with me. Their previous occupations included the trades of boiler-maker, carpenter and farmer. About the time I was through with my course the Canadian Aeroplanes applied for some one to do drafting, offering three weeks work at $25.00 a week. I was taken on and stayed for four months, where I earned a steady wage with some overtime until peace was proclaimed. The Government offered one month's post discharge pay to all re-educated soldiers who came through their course successfully. This, added to the money I earned at the Aeroplanes, gave me a nice little sum to start with. My work at the Aeroplanes factory was making comparative charts. It was absolutely new to me and the nature of it, by comparison with my previous occupation, was very fine work, but I found it interesting and was commended by the Canadian engineer there."

Serious Handicap.

Comparative charting being one of the most up-to-date methods of tracing business progress, the Business Department of the Repatriation Committee made search for a man to undertake this work, and the good record of Mr. Hopkinson coupled to the fact that he is a returned man, at once assured him the job.

With regard to the re-educational classes held at the Central Technical School, Toronto, and other centres, Mr. Hopkinson offers a suggestion based not only upon [illegible] but also upon the [illegible] of his comrades [illegible] throughout [illegible] he says, "that the fellows who enter [illegible] very little school[illegible] seems to be paid [illegible] the unprepared [illegible] compared to the [illegible] had advantages [illegible] course, [illegible]

WOULD GO FROM HOUSE TO HOUSE

Mrs. Harrington Feels Like Going Out and Telling Everybody About Tanlac.

"I would just like to go from house to house and tell the people about Tanlac," said Mrs. Mollie Harrington, of 111 Third street, Peoria, in a recent statement which she requested published for the benefit of others.

"My health gave way years ago," Mrs. Harrington continued, "and I had long since despaired of ever getting any better. I was very weak and pale—hardly had the colour of blood in my face—suffered terribly from stomach trouble and was extremely nervous. I was really in a broken-down condition and being past fifty-eight years of age, which I thought was against me, I had no hope of getting well and nothing to look forward to but the end, which I often felt was drawing near.

"Then I got to reading about the wonderful results others were getting from Tanlac and yet I could not make up my mind at first to try it, as I had little idea it could help a person of my age, especially, one in such a low state of health. But somehow I was influenced to buy a bottle and that was about the luckiest day of my life, for when I finished taking it there was a wonderful improvement in my condition.

"Then I had something to look forward to—hope of complete recovery—so I bought a few more bottles of Tanlac and now I don't have to tell my friends I am well again, for they can see that from my looks as often speak of it. I am more thankful to Tanlac than I can express for now I am enjoying life and good health, which I never expected to enjoy any more, and I want this testimonial published in all the papers in Illinois that everybody may know what Tanlac will do, for I feel that I ought to tell all suffering people about this wonderful medicine."

Preserve Peace.

In referring to the glory and fame brought to Canada by the boys who fought, he said: The whole fabric of civilization was attacked and if the fight had not been won life would not be worth living. All did well in honouring the record of the boys in preserving peace and liberty for those at home. Honour must also be paid those who have fallen. We have a corps of the immortals he said, the brave lads who sleep overseas and who brought imperishable fame and glory to Canada, and whose memories will be forever enshrined in the hearts of a gratifying people. Too much honour could not be paid to those who had gone forth to fight for liberty, and lay down their lives for others.

Warm Tribute.

He concluded by paying a warm tribute to the boys who, in meriting the presentation of medals, had brought exceptional honour to Canada.

JUDGE HUYCKE WAS IN LINDSAY

Medals Presented to Thirty-seven Lindsay Boys.

His Honour Judge Huycke was the speaker of the evening at Lindsay on Thursday evening at the armouries, when, before eighteen hundred people, medals were presented to thirty-seven Lindsay boys. Rev. Mr. F. H. McIntosh presided.

In opening his address, Judge Huycke, who was greeted with loud and prolonged cheers at rising, said he brought the greetings of the people of Peterborough, who rejoiced over the successful conclusion of the war and sorrowed with them who sorrowed. Continuing he referred to the past four years of sorrow, sadness and suspense from which, happily, victory had at last been dearly bought. In bringing about the victory the Canadians had won undying glory for themselves and their country. He referred particularly to the fame achieved by the boys at the capture of Vimy Ridge and at Passchendaele. The latter battle, he said, meant a tremendous number of deaths besides glory.

PRESENTATION TO MISS B. ELCOME

Has a Perfect Record for Attendance At Sunday School

At Murray Street Baptist Sunday School yesterday the pianist, Miss Bessie Elcome, was presented with a gold wrist watch on behalf of the officers, teachers, and pupils on the event of her completing at the end of 1918 fifteen consecutive years during which she attended Sunday School every Sunday and was always on time. The following letter was read by the Superintendent.

To Miss Bessie Elcome,
Pianist, Murray Street Baptist Sunday School.

Dear Miss Elcome:—

The Officers, Teachers, and Pupils of the Sunday School wish you to know that they esteem it a proud priviledge to have in their midst one who probably holds the first place in the Dominion for faithfulness in Sunday School service. The end of 1918 marked the fifteenth year that as pupil and pianist you have obtained a perfect record for consecutive, punctuality and attendance, something perhaps unparalleled in any other Sunday School. At the same time they also wish you to know that your devotion and sweetness of character has endeared you to the hearts of all and as a token of their love and esteem they ask you to accept this wrist watch which has engraved upon it your name and the one word "Fidelity" the keynote of your Christian Service.

Joseph Wearing
Superintendent
Wilmot Browette,
Secretary

Miss Elcome who was completely taken by surprise expressed her thanks and stated she had never received more pleasure out of anything than her Sunday School work. A former teacher, Miss Emma Aldridge who has been absent for sometime through illness gave a short but forcible address taking as her subject the word inscribed on the watch presented to Miss Elcome.

War Service Gratuity Is Not For War Widows

Answer to Enquiries Made by Local Patriotic Fund Office

Following enquiries made at the Peterborough Patriotic Fund Office by several of the widows of men killed information in papers that such wide information in papers that such widows would be entitled to a share of the War Gratuity that would have applied in the cases of men killed, up to the time of the casualty, the office has made enquiry from the Paymaster-General, and the reply is printed below:

"There is absolutely no truth in the statement appearing in certain newspapers that the war service gratuity payable to the men of the Canadian Expeditionary Forces, on retirement or discharge, will also be paid to war widows, dependents and next-of-kin of soldiers killed in action or who died of wounds. An official denial of this statement was issued to-day, (31st Jan.) by the Militia Department, and at the same time it was pointed out that the Order-in-Council makes no provision of this nature. The next-of-kin of deceased soldiers are provided for under the pension regulations.

"The Order-in-Council does make provision for payment of the gratuity to the dependents of a soldier who dies subsequent to his discharge or retirement, and before he or his dependents have received any part of the whole of the gratuity. It states that if there survive him dependents who would have been entitled to a portion of the gratuity equal to the Separation Allowance the portion of the gratuity unpaid at the time of his death shall be payable to such dependents.

"In the case of a soldier who has no dependents entitled to Separation Allowance, and who dies subsequent to his discharge, before receiving any or all of the gratuity, the portion of the gratuity unpaid at the time of his death shall not be payable."

How One Returned Man Made Good

"Does it pay the returned soldier to look into the re-education courses offered by the Government," says F. Hopkinson, a returned man?—"Well I should say so," and the happy smile with which it is said proclaims the truth of the sentiment more than any amount of speech. Nevertheless this man's story is full of interest.

Hopkinson, who is an Englishman by birth, has travelled over many parts of the globe and like the adventurous ones beloved of Bob Service, has done his share of "grubbing for gold," as he had a shot at gold mining in South Africa, took a hand in the building of the Hudson River tunnels, and in his own pre-war trade—that of bricklayer—has been engaged upon some of the finest buildings erected.

A good tale of bricks which added to the erection of the "World" building in Vancouver, claimed to be the largest skyscraper in the British Empire, go to the credit of this man. (By the way he had a partiality for skyscrapers, which may account for his determination to strike skywards after his disability instead of remaining in a rut. But this is to precipitate the story.)

Well at the outbreak of war Hopkinson was down in Texas and it did not take him long to make up his mind that in khaki he would be. He arrived in Toronto one evening at 9:30, having taken the old steamer Antilles from New Orleans to New York, which boat was the first American transport to be sunk. By ten a.m. the next morning Hopkinson had enlisted. He recounts with glee the story of how eight doughty comrades in Texas, who volunteered to come East with him, all funked at the last minute and a few months later were scooped up by the draft.

Two Years At Front.

After two years at the front, during which time he had been through Belgium with the Imperials, Hopkinson was invalided home with pneumonia and bad feet, due to the constant state of mud over there. He has left one brother with the Imperial Army and a third lost his life while fighting at the front.

"I was feeling pretty sick," says Hopkinson, "when I arrived back to be told that I could not engage in my former occupation nor enjoy my old globe trotting habits, as the doctors here have prescribed for me sedentary occupation. I must say that I did not place much faith in the promises held out by the Government for returned men, but I went to the Central Technical School in Toronto to have a look into the thing and afterwards decided to try out a course in drafting. I received a letter from the Government that a cheque would be sent every month. I thought to myself—well this seems O.K., so I guess it is up to me to do my bit.' The drafting course was suggested to me as the one most closely allied to my past work in the building trade, and it was suggested that I might afterwards be able to take a position as inspector of building plans. My own notion of it was that I would take it with the idea of working on my own—at designing or carrying out small plans for interior work. The pay I received while in training amounted to $46.00 a month. Not a great deal, but I found it sufficient to pay my board and laundry, and take a girl to a show once in a while. There were fifteen other fellows taking the course with me. Their previous occupations included the trades of boiler-maker, carpenter and farmer. About the time I was through with my course the Canadian Aeroplanes applied for some one to do drafting, offering three weeks work at $25.00 a week. I was taken on and stayed for four months, where I earned a steady wage with some overtime until peace was proclaimed. The Government offered one month's post discharge pay to all re-educated soldiers who came through their course successfully. # Rev. C. E. Manning Issues a Call For Christian Workers

The Mission Fields of the East and West Present Wonderful Opportunities for Those Who Wish to Serve—Address in George St. Church.

In the evening Mr. Manning delivered a very interesting address, based on the text, "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature."

The speaker very fittingly compared the difficulties of the missionary to work that the disciples of Christ had to perform, to the dimculty of the missionary work at the present time.

For the disciples to accomplish their work it was necessary that they overcome two very difficult tasks: First, they had to change the mental attitude of all mankind to that of a Christian; and secondly, change the customs and habits of all the people. While doing this, the disciples had to oppose all other classes who were very bitter against them. The Jews in particular endeavoured with all their power, even resorting to murder, to stop the Christian missionary work. The missionary work of to-day is just as difficult. To illustrate his point, Mr. Manning asked the audience: Suppose that some foreign missionary should come to Peterboro with a new religion, and attempt to change the mental attitude, customs and habits of all the citizens of Peterboro, to that of his new religion. Would he have a difficult task? The same hard task faces some of our missionaries in the East, when they attempt to teach Christianity. At first the Chinese were very superstitious, but at last some have learned to trust and believe the Christian missionary.

Effects of the War.

Mr. Manning spoke of the effects that the war had on many Christians. When the war started people were amazed and wondered what was the use of preaching the Gospel. Germany was considered to be one of the leading Christian nations. This country to which our young men and women went to finish their education and that was the foremost in science, planned for this Great War, and inflicted such cruelties upon innocent Christians. But Mr. Manning stated that it had been a wrong Christianity that has been taught or preached to the German people. The great leaders of the country have committed the wrong of teaching the people that war is righteous. The hope of the world, he said, is in preaching the Gospel. Christianity must win its way in Japan, China, India and every other country, until Jesus is King of all. If no gospel were taught in the East for the next four or five years, so that Christianity would lose its hold, and if China were to rise against the world as Germany had done, with her 400,000,000 people united with that enterprising nation, Japan, and India probably, they could build the largest fleet in the world and organize the largest army in the world. The world would soon be dominated by the heathen.

Higher Education.

To-day the Methodist Missions in China are the best, strongest, and most successful there. The Methodist church of Canada, together with three other denominations, are planning to build a great university in China, which will give an education not only along the line of preaching the Gospel, but also of medicine, science, and all other modern courses. As many missionaries will be sent from the continent to China as will be needed until the Universities in China, can graduate enough students for their own need. The same is the case with Japan.

But, at the same time, Mr. Manning pointed out, we must not let the missionary work in our own land be neglected. On the Pacific Coast there are thousands of miners and canners, mostly foreigners, that receive no Christian preaching.

The Methodist Church owns a large ship, the "Thomas Crosby," which plies up and down the Pacific Coast periodically, visiting as many settlements as possible. But far more boats are needed. The Methodist Church is planning to outfit a number of motor boats that may be able to take missionaries up and down the coast on certain circuits. All over Canada there is a lack of missionaries. In the Prairie Provinces there are about 60 unsupplied missions, due to the enlistment of missionaries in the war. In the Peace River district there are no missionaries.

The Presbyterian and Methodist Churches are organizing committees in the west to prevent overlapping of missionary work and to avoid competition.

Lady Teachers.

Mr. Manning in conclusion, emphasized the lack of efficient lady teachers in the public schools of the West, and said that they could do a greater work there than in the East, but also stated that the inducements were not as good. He pointed out that it was a good opportunity for young ladies to help Christianity, and also for young men who were willing to make sacrifices, not for wealth, but for a better contribution to their fellow men and women.

Mr. Manning also spoke of the help that young ladies could renrer in serving as nurses in hospitals in China. In making an appeal for young men and women to go west to teach, he appealed to their higher motives. He said that he thought that young ladies could render in to teach in a foreign settlement has a harder task to perform than a man who goes to the trenches, mainly from the standpoint of solitude.

PETERBORO SOLDIER GATHERED BANANAS ON HIS WAY HOME

Two Peterboro boys, Corporal J. L. Johnston and Private Clayton Martin returned home on the "Empress of Asia," from Liverpool to Vancouver by way of the Panama canal. They sailed on January 2nd and arrived at Vancouver on January 25th. At Colon the Atlantic station at the mouth of the canal, the men were given a day on shore, and Corp. Johnston enjoyed the unexpected experience of picking bananas in the tropical groves about the town. It was exceedingly warm, but this phase of the journey was well worth the trip. It was a case of the longest way round being the sweetest way home. The Empress entered the canal at 8 a.m. and steamed into the Pacific ocean at 5 p.m. on the same day.

Corp. Johnston said that 1,500 men returned on the Empress of Asia. In the first and second class sections there was accommodation for 1,050 men, but it was monopolized by just 350 officers. The 1,050 privates were crowded below decks in the quarters fomerly occupied by Chinese, who had been transported to France. Much feeling was stirred up in Vancouver when this condition became known. Corp. Johnston intimated that he had fared well enough. He had no complaints to make of the treatment he received. He had expected to pay his railway fare from Vancouver to Peterboro, in fact had left Liverpool with that understanding, but was agreeably surprised when he was given first class railway transportation, meals included, from Vancouver east.

Illness Prevented Pte. A. E. Naish From Reaching Germany

Mr. Alfred Naish, 311 McDonnel street, formerly of the 93rd Battalion, has received the following letter from his brother, Private A. E. Naish, who went over with the 39th Battalion and saw three years of fighting:

No. 24 Canadian Hospital, Basingstoke, England, Hants.

Dear Brother and Sister,—Just a few lines in answer to your letter. I am in hospital in England, and just got over a very bad sickness of broncho-pneumonia and hemorrhage of the lungs and dropsy in my left leg. So you see it was pretty rough. I am expecting to come back to Canada for my discharge in a very short while, for I have to come back to draw my $700 that is coming to me for my three years' service in France. Then I am coming back to England again, for I do not think I shall make my home there any more. I did not have a very merry Christmas for I was on my last legs about that time. You ought to see my German revolver that I took from a German officer. It is a beauty. I was through Mons and only three days' march from the Rhine when I was taken sick, and I was made because I could not see Germany after going through three years of hard fighting. I have done my bit and I am proud of it. Remember me to all I know. I hope to spend a few days in Peterborough before long.

Your affectionate brother,
BERT.

GOVERNMENT TO TAKE ACTION

Severe Repressive Measures Promised and Hard Fighting is Looked For.

BERLIN, Feb. 3.—The new Spartacan outbreak is gaining strength in various parts of the country it was revealed in despatches received here to-day. The government has decided upon severe repressive measures and hard fighting is looked for.

Government troops were reported to be marching against the Spartacan forces which are entrenched around Dusseldorf. The government has obtained consent from the Entente to take this action since Dusseldorf is in the neutral zone.

At Eisenach, workmen and soldiers held a Spartacan uprising yesterday. They seized the telegraphs and decided to oppose the government.

Has Resigned.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

BREMEN, Feb 3.—The Spartacan government in Bremen has resigned. Workmen have agreed to deliver their arms to the Ninth Army Corps. Majority Socialists here joined with the workmen in asking Military Governor Noske to withdraw his troops. So far the Berlin government has not accepted the proposition for mediation.

The government is sending picked troops to prevent disorders in Weimar. Any one boarding a train for Weimar must have a special permit, and all undesirables are being weeded out in that city. Bremen was reported to be practically a great Spartacan camp. It is cut off from all telegraph and telephone communication with the outside world. Spartacan leaders have threatened to mobilize their entire strength and fight to the finish unless Military Governor Noske recalls the troops he has sent to restore order. In the meantime he is attempting to persuade the Spartacans to evacuate peacefully to save historic public buildings from destruction, as Noske has announced he will bombard the city.

Hamburg and Wilhelmshaven, where Spartacan uprisings were reported, are said to be quiet.

Cash With Order When Huns Import

Plenty of Markets for Canadian Crops, But Bacon Not So Satisfactory.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—As a matter of international policy to prevent the spread of anarchy, the blockade will have to be raised to this extent. Germany will be allowed to import food in exchange for a considerable amount of the gold available for this purpose, together with exports of potash to an amount to be fixed. Private German credits in Germany, and in other parts of the world, may also be available for these food purchases. It is believed that the demand from all these sources will absorb all supplies now offering. There does not appear to be ground for any apprehension that Canada will not be able to dispose of this year's surplus at fixed prices. As to what will happen with respect to next year's crop only inference can be drawn, but there is much to indicate that there will be a return virtually to the pre-war conditions of trading.

With respect to meat products the prospects for Canada are not so good. Huge quantities of bacon, much of it of an indifferent brand, is in storage in England, is being sold under Government control at prices fixed by its cost, thus restricting the consumption. London papers report a strong movement that the Government should accept a loss and put bacon on the market at lower prices, but, in any event, the market is likely to be overstocked for at least six months.

Advertising Talks By P. B. HAYES

An Ideal Attainment

The ideal attainment of a local merchant is to make every possible customer say of him: "He is honest, his goods are honest and his methods and principles are of the highest character; it is as safe to send a child to his store as to go yourself."

Many a store which by square dealing has earned this reputation has really attained it among only a comparatively few people. Advertising, persistent advertising, would spread the news and bring the full measure of success that is deserved.

Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., Accuses the Government With Being Dilatory

Parliament Should Have Been Called December the First and Not February the Twentieth—Deplores Lack of Understanding of Economic Principles.

Regarding the Independent Labour Party resolution appearing below Mr. J. H. Burnham M.P. said:

"I think that I am entirely in accord with the sentiment expressed in this resolution. Parliament should have been called on Dec. 1 and not on February 20th. One troubit in our national education is in our lack of understanding of economic principles even at Ottawa. If the C.P.R. were handled the way Canada is, it would be on the rocks in a week. It is the fault of the system of government. The business of 8,000,000 of people is treated by 90 per cent. of the members as a mere sideshow to their own business and many constituencies think that the member's duties outside their own constituencies are nil.

The Resolution

J. H. Burnham Esq., M.P.

Sir, —At a public meeting of the Independent Labour Party of Peterboro, Ontario, the following resolution was carried unanimously. that this public meeting of the Independent Labour Party, Peterboro' do respectfully call upon the Federal Government to proceed at once with public works in this locality, as the present condition of unemployment has already reached a very strenuous point, owing to factories dismissing thier men to go hungry, while their establishments are packed from floor to ceiling with foodstuffs and no market.

Every week's delay means more families on the point of starvation and immediate action is necessary. The public patience will be greatly strained to have to wait until Parliament meets and the general routine methods followed; immediate action is most essential for the well being of the community.

We wish also to bring your attention to the high cost of living and the greatly reduced wage of the worker, which also calls for immediate action to help the toiler face the strenuous times under which we are now existing.

We would suggest that a "Peace Loan" be floated for industrial reconstruction and that a clause be provided for the larger concerns who received war contracts during the past four and a half years to be able to subscribe to the loan without interest, as a patriotic endeavour to adjust the industrial situation.

This we respectfully submit on behalf of the meeting held January 30, 1919, Labour Hall, Peterboro.

Peter McArthur,
President.
Thomas Tooms,
Secretary.
Brownton,
Peterboro, Ontario.

Palm Beach Modes Forecast the Summer Favourites

Simple Lines in the New Suit Dress

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.— The warm breezes of the southland beckon and the chilled mortals of the north heed. Every train brings to the sunny south those who would be comfortable during the cold wave. And as comfort is largely a matter of clothes, the trip affords for the woman an excellent opportunity to rebuild her wardrobe which, perhaps, has been neglected during the war. What is worn at Palm Beach is always a forecast of what will be worn in New York for the late spring and early summer. All the pretty light things that are now shown for southern wear will be the very same in design and line that those who remain at home will don as soon as the temperature permits. Wise, indeed, is she who takes advantage of the sales at the shops of this flimsy material now, for she has a wider selection and the quantity being more abundant will make the material cheaper in price.

Overdress for Ladies.

It is safe to say that any design which is copied from the models now will be very smart next summer. Therefore, to stock up now would be far more discreet than rushing, as the majority will be, in the hot summer days. Many novel styles, of course, that could not be worn about town are shown, but the discretion of the average woman may be relied on sufficiently to warrant her correct choice.

Extreme But Charming.

One of the shops is showing a dainty little hat developed in raspberry-dotted dimity with a parasol to match. The crown of the hat is slightly shirred and a coy little rose of raspberry-coloured satin rests confidently on the brim over the right eye. The handle of the parasol is ivory and the mate of the satin rose on the hat is vainly pursuing its companion, for it is stopped abruptly about two-thirds of the way up the handle by a hand-painted ring of ivory. This attractive set can well be imagined shading the hot rays from some pretty thing who was just made for raspberry-dotted dimity.

Georgette dresses seem to be favoured. Pale shades, such as flesh and robin's egg blue with white in the lead, are most numerous. Many of these frocks are embroidered elaborately with beads of contrasting colours. The lines are simple and the unsophisticated appearance of the soft mass of material is fascinating.

The Successor of Khaki-Kool.

A new novelty weave is on the market which resembles very strongly the khaki-kool of last season. The material is silky in its composition, but has a surface which is made rough by the irregular lines of silk of various thickness running through it. This is used for the new suit dress. This ultra smart mode is extensively in view and there is no doubt that the woman of refined taste will admire it for it is simple and serviceable.

For Velvet or Satin.

Then there is the lingerie to be considered. Point d'Esprit, which is hand embroidered with silk floss and sometimes combined with Georgette, is popular. The craze for embroidery extends from the tip-top of the parasol to the alluring envelope chemise. Sometimes it is silk, sometimes worsted, and many times wooden beads.

Rose Point and Venetian lace.

For breakfast coats and boudoir use, lace is in demand. A gorgeous thing of heavy Venetian, with bits of Georgette of a flesh tint slipped in, makes a breakfast jacket fit for a queen, but worn by the queenly American woman.

The vest of the satin dress illustrated could be made of lace if desired or the guimpe of the overdress might show bits of flesh through the screen-like mesh of some delicate lace. The satin frock features the one-sided drapery and rather extreme narrowness at the lower edge.

'LAME DUCK' TOURISTS FLOCKING TO COBLENZ

COBLENZ, Germany, Feb 3.—Coblenz is rapidly becoming a winter tourist resort. It is the goal of visiting lame duck Congressmen and others who have managed to wheedle official Washington into giving them a free trip across the ocean. Delegations of Congressmen in weird attire, and most of them in the twilight of public life, have been arriving daily during the past week.

A regular sightseeing trip, including an officer in the role of "barker," has been arranged through the American bridgehead. Among the sights exhibited is Krupp's castle with its unique devices; Kolsberg castle with living countesses and the Prince of Wierd's castle with afternoon tea. There is also a shopping excursion in which German souvenirs and post cards for the home folks are the chief purchases.

Bringing Back the Wives of Soldiers From Overseas

Free Transportation for Soldiers' Dependents—Definition of Who Shall Be Given Transportation.

Enquiry having been made as to the reason why, when soldiers are being brought home at the country's expense, why the wives and children of these soldiers should not share in the free transportation. The answer to this inquiry is given in the following pronouncement, which may be accepted as authoritive.

In view of the many inquiries which you will doubtless receive, I beg to advise that the Federal Government has decided to return all soldier's dependents to Canada, free, and at the public expense, from the United Kingdom, irrespective whether or not such dependents were previously resident in Canada.

The term dependents being interpreted as covering a soldier's wife, or a soldier's child under the age of eighteen years.

Third-class accommodation to the port of embarkation in England, on board ship and by rail to destination in Canada will be furnished by the Dominion Government. Should commissioned or warrant ranks desire that their dependents should travel first or second class, they will be required to pay the difference in cost of transportation. This arrangement is to take effect immediately.

A further question of interest that will open up is with regard to the status of those who have already paid passage to Canada. In many cases those coming across pledged the separation allowance and assigned pay for one or more months to raise the funds for passage. It is not stated that the order as above is to be retroactive, but it would seem reasonable, that if in the future the dependents are to travel free that those who have paid for passage should be refunded the amounts.

Bernard Daly

Here Next Friday with Special Performance.

The sweet singing Irish star, Bernard Daly, will appear at The Grand Theatre, next Friday February 7 with special matinee in his greatest success "Sweet Innisfallen". Through the plays runs a sweet love story, with the beautiful lakes of Killarney for a setting. The scenery is beautiful and appropriate; the costumes well designed and harmonize with the period represented in the play.

Bernard Daly, as Larry O'Connell keeps the audience in good humor with his songs and brilliant display of Irish wit. "Mavis," "Hide and Seek," "Song of the Wind," "Believe Me if all Those Endearing Young Charms" and "Sweet Innisfallen" are a few of the hits this noted star will render during the performance.

STATEMENT OF POLICY DOMINION PROHIBITION

Following is a statement of policy as adopted by the Dominion Prohibition committee:

In view of the benefits now generally recognized by the people of Canada as having resulted from Prohibition, as provided by means of Order-in-Council, limiting the trade in intoxicating liquor to sacramental, industrial, artistic, mechanical, scientific and medicinal purposes, thereby greatly reducing drunkenness, crime, and waste of money and manhood; and

In view of the general desire that every precaution shall be taken to reduce to a minimum the social, industrial, and political unrest incident to the restoration of the affairs of the nation to normal peace conditions; and

In view of the status of the Order-in-Council of March 11, 1918 (P. C. 589), when the articles of peace shall have been signed; and

In view of the impossibility of submitting at this time the question of making Prohibition permanent to a vote of the people of Canada without a manifest disregard of the right of soldiers overseas to a vote thereon;

Therefore, we recommend:

(1) That the Prime Minister and Government of Canada be requested to take the steps necessary to continue in effect the provisions of the Order-in-Council of March 11, 1918 (P.C. 589), by having the same embodied in Legislation to be enacted by the Parliament of Canada.

(2) That the Legislation so enacted be continued in effect until such time as a vote of the electors of the Dominion of Canada shall have been taken on the question of its continuance or discontinuance.

(3) That the vote on this question be taken at a date to be fixed by the Government of Canada at least six months prior to the day of voting, and with due regard to the restoration to civil life in Canada of the Canadian soldiers now overseas.

Returned Hero Taxed $8 a Call

That is Charge a War Veteran Makes Against Hamilton Physician.

HAMILTON, Feb. 1.—Another case of alleged exorbitant charges made by a Hamilton physician for professional services has been reported, and the matter has been placed in the hands of a lawyer. A returned soldier employed at an east end plant lost his wife during the recent "flu" epidemic. His four children became ill with the same malady a few days later. A physician was called to attend them. They required quite regular attention, these four sick little kiddies, all fighting the dreaded "flu" together in one room, and their father thought that he had his full share of worry and care. However, when he received the doctor's bill he thought again, very hard. The bill totalled $230, and among the items on the itemized account were quite a number of "calls" which were charged for at the rate of $8 each.

THE CHINAMEN.

The Rev. Dr. S. Banks Nelson intends to personally interview the doctors he had in mind when he said that local Chinamen were being grossly overcharged for medical services. The Knox Church pastor so announced. He further stated that a certain doctor had called him up and asked him if he (Dr. Nelson) had him (the speaker) in mind when he made the statement about overcharging.

"Well, is that doctor one of those you had in mind?" Dr. Nelson was asked.

"I won't say, because I have more than one doctor in mind, and it wouldn't be fair to announce the name of one without giving them all. I told the Medical Society I would give it the names whenever it was ready to investigate the cases," replied Dr. Nelson.

"But the society does not seem to be ready."

"Well, there's a detective from Toronto investigating the matter. He called on me for information."

Improvement in Business Conditions

Better Demand for Metal Products —The Steel Market.

There are some signs of an improvement in business conditions in so far as they have to do with the machine tool trade, but these are rather local, and can hardly be interpreted as forerunners of a general revival in this line of business. However, there are lines that are buying quite heavily, viz., some of the agricultural implement shops, rubber goods works, knitting mills, planing mills and furniture factories.

It is interesting to note as an aftermath of the war that British lines are making their appearance once more on the Canadian market. This week a good sized tube order went to a British house. They are also in the market now for furnaces, chains, anchors, and kindred lines. Exportation of these was prohibited during the war, but it is possible now, and there are increasing facilities for transportation as well.

NEED REPAIRS.

Warehouse interests report that there is a lot of business moving in their lines. It is not coming from any particular section, but from shipyards, mines and repaid requirements to existing plants. Some of the latter have been run at top speed 24 hours a day for the last three years, and it is easy to see that they need repairs.

The Canadian National Railways are out this week with specifications for satisfactory orders for tubes, plate, etc., for boiler work. In fact, their buying of this material and of supplies for the machine shops has been about the best business offering.

Prices of steel are standing at the marks that has been passing for some weeks. Indications are that they will not move to any lower levels. There is talk of labour trouble breaking out in the Pittsburgh district, and it will be largely through prices that such trouble will come. The trade feels that it cannot keep prices up to levels and get trade, nor can prices drop until production costs are cut. In such circumstances it is not a hard matter to create trouble.—Canadian Machinery and Manufacturing News.

Voice of The People

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir: I noticed in The Examiner that there are being called in question my motives in publishing certain matters lately relative to Labour. Surely, trying to get the community to take an interest in Labour and Labour's condition at the time of a municipal election, when Labour men were standing for the Council, cannot be criticized, and not less certainly trying to get Labour in touch with Parliament cannot.

Labour wants fair play; not special privileges. It wants the fair play that every decent man and woman and child and animal is entitled to and any man who measures up to that standard of understanding is fit to represent Labour or anybody else.

The bane of Parliament has been the representation of special classes and interests, and see what it has brought us to. If we cannot get rid of class strife, but are to have more of it, there is no end to it but class war, and no such thing as the common brotherhood and the common interest of mankind.

Labour was viewed as a curse in the Bible, and to make it stronger humanity was further condemned to be fruitful and to multiply. We have all been trying to get out from under that curse ever since. But let me tell my critic that I am running after no man and no class. If it is better to bring out a Labour man, bring him out. It is easy no doubt to get a better man than I am. But sitting still in Parliament won't do Labour or anything else much good. One must be prepared to jump in at the right time and to know something more of Labour or Capital and of the people than merely to be able to "raise hell" at local meetings, or to sit in a corner and to look wise. I have given all my time to public work and have had no private interests of any kind to serve. No man should represent the people who can give but part of his attention to this the greatest of all human duties. He will do little more than represent his own interests. I am thousands of dollars behind where I was when I entered politics. My Parliamentary record is in Hansard, which is at the Public Library. There was but one Labour man in the last House, Verveille, M.P. of Montreal, and he was a supporter of Laurier. I will even leave my record to him. But I am asking no favors and have not yet even made up my mind to stand again. The way is clear for anybody who feels called to enrol himself in the great cause of Peace and Industry. But let us keep the anonymous vilifier and hedge-hunter out of it. I am obliged to my critic for coming out in the open.

DERNBURG REPUDIATES NOTE.

Says Message to von Papen Before Senate Committee Was Spurious

BERLIN, Feb. 1.—In the recent investigation by the United States Senate Judiciary Committee into German propaganda, a letter, said to have been signed by Dr. Bernard Dernburg, former German agent in the United States, addressed to Capt. von Papen, former German military attache in Washington, and said to have been found by the British when they captured German headquarters in Palestine, was read into the record. A copy of the published letter was sent to Dr. Dernburg and he authorized the following statement today:

"The letter ascribed to me is a pure fake from first to last. I never wrote von Papen either this or any other letter. As bearing on the reliability of material placed before the Senatorial committee, I would consider it of importance that this, my categorical denial, be transmitted to the other side."

On Dec. 18 last papers of Captain von Papen were placed on the record of the Senate Judiciary Committee. They included a letter of Dr. Dernburg to von Papen, dated at Berlin, Oct. 18, 1916, in which veiled reference was made regarding German submarine activity against Holland and the Scandinavian countries. What the plan was not disclosed fully.

FOOD VALUE OF THE OYSTER

A PINT OF OYSTERS ENOUGH MEAT FOR A FAMILY OF FIVE.

Oysters are a good food. Oysters come nearer in composition to cow's milk than do most other meats, as all the four kinds of nutrients needed are present in good degree. Oysters have a larger excess of the flesh building substance relative to the other constituents than milk, so we "balance the ration" by addition of starchy food and fats when eating oysters, thus securing a good meal at a cost that compares favorably with that when other meats are chosen. The sea salts that they contain are useful in regulating and stimulating nutritional processes.

Another committee of the Council was appointed to act in an advisory capacity with the water board in solving the local water problem.

CAN TRANSPORT LIQUOR.

Justice Bigelow Quashes Saskatchewan Conviction on Dominion Order-in-Council.

REGINA, Sask., Jan. 28.—By the decision of Justice Bigelow, of the court of King's bench, it is now legal to transport liquor from one point to another in this province, contrary to the general impression that the law prevented this. The decision was in an appeal case from the conviction of a justice of the peace who sent accused to jail for transporting a quantity of liquor into the town of Shaunovon, contrary to Dominion Order-in-Council No. 589, Section 4.

The judgment says that the Order-in-Council never intended to covet transportation from one point in a province to another point in the same province and the conviction was quashed without immunity being granted to the convicting justice of the peace.

Ruth Argues With Brian

Chapter CIX.

When Brian said that he was going to enlist with the Canadians Ruth simply stood still and stared at him. But every vestige of color had left her face and after a moment she swayed slightly. Brian thought that she was going to fall and put his arm about her. She shivered and drew slightly away.

"Will you say that again—the whole of it?"

"I said that you would not have to pay rent for me much longer—that I was going to enlist with the Canadians."

"You mean that?"

"Yes."

"And it is because I paid the rent? Oh, Brian!"

"Not—not entirely—though—if you hadn't—perhaps I wouldn't have gone unless Uncle Sam got into the scrap. But you can take care of yourself, better care than I can of you. You don't need me, and the army does."

"I don't—need you?"

"No. You never really have. From the very first you have been able to earn more than I did; to provide yourself with things I could not have hoped to give you for years—if ever. I realize that I am not, never shall be a success—as far as making big money goes. I thought when I married you that I was going to become a big lawyer," his tone was contemptuous and bitter, "but you took all necessity for pushing myself away from me. I could have braced up for you—not for yourself. You earn about three times what I do. You don't need me."

The tone of finality in the last words struck Ruth like a blow. He was going and because she had made him think she did not need him. Not need his love! His companionship! What was he thinking about? No woman ever needed her husband more. But could she make him believe it? Could she make him understand that he meant more to her than all the world beside?

Ruth had forgotten Mandel, and that she had really, seriously, wondered if she cared for him. She thought of nothing no one, but Brian—her husband.

"Brian—I want you to believe me when I tell you that I do need you. Need your love, your dear companionship. Money isn't all, dear, even though it may have seemed to you at times that I thought it was. I happened to have a gift for a particular kind of work. Work which is always highly paid. It was congenial work, too. That it has occasionally taken you from me for a little while, has been a drawback—the only one. Yet, dear we have been very comfortable, and it has given you opportunity to feel that you could better equip yourself. You see we have not needed all we both earned."

"Study—equip myself—what for?" To sit alone while you are working for Mandel? Not on your life! A man has to have a motive to do these things—and I have had none. Perhaps my pride should have been spur enough—my ambition. Well, my pride wasn't and you have killed all the ambition that I ever possessed. Not intentionally, perhaps"—the look on Ruth's face caused him to soften his words, "but killed it just the same. I have a home which you provide. A servant whom you pay. Food which you often pay for and so on. Nice position for a man to be in, isn't it? Do you wonder that I cannot bring myself to let more people know that my wife supports me in a style in which I could not support her? It is unbearable that it should go on. Unthinkable that I should not take the first opportunity that offers to escape from such an humiliating position."

"But Brian—"

"There is no use talking any longer. My mind is made up. We have talked of, quarrelled over this money question until I am tired and sick of this very word 'money.' I would rather live in one room and cook the meals myself than go on."

"As Mollie King does?"

Ruth never could have explained what made her ask that question. She had not thought of Molly while Brian had been talking; she had not in any way connected her with Brian's decision. The question had slipped out.

"Yes, if you will, just like Mollie King does. She at least spoils no one's life by aspiring to things beyond her reach. Just why you should bring her into this I can't see."

"I didn't mean anything. I spoke without thinking."

"Since you have referred to her, I may as well tell you that Mollie is going over too—she is going as a nurse. For six months she has been training."

"Mollie King is going, too?" once more Ruth seemed unable to grasp what she had been told.

"Yes, Mollie is going—too."

Tomorrow—Ruth Spends Unhappy Hours.

YOUNGSTER HAD RIGHT SPIRIT

Newsboy's Appreciation of Work of "Our Boys" a Valuable Object Lesson in Patriotism.

"The other evening as I was walking over the long bridge that extends back of the Union station in Baltimore, my eye, searching for something interesting, caught sight of a small newsboy—just a little, dirty-faced chap but one does not look at twice. What especially drew my attention to him, however, was something unusual in the way he drew out one of his papers, folded it into very small compass, and tossed it over the railing into the freight yard below. My eyes involuntarily followed the direction of the paper, and as I peered over the balustrade I saw a stirring scene, numbers of big army trucks and scores of 'doughs' bustling round busily and cheerily unloading and reloading them. One of the soldiers was in the act of waving his hand in thanks to the boy whose paper he had just picked up.

"Much interested, I moved over to the little fellow. Under cover of buying a paper and getting change, I put a casual question: 'How do you ex-pect to get your money from that soldier down there?' My little friend looked disgusted. 'I gave it to him!' he instantly retorted. Then he turned to gaze again on the fascinating scene below, and added very softly: 'He's doin' more'n a cent's worth for us.'"—Indianapolis News.

HAD MODIFIED HIS DESIRE

After Experience in Airplane Man Decided He Would Prefer to Travel to Heaven on Foot.

"Does it ever fail?" finally quivered the novice as the airplane climbed higher and still higher.

"Only when I let it do so," answered the airman. "Now and then I drop her backward. Here we go!"

On the backward descent, a mile or more, the passenger clung to the pilot with both arms and never breathed. At last the machine resumed its horizontal traveling.

"Great heavens!" gasped the novice with relief.

"Say, look here; didn't you say you wished to die on high like a gliding sunbeam?" complained the aviator.

"Then" admitted the passenger.

"Then shut up. I'm going to get your wish."

Suddenly the airplane dived and looped the loop, then traveled upside down.

"Quit fast."

"Eh-what?"

"We are going to land."

Quick as the airplane glided to earth. Relieved from his seat, the passenger knelt and lifted both hands solemnly.

"Once I prayed to be an angel," he said. "But it doesn't go any more unless on foot."

Pimples Broke Out All Over Face, Arms and Neck

While the skin is the seat of the irritating, unsightly pimples, the real disease is in the blood.

Medicated lotions and powders may allay the itching and the irritation, but never cure, no matter how long and faithfully continued, and the condition is often aggravated, and the skin permanently injured by their use. The disease is more than skin deep; the entire circulation is poisoned.

Burdock Blood Bitters quickly and thoroughly cures blood and skin troubles because it goes direct to the root of the disease and stimulates and restores normal, healthy action to the different organs, cleanses and enriches the blood, and thus relieves the system of all poisonous secretions.

B. B. B. cures permanently because it leaves none of the original poison to ferment in the blood and cause a fresh attack.

Miss E. M. Davidson, Daysland, Alta., writes: "Last summer I was greatly troubled with pimples breaking out all over my face, arms and neck. I was advised to try Burdock Blood Bitters and after taking two bottles the pimples had almost all disappeared. I shall always recommend this remedy to anyone afflicted with skin troubles."

B.B.B. is manufactured only by the T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

KEEP URIC ACID OUT OF JOINTS

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Eat Less Meat and Take Salts.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly; keep the feet dry; avoid exposure; eat less meat, but drink plenty of good water.

Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid which is absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which helps overcome uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.

Decline of Cent on Pork Would Cause His Concern $2,500,000 Loss, He Says.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31.—Louis F. Swift, president of Swift & Co., told the House Interstate Commerce Committee that the Food Administration in stablizing the live stock market had accomplished "wonderful things, both for the producer and the consumer," and that its control was needed now as much as ever.

"This is a critical time and everybody is loaded up with meat," said Mr. Swift. "We haven't had many shipments. The only possible way to have made shipments abroad as we did was through Food Administration control."

The witness declared that a decline of one cent a pound in the pork market would mean a loss of $2,500,000 to his firm on the great amount of meat it had prepared for the world market. He expressed a belief that with government control continued prices would be high for some months, but then probably would decline.

The bill before the committee to license packing plants and permit the government to take over adjuncts, such as stockyards, newspapers and refrigerator cars, was opposed by Mr. Swift as class legislation and certain to be hurtful to the general public by crippling industry.

"Government supervision through full access to the packers books was advocated by him as a "less dangerous" method of procedure. The primary desire of Swift & Co., was declared, to be efficient service in the stockyards and readiness was expressed to sell the firm's interests in various yards, if present standards of operation could be maintained.

Regarding the Federal Trade Commission's allegation that packer ownership of refrigerator cars prevents the small packers from competing with the big firms, Mr. Swift suggested that instead of taking the cars away from the big firms the government or railroads should build five thousand cars and let the small packers use them. He said refrigerator cars were a losing investment to his firm, which maintained them only to assure efficient service.

Charges of collusion by the Federal Trade Commission were denied by Mr. Swift. He said there were 25,000 stockholders in Swift & Co., and that his family did not own a majority of the stock. The witness said his salary was $50,000 a year, and that his four brothers, all practical meat packers, draw from $35,000 to $35,000 each.

Keen competition between the five big packers was declared to exist, and Mr. Swift said this apparently was a good time for new firms to enter the business. He said he never before knew of so many new plants under construction, and told the committee the Anheuser-Busch brewing interests of St. Louis were starting a new packing company.

LONDON, Feb. 1.— It is officially reported that the British and French have taken over all the railroads in European and Asiatic Turkey, also the Constantinople police and German and Austrian banks in the Turkish capital.

Old Rivals Meet at Brock St. Rink in To-night's Battle

Manager Bradley and Childs, Rowden Jacobi and the rest of his stars of the Oshawa team last year's runners up for the intermediate championship arrive on the 5.35 G. T. R. train this evening to meet the Peterboro intermediates in the first game of the big series that will decide which team will have the honour of going into the second round.

There promises to be a grand crowd at Brock street rink when the puck is faced at 8:15 o'clock to-night and with the best ice of the season available there is every reason to expect a memorable game. The Oshawa team contains no new stars but is a fast well balanced collection of seasoned performers. Peterboro fans have reason to remember "Kip" Rowden the clever centre player of the Oshawa gang because of his sensational playing as a junior for the Oshawa outfit. On one occasion in a junior game here Rowden not only pulled the game out of the fire for Oshawa by tying it up with a couple of minutes to play by a spectacular rush but eventually won in the overtime period by an equally cever play. He is the ace of the Oshawa scoring section and will need to be watched all the way. Childs the former Woodstock goal-keeper who was a member of the Western All-Stars on several occasions is still with the Oshawa squad. He is a clever net guardian but not entirely unbeatable for the local fans still have recollections of Bobby Armstrong and Co-driving seven counters past him two years ago. The Oshawa fans also remember this occasion which put a crimp in many a bank-roll.

The Petes are in good shape for to-nights battle and hope to surprise the visitors, who according to reports regard the Peterboro series as a mere formality before meeting the Kingston squad in the next round. The Petes, however, may be able to upset these calculations and judging by the pace they have been setting in practice. The fast ice to-night is thoroughly to the taste of every member of the local squad and they should be at their best to-night.

The Peterboro team will line-up as follows:—
Goal—Legros.
Defence—Halpin, Evans.
Centre—Murphy.

CURLING

Peterboro's two district cup rinks skipped by J. W. McDermid and Ray Best went to Lindsay to-day for the District Cup games. The rinks were as follows: Herb. Hair, J. Metheral, Percy Fitzgerald and J. W. McDermid; and Ross Dobbin, Alex. Archibald, W. D. Campbell and R. P. Best

Tankard Games To-morrow

The tankard games will be played here to-morrow, with Lindsay probably the only competitor with Peterboro. R. M. Waddell has called these games which are already two weeks overdue.

The Vice-Skips' Bonspiel.

Chis. Graham's rink is the only one of the vice-skips that have reached the fours in their bonspiel. The others are in the eights round, but it is expected that the bonspiel will be concluded on Wednesday night. There will be a draw at seven o'clock and it is the intention to continue the play until the bonspiel is decided no matter how late the games may run. The ice is in splendid condition, and the Club realizes that full advantage must be taken of the frost to make up for the time that was lost during the January thaw.

Graham's rink went into the fours by defeating R. F. Downey in a hard fought game that ended with the score of 9-8.

The other games in the eights that have yet to be decided are as follows:
W. H. Taylor vs. George Hill.
Sam Ray vs. F. Brownscombe
R. L. Dobbin vs. Grant Copping.

Fast Junior Teams Clash Here Wednesday in Decisive Battle

While the Lindsay Midgets and Peterborough Juniors clash at Brock Street Rink on Wednesday night in the first game of the home and home series to decide the group title, the fans will see the most exciting junior battle of many a season. The first game between the two teams at the beginning of the season was a corker, but both teams have improved since then, and they will set a faster pace than ever when they are set at each other on Wednesday night.

Size it up for yourself.

The first game played here was won by the Petes, 7 to 4. The second game in Lindsay was captured by the Midgets, 12 to 10. That makes the score on the round, after two hours of lightning hockey, 17 to 16, and the closeness of the score shows how well matched are the two teams. In Friday's game in Lindsay no one could predict the final result with certainty until the last minute of play, and Wednesday's contest promises to be of the same calibre. No one who saw that game or the first one here between the two teams could be kept out of the rink for Wednesday's clash. Although no special train can be secured there will be a big bunch of Lindsay fans down for the game. They are raving about the Midgets up in Lindsay claiming this to be the best outfit that has represented the town since the old Midgets won a championship. They have some reason for their elation too, for the Midgets are a hustling, clever outfit. The Peterborough fans, however, feel that the local gang has the edge on the Midgets, and will prove it in this week's series. There are still other people that say it is a toss up, and the team that gets the breaks in the two games will go into the next round.

Any way you look at it, however, Wednesday's game promises to be a thriller from the first face-off.

Biggest Week of O.H.A. Season For Two Peterboro Teams

After waiting patiently for over three weeks for a chance to see a hockey game the Peterboro fans are at last given an opportunity of seeing two great battles in three days.

To-night the all-important intermediate series between Oshawa and Peterboro opens with a game at the Brock street rink, while on Wednesday night the Lindsay Midgets will be here for the first game of the home and home series with the Peterboro Juniors that will decide the championship of the group. The return game in each case will be played on Friday night, so that this is the biggest week of the season for the two Peterboro teams.

The fans should understand that in the Oshawa-Peterboro series it is games and not goals that count and that to win the group one or other of the teams will have to win both here and in Oshawa.

On the other hand, as the Lindsay and Peterboro Juniors have already completed their group schedule, and are tied with three wins and one loss each, the series that starts Wednesday is a play-off and the team that wins the majority of goals in the two games will go on into the next round.

The standing in the two groups is as follows:

Intermediate—

| | Won | Lost | Goals For | Agst. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Peterboro | 4 | 0 | 27 | 19 |
| Oshawa | 4 | 0 | 28 | 10 |
| Whitby | 2 | 4 | 17 | 31 |
| Lindsay* | 0 | 6 | 12 | 24 |

*Defaulted.

Junior—

| | Won | Lost | Goals For | Agst. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Peterboro | 3 | 1 | 25 | 16 |
| Lindsay | 3 | 1 | 23 | 20 |
| Port Hope* | 0 | 4 | 5 | 15 |

*Defaulted.

"Home Run" Baker Will Stay on the Farm

It is reported that "Home Run" Baker will work his farm and play with a local team in the Maryland County league this year instead of holding down third base for the New York Americans.

It is no secret that the famous home run king is anxious to quit the game and when he says something—which isn't often—he generally means it.

If Baker is lost to the American league it will mean the passing of a great player and one of the finest characters that ever graced the national pastime. Baker's name will always live for his remarkable home run drives that won the world's championship for the Athletics against the Giants in 1911. He drove the ball over the fence on two dramatic occasions, winning games that seemed lost — and the sobriquet of "Home Run" Baker. He often led the league in home runs and extra base hits, and although never regarded as a great fielder, the records prove that he handled more chances than any other third baseman of his time.

Despite the adulation heaped upon him Baker remained unspoiled. He is all he wants to be—a simple farmer. He owns a farm in Maryland and always begrudged the time spent away from it during the baseball season. Even when with his team he kept rustic hours. He went to bed at 8 o'clock and was up with the sun. He has no bad habits—nobody ever heard him swear. His only vice was checkers.

Four Handsome Trophies and a Wealth of Prizes For Peterboro's Open Bonspiel

Three of the Silver Cups Are New Ones, Presented to the Peterboro Club for Annual Competition by G. W. Morrow, the Matthews-Blackwell Co. and R. M. Waddell.

BIG ENTRY LIST EXPECTED

Peterborough's open bonspiel, the draw for which will be made here on Tuesday, February 11th at 9 a.m. promises to be the biggest curling event in the province this winter if the weather and other affecting conditions facilitate the plans that have been prepared by the committee.

Four handsome silver trophies, three of them new ones that are offered for the first time, together with rich prizes donated by the Curling Club should attract the large number of rinks that are expected for this bonspiel. The silverware and prizes may be briefly enumerated as follows:

The W. G. Morrow Trophy.

Mr. W. G. Morrow, chairman of the bonspiel committee, has presented for annual competition at the bonspiel a large and beautifully designed sterling silver trophy valued at $200, and with it the Club offers a first prize of four mahogany cabinets of silver worth $80, and a second prize of four cut glass bowls worth $32. These prize become the permanent possession of the winners, but the Morrow cup shall be held for only one year.

The Matthews-Blackwell Trophy.

Another new trophy has been presented by the Matthews-Blackwell Co., and with the Morrow trophy is a splendid addition to the Peterborough Club's list of prizes for the bonspiel. With this trophy the club offers as first prize, four oak cabinets of pearl-handled knives and forks valued at $80, and as second prize four silver casseroles worth $28.

The Peterborough Curling Club Trophy.

The Curling Club's old silver cup which up to this year has been the only trophy offered at the bonspiel must not be overlooked. It is valued at $100, and with it goes the associations of past contests. It is open to the losers in the Morrow and Matthews-Blackwell events, and with it are given as first prize four mahogany clocks worth $48 and four silver plates worth $24. The number of rinks entering this competition shall be decided by three skips from the visiting clubs and the Bonspiel committee.

The R. M. Waddell Trophy.

R. M. Waddell has donated for annual competition between visiting curlers at the bonspiel and curlers on the Peterborough club, a beautiful silver trophy with which the Club offers four silver tea sets valued at $80 and four thermos bottles worth $24, as first and second prizes respectively. It shall be open to twelve rinks from the local club and to an equal number of rinks from all visiting clubs at the bonspiel. Other rules have been drawn up by Mr. Waddell with a view to making this competition one of the features of the bonspiel.

Both the Charlotte and Brock street rinks will be utilized by the curlers for this big event, the success of which depends solely upon favourable—that is cold—weather. Mr. Morrow and his committee have sent out a special booklet to many clubs and everything is ready for an entry list of one hundred or more rinks that, because you have tried and found to be ineffective many kinds of remedies for Gastritis, Hyperacidity, or imperfect Digestion of Food accompanied by pain or gas after eating, that you cannot be relieved and be cured.

Moncur's Digestive Tonic

is slightly laxative and acts upon the liver as well. It is especially suited for those suffering from Bilious Indigestion. It corrects at once the formation of Gas. It assists in the assimilation of food and protects the Inflamed Lining of the stomach in Gastritis.

It strengthens and relieves the whole Digestive Tract. This preparation used in connection with proper diet and nerve sedatives, gives the most satisfying results in Nervous Dyspepsia and Hyperacidity.

Even the old chronic cases show a decided improvement under treatment with this remedy.

It is proving as successful in the treatment of the above weaknesses as MONCUR'S DOUBLE STRENGTH LUNG SYRUP has proven in the treatment of OBSTINATE AND RACKING COUGHS, COLDS AND BRONCHITIS.

100th Anniversary Of Cobourg Church

Rev. F. J. Sawers is Present Rector of St. Peters Church.

St. Peter's Anglican Church, Cobourg, celebrated its 100th anniversary on Sunday, January 26th. The present rector is Rev. F. J. Sawers, formerly rector of St. Luke's Anglican Church of this city. For the past hundred years there has been but five ministers in charge of St. Peter's. Rev. William McCauley from 1818 to 1827; Rev. A. N. Bethune from 1827 to 1866, he afterwards becoming Archdeacon of York and Bishop of Toronto; Canon A. W. Spragge from 1899 to 1914. The present rector, Rev. F. J. Sawers, entered on his fifth year of service at St. Peter's on Monday, January 27th.

During this time there have been important changes in the church and its membership. The first church was commenced in the spring of 1820 and opened on Christmas Day of that year. Up to October, 1854, various additions were made to the building, and in that year the present handsome edifice was built, being constructed over the old church which was used for service until the present building was opened.

At the fiftieth anniversary of the present church in 1905, the spire of the old tower was removed and a memorial chime of bells was placed in the tower. As a permanent memorial of the hundredth anniversary it has been proposed to join the church and the parish hall which is alongside the church and make one large building.

Light-Skinned Negro Mystery Murder

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—With its maniac-murderer mystery solved, the national capital was confronted Saturday with a new mystery—the slaying of three high caste Chinese belonging to the Chinese Educational Mission.

Solution of the city's maniac mystery came overnight with the arrest of a light-skinned negro, giving the name of James Jackson. He confessed he had attacked three women in their homes, shooting two and choking the third, afterward trying to take his own life.

While Jackson was making his confession, police were trying to run down the murderer of the Chinese.

Dr. Theodore T. Wong, director of the mission and framer of the new national education scheme for China, was found dead in his home with his two assistants, Ben Sen Wu and C. H. Hsie, students of George Washington University.

Whether robbery was the motive, or whether the slaying was the outcome of some strange Oriental feud, is something the police have not yet determined.

The three had been dead some time—probably since Wednesday. Signs of a struggle were apparent and a revolver lay near one body. Dr. Wong was found in the sitting room of his quarters, in a select northwest Washington locality; the other two day dead in the basement.

USED FOR SHAVING.

Many men are troubled, more particularly in the cold weather, with a sort of roughness of the skin or eczema, caused by shaving. Because of its antiseptic qualities this ointment prevents and cures Barber's Itch.

Most Beautiful Women in World on Islands Where Allies Will Meet Russians

NEW YORK, Feb. 1. — The Prince's Island, where the Allies are to meet the Russian factions, furnish an ideal place for talking things over. There probably is no place more ideally situated for a series of quiet, unexcited chats. Four of the nine islands comprising the group are inhabited, but the total population is only a little more than 10,000.

The islands are about 13 miles southeast of Constantinople, with which they are connected by a ferry that makes trips every two hours, the trip consuming about one hour and a half. The inhabitants are never in a hurry.

THE CHIEF ISLAND.

Prinkipo, the chief island of the group, is ten miles in circumference and contains a town of the same name.

It is in this town that the sessions of the conference are most likely to be held, as it is the only place in the group having a variety of buildings. It contains many large villages, occupied several months of each year by their wealthy owners, who come from all parts of the world.

Though the islands are in the same latitude as New York, they experience no disagreeable weather. Pine trees cover much of them, and carpet the ground with their needles. Grass never grows, but there is heavy, semi-tropical shrubbery.

NO RUNNING WATER.

There is no running water on the islands, but the envoys may find cheap peddlers sell water for two to four cents a keg and excellent wine for about the same price.

Most of the inhabitants are Greeks. Travellers declare that the most beautiful women in the world live the simple life in these islands.

The inhabitants have home rule, which means practically no rule at all. There is no government worthy of notice, and no taxes are paid except when the people tax themselves, which is seldom, as the wealthy foreign residents provide all the improvements needed. Few of the residents ever lock their doors, whether they are at home or not, and the only work there is for the heavily armed and gaily decorated policemen is keeping the goats from eating the trees.

Nobody does much work except the monks in the numerous monasteries (some of whom are industrious wine makers), and the one inhabitants of the island of Androvichi, who makes lime. There are two good hotels in Prinkipo.

A Service In Lakefield For the Armenians

Speaker for the Occasion Was Archdeacon Warren.

On Sunday evening there was a special service for the Armenians in St. John's church. A special collection was taken up in the Sunday School in aid of the suffering Christian brothers in that persecuted land. The Armenian church was an established fact before Christianity had reached Western Europe or Britain. At the evening service the sermon was given by Venerable Archdeacon Warren a former rector of the parish.

His text was taken from Romans 12-1 "I beseech you therefore brethern by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service."

A great many people who do not believe what we believe, do not accept the religion of Jesus Christ. Our religion seems so natural to us that we cannot imagine others holding a different religion. It is a paradox.

Religion is a strange thing, it is always different from the world's code. Men say to you, "I can do what I like with my life." Religion says you can't the text says 'present your bodies a living sacrifice,' which is your reasonable service." and we have to decide. God says not to imagine that you can achieve your destiny by doing as you like but subject yourselves unto the will of God.

He who withholds his life shall lose it but he who loses it for Chirst's sake shall save it. We must make full self surrender to God, "and be not confounded to this world,"—which is a very contradictory statement as, according to all the rules of society now has been compelled to adopt the rules and habits of the world. We therefore have to reconcile this extravagant contradiction. Never be influenced by the worldly, think and act and do what is right.

"Be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable and perfect, will of God."

There is a temple eternal in Heaven but we have a temple right here, we must enter into the new and living way.

Time to Strive

Now is the time to strive for the betterment of the world; all our earth ly efforts are futile; the only way is to enter unto the Holy of Holies and give ourselves a full, perfect and sufficient sacrifice unto God.

There is no one here who cannot make that sacrifice most acceptable to God.

Some people find it hard to understand religion when you come to the service of God you are to make it an act of faith and when you come to the communion you should fully surrender yourselves and your bodies and souls a living sacrifice, holy and acceptable to God which is your reasonable service.

Religion is not only not cheating or lying or other sins, but full surrender is the vital clause of our religion. Accept it, offer yourself to God and the blessing of God will descend upon your life.

The German Government is Indicted by Former Premier

Huns Were the Sole Cause of the Great World Debacle—Where France stood—King George Admired Limitations French Imposed Upon Themselves.

PARIS, Feb. 3.—On July 30, 1914, the French Government ordered its troops to retire eight or ten kilometres from the frontier, having heard that the German troops were moving toward it, Rene Viviani, former Premier, declared in the Chamber of Deputies in the course of disclosures concerning the origin of the war, which never before have been made public.

M. Viviani was Premier when the war broke out.

"It was on July 30," he said, "that the Government, of whinh I was the chief, decided that the French troops should retire eight or ten kilometres from the frontier. On the same day I requested Paul Cambon, French ambassador in London, by wire, to inform Sir Edward Grey of the measure taken.

"'England,' I said, 'will realize that if France is firm, it is not she who is taking measures of aggression. Although Germany has moved her troops upon her battle line, the Government of the French republic intends to demonstrate that France, as well as Russia, bears no responsibility for the attack.'"

Made Great Sacrifice.

"Could we risk a murderous war on the chance meeting of patrols? We desired to proclaim high before the world that if France were forced to fight, she would do so for right and justice, and not take advantage of any equivocation.

"The withdrawal was carried out without meeting any obstacle, either technical or military. Had we met with an observation from Gen. Joffre to the effect that the measure might endanger the fate of the country, we should not have hesitated, but would have kept the watch on the frontier. No objection came from the general."

M. Viviani's speech was in reply to questions by Deputy Fernand Engerand, who sharply criticized the abandonment of the ten kilometre zone. He claimed that it was a technical mistake, because the mine valley of Briey was within range of the French guns, and had it been bombarded intensively for three or four days would have brought war to an end in six months.

Former Premier Viviani replied that the abandonment of the Briey Valley in the event of war had been decided upon by the general staff in January, 1914. A withdrawal to a depth of 25 kilometres was first considered, said Mr. Viviani, who then read a telegram from General Joffre, dated July 30, reading as follows:

King George's Reply.

Mr. Viviani then read a message from Adolphe Messimy, the Minister of War, at that time, as follows:

"In order to assure English collaboration, it is indispensable that French troops do not cross the general line decided upon, unless a regular attack is made upon them."

M. Viviani, amid intense excitement, continued. The war decided, the President of the republic wrote a letter to King George, which was published in the press at that time, but the reply of the King is still unpublished. It reads: "'I admire the limitation which France willingly imposed upon herself, and which so vitally concerns her military defence.'"

The former Premier was labouring under great emotion, and his voice was at high pitch, carrying to every corner of the spacious chamber, as he cried: "It is essential that the world know, in order to assure the peace of the world, we were making such a sublime sacrifice in uncovering our frontier in order to affirm our right. Do you think that great and noble America would have remained indifferent to such a striking demonstration of our good faith, and that it had no influence upon her final decision? Upon the responsibilities for the war historians may discuss, but France, my her withdrawal ten kilometres away from her frontier, has given the world proof of her earnest desire for peace."

Top price for the latter went up to $16.75 for one choice bunch of steers bought for H. P. Kennedy. Several good lots sold around $16, and from that figure down to $14.50. Choice butcher steers and heifers were a good 50 to 75 cents higher than last week.

Fat cows were 25 cents higher.

Calves firm.

Lambs 25 to 50 cents higher.

MOTHER, YOUR CHILD IS CROSS, FEVERISH, FROM CONSTIPATION

IF TONGUE IS COATED, BREATH BAD, STOMACH SOUR, CLEAN LIVER AND BOWELS.

Give "California Syrup of Figs" at once — a teaspoonful to-day often saves a sick child to-morrow.

If your little one is out of sorts, half sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally — look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless "fruit laxative," because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels, and sweeten the stomach, and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and from grown-ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask the druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

Ruth Spends Unhappy Hours

CHAPTER XI.

Mollie King going to France as a nurse! Slowly the fact that Brian must be going so that he might be near her, impressed itself upon Ruth's mind. If he cared for Mollie like that what use was it for her to try to fight it, or to argue with him because of her own need?

He had said "Mollie is going—too." That last ominous word chilled her; made her catch her breath, and killed her speech. What use?

Their dinner was eaten almost in silence. There was but one thing to talk about; and that neither spoke of again. After dinner Brian took a magazine, and Ruth some mending into the living room. He stretched himself at full length, sprawling comfortably in a huge reading chair Ruth had given him. Her lip curled as she looked. He would leave her because she worked, earned money, yet to the last he would use the comforts she provided. How like him.

Yet there was little bitterness in her thought, despite the curling lip. Brian was so like an overgrown boy instead of a man. A big, spoiled boy. It was always so she thought of him, after he had hurt her. But that Mollie was going too: could it be that while she had been so busy, he and Mollie had been planning to do this thing?

Suddenly she doubted Brian's reason for going—rather planning to go. It was not patriotism, not a desire to fight for a cause he thought right and just; but a desire to be with Mollie King—to be cut off from all convention with this girl whom he had known so long and whose friends had expected he would marry.

What should she do?

What could she do?

As she sat darning a sock of Brian's—a silk one she had given him—she wondered vaguely if she offered to give up her work and remain at home, if it would stop him. Then she glanced around the dainty, almost luxurious room, until finally her eyes rested upon the sprawling figure in the easy chair. There would be no hint of luxury if they depended upon what he earned, she knew. Hadn't she tried it when they were first married? Brian was smoking a cigar; she knew by the aroma that it was an expensive one. He had smoked cheap cigarettes then. She heard Rachel mock, close the kitchen, clearing away the dinner things, and attending to the breakfast for the next morning. Brian loved her delicious coffee, her waffles and Johnny cake, hot, and cut in squares. He doted upon her fried chicken and corn fritters. He never failed to say she made the best soups he ever had tasted. He would have to give up all these things and eat what she cooked drink coffee which he used to liken to dish-water. No—it was not to be considered. If he didn't love her enough to be true when he, thru her efforts, was made so comfortble, he would not love her when deprived of all these things.

That men do not love because of extraneous things, Ruth had yet to learn. That it is the appeal of the woman herself that first draws them, and then holds them.

Brian finished his story. He yawned, then:

"I believe I'll turn in early," he said, "I have a lot to do to-morrow, and shall have to be down early."

Ordinarily Ruth would have asked him what it was that he had to do. But she nothing. He rose, went to the door and called to Rachel:

"Have breakfast promptly in the morning, Rachel. I shall be hurried I guess you better have it fifteen minutes earlier."

"Very well, massa Hackett."

"She's a brick!" Brian said when he turned to Ruth," she never grumbles."

"Of course she doesn't." Again Brian's absolute irresponsibility flashed across Ruth's mind, his insouciance under all circumstances. Also his appropriation and praise of the very things he blamed her for providing.

Was anyone ever so complex?

She wanted to talk to him about his plans, but more than even that, did she wanted to think. She felt all at sea. Her thoughts refused to coalesce.

But when he had left her to retire, the sock dropped from her fingers and lay unnoticed in her lap. Over and over, she tabulated the reasons Brian had given her for leaving, only to come back to Mollie King as the only one in which she could honestly believe.

To-morrow— Distrust, Unbelief and Jealousy.

Americans Should Eat Fish.

Americans are deficient as fish eaters, compared with inhabitants of foreign countries. Less than two pounds per head is the yearly consumption of salt and smoked fish in this country. For the winter's supply, salt fish can be laid in and, pound for pound, furnish much more nutriment than fresh fish. This is because curing extracts a large part of the water, and what is left is nearly all solid food.—People's Home Journal.

Had No Occasion to Say It.

A little girl was invited to a friend's house for dinner and before leaving her mother warned her to say "please," "thank you," and "no, thank you." When the little girl returned she was asked if she did please and thank you and she said yes. Then her mother asked: "Did you say no, thank you, when they passed something you didn't want?"

"No, mother, I didn't, because they didn't pass anything I didn't want."

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Bitro-Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigour and Nerve Force.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and sold by McDermid & Jury in Peterboro and most all druggists under a guarantee of entire satisfaction or your money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate quickly produces a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, soon disappear, dull eyes become bright, and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

CAUTION:— Although bitro-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its remarkable flesh-growing properties, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

TO MAKE CHICKENS LAY

To Make the Stock Pay Feed Concentrates.

Roughage and Roots Give Bulk to the Ration, But Production Depends Upon the Grains, Mill-feeds and Oilcakes.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

MANY people forget that a hen requires feeds other than grain in order to be in good health and to lay.

All-grain rations are neither conducive to health or egg production. At times when hens have the run of the stables and the yards, together with house scraps, they do very well, owing to the fact that an opportunity is given them to pick up bits of clover leaves, roots, and such like material.

A certain amount of meat foods is essential in order to produce the white of the eggs. Too much of such feed is apt to cause trouble with the general digestion of the bird.

Milk as a drink, is, without doubt, the best animal feed known. It gives the best results when sour. When birds are accustomed to it they will not take too much.

Beef scrap and high grade tankage are used very extensively on large poultry plants where milk is not available. These are mixed with ground grain, generally in the proportion of fifteen to twenty per cent. For the general purpose breeds the former amount is sufficient. Breeds such as Leghorns will make good use of twenty per cent of meat scrap in the ration.

Cooked butchers' meat, green cut bone, cooked beef head, lungs, liver, etc., are all very good feeds and may be fed in a manner similar to meat scrap.

Some people think that because a little of meat feeds are good, more would be better. Experience has shown that such is not the case. Too much often causes serious trouble.

Green feeds are essential for health and for economy. A hen should have all the green feed she will consume. A certain amount of pulpy, succulent green feed she will consume. Such feed is usually fairly inexpensive. Where birds are not fed any green feed, in the course of time they become unthrifty, lay poorly and moreover, the eggs from such birds many times are very low in hatching power.

Experience has shown that oats when properly sprouted are a most excellent feed. The hens are very fond of them and the value of the oats as a feed is good. That is, the sprouted oats reduce the grain feed consumption equal to the pounds of oats sprouted and one gains the increased palatability of the oats, as well as the value from the greens.

Thin-leafed greens contain one of the very important elements of growth and health. They are called nature's protective feeds; that is they assist to maintain the birds' health or normal resistance against disease. Health is an essential to profit. In winter we find such feed in sprouted oats, cabbage, and clover leaves.—Prof. R. W. Graham, O. A. College, Guelph.

Value of Concentrates in Ration.

A cattle feed is valuable to the extent it contains those substances which will repair body tissue, build new tissue and furnish energy to do work. The particular materials in a food which have this power are protein, the flesh-forming substance, carbohydrates and fat, the fat and energy producers and the mineral matter which has a great many functions in the body.

Any feed that carries a high percentage of protein and fat and a large amount of a digestible form of the carbohydrates is called a concentrated feed or a concentrate. Thus grains, that feeds and oil cakes are concentrates. On the other hand, a feed low in these valuable constituents and high in indigestible carbohydrates, or crude fibre, as, for instance, straw, hay, corn stalks, are called roughage or bulky feeds. Roots may also be put in this class because they contain a very high percentage of water and they are for this reason bulky.

These bulky feeds have their place in the ration, indeed in the case of full-frown animals on maintenance ration, they may form the whole of the food; but it is impossible for a young animal to make rapid growth, a cow to give a large amount of milk or a horse to work hard on such feed. The hard woody fibre of the straw and hay are difficult to digest and much of the energy that should go to production of work or increase is used up in digesting the food. Consequently when production is desired the amount of roughage feed must be reduced and the concentrates increased.

Another reason why concentrates must be used is that to get the largest production we must have the animal digest and absorb the maximum amount of the various constituents which together form a food. A cow cannot long continue to furnish a large amount of casein in milk unless it gets the material from which to form it from the food. Neither can a steer make rapid growth and fatten on a food that does not furnish a large amount of the food constituents essential for growth. These cannot be supplied in the largest and best quantities except by the use of the concentrates. The coarser feeds or roughage are necessary to give bulk to the ration but there must be an abundance of easily-digestible materials if the best results are to be obtained and this is the place of concentrates in the ration. We want some coarse feeds, even if they are poorly digested, but we also want some concentrates to supply the materials for growth and production. Furthermore within certain limits the more of the concentrates fed the greater the production.—Prof. H. Barnett, O. A. College, Guelph.

NO CONSTIPATION NO PILES

We think, without a doubt, that constipation is the most prevalent, and at the same time, one of the greatest troubles human nature is afflicted with, and causes more sickness than anything else.

Unless a free action of the bowels occurs at least once a day, constipation is sure to ensue, then comes the sore and uncomfortable piles, sick and bilious headaches, coated tongue, obnoxious breath, sour stomach, heartburn, water brash, and many other ailments.

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will regulate the flow of bile to act properly on the bowels, thus removing the constipation and its allied troubles.

Mr. Dan Doucette, Eel River Crossing, N.B., writes: — "Having been troubled for years with constipation and trying everything I know of, a friend advised me to use Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. I used four vials and am completely cured. I can gladly recommend them to anyone who suffers from constipation."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills have been on the market for the past 25 years, and have been used with the best results by thousands of people in that time, and we have yet to hear of a complaint as to their curative powers.

Price 25c. a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

LONG HOLY PLACES

Shrines That Are Held in Veneration by Moslems.

All True Followers of Mahomet Eager That Their Last Resting Place Shall Be Near Those of Their Great Apostles.

Near to the resting place of the first great apostles of their faith it is the dearest wish of all pious Mohammedans to lie after death.

The shrines of Najaf, Kerbela and Kazimain, the resting places of Ali, Hussein, and the seventh and ninth Imams, lie on the edge of the desert in the country British troops now occupy in Mesopotamia.

One often meets a corpse on the road packed in a long crate or bundle of palm leaves and slung across the back of an ass, says Edmund Chandler, the press representative in the Mesopotamian forces. The pilgrim behind is taking his relative to swell the population of the cities of the dead by which these sacred cities are surrounded.

Of the three shrines, Najaf is the richest, and to some minds the most sacred. Like Kazimain, it is approached by a horse car line. The cars are not of the pattern of those that ply in European cities. I believe the few British soldiers who have seen them rank them with the Clock tower in the mosque as first among the lions of Mesopotamia.

In peace time the dead come from a wide radius. The donkey with the bundle like a big carpet bag on its back, draped in wattle or rich silk, according to the means of the pilgrim, may have come all the way from Bokhara. A few years ago a corpse arrived from the Persian embassy at Paris.

The rich as a rule are buried in the shrine itself. The fee for interment in the mosque is $250. For burial outside the walls of the city the pilgrim pays anything from four to ten rupee (two to five dollars), according to the distance he has come.

Many pilgrims buy houses in Najaf, and thus the place is gradually becoming a city of the dead. Nine houses out of ten have graves in them. Sometimes the building is nothing else than a tomb.

Najaf has proved impregnable to Wahhabi and Bedouin. It is believed to be fabulously rich. There are two stores of treasure. The old treasury has not been opened since the visit of Shar Nasir-ud-Din, 50 years ago. It is buried in a vault and built over with brick and lime, with no door or key or window by way of entrance. The new treasure is in the keeping of the kilidar—gold and silver, and jewels, and precious stones, silks, and shawls, and pearled curtains.

One of the first gifts for the shrines to reach Bagdad after our troops entered the city were four curved swords of gold, with diamonds on the sheath and hilt. They had been dispatched from Constantinople to Bagdad when the British menace was regarded as a madman's dream, and bore the inscription, "From the servant of all pious Moslems, Enver Bey."

No doubt they were intended to symbolize the might whereby the Turks would defend the city against their hated foes, the Christians.

Runs Her Own Canteen.

Mrs. Scott Lee, an aged negro woman, is happy because she has found a way at last to cheer the soldiers on their way as they pass through here en route from camp to coast for overseas service, according to an Ashtabula dispatch to the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Mrs. Lee, who lives near a railroad track, looked wistfully at the troop trains as they sped through, wondering if there was any way in which she could make a long trip more pleasant for the men. But the trains went through so fast she almost despaired until she finally hit upon a scheme that works to perfection. She got a long pole, and to it she fastens bundles of magazines and lunches, and as the trains whiz past she stands on the station platform and reaches her gifts to the men as they lean from the car windows.

CANADA'S WAR RECORD

SOME OFFICIAL FIGURES CONCERNING OUR ARMY.

More Than 611,000 Men Passed Through the Military Machine and Out of That Number 465,984 of the Recruits Came Forward Under Voluntary Enlistment—Something About Their Disposition.

DURING the war more than 611,000 men passed through the hands of the Canadian military machine in one form or another. The armistice was signed on the 11th of November; the exact number of enlistments, etc., reported up to the 15th November was 595,441, and in addition some 16,300 men who came into touch with the recruiting authorities were struck off the strength. The two sets of figures thus aggregate 611,741.

Of the 595,441, some 41,000 were men who were dealt with, but were not required to render service, over 21,000 enlisted in services other than the Canadian Expeditionary Force, and about 15,000 were reservists, British and Allied, who were sent by the Canadian Government to the colors in their own armies.

The exact figures are contained in the following memorandum, which covers the period from the beginning of the war to 15th November, 1918.

In connection with these figures, reference may be made to the work of the military police. Some time ago a special force of Dominion Police was formed for the purpose of enforcing the Military Service Act; it was administered by the Justice Department. On 31st May, 1918, an order-in-Council was passed transferring this force to the Militia Department. It became the Canadian Military Police Corps and was placed under the command of the Provost Marshal, Col. G. Godson-Godson, D.S.O., a returned officer.

The work of the force has been exceedingly heavy. No fewer than 269,121 cases have been investigated. This numbers appears extraordinarily large, the explanation being that absentees and defaulters have made a practice of moving from one place to another, so that it became necessary to make many investigations about one man. These cases thus concern a much smaller number of individuals.

Practically the whole of Canada has been covered by the operations of the Canadian Military Police Corps, and parties have been sent to all places where absentees and deserters have been reported to be hiding. Sometimes these parties had to penetrate to regions hundreds of miles from the railway, and exceedingly difficult of access.

The Royal Northwest Mounted Police rendered most valuable assistance in the districts in which they were operating.

The total number of cases handled by the Military Police (including the civil branch), arising from the operation of the Military Service Act have been:—

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| (a) Men apprehended, who had failed to register (defaulters) | | 18,824 |
| (b) Men apprehended who had failed to report when ordered (absentees) | | 9,454 |
| (c) Deserters apprehended, both draftees and others | | 2,304 |
| (d) Cases investigated | | 269,121 |

(a) and (b) A large percentage of these numbers were found medically unfit and allowed to return to civil life.

(c) "Deserters" includes all men who have been taken on the strength of a unit and have afterwards illegally absented themselves.

The Czechs inhabit Bohemia, Moravia and Austrian Silesia, crown lands of the Austrian empire lying between Austria proper and the south of the German empire. The Czechs are one of the most highly civilized people in the world and economically the most prosperous of the Austrian Empire.

Past Peace Conferences Differed in Character, But Were Always Secret

FROM the story of the peace conferences which have terminated recent wars, no general line of procedure for the settlement of the differences arising out of the World War can be foreshadowed. Even a military armistice does not always follow peace parleys. When Mr. Roosevelt intervened to put an end to the Russo-Japanese war, hostilities dragged on for a long time while delegates were journeying to Portsmouth, U.S.A., and it was there arranged that fighting should only cease when the actual peace treaty was signed.

The most important peace conference was that which settled the Balkan War. The delegates of Turkey, Bulgaria, Serbia, and Greece met at St. James' Palace, London, and, after discussing terms for some weeks, failed to agree upon them. The conference was opened by Sir Edward Grey, who welcomed the delegates in a speech that was given to the public, but afterwards negotiations were conducted in private. This is the nearest approach to publicity that has yet been reached.

Although there is the classic instance of Bismark's brutality in conducting negotiations with prostrate France in 1871, the meeting of delegates, as a rule, tends to relax personal hostility. While war is on it is a crime to hold communication with enemy subjects. During the Balkan War peace negotiations in London we saw the Turkish delegate sitting with the Bulgarian, Serbian, and Greek plenipotentiaries at the Mansion House table, making guarded friendly references to each other, and quite throwing aside their standoffishness under the exhilarating influence of the Lord Mayor's champagne A little later, the peace negotiations having failed, the delegates were back in their camps again. The day of the friendly nod had gone, and they studiously avoided taking the same trains back to their respective capitals to report their lack of success. The Balkan peace was eventually signed at Bucharest.

The peace that closed the Boer War was arrived at without the British and Boer delegates coming to a formal round table. Mr. Schalk Burger and a few prominent Boers came into Pretoria under the white flag on March 23rd, 1902. They said they wanted peace, and Lord Milner, representing the civil government, and Lord Kitchener, representing the military authorities, gave them a safe-conduct to Kroomstad, in the Orange River Colony, to consult other Boer leaders. Fighting went on. In May Botha, De Wet, Delarey, Smuts and Hertzog, who had been allowed to hold their peace conferences at Vereeniging, left that little Vaal river hamlet, and took into Pretoria their considered appeal for peace. The home government was consulted on it, and their answer was taken back to Vereeniging, where they decided to surrender unconditionally, and returned to Pretoria to sign the peace document before Lord Milner and Kitchener on May 31st. This peace, though based on those terrible military conditions of "unconditional surrender" was a very generous one, and the British Government gave £3,000,000 for the repatriation needs of the people against whom we had been warring. This treatment and the establishment of a Union of South Africa, which speedily followed, settled an unhappy war in a way that made South Africa a source of strength to us in the Great War in Europe.

There have been cases where a peace treaty concluded by belligerents has been revised by the Great Powers. The peace of San Stefano, signed by Russia and Turkey was taken to the Appeal Court of the Congress of Berlin in 1878. It is the most notable instance of this having happened. There were doubts whether the Treaty of Bucharest, settling the Balkan wars of 1912-13, would not be revised by the Powers, but the Venizelos' fears on this ground were not realized. The maintenance of the balance of power of Europe has been the excuse for modifying treaties made by individual belligerents. It sounds to the present day reader like a new theory, evolving from the concert of Europe, which used to periodically exert pressure on Turkey and Greece in the latter years of the nineteenth century, or resulting from the Triple Alliance, which provoked the creation of the Triple Entente. But it is interesting on looking over the old peace treaties, that are now household words without much meaning or value, to discover that the principle of the balance of power in Europe was first recognised by the Treaty of Westphalia, in 1648, and also that it was under that international act that Alsace was handed to France, to be wrenched from her—after many vicissitudes — by Germany in the imposed peace laid down by Bismark at Versailles, and eventually signed at Frankfort.

In looking back on the war the names of many localities associated with peace treaties will be recalled. Amiens, that fell temporarily into German hands early in the war, was the town where the treaty bearing its name, after being negotiated in London, was signed between Great Britain, France and Holland, and Spain, in 1802.

Another interesting township with a peace history that was overrun by the Austrians when they made their break through at Caporette in the autumn of 1917 is Campo Formio, not far from Undine. The treaty was between Napoleon and Austria, and was signed in 1797. It was noteworthy as one of the most barefaced acts of diplomatic duplicity on record, a secret clause in the document having the effect of robbing Italy of her Venetian provinces, and handing them over to Austria.

Everyone Should Drink Hot Water in the Morning

To feel your best day in and day out, to feel clean inside; no sour bile to coat your tongue and sicken your breath or dull your head; no constipation, bilious attacks, sick headache, colds, rheumatism or gassy, acid stomach, you must bathe on the inside like you bathe outside. This is vastly more important, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do, says a well-known physician.

To keep these poisons and toxins well flushed from the stomach, liver kidneys and bowels, drink before breakfast each day, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from your pharmacist. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless except a sourish twinge which is not unpleasant. Drink phosphated hot water every morning to rid your system of these vile poisons and toxins; also to prevent their formation.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became saturated with accumulation body poisons, begin this treatment and above all, keep it up! As soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and purifying, so limestone phosphate and hot water before breakfast, act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

How Gen. Currie Received News of Armistice.

Capt. Arthur W. Dyas, a Canadian serving at the front, wrote a letter on Nov. 11th in which he says: "We've had a rather thrilling day to-day, being 'the day' that we've longed for for some years now.

"Hostilities ceased at 11 this morning. We got the message at 7.30. Just as I'd finished breakfast this morning I was called to the phone, and the head major gave me the good news. When I told the mess a cheer went up that set the men all buzzing. The battalion was parading at 8, and when it was announced on parade a cheer went up that you could hear for miles. The men laughed, kissed, punched each other, and in some eyes was the odd tear, probably a passing thought of some pal lost lately.

"Our brigade, who have been resting for the last two weeks, after advancing 22¾ miles since Oct. 17th, were to be inspected by Gen. Currie, the boys' commander, at 10, so it was a very memorable inspection. After the general had inspected us we closed all around him, and he stood on a wagon seat and talked to us of our record in France during the last three years and nine months. He said: 'The old First Brigade have the best record of any brigade in the British army. They have never failed in an attack when advancing, and they have never lost a trench. Then something very impressive happened. He said: 'I want every man to take off his hat and we will have one minute of silent prayer, to thank God for giving us the power and strength to defeat and crush the German army that had threatened the world.'

"There were 4,000 officers and men on parade, and for one minute every one of us stood with our steel helmets on our arm, our heads bowed, and I believe that a very sincere and true prayer went up from every soldier present. The general couldn't say any more. He finished up by saying: 'Men of the old First Brigade, my heart is too full for words.' And tears rolled down his cheeks. Needless to say he got three of the loudest cheers and a tiger that men could give."

Had Hacking Cough Couldn't Sleep Nights.

Hacking coughs are very wearing on the system. The constant coughing disturbs the rest, and keeps the lungs and bronchial tubes in an irritated and inflamed condition.

Don't neglect the hacking cough. You can get rid of it with a few doses of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup; the most prompt, pleasant and perfect cough remedy known.

Miss Catherine M. McLean, Craik, Sask., writes:—"Last winter I caught a heavy cold and was laid up for some time. I had such a hacking cough I couldn't sleep at night. I didn't think I would get over it. One day a friend dropped in to see me and was surprised to see how bad my cough was. She advised me to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. The next day I sent for a bottle, and I soon got relief, and by the time I had taken two bottles, my cough was all gone, and now I am able to do my work again. I don't think there is anything equal to it."

There are plenty of imitations on the market, but the genuine is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, 25c. and 50c. a bottle. The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Land and Loans—to Help Soldiers Become Farmers

IT is anticipated that a great many soldiers who have served with the Canadian, British or Allied forces may want to become farmers in Canada. The vital need to-day is to increase production and the acreage under cultivation. It is thus in Canada's best interests to give these soldiers every assistance. The Government has therefore been developing a programme that includes the providing of land, the granting of loans and the training and supervision of those inexperienced in farming.

The Present Plan.

Under the Soldier Settlement Act, 1917, an eligible returned soldier is entitled, in addition to his ordinary homestead right, to a free grant of one quarter-section of Dominion Lands on homestead conditions.

For this purpose the Government has suspended homestead entry by others than soldiers on all remaining homestead lands in the Western provinces within fifteen miles of railway transportation, pending enquiry into their suitability.

As soon as a soldier goes on the land, the Board has power to grant him a loan up to the maximum of $2,500.

This loan is granted to settlers to help them acquire land for farming, discharge incumbrances, undertake improvements, erect buildings and secure necessary live-stock, machinery and equipment.

It is not given as an actual advance of cash, but in the form of payment for expenditures. In this way the settlers' transactions are carefully supervised.

The loan is made at the low interest rate of five per cent. It is to be repaid in twenty annual instalments. The first two payments may be deferred by the Board when desirable.

(a) It has been found that only a limited amount of suitable homestead land is available for soldier settlement.

(b) Some Crown lands are held by the Provinces.

(c) Homesteading may not suit all the returned soldiers.

It is now proposed that the Provincial Governments co-operate with the Soldier Settlement Board in acquiring suitable lands at present held uncultivated by private owners. The Dominion Government has announced its intention of introducing necessary legislation along these lines at the opening of the next Session.

The lands so bought will be re-sold to the soldier at cost price. It is suggested that the purchaser be required to make a cash payment of one-tenth of the purchase price. The balance will be payable in equal annual instalments extended over twenty years or longer.

The amount of the land purchased by this plan, if it is approved by Parliament, will be limited in value to $5,000. Interest will be charged at a low rate of five per cent.

When these new proposals for land purchase become effective the Board will be able to loan the soldier settler up to a total of $1,500 for the purchase of live-stock and equipment in addition to the loan for the purchase of his land. It will be granted on practically the same terms as the loans now allowed.

As the soldier improves his farm the Board may advance him a further $1,000.

Who May Apply

The Act applies to any one who has served with an honourable record in the Canadian or Imperial forces in the present war, or to any Canadian who was on active service with the Allied forces, or the widow of any such person who died on active service.

The Board will loan money only to those who have had sufficient experience or training in farming. Each applicant may be required to appear in person before the Qualification Committee in his district.

Training

Those soldiers who have had insufficient experience in farming will be helped by the Board to secure the necessary training to qualify them for the loans.

Special instructional courses are being arranged with the agricultural schools and experimental farms.

Farmers will be asked to co-operate in giving the soldier practical training and knowledge.

Expert Assistance

The work of the Soldier Settlement Board is carried out by Supervisors in each of the provinces.

These supervisors have under them a staff of land appraisers to valuate the land, and, farming advisors or practical farmers in the community to advise the soldier after he has definitely settled on his farm.

Qualification Committees are being appointed in each Province to advise the Board as to the qualifications of each applicant.

Results

Loans, amounting to over 1¼ million dollars, have already been granted to over one thousand returned soldiers.

Since the regulations were completed last July, over eight hundred soldiers have made entries on Dominion Crown Lands under the Soldier Settlement Act.

OFFICERS SWIM ASHORE.

Lieutenants Back From France Impatient at Delay in Landing.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.— When the American transport Scranton arrived here from Bordeaux with three army officers as passengers and a cargo of high explosives her Captain was instructed to anchor in the Lower Bay until the vessel was disarmed. The officers were told that a navy tug would be sent to convey them with their baggage to Hoboken, but two of them were so impatient to land in America that they jumped overboard and started to swim to the Brooklyn shore, 200 yard away. Just as they neared a pier they were picked up by a small boat. Their names are Lieutenant A. L. [illegible]ardes of the American Air Service, who lives at 611 West 110th street, and Lieutenant R. S. Rose, also residing uptown, who belongs to the United States Signal Corps. At Hoboken the debarkation officers admitted that the two officers had swam ashore and said that they were now listed on the official papers absent without official leave. The third officer on the Scranton was Lieutenant Isaac Garber, of Jackson, Miss., belonging to the United States Quartermaster's Department, who remained on board for the navy tug.

Home-made advice is just as satisfactory as any of the other brands.

HIS FAME MERITED

Appreciation of "Bob" Burdette Grows With the Years.

His Brand of Delicious Humor, Never Malicious, Had a Spontaneity That Fixed It in Memory of Hearers.

The late Robert J. Burdette, better known the length and breadth of the land as "Bob" Burdette, and chiefly famous because of his humorous lecture "The Rise and Fall of the Mustache," which he used on the lyceum platform for nearly 30 years, had a spontaneity which was truly remarkable.

Sudden flashes of wit and humor cropped out constantly in his conversation. Like other great American humorists, some of the best things that he said fell upon the ears of a handful of friends and never found their way into print.

In the afternoon of life he sunned himself on the porch at "Eventide," his restful home at Clifton-by-the-Sea. It was from there that he penned these lines to an intimate friend:

"Here I am in dry dock, waiting for the Great Builder to give me a general overhauling. My boilers appear to be burned out, and I need new grates in my firebox. Guess the old engine is about played out, but maybe we can tinker it up so that it will make a few more trips. Seems as though my switchboard had been struck by lightning. I have my good days and my bad days, but I lost count of them some time ago, and now I can't tell them apart."

His compliments were as graceful as they were pretty. One day he overheard a party of young matrons discussing dress goods.

"I don't like the new figured patterns, Doctor Burdette," exclaimed one of the young women. "Do you?"

"It might have been the part of wisdom for the humorist to have agreed with her, but by so doing he might have disagreed with her companions, so he sidestepped the issue, and paid the lady a deliciously subtle compliment by replying:

"Oh, I don't know. I should consider them very good if they all contained as pretty a figure as the one in the gown that you are wearing."

Art in the Home.

A good story is going the rounds concerning Walter Bayes, whose famous academy picture, "The Underworld," has been purchased by the committee of the Imperial war museum.

Mr. Bayes has always been a very severe critic of his own pictures, and one day, being dissatisfied with a large painting he had completed, he gave the canvas to the charwoman to take away with her, telling her she could do what she liked with it.

The woman examined it closely, bending it this way and that and thumping it all over with evidently increasing satisfaction.

"Thanks, Mr. Bayes," she said at last. "Thanks very much. This'll do fine for me front parlor. It's much better than them common oilcloths what let the water through; this is a good, strong one, with plenty of paint on it."—Pearson's Weekly.

Hay-Feverites Have Association.

Thousands of persons who suffer annually from that irritating and lachrymatory disease known as hay fever, know that it is no joke, but 45 years ago the United States Hay Fever association came into existence as a joke. But the joke soon became a practical one and has so remained to date. The object of the association is the seeking of information which will serve to relieve sufferers with hay fever, and for their mutual benefit and comfort. Not only hay-feverites, but townspeople and proprietors of hotels in places exempt from hay fever, manufacturers of remedies for hay fever, and especially physicians who have made a study of the disease, are members of the association, all working together for the best results.

A Delicate Matter.

"Why wasn't the German crown prince relieved permanently of his command?"

"The kaiser said there were 'dynastic reasons.'"

"What did he mean by that?"

"Well, I presume the situation is something like this: The crown prince made several foolish statements about what he was going to do and it would hurt the prestige of the royal house considerably to acknowledge that he hadn't done them."

German Looting.

German women not infrequently write to their husbands at the front urging them to try to steal for them what they are unable to buy at home. "Won't there be chances of picking up things during the advance?" writes one lady to her husband. "I should so like to have enough stuff to make a costume and cloak. Boots, too—or leather—would be welcome. You know that anything will come in useful, because here everything is getting scarcer and scarcer."

Going Up.

"Service flags are being raised everywhere," exclaimed the patriotic fellow.

"Oh, well, so is everything else, for that matter," muttered the cynical one.

BE READY FOR EMERGENCIES.

The best way is to always keep a bottle of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine in the house, ready for emergencies. Then when croup or colds come suddenly they can be promptly cured before they have time to reach an acute and dangerous stage. To meet this requirement we have put the syrup up in family size bottles which contain nearly three times as much as the 25-cent bottle and sell at 60 cents.

Hun's Maliciousness Proved.

Some additional light is shed on the German destruction of the magnificent edifice that has been described as "frozen music," in an interview that Cardinal Lucon, archbishop of Reims, granted the editor of Everybody's, Howard Wheeler, who reports it in the September number. "As you know," the archbishop told Mr. Wheeler, "the Germans have stated that the French army had been using the towers of the cathedral for observation purposes and that guns had been concealed there. The fact is that the French leaders, fearing that harm would come to the cathedral, refrained at all times from using it for any military purposes whatever. When the bombardments were commenced I immediately wrote a letter to the pope, in which I solemnly swore, on my honor as a man and as a prelate of the church, that never had I abandoned my cathedral since the beginning of the war, and that never at any time had it been used for military purposes. All to no avail. The bombardment still continues and at regular intervals my old cathedral is battered piecemeal—and it breaks my heart."

When "Boosed."

"Don't you think you talk entirely too much when you have been drinking?" asked Uncle Bill Bottletop. "I fear I am very much inclined to unboosem myself."

There are about 200 separate and distinct kinds of shells fired from German guns.

Britain's "Reconstruction" Parliament Prepares to Deal With Vital Questions

(United Press Service.)

LONDON, Feb. 4.—The "Reconstruction" parliament convenes to-day with a large portion of the country's workers attempting to take reconstruction into their own hands.

As the organization of the newly elected legislative body gets underway, great Britain and Ireland faces the constantly growing menace of a general strike which is frankly admitted by many of its instigators to be the first step towards the attempted socialization of the nation's industries under a Bolshevistic regime.

Added to this situation was the embarrassing presence of the new "Irish Republic," which was formally declared at the recent Sinn Fein "Parliament" in Dublin. That the British Government had not evinced in any way its intentions toward this new neighbour only added to the responsibilities of the new "Reconstruction" parliament in the matter.

For a week parliament will devote itself to organization work, including the swearing in of members, hearing of contests, etc. It will be formally opened by Lloyd George on February 11th.

Important Problems.

So important are the problems immediately confronting parliament that Premier Lloyd George, despite the urgency of his presence at the Peace Conferences, will arrive in London the last of this week to confer with parliamentary leaders and direct the formulation of a legislative programme. The vital questions which this parliament must pass upon are:

Ratification of the peace treaty.
Settlement of the general strikes.
Definition of its attitude toward the "Irish Republic."
Adoption of a general reconstruction programme.

Under the last division is included the programme of import restrictions, with possible departure from the "Free Trade" policy; free land for soldiers; better housing and working conditions, and extension and maintenance of the merchant marine.

Housing Problem.

Both the coalition and minority parties are pledged to put through sociological reforms "which will make the country worthy of the heroism of the men who have fought for her since 1914"; the housing problems will be one of the first things to be considered. Parliament will be asked to authorize the building of thousands of cottages within easy access to the industrial regions. These cottages will be sold to workmen on easy payments.

A ministry of health is to be created to keep tab on sanitary conditions in industrial quarters, and see that the workers' environment is made more pleasant.

Wage Schedule.

The wage schedule, it is hoped, will not be allowed to drop back to its ante bellium, hand to mouth level. While there probably will be some difficulty in fixing a minimum wage, it seems practically certain that some figure will be agreed on which will enable all workmen to maintain a much higher standard of living than hitherto has been possible. Regulation of working hours will be debated and some maximum working-day fixed.

The labour ministry is helping demobilized soldiers to find jobs. Whether such assistance will develop into a regular free labour agency, with branches throughout the country, or whether the bulk of this work will be done by the trade unions, is still uncertain. Both schemes have their advocates.

Quick formation and passage of the industrial part of the reconstruction programme will, it is believed, tend toward amicable adjustment of the labour crisis now threatening the country.

The Sinn Feiners.

There was some conjecture as to whether the Sinn Feiners elected to parliament would attend in its formatory stages. It seemed to be a foregone conclusion that if they did they would withdraw before the formal convening of the body next week compelled them to swear allegiance to the King. Few Irish Nationalists elected will be present, according to T. P. O'Connor, their leader.

One of the notable features of the new parliament will be the appearance of the labour party as "His Majesty's Opposition." The Labourites won this position in the last elections by poling a plurality over the other non-coalition parties with the exception of the Sinn Feiners. The later, however, are expected to relinquish their chance to lead the opposition by refusing to sit.

Among the noted statesmen who were defeated for re-election in the recent elections are Herbert Asquith, former Premier, and Arthur Henderson, Labour leader.

WILL NOT CONFER FREEDOM OF CITY

(United Press.)

DUBLIN, Feb. 4. — The Lord Mayor's deputation has decided not to go to Paris to confer the freedom of the city on President Wilson, because he has not answered the formal invitation, it was learned to-day.

The Municipal Council passed resolutions protesting against the "misrepresentations of Ireland" in the United States by the British government.

Girls Aid in Reconstruction

One Means of Creating a Bigger and Better Canada—Work of the Y.W.C.A.

A bigger and better Canada, through the efforts of the girls in aiding in reconstruction, as a monument to the men who have made the supreme sacrifice, was the message brought last night by Miss N. C. Yoemans, at a largely attended open meeting at the Y.W.C.A., which was addressed by three representatives of the Dominion Council.

The speakers of the evening were Miss E. F. Jones, National City Secretary, who gave two interesting addresses, first to the girls, in which she outlined the breadth of the work of the Y.W.C.A., and later, at the public meeting at which she spoke of the new departments of the "Y" which are being opened; Miss Harcourt, who came in place of Dr. Margaret Patterson, who lately took over a new department of Social Education in the Dominion Council, spoke frankly to the girls on topics of general health; while Miss Yoemans, Girls' City Secretary, spoke on girls' work in general and their opportunities in the work of reconstuction.

A FRANK STATEMENT

Opinion of One Time Director of Military Operations for British General Staff.

"MORE TO LOSE"

The following interview with General Maurice, in which he makes plain that the United States, while making the biggest sacrifices of any of the powers for the establishment of the League of Nations, must give itself unreservedly to the League to ensure its permanence and practicability, is undoubtedly the most comprehensive statement of the League's aims yet made public:

(By Lowell Mellett—Copyright, 1919, By United Press).

PARIS, Feb. 4.—The success or failure of the League of Nations depends almost wholly upon the United States, while America, from a purely practical standpoint, has more to lose than gain through the League.

This frank statement was made to the United Press to-day by Major General Frederick Maurice, British expert on military and international affairs. He was Director of Military operations for the British General Staff when the British were opposing the German drive, practically unaided, and he made his famous statement, "Where is Blucher?" Maurice declared that not only must the United States furnish the financial support for the reconstruction of the war-stricken countries, without which assistance the League would be still born, but that a great American Navy is absolutely essential to the maintenance of the League's chief administrative weapon, economic pressure. "I am absolutely certain that a real League of Nations is going through."

"America's most important contributions to the League come under two heads—financial and military.

BILLS MUST BE MET.

"The necessity for an agreement by the United States to support the League of Nations financially becomes clearer the more closely the matter of restitution and restoration is gone into. The more actual information is obtained, the more certain it is that we will not get enough out of the Central Powers, either money or material, to set the old world on its legs again. It is obvious that at the very best, our repair bills will be only partially met. There won't be any indemnities from which the world will be able to finance the distribution of the German colonies, Turkish territories, or the new republics which are struggling upward in eastern and south-eastern Europe. The only hope for the world's future is for America to step into world politics and give the League the necessary financial backing to put its programme on a sound basis.

CHIEF DIFFICULTIES.

"We recognize that one of the chief difficulties in the maintenance of the League is that Democratic States are loath to commit themselves indefinitely to supplying troops to fight in any part of the world to uphold the League's authority. That difficulty need not arise. Great Britain and the United States are recognized as holding the chief weapon of the League — economic pressure — the method for exercising which is naval force. If the United States and Great Britain agree to place their naval power at the disposal of the League, I don't see how any nation will ever again dare to even think of war."

Said Maurice: "Every day it is more fully realized that the League is not an idle but a working proposition. When the question of its exact form is brought up, there will come the realization that its real efficiency depends upon the United States. This does not mean it will be necessary for the United States to undertake territorial commitments outside of her own continent. Practical difficulties, from the standpoint of the United States, probably will override the advantages she may obtain from the League, but it is absolutely vital that America shall assume a moral leadership in the League's affairs.

NAVAL POLICE.

"If the United States and Great Britain had been able in 1914 to apply to Germany a blockade superior to that applied early in 1918, it is doubtful if Germany would ever have started the war. Certainly she could not have continued it very long. Germany has learned the effectiveness of the blockade as a weapon, and it is most unlikely she can ever build a fleet capable of competing with us for some generations. Therefore, one of the beginnings of the security of the world — the aim and object of the League—will be naval co-operation by Great Britain and America in behalf of the League. America's share of this weapon must correspond to her wealth and importance.

"In peace time the seas are naturally free. The conferees are now taking up the question of waterways and ports, whereby they will be made even more free. If war threatens the League there is no saying how far this freedom will be limited through blockade or other means.

"With the American and British fleets as the naval police of the League, the chief means of enforcing its authority and decisions would temperamentally to bear such a responsibility."

Programme For League of Nations

Constitution of League is Expected to be Completed To-night at Meeting of Special Committee.

MEETING TO-NIGHT

(United Press Service.)
(By Robert J. Bender.)

PARIS, Feb. 4.—The constitution of the League of Nations is expected to be virtually completed to-night at the meeting of the Special Committee having that work in charge.

While several plans have been submitted, it was learned that the joint Anglo-American programme will be the crux of the discussion. It includes a score of articles, embracing British and American views, with a preamble outlining the necessity for the establishment of the League. It was presented at yesterday's meeting of the committee, but owing to the fact it was not printed in French, it was not generally discussed. The programme will be presented in both French and English at to-night's meeting which will open in the Hotel Crillon at 8:30.

Bertha Farner Company Here On Thursday

Four Superlative Artists Will Take Part in Chautauqua.

No one who heard Miss Farner sing at the Summer Chautauqua will willingly miss the concert which she and her assisting artists will give Thursday evening in the Grand Opera House.

Miss Farner is a young woman of exceptional personal charm, with one of the finest voices on the continent, whether in concert or opera circles. She was formerly with the Tivoli Opera Company, the English Grand Opera Company, and the San Carlo Grand Opera Company.

Abroad, she sang with the Opera Company of Nimes, France, in concert, in Paris, London and Brussels, and before the great master, Massenet, she sang a part of "Manon."

She was in France when the great war began in 1914, and was a nurse in the hospitals near the front during the first months of the war.

Miss Martha Alexander, violinist, is also not a stranger to Peterborough, as she appeared at the Summer Chautauqua, the afternoon and evening of Dr. Frank Bohn's lecture. She also played most beautifully at the mass meeting on Sunday evening during the Summer Chautauqua. She is an experienced artist and plays with dramatic power and fluent technique.

Miss Ethel Murray, 'cellist, is a graduate of the Royal Academy, London. Miss Murray has filled concert engagements in Europe as well as on this continent, and is an excellent artist.

Mr. Earl Browne, pianist, is a young man of wide experience, and wonderful musical ability.

These four artists present a programme of much variety and of great excellence—one which you cannot afford to miss.

Council Caught Only Few Winks Last Night

Mayor Duncan entertained the Council last night at a luncheon in the Boston grill following the Council meeting, which adjourned about 12:45 a.m. It was nearly three o'clock when the City Fathers wended their way homeward through silent streets. From all accounts the Mayor's hospitality was thoroughly enjoyed, and was appreciated and acknowledged in impromptu speeches that struck a responding note of harmony for this year's administration. His Worship expressed the hope that the members would be brought closely together, the better to work out the problems that have only been touched thus far. Felicitations were exchanged, and some of the new members intimated that sharp comments in the Council were often made unthinkingly. They promised to try to keep cool in all the debates.

Proposes Fund For Funerals of Soldiers

The Council decided last night on a motion by Ald. McIntyre seconded by Ald. Morrison to proceed at once with the construction of the McDonnel street sewer.

A resolution by Ald. Murray seconded by Ald. McIntyre that $1,000 be appropriated to meet the expense of pall bearers, firing parties and bands for the funerals of veterans of the war was referred to the Finance Committee.

Ald. Gainey's motion seconded by Ald. Morrison that male assistants to the city treasurer and city assessor be appointed by the Council at a salary of $750 a year, increasing $50 annually to $1,000, returned men to be given the preference, was defeated by Mayor Duncan's vote that decided the tie when the Council broke evenly on the resolution. The appointments are made by the officials themselves.

Ald. Murray objected to Ald. Turner's motions to send back to two committees for further consideration two clauses which he believed might be altered by more discussion.

"Ald Turner was not present at these meetings," said Ald. Murray, "and now suggests changes that should have been brought out in committee."

"It's my privilege isn't it Mr. Mayor," remarked Ald. Turner.

"Yes" was the Mayor's reply.

Presentation to Mrs. R. H. Parsons

As a token of their appreciation of her splendid work as President of the Ashburnham Patriotic League, the members of the League last night presented Mrs. R. H. Parsons with a handsome wrist watch during the course of the regular meeting which was held last evening at the President's home. A short address was read and Mrs. Parsons made a fitting reply thanking her fellow workers.

Strike Situation Shows Improvement

Sixty Per Cent of the Men at One Shipyard Have Returned to Work—Situation in London.

WANT PROTECTION

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Feb. 4.—The situation at Glasgow showed further improvement to-day. Though none of the strikers at Fairfield shipbuilding yards resumed work, fully sixty per cent. of the strikers at Cathcart Engineering Works and a number at Linthouse Shipyard returned to work. This afternoon shipwrights at Govan notified the authorities they would resume work to-morrow morning if protection for them could be provided. The impression prevails among the authorities that a small minority brought about the strike at Glasgow.

Situation in London.

LONDON, Feb. 4.— Every Trades Union worker in the vicinity of London will go on strike Thursday unless the government enacts a forty hour week law, it was announced to-day. This decision was reached at a meeting of Union representatives late last night.

Waiters on strike in most of the London hotels compelled many people to go hungry.

Investigating Lindsay Riots

Mr. Wou Was in Peterboro To-day

Mr. Ma T. K. Wou, General Secretary of the Chinese Department of the Canadian Y.M.C.A. with headquarters at Toronto, is in the city to-day after spending the last few days in Lindsay where he is making investigations concerning the riots which occurred there last Friday night. Mr. Wou was very reticent in speaking of the affair as an official inquiry will be held in Lindsay on Saturday. He says that the Chinese girl was in a state of mind bordering on insanity because of the death of her infant which died last September of the "flu", but not on account of ill-treatment from her countryman as is the common report. Mr. Wou is sending a complete report of the riot to the Chinese Consul-General at Ottawa, who will likely visit Lindsay and make an exhaustive inquiry.

Mr. Wou is an intellectual Chinese Christian and has been in charge of Chinese work in Canada for many years. It is altogether likely that he will speak in one of the local churches on Sunday.

THE WEATHER

A year ago to-day and to-morrow were the two coldest days last winter. On the morning of Feb. 4th, the temperature was down to 19 degrees below zero. At noon it was 15 below, and the highest point reached that day was 10 below zero. That night the mercury went still lower, and on the morning of the 5th it was down to 29 degrees below zero—being the record for the winter.—W.P.

GRANT TO VETERANS

Council Expedited Amendments to By-law Removing Conditions the Veterans Could Not Accept.

NO STRINGS TO GRANT

The first instalment of Peterborough's debt to its returned soldiers was paid last night when the Council donated $10,000 to the local branch of the Great War Veterans' Association's new building fund. This grant was made on terms submitted by the Veterans which the Council gladly substituted for conditions that had been set out in the by-law prepared beforehand upon the recommendation of the Finance Committee.

Messrs. A. S. Morrison, R. E. Layfield, S. Whatley and Harvey Staunton called the attention of the Council to the features of the agreement which the Association considered objectionable.

The original by-law provided that the money should be realized from the Veterans' building in the event of their becoming defunct or "merging with another body."

"There is no question whatever of us merging into another body," declared Mr. Morrison.

Another clause proposed that the property should be mortgaged in favour of the city.

"We applied for a grant," Mr. Morrison commented, "and not for a loan, and this to my mind is nothing more than a loan."

Then there was a condition that in the event of fire the insurance would revert to the city.

"Where would we be then," was the deputation's question, explaining that a fire might destroy the Veterans' new building, and they would automatically lose the insurance.

"There is too large a string attached to the Council's grant," Mr. Morrison concluded, and the Veterans simply could not accept the agreement offered by the city.

Mayor Duncan replied that the city desired to give the Veterans a grant that would meet with their wholehearted approval. He explained how the by-law had been drawn up on the rather indefinite instructions from the Finance Committee. The Council wished to invest this grant with the sense of gratitude the people felt toward the returned soldiers. Mayor Duncan said he had been surprised at the Veterans' offer to refund the money in the event of the future sale of the building.

Alderman Edgar and Alderman McIntyre recommended the immediate cutting of the strings the Veterans had objected to, and Mr. Layfield facilitated the alteration of the by-law by presenting a draft agreement which the Veterans had outlined. The by-law was forthwith amended, deleting the mortgage clause, the reversion of insurance, and several other minor sections.

The Council endeavoured to reassure the Veterans that the city wished to attach no restrictions to this grant, and when the revised by-law was finally passed the deputation thanked the Council for their ready compliance in "removing the strings" that had threatened to tangle the relations between the Veterans and the Council.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 4TH, 1919.

THE NEW SOLICITOR.

In appointing Capt. C. R. Widdifield, formerly of the 93rd Battalion, as solicitor for the city, the City Council are to be congratulated upon their adherence to the principle that in all such appointments a returned soldier, when other conditions are equal, shall have the first call. Capt. Widdifield, a young lawyer of much promise, did not fail to meet the acid test of war when it came to him. He went overseas as a captain in the 93rd Battalion and reverted to the rank of subaltern to go to France, where he eventually was wounded. He played the game over there, and the citizens will have every confidence that he will continue to play the game over here. His friends, and they are many, will unite in congratulating him upon his appointment and in wishing him a successful career as the city's legal representative.

MR. GORDON'S RESIGNATION.

In the resignation of Mr. G. N. Gordon from the position of City Solicitor, Peterborough has lost the services of a shrewd and capable legal representative. His withdrawal from the position was not a surprise, inasmuch as Mr. Gordon announced several years ago that he was prepared to vacate the office to make way for a returned soldier. This is a policy that he has always advocated, and that he has been consistent in this attitude is shown by his action in resigning in order that an opportunity might be given of appointing as his successor a lawyer who had answered the call of duty. Mr. Gordon, in spite of the extensive and successful nature of his private legal practice —during his residence in Peterborough he has handled the majority of the higher cases of a criminal nature—has been a faithful servant of the city. The duties that his position as City Solicitor has called upon him to perform have been looked after successfully, and his term of office has been a record of good service. Mr. Gordon has always placed his duty to Peterborough and its citizens first, and it is not to be wondered that some of the aldermen tried to induce him to reconsider his decision and remain in the service of the city.

NO MOB RULE HERE.

There were many rumours in circulation yesterday as to attacks that were to be made last night upon local restaurants and business places conducted by aliens, and upon a local factory that is accused of discriminating against returned soldiers in favour of foreign labour. Fortunately for the good name of Peterborough, the raids did not materialize, but the reports were so widely spread that the officials of the Great War Veterans' Association not only warned their own members not to have any connection with the matter, but also discussed the rumours with the police department. The police were ready for any emergency.

Where the stories originated it is hard to say, but evidently the report that alien restaurants were to be attacked was caused by the news of the rioting in Lindsay. There is no reason in the world to justify any similar occurrence here, and if there are any hare-brained individuals in Peterborough who have been so impressed by the completeness of the success of the attacks made upon the Lindsay Chinese business places as to desire to make a similar demonstration here they should be taught a lesson that will not soon be forgotten. Many of the so-called alien business men in Peterborough are naturalized citizens of Canada, and they, as well as the other of foreign birth, are entitled to protection and consideration.

The rumour that a local factory was to be attacked had as its foundation the reported laying off of a number of returned soldiers and the retaining in their positions of foreign workmen. As a matter of fact there is, among Peterborough's returned soldiers, a very strong feeling in regard to this matter, but the Great War Veterans' Association have no desire to indulge in any riotous demonstrations. The Veterans are not in favour of mob tactics to correct grievances and will no doubt deal with this particular complaint in a way that will gain them public support.

Peterborough wants no absurd hoodlumism such as disgraced Lindsay the other night, and if there was any colour of truth in yesterday's rumours, it is to be hoped that wiser counsel has prevailed.

CENTRALIZED RURAL SCHOOLS

The policy outlined by Public School Inspector Odell, of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham, on his retirement after twenty-two years' service as inspector, is a most interesting and progressive one, and should not be lightly dismissed by those in charge of education. Mr. Odell after his many years of study and observation of school conditions in the rural districts, comes out with a frank condemnation of the small rural school, with its one teacher and its total lack of facilities for the proper all-round development of pupils. The solution suggested by Mr. Odell is a centralized school, which would provide an opportunity for secondary education as well. His plan calls for a modern school building erected on a lot of five to ten acres, divided up into a park, experimental plots, baseball diamonds and tennis and basket ball courts. There would be both high and public school departments, an adequate library, manual training and domestic science. Scientific agriculture would be taught by the agricultural representative and the school as planned by Mr. Odell, would be a veritable agricultural college. The school would also be the social centre of the community, with a large auditorium offering an opportunity for moving picture shows, lectures and concerts.

Mr. Odell's plan may sound a little Utopian unless it is considered for a while, and then the simplicity of the policy is apparent. He offers it as the only possible way of bringing the farmer in touch with higher educational advantages in his own neighbourhood, and thus raising the standard of rural life.

SPORT IN EDUCATION.

We said a few days ago that more attention to sport was required in the educational system in Canada in order to make "men" of our boys. In this connection we can draw attention to a speech made by Major Fred Smith, some little time ago at a meeting of the Sportsmen's Patriotic Association. He said that it was the competitive games loved by the Anglo-Saxons that had developed the grit which had prevented the Canadian soldiers from "letting go" in the struggle overseas. Major Smith was formerly physical director at the Central Y.M.C.A. and the physical director of the Canadian army athletic activities overseas. He told an interesting story of recreational training in France and of the Canadian army "meet" last summer. The Amateur Athletic Union of Canada always holds an annual meet to decide the track and field championships, and this year it was held on foreign soil in France, with the sanction and co-operation of the Union. Touching on the interest taken in the meet he said that 5,000 men had participated in one race alone at Bramshott area. Each area had an attractive sporting area, but the interest in baseball was more keen than in any other sport.

According to Major Smith, the spirit of the men in the games was simply wonderful. They never asked what the prize is, but simply played for the love of it. He pointed to the difference between the sporting spirits of the Canadians and of the Germans. The Hun would take part in no sport which involved personal contact, but would only work in a mass. The spirit of sportsmanship inculcated in the soldiers made them the wonderful fighters they are to-day.

From the points which we have quoted in the Major's speech there should be no doubt as to the necessity of sport being paid greater attention to so that real "men" can be raised to deal with the future problems of Canada.—Kingston Standard.

WAR SAVINGS STAMPS.

Although the Government's War Savings and Thrift Stamp plan of raising revenue has been before the public for some time, there has been little local attention paid to this important matter. The newspapers have referred to it from time to time, but except through this publicity, voluntarily given by the press, the War Savings Stamps have not been brought prominently before the people of Peterborough. As a result of a visit from Mr. C. C. Jones, representing the Central Ontario Division of the National War Savings committee, Peterborough is now to have a local War Savings committee, of which Mr. W. H. Bradburn, who so ably filled a similar position in connection with the Victory Loan, has consented to act as chairman. Associated with him will be Messrs. Vincent Eastwood and J. I. Allen. These gentlemen have offered to assist the War Savings Campaign in every way possible, and to give all information that may be required in connection with the scheme. Mr. A. Mowat, Public School Inspector, is also taking an active interest in the now revenue-producing campaign and it is likely that the thrift stamp plan will be brought thoroughly before the pupils of the local schools.

It should be understood that War Savings and Thrift Stamps are not merely a war time expedient for producing revenue. The scheme is to be a permanent feature of the Finance Department in the belief that it will not only create a large fund for public use, but will develop a much-needed spirit of saving and thrift among the Canadian people. It is hoped to raise fifty million dollars through the sale of stamps during the present year, the money to be expended upon reconstruction work and for providing credits for foreign purchases in this country.

The local National War Savings committee starts out under most encouraging auspices and should have the support of the citizens generally.

"A Night in Honolulu"

Here Next Saturday With Native Hawaiian Musicians.

The eruption of the volcano and the fire scene in "A Night in Honolulu," which comes to "The Grand" for two performances next Saturday, Feb. 8, is one of the most spectacular efforts of the producer for the stage in many years. This is the reproduction of the active volcano of Kilauea, which is located at the side of Mauna Loa, elevated about four thousand feet, the summit of which is crowned by the magnificent crater called Mokua-weo-weo At intervals for many years the lava has rolled down with tremendous bursts on one side or the other, to the sea coast. The eruptions of Kilauea from great fountains, spouting immense sheets of flame and smoke, the light being plainly visible from the sea for a hundred miles or so. In the year of 1869 such a display occurred burning with terrific fury, throwing up its crimson lava and white hot rocks and destroying miles of valuable property. This crater, in the legions, was supposed to be the home of the goddess of the volcanoes, and when these eruptions occurred the natives feared the great wrath of this deity. In fact no one ventured within its shadow without an offering to appease the anger of this wilful goddess. Young women were sometimes thrown into the crater that their friends might be looked upon favourably by Pele and her family. One of the greatest acts of courage ever performed to break the Hawaiians' superstition was that of a woman who in her youth had been an intemperate heathen and a dissolute character. She was known as Kapiolani, who afterwards became a model of virtue. Up to the time of her act it was considered certain death to ascend Kilauea and pluck the ohelo berries held sacred for Pele. This woman convert wanted the superstitious natives to worship the true god, and before the love-struck people she made the journey from whence no other had ever returned. About a hundred natives, inspired by her bravery, followed her to the Black Ledge and watched her descending over five hundred feet, and there, in full view, she hurled her defiance at Pele, throwing stones into the burning lake. Kapiolani mocked the goddess as she ate the berries consecrated to the deity. Turning to the natives she cried, "My God is Jehovah, it is He Who has kindled these fires. I call you to witness that if I perish by the anger of Pele then she is your goddess, and you may live in fear of her, but if my God preserves me while mocking her taboos, then they must serve Him!" From that day many natives were converted, and at the present time there are many beautiful examples set forth by the Hawaiians—in faith, but most of all in loving their neighbours as themselves.

For Mr. Medd—Alderman Turner.

Ald. Morrison was chairman in Committee of the Whole when the appointment was made in the second reading of the bylaw.

The service of Capt. Widdifield and Major Medd was mentioned by some of the Aldermen who discussed the candidates recommended. Ald. Garside pointed out that Mr. Wearing had tried to enlist but was rejected. Two of his brothers had served at the front, however, and one was killed. Besides, Mr. Wearing had engaged himself in every patriotic cause and was for these reasons, Ald. Garside contended, deserving of the Council's consideration.

Ald. Turner and Ald. Edgar urged that the appointment be made by secret ballot, and suggested that the committee retire to make the choice by that method.

"Apparently those who want to go downstairs do n't want Capt. Widdifield, or they would come out in the open," Ald. McIntyre remarked.

"I take exception to Ald. McIntyre's statement," replied Ald. Edgar. "He has no right to insinuate how anyone is going to vote.

Capt. Widdifield's salary was fixed at $1,000 on a motion by Ald. Taylor, seconded by Ald. Turner.

Wanted Mr. Gordon.

The council reluctantly accepted the resignation of Mr. G. N. Gordon, and unanimously pressed him to continue in the position.

Ald. Turner, Ald. Edgar, Ald. Phelan, Mayor Duncan and other members acknowledged the efficiency with which he had represented the city in all its legal affairs, and referred to the council's dependence upon him in the Quaker Oats assessment appeal now prevailing. They endeavored to prevail upon him to recall his resignation, but Mr. Gordon replied that he desired to make way for a younger man to whom the City Solicitorship might mean more financially than to himself. He was not able to enlist for overseas, he explained, and the least he could do was to retire and create a vacancy for returned men or any others from whom the council could select his successor. He made this proposal to Capt. Widdifield, who at first declined to take advantage of it. After reconsidering it Mr. Widdifield decided to withdraw from partnership with Mr. Gordon, open an office for himself and apply for the city's position.

Mr. Gordon added that he had a great deal of criminal business that was more remunerative than the city solicitorship. In fact the duties of the position had interfered with his practice. He expected another member of his office to return overseas some time soon and would offer him a partnership.

For these reasons, Mr. Gordon gratefully declined the Council's invitation to remain Solicitor, but volunteered to represent the city's interests in the Quaker Oats case before the Ontario Municipal Board.

MUSIC IN THE HOME

ABOUT THE EARLY MUSIC OF CZECHO-SLAVS

The war has awakened a widespread interest in the Czecho-Slovak races. The little that is generally known of their music makes it worth while to read the information that is available. The first Bohemian tunes were of a religious character. Even away back in the early days music was on the curriculum of the University at Prague. The musician at the head of the department introduced a famous love-song and probably brought into vogue the dancing songs which became so popular for a time. Then we are informed by the writer in the London Musical News that "The Hussite Wars (1419-68) turned men's minds from secular music. Love songs, drinking or dancing songs, did not accord with the grim struggles of conscience which then absorbed the Bohemian people. Hus himself was quick to realize the great power of music as a propagandist force. In his time the Latin hymns were eagerly translated into the vernacular. Hymns which are practically fierce war songs were composed, or adapted to fresh words, and collected in finely illuminated manuscripts. Each religious party had its own hymns. A few of the sturdy hymns of this period have crept into English collections where they are vaguely distinguished by the words "Prague" or "Moravia!" The tunes are still familiar to the Czecho-Slovaks, and could be more appropriately used to welcome them in our midst than the Russian national anthem."

The same writer states that later on, imitating the example of their sovereign, Ferdinand I., the nobles began to set up their own private bands, the most famous of which belonged to the powerful house of Rosenberg. This family possessed also a superb musical library, representative of all the mediaeval schools of European music. An independent music school was established in Prague in 1616, and already half a century earlier Brother Blahoslav (1523-71) had collected the songs and hymns of the Moravian 'Unity,' and published his famous theoretical treatise, 'Musica.' Native talent was encouraged by a prosperous bourgeoise, who organized musical societies in the cities. Nor were the working classes excluded from this aesthetic activity. Musical education must have been fairly general, as the folk at this time found no difficulty in joining correctly in two-three and four-part church music. Instrumental did not lag behind choral music. Even small towns had their orchestras, and from the 18th century onward Bohemia began to supply other lands with teachers and executants.

COLLEGE PRESIDENT RECALLS OLD-FASHIONED ORGAN IN THE HOME OF HIS BOYHOOD

Dr. L. H. Murlin, president of Boston University, is a man who stands up and gives music its due. "I believe in music as a factor in building character, and as a humanizing element," he said to a group of school music supervisors in conference. "Against the conservatism of faculty and those who could not see the educational advantages of music to be as great as those of Greek or mathematics, who thought it absurd to give credits for music, we fought it out and won." Dr. Murlin also said that he had been greatly interested in the movement to get everybody to sing whether they can sing or not; because everybody can sing whether they can sing or not.

This college president also recalled that his father, who was a circuit preacher, bought an old-fashioned melodeon out of a meagre salary of $200 a year. There are those who would condemn that purchase as extravagance or an absurd notion; but that little old organ became the centre not only of the homelife, but also of the community life and no person can estimate its influence for good.

COUNTRY BOYS EXCEL ON THE MOUTH ORGAN

Country boys are the best mouth organ players in Canada to-day. City folks who visit friends in small towns have noticed how frequently in the evenings they hear the farmers' boys going home in buggies or automobiles playing mouth organs. And the visitors usually comment on the quality of the playing. These lads have been in town shopping or at market. They make the most of the time spent on the road home by going through the familiar and popular airs most of which they know about as well as their city cousins, because the player piano and the phonograph have taken the latest hits from the big music centres out to the farm homes and that without any loss of time. There is a large sale of mouth organs in country towns, not to young fellows who merely ask for "a mouth organ, but to discriminating buyers who want a particular kind and who know a good organ when they try it.

A man who is now active in educational matters in this city often surprises his friends by his prowess in mouth organ playing. When a boy at school he used to spend the summer holidays in teaming boxes of merchandise from the railway station to his father's store four or five miles out in the country. It was during these trips that he became proficient on the mouth organ. His own comment was that he got a great deal of satisfaction out of what some folks would call a very humble instrument. City boys should take care not allow the country boys to get a monopoly of mouth organ playing.

Russia May Pay War Debts

Premier Lenine Looks With Disapproval on the League of Nations.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Feb 4.— The Russian Soviet government wants peace and war. The Soviets will fight to the end, Premier Lenine declared in a copyrighted interview published in the New York World to-day.

The interview, which is the first obtained with the Bolshevik leader, was given Robert Minor, an American newspaper man, and was cabled from Berlin by the World correspondent.

Lenine told Minor that the Soviet were even inclined to pay the debts incurred by the old regime if by that means the war can be stopped.

Asked what he thought of Russia's eligibility to the League of Nations, Lenine replied that "they are not forming a League of Nations, but a League of Imperialists to strangle the nations." He added that President Wilson is a shrewd man.

Lenine discussed American political economic and social affairs and then abruptly asked:

"How soon will the revolution reach America?"

The Bolshevik Premier said he wondered "how long Gompers can hold the labour unions as subservient to imperialism as he is." He said the imprisonment of Eugene Debs was a 'shame' and asked why the American Federation of Labour does not do something about the imprisonment of "Big Bill" Haywood.

Minor himself explained that the Russian industries are again in direct control of the business class, through their nationalization. Business and technical experts have been placed in charge of the industries under the name of "people's commissaries." He said that the red army is stronger under "revolutionary discipline" than it was under the old leaders.

OPERATION FOR APPENDICITIS.

Mrs. J. A. Bailey, Niagara Falls, Ont., writes: "My husband was treated for appendicitis and the doctors ordered an operation. But he would not consent to an operation and began the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Since doing so he has had no need of an operation or even of a doctor as the trouble has gradually left him. I cannot find words to speak our gratitude for his cure."

The chief occupation of the St. Kilda men is fowling. The Kildans eat vast number of the eggs of the seabirds which frequent their islands, in addition to the birds themselves, which are not only eaten fresh, but dried and salted for winter supplies. The cliffs are equally divided among the inhabitants, and a man seldom or never poaches on his neighbour's property.

An Ideal Attainment

The ideal attainment of a local merchant is to make every possible customer say of him: "He is honest, his goods are honest and his methods and principles are of the highest character: it is as safe to send a child to his store as to go yourself."

Many a store which by square dealing has earned this reputation has really attained it among only a comparatively few people. Advertising, persistent advertising, would spread the news and bring the full measure of success that is deserved.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

Mr. J. J. Hartley is New Member of the City Trust Commission

Appointment Made by the Council Last Night—$1,500 Granted Red Shield Fund Health Association Requests Same Donation of $1,000 as Last Year.

RESTAURANT BYLAW CONSIDERED

The City's grant of $1500 to the Salvation Army's Red Shield Fund was authorized by a by-law passed at last night's meeting of the Council.

New Trust Commissioner

Mr. J. J. Hartley was appointed a member of the City Trust Commission. He was proposed by Ald. Gaincand and seconded by Ald. Turner. Mr. J. H. Bradburn was proposed by Ald. Taylor and Ald. Phelan and Mr. Walter Green by Ald. Hamilton.

Grants Applied For.

The Poultry Association requested that their grant be increased to $100. Ed Holmes, the secretary, wrote that Cobourg's association received $60 a year from their council.

The Nicholls Hospital Trust presented a requisition for $2,400 to be paid monthly by the city toward the maintenance of the hospital..

Mr. Joseph Wearing, secretary of the Children's Aid Society, requested the Council to make the same grant as last year, $600 Referred to Finance Committee.

Dr. G. Stewart Cameron wrote the council requesting that the grant of $100 made to the Peterboro Health Association last year be renewed for 1919. Referred to the Finance Committee.

$100 For Sign Boards

T. J. Turner & Sons offered to paint the sign boards in the river north of the C.P.R. bridge for the advertising of Peterboro at a cost of $100. This communication was referred to the Property and Manufacturing committee on Mayor Duncan's suggestion that since the company was making this charge, the Property Committee might consider the advisability of charging the Turner company rental for the Boards which are erected on city property in the river.

Firemen Want Recognition

The petition of the Firemen's Benevolent Association for recognition by the Council was referred to the Committee of the whole. They ask for a conference at which questions relating to the Department could be discussed.

Street Car Line Complete

W. G. Ferguson, manager of the Street Railway, announced the completion of the extension on the Monaghan Road from Charlotte street to Patterson street, and notified the Council that the Hydro-Electric Commission would not be responsible for the present condition of that high way. Referred to Board of Works.

Reconsider Restaurants

Ald. Phelan's motion, seconded by Ald. Taylor, that a by-law be prepared to rescind the Sunday restrictions upon restaurants was defeated by Mayor Duncan's vote when the Council divided evenly on the motion and an amendment by Ald. Hamilton, seconded by Ald. Edgar, that this question be referred to the Legal Committee. The sentiment of the Aldermen seemed in favour of permitting the restaurant to remain open all day Sunday, but the objection remains to the sale of ice cream to the accompaniment of pianolas playing ragtime in a noisy business atmosphere which Ald. Edgar described as a desecration of the Lord's Day.

Apply for Increases

Sanitary Inspector Stapleton and Relief Officer Miller wrote to the Council asking for increases to their salaries. Referred to Finance Committee.

F. E. Kerr thanked the council and Street Commissioner Evans on behalf of the teachers and pupils of the South Central School for the flooding of the rink in the school grounds.

Not a "Card" Man.

Maurice Hynes headed a deputation of stationary engineers, and voiced their complaint that the city was employing on the Romaine street sewer work a steam hoist engineer who did not carry the government's license. Referred to the Board of Works with instructions that the cause of this complaint be looked into.

Services in Central Park.

G. W. Mulligan's annual request for the use of Central Park for Sunday evening services was earlier and ampler than usual. It was planned this year, he stated, to erect a tent in the park to accommodate 500 persons. Rev. H. D. Kennedy will be the preacher and Mr. Mulligan will direct the singing at the meetings, which will eb "non-denominational," and will be held after the hours of church service. Referred to Property Committee.

Needs More Elbow Room.

Statement of Roll.

Tax Collector Green presented the following statement of the tax roll:

Peterboro Poultry Men Hold Meeting

A Movement to Establish One Central show.

The meeting of the Peterboro Poultry Association held last night had a small attendance owing to the hockey game at Brock street rink. A letter was read from eastern Ontario associations asking that a delegate be sent to-day to a conference of the different associations being held in Belleville but the letter was received too late by the local association and accordingly no action was taken. The idea of the conference is to form one central association for Eastern Ontario similar to the Western Ontario Association with headquarters at Guelph so that one central show could be staged each year. If this plan does not prove feasible to the attending delegates a schedule for the poultry shows of Eastern Ontario will be drawn up so that dates of shows will not be conflicting. Three poultry shows were held last year at the same time in eastern Ontario.

Fifth Annual Meeting of the Otonabee Chapter I.O.D.E.

Officers Elected for the Year—Annual Report Deals With the Work Accomplished During the Past Year.

The Fourth Annual Meeting of the Otonabee Chapter I.O.D.E. was held in the Y.W.C.A. on Saturday afternoon, at which there was a very good attendance. The Regent and a number of the members of the Peter Robinson Chapter were also present as guests.

Reports of the work done during the year were presented, and the election of officers for the ensuing year was held Mrs. Brewer and Miss Erskine acting as Scrutineers for the ballots.

While the ballots were being counted afternoon tea was served by the executive.

The following officers were elected:

Hon. Regent—Mrs. Wallace Nesbitt, Toronto.
Hon. Vice Regent—Mrs. Huycke.
Regent—Mrs. John Allan.
1st Vice Regent—Mrs. A. E. Coulthard.
2nd Vice Regent—Miss Lancaster.
Secretary—Mrs. Seals.
"Echoes" Secretary—Mrs. Morphet
Treasurer—Miss Margaret English.
Standard Bearer—Miss Helen Denison..

Councillers

Mrs. R. R. Hall, Mrs. Huycke, Mrs. Buchanan, Mrs. Stratton, Mrs. Carmichael, Mrs. Brewer. Mrs. T. H. Denne, Mrs. Fraser, Miss N. Hall, Miss Erskine.

Annual Report

During the past year there have been held three Executive Meetings and ten general meetings. At the latter meetings the attendance has averaged twenty members. No meeting was held in November, on account of epidemic of influenza. Sixteen members have been added to our roll this year.

Our first undertaking was the lecture delivered by Mrs. L. Armstrong, on a trip to the Yukon, which was given March 7th. This was most interesting, but in point of attendance was not successful as we could wish. The same may also be said of the excellent course of lectures, arranged by the Chapter, for the Wednesday evenings in Lent. The Regent and the Executive feel deeply grateful to those who so kindly lectured for us. At the same time it is a great disappointment to them to feel that they do not have the hearty co-operation of all the members in undertakings of this sort without which no work will be a success.

In the month of March, we were for the first time called upon by the Secretary of State to register under the War Charities Act. Subsequent reports have been sent half-yearly. In connection with this work, the Chapter wishes to place on record their sincere thanks to Mr. V. J. McElderry, for his kind assistance.

Red Cross Work

At the March meeting a resolution was passed that all socks knitted by our members, with the exception of an occasional parcel of only two pairs be sent to the C.W. C. A. This, no doubt, assisted in the necessary conservation of wool, but we have greatly missed the bright, grateful letters received from the men at the front, to whom, heretofore, the socks had been sent. No mention of the socks sent by us, would be complete without extending our sincere thanks to Mrs. Widdess for the manner in which she has carried on the work of the Wool Committee, all through the year.

Red Cross work has been carried on at the Central Rooms during the year, under the supervision of Mrs. Stratton, Mrs. Perry, Mrs. Spence Mrs. Buchanan, Mrs. Sanderson, Mrs. Stratton and Miss Hugel to whom we owe a very hearty vote of thanks for the work they have done. Although the number of workers at these meetings was much smaller than our membership would lead us to expect, a very satisfactory amount of work was accomplished.

In March, Mrs. Arthur Stevenson kindly gave a short talk on Food Conservation, which was most valuable and interesting. Following this address, Mrs. H. Denne, at the next two meetings gave us most interesting resumes of the contents of Food Bulletins. These talks were of great interest and also great assistance to those who were faithfully trying to carry out the directions of the Food Controller.

In May our officers were asked to meet the officers of the other chapters at a luncheon given to Madame Chase-Casgrain, after which she addressed a meeting in the Y.W.C.A. on the work of French Relief. Although no definite action was taken at that time, we are happy to say that at the January meeting, the sum of one hundred and fifty dollars was voted to the I.O.D.E. French Relief Fund.

Important Work

Quite the most imporant and impressive work undertaken by the Chapter during the year, was the Intercessory Service, under the Auspices of the Order, which was held on June 1, at St. Paul's Church. The committee in charge was composed of Mrs. Allan, Mrs. Dennison and Miss Lancaster, with the kind assistance of Mrs. J. H. Eastwood, and Mrs. J. C. Davidson. All those who were privileged to be present at this service were deeply conscious of the inspiration and comfort received, and felt that this was work, truly worthy, in the highest sense of our Order.

At the June meeting, our Regent gave us a brief address of the work of the Annual Convention at which she had been our representative.

As is usual, our interests have been wisely divided, as will be seen from the various sums voted during the year, viz:— $25.00 to Queen Mary's Birthday Shower; $100.00 to Navy League; $25.00 to Franco-British Aid Society; $100.00 to the Canadian Nurses Home, in London; $25.00 to the Triangle Club, and $100.00 to the I.O.D.E. French Relief Fund; $25 to G.W.V.A. Christmas tree and last but not by any means least, the support of our two prisoners of war in Germany.

As this last peed is now happily, a thing of the past, we still felt that we must have a member of "Our family" overseas, so have adopted little Marguerite Jolly-Bricard, a little French girl, aged 11 years, whose father was killed early in the war and who is now in the care of the Franco-Canadian Orphanage in Paris.

Garden Fete

In order to meet all these payments, various methods of raising money have been employed and amongst these, were our Annual Garden Fete, again held by the kind permission of Miss Lundy in her beautiful grounds on June 25th., on which occasion the 57th Regt. Band very kindly gave their services. Two rummage sales on May 27th and November 30th respectively. A dance on May 31st, an excursion of July 11th and a very enjoyable bridge and tea held at Mrs. R. R. Hall's residence, on Nov. 22nd.

To our Regent, and all those members who have worked so hard to make the affairs a success, we feel most grateful, as it is to their efforts we owe the creditable showing made by the Chapter this year. We only feel very sorry that our Regent does not see her way clear to continue another year in the office which she has filled so successfully and in which we are only too proud to have her.

We also wish to extend our thanks to all those outside the Chapter, who have so kindly assisted us in various ways.

At the January meeting, we had the privilege of using, for the first time, the new Form of Prayer and Thanksgiving, as issued by the National Executive, since the signing of the Armistice. Also, to more fitly mark the occasion, the Doxology was sung at the close of the meeting, as well as the National Anthem.

Although we have now emerged from the dark Shadow of War we feel that for many it is at best a very checkered sunshine, and that sun and shadow are very close. To those of our members, who have felt the heavy hand of sorrow we extend our warm and loving sympathy, and also to those whose boys are safely restored to them, we offer our sincerest gratitude, in recognition of the inestimable service they have rendered to us and to womanhood all the world over by the giving of their sons.

Close of War.

Although the close of the war, marks, to some extent, the close of one side of our work, we trust that this will not mean a loss of interest and enthusiasm on the part of our members. We are still Daughters of the Empire, and peace should not make us less ardent. Our Empire still requires our help, and in many ways. Let us show ourselves willing and eager to work for her, that we may prove that we are, in some degree, worthy of the immense sacrifice of gallant lives laid down for us, as well as for our Empire.

For the coming year, on behalf of our incoming Officers and Executive I would ask the hearty and loyal co-operation of every single member, without which the Otonabee Chapter can never take her proper place in the ranks of the Order, to which we are all so proud to belong.

Helen Denison,
Secretary.

VEGETABLE GROWERS HELD A BANQUET

An Address by Mr. J. J. Davis of London.

The regular monthly meeting of the Peterboro Branch of the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association was held in May's school house. The meeting was full of interest and was well attended.

The principal business was to hear the report of the convention and annual meeting brought back by Mr. Bruce Johnston and Mr. C. F. Kitney, delegates.

Mr. C. F. Kitney first referred to the annual meeting which was held on Tuesday, January 21st. He reported the progress during the year, and also gave the members some valuable information that will help the members of this particular branch.

After the regular business was through, both of the delegates reported on the convention.

Held a Banquet.

Last night the branch held their first annual dinner at Gollop's Hotel, twenty members being present. All did justice to the excellent repast put up by Mr. Gollop.

Mr. J. J. Davis of London, the retiring president of the Association, and one of the men who was in the association from the beginning, and who is one of London's foremost gardeners, addressed the meeting. He gave the history of the Association, from its inception, and also a great deal of valuable information, which was listened to with great interest, after which a general discussion took place to the satisfaction of all present.

The Rev. H. A. Frost Opens His Pastorate in Lakefield Church

Preached Two Excellent Sermons to Large Congregations — The Evening Address.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 4.—Sunday Rev. H. A. Frost began his work as minister in charge of the Lakefield Methodist church. At the morning service the quarterly communion was held, at which there was a gratifying attendance. In the evening Major Frost preached to a large congregation. He congratulated the Epworth League for the splendid representation sent to the convention at Peterborough last week. He repeated the announcement that now he had taken up his residence in th village and was ready and willing to respond to any call from his people. He took for his text, "I press toward the mark for the prize of the calling of God in Christ Jesus," Philippians, 3-14.

St. Paul was one of the greatest personalities of any era. He stands out even after the lapse of centuries. Every age of the world has its great personalities—note to-day we have Lloyd George, Marshal Foch, Clemenceau and Sir David Beatty, all men whose names will go down into history as outstanding figures of their time. As Allison Parr advised John Hodder in Winston Churchill's great novel, "The Inside of the Cup," "Find yourself and know your own personality."

Achieve Success.

In order to achieve success in our work we must have two things—internal harmony and external co-operation. As an example, last March our armies were faced with defeat on the western front and the Italians had suffered many reverses from the Austrians. These disasters were not the fault of the British, French or Italians, for the armies were prefectly trained and wisely generaled, but co-operation was needed, and petty ambitions were buried and a generalissimo was appointed (General Foch), who subsequently led the united armies to a grand and glorious victory. St. Paul co-operated with St. Barnabas, St. Luke and St. Timothy, and what was the result? The gospel of Christ was spread through Asia Minor, through Greece and even Rome itself. St. Paul struggled on all his life with a fixed purpose, but it was only in his later days when he achieved his greatest successes. St. Paul was the great apostle of the Gentiles and carried the gospel to practically all the known world.

Lord Roberts at the age of 67 was called to undertake the leadership of the British armies in South Africa. When disaster had followed disaster, and the situation had become serious, he said, "For fifty years I have kept myself fit for the time when England should have need of me." His greatest triumphs, as in the case of St. Paul, came in his later years.

From the humble cottage in Manchester to No. 10 Downing street, is a long step, but Lloyd George made it by his marvellous perseverance and the following of one great purpose. To-day Lloyd George is the greatest outstanding figure in the British Empire, and probably in the world.

Another outstanding figure of to-day is George Benjamin Clemenceau—Benjamin, son of my right arm—as he has really been to France in three stirring times. Twice he was driven from Paris, his beloved city, once by the Republicans and once by the Royalist party, but when France was faced with a political crisis and a leader was needed who could inspire the public confidence, the man who was chosen to lead his country in its crucial hour was Clemenceau, who had then attained his 77th year. As a young man he had reluctantly affixed his signature to the document which gave Alsace-Lorraine to Germany, "Better go down to everlasting defeat than yield the territory," he said, but he was overruled.

Four Long Years.

To-day he has a well deserved place at the peace conference, and when the peace treaty is finally signed he will have the joy of signing the document of France's great triumph instead of her humiliation as in 1871. For four long years of lark days and darker nights we fought our Armageddon from Mons to Mons. Mons 1914, which was almost the Sedan of the British forces to Mons 1918, which was the Waterloo of the Canadians.

Our brave boys in France and Flanders have fought and died to make the world safe for democracy. It is our place to make democracy safe for the world.

For those who have moral or spiritual difficulties, St. Paul's epistle to the Romans has good advice. Temptation comes to us all more or less and those who have overcome the great temptations have accomplished greater things than those who have the lesser temptations. St. Paul says, "I press on," using the present tense, showing the necessity for continuous effort on the part of the Christian.

Personalities, Purpose, Perseverance and Pluck, four great P's, are all important for us as Christians. In these days of re-organization they are especially necessary as well as the internal harmony and external co-operation in our civil and religious life.

BOLSHEVIK FORCES REGAIN CONTROL

Hold Various Parts of Ukraine and are Forming Soviets.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Feb. 4.—Bolshevist forces are now masters of almost the whole of Eastern Ukraine, including the important centres of Kharkoc, Poltavia, Ekaterinoslav and Konetz mining region. It is reported that the Soviet government has been established at Kharkov, the president being M. Rakovsky, one of the signatories to the Brest-Litovsk treaty with Germany.

For the last four or five years the theater-going public, as well as the theatrical producers have been searching for a man big enough to take the place of Chauncey Olcott and Andrew Mack. He had to be histrionically competent as well as vocally adequate. It was a hard task and a long and fruitless search. But it is over now because Bernard Daly after years of indifferent success in minor parts, has finally proven his ability to head a company of his own And he is making an unqualified success of it. In the stellar role of "Sweet Innisfallen," at the Armory Theater yesterday, Daly proved his right to be classed among the stars of Irish romantic drama. As an actor he is an artist. As a singer he combines many of the good qualities of tone and timber of both Olcott and Mack with no inconsiderable amount of the yodelling ability of the elder Emmett. He is happily possessed of a sweet almost "white" tenor voice and he knows how to use it.

"Sweet Innisfallen" is practically a new show, but it is bound to succeed principally because the management did not fall into the common error of considering its work done when they had found a star.

The supported company is excellent. The scenery and costuming leaves little to be desired.

"Sweet Innisfallen" is one of those good old romantic Irish plays our fathers and mothers raved over. It is a vehicle built especially to bring out the best points of its star and it does not fall short of its mission.

Many of the company are familiar to Binghamton audeinces. Their work was well received and they deserved all the appreciative applause accorded them.

There are a few rough spots in the action of the piece which must be polished off before the show is perfect but there is no reason why Bernard Daly and 'Sweet Innisfallen' should not be one of the big successes of the season.—Binghampton Herald.

Warns Against Eastern Peril

"The Future is Full of Questions," Says Wilson.

(United Press.)

PARIS, Feb. 4.—A warning against a new "eastern peril" was contained in President Wilson's speech before the Chamber of Deputies yesterday afternoon, according to opinions revealed in a general discussion of the address to-day.

"I do not need to point out to you that east of you in Europe the future is full of question," he said. "Beyond the Rhine, across Germany, across Poland, across Russia, across Asia, the questions remain unanswered and they may be for the present unanswerable."

The President intimated that the League of Nations will be a great protection against future aggression not only of France, but of all other nations. "All nations," he said, "must be ready for any terrible incident of injustice. The thing is inconceivable."

A PINT OF OYSTERS ENOUGH MEAT FOR A FAMILY OF FIVE.

Oysters are a good food. Oysters come nearer in composition to cow's milk than do most other meats, as all the four kinds of nutrients needed are present in good degree. Oysters have a larger excess of the flesh building substance relative to the other constituents than milk, so we "balance the ration" by addition of starchy food and fats when eating oysters, thus securing a good meal at a cost that compares favorably with that when other meats are chosen. The sea salts that they contain are useful in regulating and stimulating nutritional processes.

Official Communication On Polish Territorial Disputes

All Territorial Disputes Between Warring Factions Must be Submitted to Peace Conference.

(United Press.)

PARIS, Feb. 4.—The following official communication was issued to-day on the territorial disputes between the Czecho-Slovaks and the Poles:

"Reports of Polish Czecho-Slovak agreements. The representatives of the Great Powers having been informed of the conflict which has arisen between the Czechos and Poles in the principality of Teschen, in consequence of which the mining district of Ostrawa Karvin and the railway from Olderberg to Teschden and Jablungkau has been occupied by the Czechos, have declared as follows:

"In the first instance they think it necessary to remind the nationalities who have engaged to submit the territorial questions which concern them to the Peace Conference; that they are breaking its decisions to refrain from acting as a pawn or from occupying the territories to which they lay claim.

A Commission.

"The representatives take note of the engagement by which the Czecho delegates have declared that they were definitely stopping their troops on the line of the railway which runs from Oderberg to Teschen Jablungkau.

"Pending the decisions of the Peace Conference as to the definite establishment of the territories that part of the railway line to the north of Teschen and the mining regions will remain in the occupation of Czech troops, while the southern section of the line, starting from and including the town of Teschen down to Jablungkau, will be entrusted to the military supervision of the Poles.

"The undersigned consider it indispensable that a commission of control should be immediately sent to the spot to avoid any conflict between the Czechs and Poles in the region of Teschen. This commission, apart from the measures that it will have to prescribe, will proceed to an inquiry on the basis of which the Peace Conference may form its decision in fixing definitely the respective frontiers of the Czechs and the contested zone.

War Material.

"In order to seal the Entente between two friendly nations which should follow a policy in full accord with that of the Allied and Associated Powers, the representatives of the Great Powers register the promise of the Czecho representatives that their country will put at the disposal of the Poles all its available resources in war material and will grant to them every facility for the transit of arms and ammunition.

"The exploitation of the mines of the Karvin Ostrawa district will be carried out in such a way as to avoid all infraction of private property. While reserving any police measures which the situation may require, the commission of control will be approved to supervise this, and if necessary to secure to the Poles that part of the output which may be equitably claimed by them to meet their wants.

Conditions of Pact.

"It is understood that the local administration will continue to function in accordance with the conditions of the pact of November, 1918, and that the right of minorities will be strictly respected.

"Pending the decision of the Peace Congress, political elections and military conscription will be suspended by the principality of Teschen."

"No measure implying annexation of all or of a part of the said principality either to the territory of Poland or of Czecho-Slovakia taken by interested parties shall have binding force.

"The delegates of the Czech nation engage to release immediately, with their arms and baggage, the Polish prisoners taken during the recent conflict.

MILITARY MEDAL FOR SERGT.-MAJOR GAMEY.

Mrs. J. C. Gamey, 589 Aylmer St., received word yesterday that her husband, Sergt.-Major Gamey, had received the Military Medal. While Sergt. Gamey did not state how he won the medal he said: "I was offered my commission in September, but did not take it; however I was given the Military Medal, which will serve as a souvenir of the war. It is not much and I reckon that I did not deserve it." Sergt. Gamey, who went overseas with the 93rd Battalion, qualified for his commission but reverted to go overseas. While in England he was given an opportunity to return to Canada to train men, but preferred to go to France.

Motor Chemical Engine Gave Proof of Its Value Last Year

Fire Chief Grange Cites Examples of Its Efficiency Under the Test of Every Day Work—Loss Was Small, Apart From Several Outstanding Fires.

CONTINUE MOTORIZATION

Fire Chief Grange's report of the work and general affairs of his department last year, was presented to the Council last night, as follows:

Peterboro, January 20, 1919.

To His Worship the Mayor and Gentlemen of the City Council

Gentlemen: I have the honor to submit herewith the 11th annual report of the fire department for the year ending December 31, 1918. This is the second annual report since I assumed the duties of Chief of the department.

During the year the department responded to 222 alarms of fire, the largest number in the history of the department. In response to alarms the apparatus travelled 673 5-8 miles, used 33,750 feet of standard 2½ inch fire hose, raised 154 feet of ladders, and used 883 gallons of chemical extinguisher fluid.

The total loss by fire, as nearly as can be ascertained, was $347,186. This is the largest loss for any one year since the department was organized, with the exception of 1916, when the loss considerably exceeded one million dollars. The bulk of the loss for 1918 was caused by four fires, as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Jan. 6—Peterboro Canoe Co. | $45,000.00 |
| Jan. 10—Boston Cafe | 15,000.00 |
| Jan. 26—Neill fire | 256,900.00 |
| Feb. 23—Peterboro Planing Mills | 14,000.00 |
| Total | $330,900.00 |

Outside of these four fires our loss was only $16,286. The damage is classified as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Damage to buildings | $ 99,653 |
| Damage to contents | 247,533 |

Early in the year a system of monthly inspection of all buildings in the business section was inaugurated, together with the usual inspection of all public buildings and manufacturing plants. There were 777 inspections made. By this system the premises are kept clear of all combustible rubbish and all unsafe conditions are reported by the inspector and the matter is taken up with the owner or the occupant of the building by the chief of the department. The location of the buildings and the methods and material used in their construction are kept on file to enable each member of the department to acquaint himself with each building. During the year the chief advised that 37 buildings be equipped with fire escapes of the approved kind. Several owners have complied with the recommendation, but others have been extremely dilatory in respect to this matter.

All the apparatus has been kept in a good state of repair. During the year we received the American LaFrance Motor Combination Hose and Chemical Wagon. This has proved to be of the greatest assistance, because of the short time required to reach the scene of a fire, and the chemical attachment enables us to extinguish fires that are assuming quite dangerous proportions, without the use of water. The following examples will tend to show the value of motor apparatus more than any amount of argument could.

On March 31st we received an alarm from Box 59. The house was but a short distance from the box, the distance from the station being approximately 2½ miles. The motor apparatus being something new at this time, we were timed by citizens. From Aylmer to George street was made in 14 seconds. From Hunter to Smith on George street was made in 60 seconds, and the scene of the fire was reached in exactly 3 minutes—a distance of 2½ miles. The fire, in a residence, was caused by spontaneous combustion and was making rapid progress. On arrival we used the 40 gallon chemical tank with which the car is equipped, and had the fire extinguished and I was making the customary inspection of the premises when the horse-drawn apparatus arrived, seven minutes later. The loss was confined to $20 on the building and $80 on the contents, both of which in my opinion would have been total losses had we been depending on the horses alone.

On the evening of January 16th we received by Box 25 an alarm of fire to 337 George street, the premises occupied by Yeates Bros., tobacco store and pool parlors. The person who pulled the box had scarcely returned when the apparatus was on the scene. The quick response was a matter of surprise to the proprietor and onlookers. Although we had what might have been a very disastrous fire facing us I preferred using chemicals rather than water. The loss was kept down to a very low figure indeed. If water had been used the loss would have exceeded this figure by more than the price of the car.

The general health of the department has been good with the exception of the influenza epidemic. Thirteen men of the department were affected by this disease, for periods varying from one to two weeks. There were no serious accidents to firemen during the year. The discipline of the department has been excellent. It affords me much pleasure to inform you of the loyal support and able assistance I receive from the officers of the department and the satisfactory manner in which which both officers and men perform their duties. This is borne out by the favorable comment of the public press and by letters of thanks and donations to the Benefit Fund received from citizens whose property has been protected. The police department has rendered valuable assistance when large fires have occurred. The manufacturers and merchants have taken very kindly to any suggestions we had to offer regarding the safe-guarding of property. The harmony and good will existing between the firemen and the public has I am pleased to say apparently extended to the council; for all of which I am extremely thankful.

I regret to have to report that during the year three lives were lost by fires. One was lost at the Boston Cafe through suffocation by smoke; one woman burned to death while melting floor wax on the stove, and one baby burned to death when left alone in the house.

During the year we had five calls for the pulmotor. In three cases the patient was restored and in the other two the patient was beyond human aid when the pulmotor was summoned.

Recommendations.

I hope the work of motorizing the department will not stop with the already acquired pieces of apparatus. A motor driven pumping engine and an aerial truck should be purchased.

Four-way hydrants should be placed on the west side of George street, on each corner in the business section. In the event of a large fire and a wall collapsing covering a hydrant on the east side, our supply of water from a four-way is cut off. If a similar hydrant were placed on the opposite side of the street, the service would not be materially hampered. The hydrants should be painted red instead of green as at present. The alarm boxes should be painted red and have a small red electric bulb suspended above each, for the direction of those wishing to turn in an alarm and who might be ignorant of the exact location of the box.

Since the formation of the department, Peterboro has grown to a city of no mean size, still the facilities for fire fighting have not been materially increased. There should be a sub-station situated somewhere in the south end and another either in the north end or in East City.

A new team of horses should be purchased to replace Mill and Brock who have seen long and faithful service. While we have the one-piece of horse drawn apparatus, it will be necessary to have one team and an extra horse. Another team should be secured to guard against any accident to the motor apparatus in the winter. I would suggest that during the winter months a team be secured for their feed. This I think would be an easy matter to arrange.

I would recommend also that the city require all apartment houses to have the proper fire escapes placed on the building and that a rope fire escape be kept in each apartment. Also it should be required that the outside windows on such houses be fastened on the one side by two hinges and on the other by a hook and eye or screw eye, the hook to be on the inside and the window to open outward. The ordinary fastening buttons should not be used in any case.

A motor generator set for the alarm system should be installed to develop our own power. The power supplied us at present by the Bell Telephone Company is not sufficient to properly operate the system. We are supplied with only 48 volts and by the time that reaches the station it has diminished to 36 or 37 volts. We should have 85 to 110 volts. Where there are only 37 fire alarm boxes we should have twice that number. All the schools should have boxes in close proximity. As it is in the event of fire, the schools have no way of sending in an alarm, either by box or telephone, without having to go some distance. This is a serious matter that should be looked into at once. The new system would supply power for these boxes and be sufficient for years to come, when Peterboro has grown into a large city.

You will find attached to this report a stock sheet showing the amount of supplies and equipment on hand Jan. 1, 1919.

There is also a table showing the number of alarms received, the date of each fire, the day of the week on which fires have occurred, the time of the day or night, the cause of the fire as nearly as can be ascertained, the names of the owner and the occupant of the building, the estimated damage caused by the fire, the distance the apparatus travelled, the number of feet of hose used, the number of feet of ladders raised, the number of gallons of chemical used, how the alarm was received (box, telephone or verbal), time alarm was received, time department returned from the fire, name of the fireman receiving the alarm, type of buildings affected, number of telephone calls received at the station each month, the number of inspections made by the department, the number of reports made, the number of official letters sent out, and a comparative statement of former years.

In conclusion, I wish to express my most sincere thanks to the Mayor, the chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, and the members of the council, for the courteous treatment received at their hands and for the interest they have taken in the department during the year.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

I have the honor to be, Sirs,
Your obedient servant,
Geo. Grange,
Chief of Fire Department.

TO THE HOCKEY FANS

As you are aware the Peterborough Juniors will meet the Lindsay Midgets in the first of a series of home-and-home games at Brock Street Rink on Wednesday to decide the championship of this district.

You will have noticed that the admission charges have been raised. This is a step which the management of the Peterborough Juniors has been reluctant to take, but which has been rendered necessary by the ever-increasing cost of operating a hockey team and because by reason of the default of the Port Hope team we have been deprived of a much needed gate.

We want the fans to realize that the increase in the prices has not been made in any desire to make money out of hockey, but merely to secure if possible enough funds to successfully finance the team. We want you to look upon the Peterborough Juniors as your own team. It is composed of Peterborough boys whom you all know and who are out there giving the best they have at all times for the honour of Peterborough, and for the pure love of the game.

And because it is your own team we feel that you will be glad to help us along. We have had only one home game so far; and the money secured on that occasion was far from sufficient to meet the very heavy expenses incurred by two trips away from home, with the additional expense caused by the aftermath of the Port Hope game. As the public knows travelling expenses have greatly increased. There is no club rate on the railways, and the hotel charges are the highest that have been known. To illustrate what it means to finance a trip away from home let us tell you a little about the Port Hope trip. The mileage allowance paid to us by Port Hope amounted to $25.00. Our railway fare alone cost us $19.00, and our hotel bill $32.00, and half the referee's expenses $7.50. When you add the cost of sticks and indicentals to this total you can begin to see how it is impossible to meet expenses at the old prices.

There are no millionaires among the executive of the Peterborough Junior Club, and although every member has dug down into his own pocket and helped to put the team on its feet, yet without the loyal support of the fans there is bound to be a deficit

WORLD OF SPORT

Peterboro Intermediates Are Badly Beaten By Oshawa

Lakeshore Outfit Won Easily by 10 Goals to 3 Before Big Crowd—Visitors Led All the Way and Landed the Verdict by Clean-cut, Clever Work.

ROWDEN THE STAR

Manager Bradley's Oshawa intermediates, claimed by their supporters to be booked through for the O.H.A. title, and looking the part all over, had a lively practice at Brock street rink last night at the expense of the Peterborough gang.

Oshawa won hands down by 10 goals to 3, leading by 2 to 0 at the end of the first period and 8 to 2 at the close of the second.

There are no alibis.

The Bradleyites simply outplayed the Petes from goal out to centre. They had speed and cleverness individually and most effective system as a team.

Against this individual class and this magnificent team work, the home brigade had nothing to offer but one man hockey. And they had no more chance under the conditions than the German navy had of winning the war.

One of the biggest crowds in recent years saw the game. They were given little chance to enthuse for the visitors led from gong to gong, and except for a few short spurts on the part of the Petes, outclassed the local crew.

Oshawa displayed more system in their playing than any team that has been seen at Brock street rink in a number of seasons. Starting with Childs, a veritable stone wall in the nets, they had a most effective defence, Jacobi and Kemp working together with rare judgment and refusing to be drawn out. The forwards used the N. H. A. style in checking back. Once they lost the rubber at the Peterborough end of the rink they did not bother going into the corners, but skated slowly back down the ice, turning to meet the attack. The result was that when the Petes broke away there were always five or six men between the puck carrier and the nets.

Rowden was the outstanding star of the team and the best man on the ice. The Port Hope boy is as elusive as a shadow, combining wizard stick-handling ability with unusual speed and cleverness around the nets. Bowen, a youngster who played against the Peterborough juniors last year, showed a remarkable improvement in his work and played a very useful game at centre, while Jacques at left wing was a hard-working and effective forward, always in his place and passing unselfishly.

Childs is the same reliable goal-keeper. He handled shots from all angles accurately and cleanly, covering up rebounds most effectively and showing speed in clearing. The Petes persisted in long-range shooting and he simply ate up the shots from outside the defence.

The Petes were outclassed as far as anything with ease. Finally Jocques got away and tearing down the side uncorked a drive that bounced off Rose into the corner of the net.

Bowan made it 10 to 3 shortly before the bell rang.

The summary:

First Period.

Society Brands Story as a Lie

Denies Existence of Anti-Wilson Propaganda in America.

(United Press.)

PARIS, Feb. 4. — Official circles were furious to-day regarding the charge made by the "Populator" that the Franco-Slav Society urged anti-Wilson propaganda in America, in alliance with the President's political enemies. Franklin Bouilton branded the story as a lie.

"The Franco-Slav Society has been in existence for two years for the purpose of discussing Slav questions," said Bouilton. "Nothing remotely resembling the newspaper's fabrication ever happened in any meeting. It is an astounding lie."

NEW UNIONIST ASSOCIATION HAS BEEN FORMED

Officers Elected at the Initial Meeting.

A new association was formed in Peterborough last evening and called the Unionist Association of West Peterborough. The objects of the new association are to back up Unionist principles and the Governments at Ottawa and Toronto, and, if necessary, to nominate at a convention candidates for both Houses.

The meeting was held in Victoria Hall, and was largely attended. Meetings will be held once a month. All Unionists are invited to join.

The officers elected were:

President—James Burnett.
Vice-Presidents — Messrs. W. G. Morrow, B. Everett and R. Porter.
Secretary—Mr. Fred. Miller.
Executive Committee — Messrs. Dunlop, W. Runnett, and Greenwood.

TO-DAY'S OFFERING AT THE GRAND

A Picture of Unusual Merit — This Week's Vaudeville.

A feature picture of unusual merit was shown at the Grand last evening and will be repeated to-day and to-morrow. It is a story of trust and devotion punctuated with lots of action and logical situations. The picture is a Metro production and has all the well-known characteristics of a high-class well developed plot enhanced by the many features that make these pictures so acceptable to the public. The performance running at the Grand for the first three nights of this week opens with a Pathe News presenting some of the big news events of the world in a pictorial form. This is followed by a couple of good comedies. The vaudeville this week is in the hands of Fredo and Primrose, in a musical comedy turn that is equally as good as last week's offering. The pair conclude the act by appearing in dress suits and give a saxaphone selection that proves to be an acceptable finish.

Up to Juniors Now to Keep Peterboro on the Hockey Map

It is up to the Peterboro Juniors to keep Peterboro colours flying and the local youngsters will go into to-morrow night's big game at Brock street rink with the Lindsay midgets full of determination to show the world that the city is still on the hockey map.

To-morrow night's engagement will be a real battle. The fans have learned to know that every time you drop the Lindsay and Peterboro Juniors on the ice and let them at each other there is sure to be sixty minutes hair-raising hockey and with the district championship depending upon the results of the present series to-morrow night's game promises to be even more thrilling than the last two battles between the old rivals. It will be called at 8:15 o'clock and will get away sharp on time.

The Petes are out to make up for last Friday's defeat in Lindsay and to show that their first victory over the Midgets was not a fluke. On the other hand the Lindsay gang, heartened by their innings of last week will come down full of "pep" and confident of getting the edge on the series by winning right in Peterboro.

Either Bobby Hewittson or Lou Marsh will referee the game. The weatherman promises a cold snap for to-morrow but in any event the ice will be in good shape.

It looks like the big game of the season, and the fans will sure get a run for their money.

The HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

THE JOLLY GIRL.

The jolly girl is born, not made; no trainin gor endeavor can counterfeit her. There are those to be sure who affect jollity, but it is only skin deep. The jolly girl is jolly under adverse circumstances — in bad weather; when she hasn't a cent to her name; when she has the toothache; when she has lost her situation;; when she breaks her needle; when her back hair tumbles down in public; when she is shopping; when her masculine neighbor at the theatre goes out, and when he returns; when her bills are due. She never seems to indulge in that feminine luxury, "the blues," and it is a mistake to suppose that she is noisy; there is jollity of the lady-like, aristocratic kind, as well as that of the fish wife order.

The girl who makes up her mind that jollity is the proper cue, and that she will be lively or die usually overdoes the business; she thinks that it chiefly consists in laughing, and in chattering nonsense, that it is a manner of speech merely, rather than a quality of the mind which disposes one to make the best of everything, to see the rainbow on the cloud and the silver lining behind it, to make the wrinkle on the rose leaf a cause of mirth. Some believe that jollity is an affair of embonpoint, but who has not been disappointed in finding the stout woman melancholy, and the thin one vivacious, the bilious person full of good humor and the person whose digestion never gave her a moment's uneasiness quite the reverse The jolly girl cannot suppress herself, and assume sadness or pensiveness; languishing airs do not sit well upon her, but show at a glance that they are borrowed plumes. One is never dull with her. She has that infinite variety which all the world covets and loves. It may be a desirable thing that those who have not this natural grace should cultivate and encourage it in themselves and others, since it brightens and strengthens life, makes rough places smoother and pleasant places pleasanter. Possibly it is no special virtue in the jolly girl any more than blue eyes in the blonde maiden or red hair in the Titanesque. Jollity flows from her presence just as the nightingale's fluting bubbles from his throat and enchants the world; just as the poet pours forth his song, "in profuse strains of unpremeditated art," just as the tree blossoms, the grasses sprout, the stars shine, without effort, without design, with sincerity and constancy and spontaneity. Let her be shipwrecked or an invalid stranded on a bed of pain yet she does not lose or abate that peculiar trait which makes sunshine for those about her and sweeps the cobwebs out of the sky.

"I Need Thee Every Hour."

The author of "I Need Thee every Hour,' is dead. Mrs. Annie S. Hawkers passed away at the age of 83 years. She wrote that famous hymn long, long ago, and it was but one of numerous songs that she composed. Still had her more than fourscore years of life shown no other service for humanity than the giving to the world of that one sweetly simple psalm of faith in the Divine love, her life would have richly blessed the earth by the single act.

For the song has sung its comfort into the hearts of millions of people. Wherever "I Need Thee Every Hour" is known, it has happiness, and as the modest little gospel lyric is in the hymnals of every Christian society in the world, it is not too much to say that its influence extends around the globe. It is a marvelous power ,too ,that influence. Its lifts the human soul to a plane where endurance, the loftiness of the thought of the hymn makes the sordid experiences of life seem less important in comparison with the great truths which the faith and inspiration of the lines breathe.

"I need Thee every hour,
Most gracious Lord;
No tender voice like Thine,
Can peace afford."

Where is the human heart which has not felt the desire for a sustaining presence which earthly factors could not provide? How that need is made to vibrate again by those trustful words! And the next stanza is further illuminating of man's common experiences ,and just as sweet and strengthening in the confidence it offers:

"I need Thee every hour—
Stay Thou near by!
Temptations lose their power
When Thou art nigh!"

No strange, seldom used words speak the message of this song.There are poets—and they are famous, too —who seem to ransack the lexicons of language for new terms in which to express their thoughts. Not thus did the writer of "I Need Thee Every Hour," pour out her faith in the ability of her God to sustain her through whatever test the day might bring. A child can understand the sentiment of this utterance:

"I need Thee every hour,
In joy or pain;
Come quickly and abide,
or life is vain

"I need Thee every hour—
Teach me Thy will,
And Thy rich promises
In me fulfill!"

The voice of the singer is still forever. No more will the faith she revealed in that beauteous hymn be required by her. The song, however, lives on—the tendrils of the trust it speaks can never die, but more enduring than the tender line, even that truth will find its place forever in the soul which has longing for help and comfort and peace.

Hard hands, strong arms and sunburned faces are honorable. Take "Excelsior" for your motto and if you are patient, in a few years you can write under it that other good word, "Eureka!"

PREPARING FOR THE BIG FUTURE OF MUSIC

Musical appreciation has increased enormously in the last twenty five years, the standard of performance demanded rising to meet it. This advancement has been brought about by many influences; the good teaching of well equipped musicians from other lands, who have brought with them their culture and high ideals; pioneers, missing their accustomed musical atmosphere, yet going bravely on planting the good seed; then our students going out to the great centres of learning, returning with broadened minds and ambitions, the choral socities of village and town, the operatic societies, orchestras, and in more recent years, the big conservatories in the east and the annual festivals of the west; the musical clubs of nearly every town in the Dominion; all have added and are adding their "bit" to the musical life of our country, educating the people preparing the ground for the big future.

If your eyes are weak and work-strained; your vision blurred, if you find it difficult to read and must wear glasses, go to your druggist and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one in a fourth of a glass of water and bathe the eyes two to four times a day. Stronger eyes, clearer vision, and sweet relief will make you tell your friends about Bon-Opto.

Brazil Wants to Retain Seized German Vessels

Peace Delegate Says $50,000,000 Damages Will Be Claimed—Tells of Country's Share in Victory—Large Part of Navy Operated in European Waters Under U. S. Command.

PARIS, Feb. 5. — Brazil will ask of the peace conference permission to retain forty-three German merchant vessels seized in Brazilian ports when she entered the war against Prussianism, Senhor Dom Epatacio Pessoa, the head of the Brazilian peace delegation and Ambassador to France, told me to-day. Senhor Pessioa outlined his country's position before the peace conference, her chief claims as follows:

For the retention of German vessels seized by Brazil during the war, and which are valued at $16,000,000.

For $29,000,000 now deposited in German banks to Brazil's credit, the proceeds from the sale of coffee by Brazil to Germany before the war. When Brazil entered the conflict, Germany refused to pay the money until hostilities ceased, explaining that she would hold it to Brazil's credit and pay a good rate of interest on the principal.

Senhor Pessoa said that his country was in complete agreement with President Wilson's fourteen points, and strongly favored a league of nations. He declared that Brazil has no territorial questions to settle. However, in the event it is decided Germany must indemnify each of the allied countries for expenditures in the war she will present a claim for $50,000,000. This represents the cost of her total war outlay.

What Brazil Accomplished.

In explanation of her demands Senhor Pessoa declared that Brazil in her own quiet way, accomplished much in the allied cause since she entered the war on Oct. 19, 1917.

"We seized forty-three first class German vessels and one German cruiser," he said. "Thirty of these vessels we turned over to France for her own use. We mobilized our entire army of 60,000 officers and men, and all our navy. At the same time we placed our merchant fleet at the command of the allies. We sent our best aviators to France, together with more than one hundred army officers. We organized and maintained a complete hospital unit in France, with 300 beds. We kept more than 50 steamships plying between Brazilian ports and the United States and Europe, supplying our allies with coffee, cocoa, oils, nuts, cotton and sugar. We stamped out German propaganda in Brazil, put a stop to enemy espionage and interned many dangerous enemy aliens. A large part of our navy was sent to European waters, where under the command of a United States admiral it co-operated with the allied fleets in protecting the coasts and shipping and troop transports from enemy submarines.

"Eight of our best merchant vessels were sunk by torpedoes while in the service of the Allies. Many of our seamen were lost with these vessels. Some of our seamen were picked up and interned in Germany.

Hopes for Approval by Conference.

"We feel our position is quite modest, but hope for the complete approval by the conference of what we did."

ARE PAID IN ENGLAND NOW.

Men Who are Discharged There May Get Their Discharge pay Overseas.

It will be good news to many men of the C.E.F. that if they want to get their discharge in Britain they may no only do so, but they may also receive their post discharge pay there.

This has not been the case in the past, when post discharge pay was given only in Canada. A new order-in-Council at Ottawa did the trick.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Colour, Gloss and Attractiveness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn grey, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a 50-cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

ALLIES IN ADRIANOPLE.

SALONIKI, Feb. 5.—Detachments of allied troops have arrived at Adrianople and put an end to Turkish terrorism of the inhabitants which had been in progress during the war.

The Greek inhabitants of the city are now wearing hats instead of the fez which the Turks forcibly compelled them to wear.

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save four-fifths of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup at home. It is simple and cheap but it really has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) from any druggist, pour it into a 16-oz bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, whooping cough or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its healing effect on the membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Some of our Canadian women are borne down physically and mentally, by the weaknesses of their sex. They suffer from backache, dragging sensation, very nervous and pain in top of head. If they ask their neighbors they will be told to take a Favorite Prescription of Dr. Pierce's which has been so well and favorably known for the past half century.

Weak women should try it now. Don't wait! Begin today. This woman's tonic and nervine will bring vim, vigor and vitality. Send Dr. V. M. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 10c for trial pkg., tablets.

Paris, Ont.—"About three year ago I was ill in bed and suffered severe pain. The doctor said I had gall stones, but his medicine did not help me. A neighbor had been taking 'Favorite Prescription' and it had benefited her so much that she urged me to try some of hers, and that first dose helped me so much that I sent at once for a bottle. I was very much surprised at the prompt relief this medicine gave to me after the doctor had failed, and I have never had such a spell since, but whenever I feel the least bit run-down or in need of a tonic I take the 'Favorite Prescription' again for a few days. It has never failed to restore me to perfect health."—Mrs. Elizabeth Brown, P. O. Box 762.

Distrust, Unbelief and Jealousy.

CHAPTER CXI

Perhaps nothing so militates against the happiness of married people, especially young people as the triangle: distrust, unbelief and jealousy. And it was this triangle which now made Ruth Hackett very miserable, very unhappy.

Her feet lagged as she went about her work at the shop. Often she was inattentive. Brian was quietly making ready to go. They talked little about it, but Ruth's intuition was keen; and she noted the signs of preparation. There was much talk that the States would surely have to join the Allies, and she wanted to urge him to wait. But she lacked the nerve to talk of it. But finally the papers began to clamour for preparation. Brian himself spoke of it, one evening.

"I guess I won't go with the Canadians, after all. Uncle Sam will need me in a few weeks or, I miss my guess."

"You don't think it really will come to us?" Ruth asked.

"No—we will go to it," facetiously replied Brian.

"Please don't joke, dear; it would be too awful."

"I'm not joking—really. We are going to get in this muss, and we might as well make up our minds to it.—With all my heart I hope we can't stay out much longer and be able to hold up our heads."

"But Brian it will take so long to get men fit to fight. The war won't last long enough."

"It won't take very long for the Americans to fight. We are used to doing things in a hurry. We'll have to do in a few months what those dirty Germans took forty years to do. And I'll make you a bet right now that we'll do it too. Not only do it, but we will whip them to a stand-still if we get a whack at them."

"You have more faith than I have. It will be very hard to take office boys, bookkeepers and stenographers clerks and farmers, and make good soldiers of them. Not only will it be hard but it will take time."

"You'll see why when Uncle Sam really sets out to do anything he always succeeds. Why should you think he would fail in this? We can't fail. It wouldn't be American."

"You certainly have faith in your country," Ruth smiled as she looked at him. She felt happy, happier than since Brian had told her she was going overseas, and that Mollie King was going—too. It was at least a respite. Ruth did not truly believe America would participate. She, like so many others, thought there would soon be some sort of an armistice. It would seem improbable that the United States three thousand miles away would be drawn into it. We were all unprepared, seemed all useless for any such thing as immediate warfare.

"I'd be a pretty poor American if I didn't have faith in my country." Brian replied.

"I hope you are mistaken, Brian. I think you are. It would be frightful to send our unseasoned, unprepared boys against the Germans. They would butcher them without mercy."

"Yes—if they got the chance. If they got close enough. But it won't be only our boys who are butchered if we once get a chance at them: there will be two Germans put out of business for every American. We'll fight like the Canadians—the finest in the world."

Ruth smiled at Brian's earnestness—his belief in the truth of his statement. Ruth lacked his vision. But she was much more practical than Brian—much more apt to weigh the pros and cons of a question than he. Perhaps it was one attribute which contributed to her success as a business woman.

"Brian always saw rainbows," she had told her aunt once, when he was courting her. But of late he had seemed to lose his optimism. He had not built so many castles in the air. When he stopped talking of how soon he would be a success as a lawyer, he had also stopped talking so optimistically about other things. Ruth had missed his buoyancy in his talk; had regretted the pessimistic streak he seemed to be developing.

But when he talked of war, all his old buoyancy reappeared. He again talked extravagantly; and at times carried even Ruth, who doubted, away, by his belief in what he said. Like so many women Ruth was inclined to be incredulous regarding things she did not understand—things military.

As yet, he had said no word of sorrow at the thought of leaving her. Had made no plans for her happiness or her comfort. He had simply thrown her back upon herself: "You do not need me," was all he said.

"He will, if he goes," she said to herself. "It is because he doesn't really know anything about what he is going to do, that he is so cold to me; that he thinks nothing of my loneliness should we enter the war," but she said it with no thought that America would ever participate, or that Brian would ever go.

Quit Laxatives, Purges; Try NR

NR Tonight — Tomorrow Feel Right

It is a mistake to continually dose yourself with so-called laxative pills, calomel, oil, purges and cathartics and force bowel action. It weakens the bowels and liver and makes constant dosing necessary.

Why don't you begin right today to overcome your constipation and get your system in such shape that daily purging will be unnecessary? You can go so if you get a 25c box of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) and take one each night for a week or so. NR Tablets do much more than merely cause pleasant easy bowel action. This medicine acts upon the digestive as well as eliminative organs—promotes good digestion, causes the body to get the nourishment from all the food you eat, gives you a good, hearty appetite, strengthens the liver, overcomes biliousness, regulates kidney and bowel action and gives the whole body a thorough cleaning out. This accomplished you will not have to take medicine every day. An occasional NR tablet will keep your body in condition and you can always feel your best. Try Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) and prove this. It is the best bowel medicine that you can use, and costs only 25c per box, containing enough to last twenty-five days. Tommy Got Apple Pie.

The Salvation Army hut beside the Varennes road was just a ruined wall and a few pieces of gunnysack. A loose and weary soldier was halted before it by a sign which said there would be nothing doing till the morrow, and that there was no admission except on business. So he went in immediately. "Sorry, but our truck hasn't come yet and we won't have a canteen here till to-morrow." "Guess I go to bed hungry," said the visitor, turning away. "You see, we don't open till morning. I haven't a thing here for you except—wait a moment—yes, I could let you have an apple pie." The soldier gaped. "But I've only got five hundred francs." "Rubbish. Take the darned thing. We had only enough stuff to cook the one." A moment later truck drivers trundling at dusk along the road saw standing at the side a stimulating picture. It was a rain-drenched Tommy. On his face there was a beatific smile. In his hands there rested (in passing) a sweet, warm, generous, flaky, spicy apple pie.

Suffering.

"Didn't that peace demonstration upset your nerves?"

"Completely. I'm suffering from yell shock."

ALMOST BLIND FROM HEADACHES.

It is hard to struggle along with a head that aches and pains all the time. Headache seems habitual with many people; indeed, some are seldom, if ever, free from it, suffering continually, and wondering why they can get no relief.

In nine cases out of ten, persistent headaches are due to poisoned blood, the blood being rendered impure through some derangement of the stomach, liver or bowels.

The reason Burdock Blood Bitters makes permanent cures of all cases of headache, is because it starts the organs of elimination acting freely, and the poisons and impurities are carried off from the system, purified blood circulates in the brain cells, and instead of pains and aches there is revived mentality and bodily vigor.

Mrs. Geo. Monck, Arden, Ont., writes: "I have been troubled a great deal with sick headaches, and at times would almost go blind, and have to go to bed. I tried different kinds of medicine without any benefit until I was advised to use Burdock Blood Bitters. After taking it, I have not been troubled since."

Vice-Admiral Sims Was Always Very Warm Friend Of Unity of Anglo-Saxons

IT is anticipated by naval officers in Washington that, as one of the immediate consequences of the collapse of German sea power, the strategic reason for keeping the main strength of the United States navy massed in the Atlantic Ocean will no longer exist, and that its division, with perhaps world-wide distribution of its units, is inevitable. In the rearrangement of war vessels almost certain to ensue, the fleet which Vice-Admiral Sims has commanded since the entrance of the republic into the war will undoubtedly be affected. In reward for his able conduct of the United States naval forces in European waters, it is expected that, before the present month expires, this distinguished officer will have been raised to the rank of admiral.

It is not strange that a man possessing the qualities of William Sowden Sims should have won his way to the highest consideration in his chosen profession, but it is strange enough to be interesting that William Sowden Sims, who, while ranking as commander, in January, 1911, was guilty of "a serious indiscretion," should be regarded as worthy of especial honor in December, 1918, because of the remarkable discretion with which he performed some very delicate tasks.

ADMIRAL SIMS AND GRANDSON.

From the point of view of Germany, even then menacing Great Britain, as she had been for years, the commander's expression of the friendship of the people of the United States for their cousins across the sea was, of course, extremely offensive. German writers and speakers in Germany and in the United States had commented with bitterness upon it, a bitterness increased by the knowledge that German ports had been left out of the itinerary of the United States fleet to which Commander Sims' ship, the Minnesota, was attached on the cruise to European waters. It was even asserted by Germans that the remarks of Commander Sims were inspired by the United States Government. The principal German agitator of anti-American sentiment in Germany at the time was Count von Reventlow, whose literary activities during the war precipitated nearly three years later are familiar to all newspaper readers. He held that the failure of the United States fleet to visit German ports was decidedly conspicuous from a political point of view, insisting that neither lack of ships nor want of time could be advanced as an excuse.

The "serious indiscretion" was committed in London, at a dinner given by the Lord Mayor about the time first referred to, and at which Commander Sims was a guest and one of the speakers. The offence consisted principally of a sentence in his remarks to the effect that if Great Britain were ever seriously threatened she could depend on "every man, every dollar, and every drop of blood" in the United States to come to her aid. The attention of President Taft having been called to this utterance, Commander Sims was reprimanded in due form. "His offence has been so conspicuous," wrote the President to the then Secretary of the Navy, George von L. Meyer, "that the action of the department in reproving it should be equally so." Dealing with the matter generally, President Taft remarked that whenever an officer of the United States navy is called upon in a foreign country to speak in public, so that what he says will necessarily be brought to the attention of the people of other foreign countries, it is his obvious duty to avoid invidious comparisons and to limit his speech and his expressions of friendship for the country whose guest he is to language that will not indicate a lack of friendship toward other countries." Although the President went further, and said that Commander Sims could not escape censure on the ground that what he said was a mere expression of personal opinion, since he might well have known that his words would be given the weight of his official position, it was generally felt that while writing so severe a rebuke the chief magistrate "had his tongue in his cheek."

HOW TO LIVE LONG.

Many ailments find their beginning in lazy Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to keep a torpid sluggish condition of liver, kidneys and bowels. As a matter of fact you can add years to the length of your life as well as comfort and happiness by setting these organs regular and active.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

Under the Snow

By MYRA CHARLOTTE KLINGER

"Whew!" gasped John Dunbar, postman, and tried to steady himself as a blast of wind took him off his feet. He fell sideways into a snowbank and then struggled to his feet to gather up a score of scattered letters and newspapers.

He finally righted himself, scanned the yard space in front of Widow Lane's cottage scrutinizingly and proceeded up the steps of the humble little habitation.

"Aren't you done out and chilled through?" greeted the wholesome, heartsome Mrs. Lane. "Come in and warm yourself and let me get you a piping hot bowl of ginger tea."

"Always thinking of others, aren't you?" spoke honest John, appreciatively. "I believe I'll accept your kind offer. If that ginger tea of yours is as fine as the famous lemonade you cheered me up with last summer, this certainly is the house of good cheer."

John took off his mittens, blew on his fingers and then deposited on the table from his mail bundle two letters and a newspaper.

"Two? Both for Mr. Isham," spoke the widow in a tone of interest and gladsomeness, as she glanced at the letters. "He has been dreadfully anxious about one he expected and I hope it's one of the two." Then she bustled about and, with the sincere thanks, the veteran mail carrier, warm inside and outside and mightily cheered, departed on his difficult way, for roads and lots were two feet deep with snow.

Mrs. Lane had but one boarder, Ernest Isham, in whom she took almost a motherly interest, for he was a fine young fellow and lightened many of her household burdens with his handy, accommodating ways. She kept watching eagerly from the front window. Finally she ran to the door and Ernest Isham found it open and welcoming him before he had reached it.

"Two letters," announced Mrs. Lane, cheeringly. "Oh, dear!"

Ernest had eagerly scanned the envelopes. His face fell. He sank to a chair with a groan.

"It's the last chance gone," he said, mournfully. "Neither of those is the one I expected. I give it up now, for it would have been here today at the latest, if ever."

"Poor boy! Your heart was set on it, wasn't it?"

"You don't know what the disappointment means to me, Mrs. Lane," said Ernest. "It signifies the death of my ambition; it may mean the loss of the only girl I ever loved." He bowed his pale face in his hands and Mrs Lane regarded him pityingly, her eyes filling with tears.

She went out into the kitchen and completed her arrangements for the noonday lunch. Then she came back to Ernest and touched him on the shoulder.

"Now I want you to eat a good meal and forget your troubles," she said, and he could not resist her kindly thoughtfulness and tried to feign an appetite.

"You know that I have been basing great hopes upon an invention," he reminded Mrs. Lane. "I have had some encouragement. The recent blockade has called for some device to melt or remove the snow. I have constructed a model of a portable tank which plays a blowpipe gasoline spray upon the snow. A boy can operate it and it will melt one hundred square feet in thirty minutes. I have needed capital to make one large working machine. I wrote to a wealthy cousin of my mother last week to assist me. I believed that he would. You know how he has ignored me. Then there is Alice," and Ernest sighed drearily.

Yes, Mrs. Lane knew about Alice Markley. She was a girl who within a month must go thousands of miles away with her only relatives, her grandparents unless Ernest could wed her, but he was at his greatest moment of stringency.

Alice was calling on Mrs. Lane the next day when Ernest came home in better spirits. "If I can make a satisfactory test with my working model a manufacturer offers me some encouragement," he said, and went out to the barn, where he had constructed the device, and brought it out in front of the house. He lit the flame, Alice and Mrs Lane watching him, and started the hand-propelled machine along the yard.

"Why, wonderful!" exclaimed Mrs Lane.

Directing the spray of fire, Ernest cleared a ten-foot path clear down to the ground within a few minutes.

"Oh, Ernest, it works like a charm!" cried his delighted fiancee, following the path. "Why, what is this? A letter, and directed to you." Alice handed an envelope, and John Dunbar who had never missed it that stormy day, later figured out how it came to be in the snowdrift.

"It is the one I expected," spoke Ernest. As he opened it an inclosure was revealed and his eyes were shining as he read the written page.

"I send you a draft for [illegible] thousand dollars," his mother's cousin said, "because I like your manly way of telling your troubles. I do not expect it back. I believe you will succeed, and some day when some worthy fellow asks you for help, as you have myself, lend him a hand."

And Alice did not go away, and Ernest got his start in life, and they practically adopted Mrs. Lane, and what a happy trio, indeed!

Are You Losing Your Grip on Health?

Physician's Prescription to Increase The Health and Strength of Anaemic, Run-down Men and Women

As a result of the tremendous strain which the war has put upon so many people, the nerve cells have become devitalized, the whole system weakened and thousands of men and women are today losing their grip on health simply because their blood is thinning out and possibly starving through lack of iron. It is through iron in the red coloring matter of the blood that life sustaining oxygen enters the body and enables the blood to change food into living tissue muscle and brain. If people would only keep their blood filled with strength-giving iron by taking Nuxated Iron when they feel weak and run-down they might readily build up their red blood corpuscles and quickly become stronger and healthier in every way. If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. Nuxated Iron will increase the strength of weak, nervous, "run-down" men and women in two weeks' time in many instances. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. Nuxated Iron is on sale at all good druggists.

"Fresh as new, my dear— and I washed it myself"

"It's my old georgette—another tussle with the washer-woman and I believe it would have fallen to pieces. So, of course, as we must all make the old things do and save our money for Victory Bonds, I thought I'd wash it, myself, with Sunlight. Or rather—let Sunlight wash it, for there's no need of any rubbing—just soaping and rinsing. And see—isn't it just lovely? Fresh as new, isn't it? I'm delighted."

The purity of Sunlight is such that it will not fade or discolor anything washable—it contains absolutely no fillers or adulterants—it is the most economical soap your money can buy. It's all soap.

A "Mother" Sent This

If the sweetest little kiddies
Act like old and crabbed Biddies,
From the pain that's in their middies—
Cascarets!

When the child begins to ail,
Coated tongue and looking pale,
Spend two jitneys of your kale—
Cascarets!

You'd relieve your kiddie if you could
Of course you will—I knew you would.
Any druggist in your neighborhood—
Cascarets! 10 cents!

This wise mother knows that the best and safest way to relieve a bilious, sick or constipated child is by giving candy Cascarets at the first sign of a white tongue, a feverish breath or a sour stomach.

Children love Cascarets because of the candy taste. Nothing else "works" the nasty bile, sour fermentations and poisons from the little liver and bowels so gently—yet so thoroughly. Each 10 cent box of Cascarets has directions for children aged one year old and upwards.

TIRED AND DISCOURAGED

Mrs. Warren Randles, Rothesay, Kings County, N.B., "I have three small children and had to stay in the house all winter. So when spring came I was all run down doing all my work and looking after the children. I felt all tired out, and looked on the gloomy side all the time. I decided to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and the results were most satisfactory. I feel fine now, and am recommending the Nerve Food to others."

Avenues of Honor.

The city of Cleveland has adopted a novel plan for honoring its soldier dead. For each Cleveland soldier that loses his life in this war a victory oak will be planted along one of the boulevards, and each of the oaks will be named for a soldier. This will constitute a beautiful and enduring memorial, with a practical as well as a sentimental value. Other cities may find it desirable to follow Cleveland's example.—Springfield (Mass.) Union.

FOREIGNERS WILL LEAVE.

Many Desire to Return to Europe After the War.

As soon as the ships can be spared and the Government's war-time restrictive measures are lifted there is expected to be an enormous exodus of the alien population from Canada to their home countries. Russian, Austrian and Italian workmen who came here before the war have been receiving high wages during the last four years and have saved sums that in some cases are large. Most of them came over here without their families and are now desirous of returning. Many of them have been flocking to the steamship offices to inquire about sailing dates, so it is probable that for some time to come there will be a shortage of certain kinds of laborers.

Speaking of the Russian element in this coming exodus, Mr. S. A. Likatscheff, Russian Consul-General for the Dominion, expressed the opinion that the Russian homeward movement, which he thought would commence in a few months, would not be a bad thing for Canada in the end, because it would lead to an increase in Russian immigration later on. The Russian who returned home from Canada with his savings would advertised the country to his fellow countrymen. He would tell them of the high wages paid to workmen, wages that would seem even larger than they are to the workman who does not take into consideration that the cost of living has also advanced during the last four years. Russian immigration will certainly be as great and will very likely be greater than before the war, according to Mr. Likatscheff. Not only from Russia, but from Galicia, from Japan and from other countries where the Russian has already settled, he will be coming to Canada in search of larger opportunities, it is anticipated.

"Canada need not fear that she will not get the workers that she will need to build up the country," said Mr. Likatscheff, "but Canada must look after her immigrants. They come here with no knowledge of her language, and her customs, and it is the business of the Federal Government and of the Provincial Governments to protect them from exploitation." Mr. Likatscheff advocated a Government employment labor agency to which the alien might apply for work and to which he might return when one job is finished, to be directed to another.

Advertising His Creed.

A vegetarian whose family was out of town went to breakfast at a restaurant and took a seat next to a stranger. The vegetarian took occasion to advertise his creed by telling the stranger that the human diet should be strictly vegetarian. "But," replied the stranger, "I seldom eat meat." "You just now ordered eggs," said the vegetarian. "An egg is practically meat, because it eventually becomes a bird." "The kind of eggs I eat never become birds," answered the stranger. "Impossible!" cried the vegetarian. "What kind of eggs do you eat?" "Principally boiled eggs," said the stranger.

Has Artificial Ventilation.

A French fort at Verdun has artificial ventilation. It is described by Maj. Gen. Charles A. Clement, U. S. A., who visited the firing line. A fort, looked on as the best that French engineering skill could build, was made of re-enforced concrete, extending many feet under ground, and stood near the site of the stronghold referred to. It was smashed to atoms by the Germans, but the French, even as the pieces were flying about them, constructed a new subterranean fort of rock and granite which effectually resisted the attacks of the enemy. This fort General Clement describes as somewhat resembling an anthracite coal mine. He said that the air in the fort's hospital was pure and, despite the fact that no sunlight ever penetrated the place, the conditions compared favorably with those of similar institutions on the surface of the earth.

HOW TO KILL DANDRUFF SO IT WON'T RETURN

By a Specialist

That the dandruff germ is responsible for nearly all the diseases to which the scalp is heir, as well as for baldness and premature gray hair, is a well known fact, but when we realize that it is also indirectly responsible for many other diseases as well, we appreciate the importance of any agent that will destroy its power. We are, therefore, particularly pleased to give herewith the prescription which a famous scalp specialist states he has found after repeated tests, to completely destroy the dandruff germ in from one to three applications. It will also almost immediately stop falling hair and it has in numerous cases produced a new hair growth after years of partial baldness. This prescription can be made up at home, or any druggist will put it up for you: 6 ounces Bay Rum, 2 ounces Lavona de Composee, one-half drachm Menthol Crystals. Mix thoroughly, and after standing an hour it is ready for use. Apply night and morning, rubbing into the scalp with the finger tips. While this preparation is not a dye it is unequalled for restoring gray hair to its original colour.

ALWAYS HUNGRY AT NIGHT

Kansas City Man Beginning to Fear He is Afflicted With an Unpatriotic Stomach.

A Kansas City man who is trying to be very patriotic is beginning to wonder if he is not cursed with a pro-German stomach. During the daytime, when he is up on his feet, he has no trouble observing the food regulations, but just as soon as he lies down at night to go to sleep, his stomach takes advantage of the fact that he is flat on his back and refuses to give way to Morpheus until he eats again.

"Sometimes I manage to get to sleep without taking on an extra cargo of food," he says. "But when I do I usually wake up in the middle of the night with a mad craving for food, and the only way I can get back to sleep is to get up, go out to the kitchen and cook myself some hot food."

The man says he has tried his best to overcome this hunger habit, but is unable to do so. Several times a week he will go to the kitchen in the middle of the night, put on a skillet and fry a piece of ham, or bacon and eggs, and, after eating an ordinary size meal, will go back to bed and sleep. He says he has tried eating fruits and light food, but his stomach will have none of these and insists upon meats. Often when he is standing over a skillet dressed only in his pajamas in the dead of night he says he feels like a thief stealing food, while others who patriotically observe all of Mr. Hoover's regulations are asleep.

"Maybe you have a tapeworm with Teutonic leanings," a friend suggested.

"Maybe I have," the man replied, sadly, "but I think it is an inherited habit that is just getting a grip on me. I remember when my folks lived on a farm near Pomeroy. When I was just a kid my father used to have to get up in the night and eat as I do. But it is only recently that I have become addicted to the habit, and it is only since the food regulations became so strict that I have worried about it."

"Maybe your wife's cooking is not as good as it used to be," was the next logical suggestion.

"Don't you ever think it isn't, young man!" the glutton of the darkness replied indignantly. "My wife, sir, is the best cook in Kansas City! You may accuse me of having German tapeworm or of having an unpatriotic stomach, but you must not reflect upon my wife's culinary art. Good evening, sir!"—Kansas City Star.

Eels Are Eels.

John Treadwell Nichols, assistant curator of the department of ichthyology of the American Museum of Natural History, has done his bit for the food supply by an effort to lessen the prejudice against eels.

The chapter of the cookbook devoted to eels should begin: "First catch your eel; then forget how it looks."

The trouble with eating eels is at the start. After the first plate of eels the reluctant customer is ready for more.

Mr. Nichols assures us that eels have, in fact, no relationship with snakes. They have developed their form and sinuosity by their habit of poking into cracks and crannies of waterbeds. They are true fishes and should not be victims of the prejudice against snakes.

The classic way to cook eels is to skin them, clean them, cut them into lengths and fry in butter. "Many persons," says Mr. Nichols, "find them delicious." That's no lie.—Buffalo Enquirer.

Unfortunate Expression.

Although our new war secretary, Lord Milner, cannot exactly be said to shine as a humorist, he can enjoy a good story against himself, as witness the following, which he is fond of relating.

Some years ago, fresh from his South African triumphs, he addressed an audience of undergraduates at his old university.

"We must remember not merely the beauty of the individual colleges, but the beauty of Oxford as a whole. And what a whole it is."

"Hear, hear!" yelled the varsity men. "Yes, what a hole!" they groaned. "What a beastly hole!"

Then it dawned upon Lord Milner that this was a sentiment he would rather have expressed differently.—Pearson's Weekly.

FOOD VALUE OF THE OYSTER

A PINT OF OYSTERS ENOUGH MEAT FOR A FAMILY OF FIVE.

Oysters are a good food. Oysters come nearer in composition to cow's milk than do most other meats, as all the four kinds of nutrients needed are present in good degree. Oysters have a larger excess of the flesh building substance relative to the other constituents than milk, so we "balance the ration" by addition of starchy food and fats when eating oysters, thus securing a good meal at a cost that compares favorably with that when other meats are chosen. The sea salts that they contain are useful in regulating and stimulating nutritional processes.

Efficiency Can Be Overdone.

It may be that the new and much-vaunted religion of efficiency can be carried too far. A little less of it, at times, might work no great harm. Not that we would decry efficiency, mind you. Doubtless it is a fine thing. But look what it has done to the Germans.

The idea we are trying to get at is that if a man follow always and eternally the cast iron rules of efficiency, it is apt to make him stale as any other steady diet would do, or to weary him as it would weary him to be always prim and scrubbed and always to wear stiff collars and tight shoes.—Los Angeles Times.

YOU CAN'T FIND ANY DANDRUFF, AND HAIR STOPS COMING OUT

Try as you will, after an application of Danderine, you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair, and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is immediate and amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment. A small trial bottle will double the beauty of your hair.

Use Wireless Lamp.

A wireless signal lamp has been devised for various kinds of war work which enables the users to keep up communication under conditions where it would be difficult or impossible to stretch telephone or telegraph wires. A barrage fire, for example, would be no hindrance to signaling by this new apparatus. It can be used between a ground station at the battle front and an airplane a considerable distance away, flying over enemy territory.

Independent.

"Suppose all the doctors have to go to war?"

"I don't care. Mr. Hoover doesn't let me eat anything that disagrees with me."

Why Can't I Get to Sleep?

Thousands of people all over the country ask this question but still continue to toss night after night on a sleepless bed and it is impossible for them to get a full night's refreshing sleep.

Some constitutional disturbance, worry or disease, has so debilitated and irritated the nervous system that it cannot be quietened except by the pernicious use of opiates or narcotics. Or again, you have heart palpitation, and sensation of sinking, a feeling you are going to die, or perhaps you wake up in your sleep feeling as though you were about to choke or smother, and the only way that you can get relief is to sit up in bed.

To all who suffer in this way, Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills offer an inestimable boon. They bring back the much needed night's rest by improving the tone of the nerves, strengthen the heart, enriching the blood and making the whole organization act in harmony—then you sleep as peaceful as a child.

Mrs. James Latimer, 39 Leinster St., St. John, N. B., writes: "At night I could not sleep. I had to sit up in bed, my heart beat so fast and when I walked up stairs I would get all out of breath. A friend recommended Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and after using two boxes I can sleep all night, and am not out of breath after walking."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Social Habits of the Eskimo

COMMUNISM rules supreme among the Eskimos of the extreme north. The men of the village hunt together, eat together, and if need be starve together. In the phrase of the old hymn, they share each other's woes, each other's burdens bears; and often for each other flows the sympathizing tear. Socialism has no opposition among the Eskimos; there is no need of the class war. If any man in the community is hungry, all others go hungry in an equal degree. If anybody has a piece of luck he calls in his neighbors.

Nor would it have been possible to make the war plain to them by an apologue such as a certain school of economic historians would have us believe is contained in the Homeric poems. There was never an Eskimo Helen or an Eskimo Troy. Marriage is a pliant and elastic institution in the regions about Etah. The girls are married, usually, at the age of 12—as soon as they are able to chew the sole of a boot. There is no more requirement of recondite ritual, but a very practical provision to insure efficiency in the practical arts of the housewife.

Domestic science among the Eskimos has two essential requirements; the bride must be able to take care of a lamp and mend her husband's clothes. The trimming, filling, and cleaning of the lamp is fairly simple, a sort of freshman course. More difficult is the task of mending the heavy garments with bone needles and leather thongs; and most difficult of all the mending of the boot. The heavy leather of the sole has to be moistened and chewed into a lesser degree of toughness before the needle can be driven through it; and the chewing takes strong teeth, determination, and endless patience. It is not only a physical but a moral landmark when, for the first time, the Eskimo girl chews her boot. She has graduated; she is ready for marriage.

But in marriage itself the same communism prevails. The bridegroom, having duly arranged, sometimes years beforehand, with the parents of a graduate boot-chewer, leads her away to his igloo. But he is animated by no selfish and monopolistic sense of possession. An Eskimo Paris would have had to do no more than ask an Eskimo Menelaus to lend him his Helen for a month. The end of the month Helen will be taken back to Menelaus, or transferred to another applicant. The Eskimo does not say, "She is mine!" He observes to his fellow-citizen, with a wave of the hand inclusive of all the women of the village, "They are ours." The title to the women of the tribe may be said to reside collectively in the men of the tribe.

So frequent are these interchanges that a popular Eskimo girl, possessed of personal charm and accomplished at the mastication of footwear, may be said to spend the first few years of her married life in a condition of recurrent honeymoon — a sort of honeymoon cycle, limited only by the comparative smallness of the community, so that all the possible permutations and combinations of nuptial existence are eventually exhausted. It is a long way from this position of an eagerly desired belle at the threshold of life to that of the aged Eskimo grandmother, her teeth worn to the gums by the chewing of the boots of three generations.

To be sure, Helen may not always want to be lent to Paris for a week or two; she may prefer to stay with Menelaus. But Helen is not consulted. The simple, sturdy communism of the Eskimo does not regard women as people.

Nor could the Eskimos understand that war might be made as a matter of religion, sanctified by the cult of a superior people going out to conquer their natural slaves under the aegis of "old Frits up there" and the ruler of "Cherubinen, Seraphinen, und Zeppelinen." Their religion teaches a fear of invisible spirits controlling the riches of the sea, but the most malevolent angekok never tried to use this belief to inspire deleterious activities. Indeed, MacMillan has expressed doubts as to whether the religions of southern climes could profitably be spread among them.

"They don't need religion," he observes. "They have about all of the virtues already."

And a Christianized Eskimo from Southern Greenland who recently came north, inspired by an ambition to become the Billy Sunday of Etah, apparently agreed with this, for so far he has confined himself to teaching the children to read and write. Later he may go on to matters of ethics and theology, but apparently he is going to make no attempt to interfere with the folkways of the elders.

Thirteen Brothers In the War.

Few families in Canada can equal the record of that of Corpl. T. J. Holbrook, a Kinmount blacksmith recently returned from overseas. There were thirteen brothers in the Holbrook brood and all were in the war as volunteer men, of whom six gave the supreme proof of citizenship. The Holbrook family record eclipses that of Staff Sergeant W. F. Payne of the Australian Imperials, who had five brothers killed at Mons, one at Bullecourt, another elsewhere in France, and two in the South African war, his sole surviving brother having lost a leg at Mons. The father of this family of eleven fighting men is a lieutenant-colonel in charge of the Bisley rifle range, in his 79th year.

TOO MUCH LIKE KAISER BILL

Ex-Sheriff of New York Town Has Made It Plain That "Potsdam Points" Don't Go.

Ex-Sheriff James Merritt, whose mustache grows as a sheriff's mustache should, has established a mustache censorship and outlawed the Potsdam points, according to a Port Chester correspondent of the New York Tribune.

Until a few days ago scarcely an hour went by that the argus-eyed former sheriff patrolling the streets did not find at least one sky-pointing mustache of the kind made notorious by Wild Bill Hohenzollern. The tactics of the former sheriff upon spotting such a one were as tactful and as unvarying as those of a collecting agency.

Placing himself in front of the wearer, he would fix a pale and unappreciative eye upon the offending mustache and stare and stare. Either the stares wilted or became curious or belligerent. Former Sheriff Merritt was ready for either result.

At the first evidence of embarrassment he would nod mutely toward the nearest barber shop, follow his victim until he entered and remained on post outside until he emerged without his mustache. If the mustached one inquired civilly what was wrong, the former sheriff would start as if awakened from a daze and explain that he thought he was confronting his old friend, "Pewter Cup Bill," the yachtsman. If the recipient of his stare wanted to know what was biting the former sheriff, Merritt went just as far with the inquisitive one as was necessary to persuade him into a neat coat of lather.

PIG'S PLACE IN MYTHOLOGY

Black Swine Considered Evil Because It Was Identified With the Black Clouds.

If we add an Irish "bull" to the story of the Roscommon pig, the vision of the small girl Beirne might be described as an echo of certain events that occurred more than sixty centuries ago, when mankind was laying the foundations of civilisation and its beliefs for all time. It carries our minds back to the mythical sow that is reputed to have suckled King Minos of Crete and the infant god Zeus-Dionysius; to the sacrificial pigs which the initiates into the Eleusinian mysteries washed in the waters of the Aegean; to the evil swine that determined the fate of Osiris, Adonis, Tammuz and Diarmid; and to a still earlier phase in the gropings after light and consolation when the sow was identified with the Great Mother, the creator of all, who, in her capacity as the moon and the sky, regulated the universe and controlled the destinies of mankind. Hence the pig was fate, and the black pig was evil because it was identified with the black clouds which obscured the light, at first in the purely literal and physical sense, but afterward in the ethical and moral acceptation of the phrase.—Manchester Guardian.

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

Eat Less Meat If You Feel Backachy or Bladder Troubles You—Salts is Fine for Kidneys

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve the bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. The famous salts is made from the juice of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.

The Armed Motortruck.

In the old days of the overland stages there sat up in front alongside the driver the express messenger, carrying on his knees always ready for instant use a sawed-off shotgun.

In these later days on another sort of vehicle, and for protection against another sort of highwaymen, both men on the box are armed. The vehicle is the big, powerful motor-driven army supply wagon.

On each side of the driver's seat on these wagons is a deep leather holster and in each holster is carried a repeating carbine; a lively, handy weapon and one carrying many more shots than the old-time sawed-off shotgun.

No Mosquitoes on Hog Island.

Officials of the United States shipping board state that they believe that Hog island, now the center of a vast shipbuilding industry, is effectually rid of mosquitoes. The work involved the draining of a marsh 25 miles long at a cost of $250,000. New Jersey has been reluctant to take such steps, but since witnessing this achievement it has decided to expend $150,000 to drain the Newark meadows near the Submarine Boat Corporation plant and has instituted work at the Camden yards across the river from Hog Island.

Disappointed.

"Tough, ain't it?" the Yank commented, as they lifted him into the ambulance.

"Oh, you're all right," said the corps man cheerfully. "Just a couple of places where a couple of hunks of shrapnel can't do any harm."

"That ain't what's worrying me," explained the doughboy. "But here I am going back to a base hospital wounded, and the only Germans I've seen since I came to France were three prisoners."

Making War on Snails.

Snails may be enticed to harbor in and feed on bran, if placed in handfuls where they are numerous. Every morning the places should be examined and the snails destroyed. Quicklime, if dusted on the rows of early peas and other early vegetables in spring, when the dew is on them, is a certain cure for snails, if persevered in.

The Force With Which the League Will Make Its Decisions Effective

This is the Problem the Peace Delegates Are Working on To-day May Extend Three Mile Limit to Territorial Waters.

CONSCRIPT ARMIES

(United Press Service.)
(By Fred S. Ferguson.)

PARIS, Feb. 5.—The peace delegates were working to-day on the most difficult problem involved in the creation of the League of Nations—the force with which the League will make its decisions effective.

Opinion seemed to be divided as to whether this force should be moral or physical. Many plans had been submitted, ranging from complete abolition of armaments to organization of an international military and naval police under a single commander. The plan finding the greatest support among responsible delegates, however, provides for no such radical departure. It proposes merely the reduction in each nation's armament to a point consistent with the maintenance of domestic tranquility; the League itself to be the ultimate judge as to the size of the army and navy to be needed by the member nations.

Raising Armies.

The manner of raising armies would be left to the individual countries. Great Britain and the United States almost certainly would rely on volunteers, attracted by good pay. France and Italy possibly would return to conscription on the ground that they could not pay wages corresponding to those in the British and American armies. But, whereas France had a conscript army of 800,000 before the war, it probably would need only about 20 or 25 per cent. of that number under the League. In the case of Great Britain and the United States, the number of soldiers would approximate their former standing army (200,000 for the British and 75,000 for the Americans). When the Central Powers were taken into membership the League would fix the size of their armies.

In Event of Trouble.

Only great emergencies would be likely to call such armies to distant points. In the event of trouble on the American continent the United States would be directed by the League to take action. Similarly, European troubles would be settled by the utilization of the armies nearest to the district affected. It is believed this plan will meet with the readiest approval of all countries, since it means the least change in present methods and overcomes the natural prejudice—which is felt by other countries as well as America—against sending troops to distant lands, except in the case of the greatest provocation.

Three-Mile Limit.

Interchange of views by the various powers indicate that one feature of the new "Freedom of the Seas" laws will be the prohibition of floating mines, and the prohibiting of all mines outside territorial waters. Such mines would have to be anchored and designed so they would be returned non-explosive if they break free. The three-mile limit to territorial waters possibly will be extended however, due to the fact that modern guns, both land and naval, have a greater range.

THE NORWEGIAN CABINET RESIGNS

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

CHRISTIANIA, Feb. 5.—The Norwegian Cabinet, headed by Gunnar Knudsen, has resigned as it has ceased to maintain its control of Parliament. The resignation has been accepted by the King. The Norwegian Cabinet, headed by Gunnar Knudsen, was formed on January 29, 1913. It had a rather stormy career. Copenhagen despatches announced on January 24 that a ministerial crisis was imminent in Norway.

Allies Had Lots of Men

Had a Rifle Strength of Two Men Against One of the Enemy When Armistice Was Signed.

(Canadian Press.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5. — When Germany signed the armistice, the Allies had a rifle strength on the western front of two men against one of the enemy, according to a War Department statement handed out this morning.

The United States army had a total war strength of 3,703,273 when the armistice was signed.

Furniture of Nobel Plant For Sale Now

The British Cordite Company's munitions plant at Nobel is being dismantled, and the entire equipment is offered for sale, from oil stoves, Oxford ranges and Quebec heaters, to a steam power plant of 4,000 h.p. capacity, pumping station equipment, electric switch boards, belting, hydraulic pumps, steel cans and a great variety of other furnishings, implements and accessories that were used at this plant near Parry Sound during the war. The city has been invited to inspect this material, and manufacturers are reminded of the opportunity of securing material they may need at extremely low prices.

A short time ago the furniture of the local office of the Imperial Munitions Board was sold, not by auction, it was stated, at prices that were most favorable to the purchasers, local men, who received intimations of the closing of the office and disposal of the entire furnishings of desks, cabinets, typewriters, and other articles.

APPEAL OF QUAKER OATS COMPANY HAS BEEN WITHDRAWN

The Quaker Oats Company has withdrawn its appeal to the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board which was fixed for a hearing in Toronto on Tuesday, February 11th. By this recall, the company apparently accepts the decision of Judge Huycke, which sustained the decision of the local Court of Revision, which in turn had confirmed the assessment of the company for school purposes this year. As previously pointed out the taxes involved by City Assessor Henry's stroke amounts to over $15,000 a year, and has been estimated for the remaining period of the company's fixed assessment at a total of more than $300,000.

By recent court decisions that established the precedent under which this action was advanced, Mr. Henry simply followed the procedure thus outlined and sanctioned by the courts by which companies were denied exemption from school taxes.

WILL PROTECT ALLIED FOOD SHIPS

British and American Cruisers Are on Way to Hamburg.

Special to The Examiner:

BERLIN, Feb. 5.—Four British and American cruisers have entered the Elbe river en route to Hamburg to protect the steamers loaded with foodstuffs, it was reported here to-day.

Several large steamers have left Koenigsberg bound for London.

JELLICO'S TOUR OF THE DOMINION

TORONTO, Feb. 5.—A Canadian Associated Press despatch to-day says: Admiral Jellicoe in his tour of the British Dominions will be in Canada from Oct. to Jan. next. He will presumably make a complete tour of Canada.

JAPANESE EVACUATING

Canadians Eagerly Await Information Regarding Their Stay in Russia.

WATCHFUL WAITING

(By W. E. Playfair, Canadian Press Correspondent.)

VLADIVOSTOCK, Feb. 5.—Decision of the Peace Conference regarding the Allied policy in Russia and Siberia is eagerly awaited by Canadians and others of the Allied forces here. The general belief at present is that the attitude of watchful waiting will continue in the meantime, but military heads here appear to be uniformed in regard to future procedure. The Russian press guardedly is opposing the withdrawal of the Allied forces and is urging active participation against the Bolsheviki. In accordance with their announced policy, the Japanese are evacuating part of their force. The Czechs are withdrawing from the Ural front to guard the railway line. The proposed troop of General Elmsley, commanding the Canadians here to Omsk, has been postponed indefinitely.

Big Re-union of Veterans Next Week

Local Branch of G.W.V.A. Celebrate Landing of First Canadian Division in France.

At the regular meeting of the Peterborough Branch of the Great War Veterans' Association, arrangements for the re-union of veterans to be held on February 13 were discussed, and it was finally decided that the affair should take place in Victoria Hall. It is expected that all veterans in the city will be present on this important occasion.

The Building Committee reported in connection with their visit to the Council and announced that a by-law granting the G.W.V.A. $10,000 had been passed. Plans for the new headquarters were tentatively discussed and the committee through Comrade R. E. Layfield promised to keep the members fully informed of the progress that was being made.

The financial statement for the past month presented by Secretary Whatley, showed that the Association had gained considerable ground, both in membership and financial strength during the month.

Eleven new members were added to the membership at last night's meeting.

GERMANY'S COLONIES

Settlement Will Determine Whether There Will Be a World's Peace or Merely an Armistice, Says Erzberger.

OVER PO ULATED

(United Press Service.)

BERNE, Feb. 5.—Settlement of the German colonial problem "on the basis of right" will determine whether there will be a real world peace "or merely an armistice," Mathias Erzberger, leader of the Christian Peoples' party, declared to-day in an address before the German Colonial Society. Erzberger said that Germany has the right to retain her colonies as she is over-populated and needs them for expansion. The meeting was called to protest against the partition of the German colonies among the Allies.

Won a Plurality.

(United Press Service.)

BERLIN, Feb. 5.—Majority Socialists won a plurality in the state elections in Saxony, according to the complete returns made public to-day. The delegates of the Saxon Council were apportioned as follows:

Majority Socialists 40; Democrats 25; Independents 15; Conservatives 13; Stressmann Party 3.

The Majority Socialists now have a plurality in the Saxon and Prussian State Councils as well as the National Assembly.

WILL PREPARE PLANS FOR LONDON ST. BRIDGE

City Engineer Parsons has been instructed by the Council to prepare plans and specifications for the new London street bridge, and the special committee is authorized to call for tenders for its construction. With this action it is intended that the Engineer's Department will be ready to proceed with the work as soon as the first movement of the Hunter Street bridge is made. The abutments and piers needed will be erected beforehand, and the preliminaries should be completed by the time the Hunter Street bridge is unbolted and taken down for its removal to the London street crossing.

National Assembly Will Convene in Spite of the Attempt to Break It Up

First Congress of the New German Republic Will Open To-morrow —Serious Problems to Untangle.

NO OPPOSITION

By Frank J. Taylor.
(United Press.)

WEIMAR, Germany, Feb. 5.— The fate of Germany nationally and internationally hangs on the results accomplished by the National Assembly, which formerly opens here Thursday.

The Assembly, which really is the first congress of the new Republic, must untangle the intricate mass of problems brought about by the war; a group consisting largely of farmers, mechanics and other common people must undo the work of Germany's former rulers—the war lords and their junker supporters.

A minority of disgruntled radicals already has opened a campaign of political cabotage to prevent the Assembly from accomplishing its purposes, but the government, with the vast majority of the people behind it, is determined that nothing shall interfere with stabilization of political and economical condition, and is prepared to go to any extreme to protect the Assembly.

The Capital.

Weimar was actually the capital of Germany to-day, through the presence of Chancellor Ebert, his cabinet and their entire staff, who have arrived here from Berlin. Ebert himself will open the Assembly Thursday with an address to the various bureaus, each of which has some particular phase of reconstruction to work into concrete form for presentation to the delegates as a whole. Philip Scheidemann is scheduled to begin the political debates on Saturday.

There are many cross currents in the Assembly's work, any one of which might disrupt the proceedings. There is the contest between the Prussians and the South Germans for domination of the new republic. There is the campaign to remove the capital from Berlin, preferably to Weimar.

Political Jealousy.

There are the political jealousy which will arise when the various factions unite in coalitions.

Probably the most serious situation confronting the Assembly is the breakdown of transportation, the shortage of raw materials and depletion of national funds, all of which combine to render social, as well as economic reconstruction most difficult. Every public utility, and most private industries are on the verge of collapse, owing to the financial strain of war conditions. The treasury has three million dollars gold reserve with which to pay twenty-five million in notes. The railroads and factories have been without adequate repairs for several years. There is a lack of war materials and a want of outlet for the manufactured products that are on hand.

First Attempt.

(United Press.)

BERLIN, Feb. 5.—The first direct attempt to interfere with the National Assembly, which convenes in Weimar on Thursday, apparently has been taken by the Soldiers' Councils in that region.

Reports were received here to-day that the Soldatenrat in Erfurt (15 miles west of Weimar) had seized telegraph offices there and ordered censorship and confiscation of all governmental and assembly telegrams from Weimar. The telegraph officials protested, but were powerless. At the same time similar action was taken by the Soldatenrat in Eisenach (45 miles west of Weimar.)

The government, it was learned to-day, is prepared to declare a state of siege in Weimar, if such a step is found necessary to protect the Assembly.

The workers have demanded better wages. In numerous cases where they refused they seized the factories and divided the money in the vaults, taking millions of dollars on the pretext of "communism." This atmosphere is becoming the Communist and Spartacan spirits. Aside from isolated outbreaks there is a temporary calm, but the Radicals claim they lost the National elections only through lack of organization.

GRANT TO PLOWMEN.

CHATHAM, Feb. 5. — A grant of $1,000 was made by the County Council at the closing session to the Plowmen's Association, on the understanding that the association hold the annual demonstration in this county early this fall.

MEXICO RECOGNIZES NEW GOVERNMENT

(United Press Service.)

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 5. — Ernesto Garza Perez, sub-Secretary in charge at the Mexican Foreign Office, stated to-day that the Mexican Government has recognized Arthur Von Magnus as Charge DAffaires for the German government. Von Magnus formerly was employed at the German Legation by Von Eckardt, late German Minister. This is looked upon as recognition of the Ebert government.

Spartacan Movement

Armed Workmen Have Garrisoned the Vulcan Shipyards.

(United Press.)

BERLIN, Feb. 5. — Spartacans in Bremen have decided to deliver their arms to Hamburg and Bremenhaven troops, instead of to the government forces sent against them from Berlin, according to advices received here to-day.

Workmen at Hamburg held a demonstration in sympathy with the Spartacan insurgents. Armed workmen have garrisoned the Vulcan ship yards in Hamburg, and work is at a standstill.

Though they have control of the municipal government in Bremen, the Spartacans offered to surrender to avert the destruction of the city.

An unconfirmed despatch from Copenhagen yesterday reported that the Spartacans and government troops were fighting in the outskirts of Bremen.

CONSOLIDATED SCHOOL QUESTION SERIOUSLY VIEWED BY VICTORIA

At the recent meeting of the Victoria County Council at Lindsay, the question of the improvement of the rural schools came up in connection with the report of the inspectors. A whole session was given to an earnest discussion of the question, especially in regard to the possibility of consolidation of a number of the schools. A committee consisting of the inspectors and a number of the reeves was chosen to investigate possibilities of a comprehensive scheme for the consolidation of the rural schools of the county and to bring in a report at the June meeting. It is proposed to hold a number of public meetings throughout the county at which the matter can be discussed and the people informed as to the work that is being accomplished by these schools elsewhere.

The allowance of the inspectors for travelling and other expenses was increased, in the case of Mr. Stevens, from $420 to $525, and in the case of Mr. Bridgerick, from $13 to $20 a month.

THE STRIKE SITUATION

Ministry of Labour Will Intervene —A Fight Between Labour Union Leaders and Rebels.

PROTECT SOCIETY

(United Press Service.)

LONDON, Feb. 5.—The Ministry of Labour will intervene in the strikes which are spreading throughout Great Britain and Ireland, if union officials fail to gain control of the situation.

The United Press was authorized to make the following statement to-day:

"The Government regards the labour situation as a fight between regular labour union leaders and rebels. If the regular leaders are unable to gain control the Government will then intervene for the protection of society."

Civic Guard.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Plans for the formation of a civic guard to maintain and protect public service, have been submitted to the authorities, according to the Mail, which says that a similar plan has been successfully employed in Switzerland, Holland and Australia. The newspaper states that, should the actions of the strikers warrant such a course, citizens must be asked to form a guard to maintain transport, lighting and food supply services, and also guard power stations, flour mills and important factories.

NO IMPROVEMENT IN LONDON DISTRICT

(Canadian Press Despatch)

LONDON, Feb. 8.—There was no improvement to-day in the strike situation in London. All tubes and underground lines with the exception of Metropolitan which has one line running into the city were still tied up. The stall and restaurants while able to replace a few of their servants still were offering only meagre imitations of their regular menus. Thousands of people again had to trudge long distances to work unfortunately through slush an inch deep caused by a sudden thaw followed by rain during the night. To-day will decide whether the staffs of the electrical power stations will join the strikers. Electrical power engineers association has promised to keep the station in operation. More men returned to work in Glasgow, while the presence of Lord Pierrie, Controller of Merchant Shipbuilding in Belfast gives some hope of settlement there.

The sentence of the court martial was fifteen years, but was reduced by order-in-council.

Weber's father, Reeve Weber of Neustadt, was to have appeared before the magistrate at Owen Sound this morning, on charges of sedition, but an adjournment was taken until the 11th, owing to the fact that the accused has pneumonia, said to have been brought about by exposure following his being drummed out of Owen Sound last week.

Statement of Quaker Oats Co.

Various rumors are being circulated regarding discrimination against returned men by employers, and, unfortunately, our name has to our knowledge been associated with such rumors.

Rumor is mischievous, especially so when malicious.

Accordingly, to prevent the making of mistakes, we deem it best to publish the policy of this Company as outlined in a letter from Mr. Stuart of Chicago, on December 18, 1918:

"As you will soon have to meet the question of dealing with our people who entered the service and are returning home, I want to give you the views of the management, so that we can all work along the same lines.

"Many of the men, I think, were told when they left that we were sorry to see them go and would be glad to see them back as soon as they could come. These men showed a fine spirit and fought a good fight, and they are entitled to every consideration.

"We want all of our men back who want to come back. It may not be possible to give them, immediately, their old positions, but work should be found for them which will give them as nearly as possible the same pay, pending the opportunity of giving them back their old jobs or work equally desirable or important. If any of our men return crippled and unable to take up the work which they did before they left, we should try and find places for them where they can serve the Company and serve themselves.

"I think all men who come back to us as soon as they leave the service should be considered as having been continuously in the employ of the Company. In other words, for any bonuses or future pension plans or insurance that might be adopted, the period of their service should not be considered as a break and figured against them in their record of length of service with this Company. Men who leave us to go into the service and work for some one else before they return to us of course, would not be considered as suggested above.

"We would appreciate your handling your men in accordance with the policy outlined, and, if any points are not clear, we will be glad to hear from you."

This is an entirely definite statement of our attitude towards returned men.

Any other statemenes that may be made are not in accordance with the truth.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1919.

THE VETERANS' GRANT.

The City Council have dealt handsomely with Peterborough's returned soldiers in the grant of $10,000 that has been made to the War Veterans' Association to enable them to establish permanent quarters for the carrying on of their important work on behalf of the men who fought overseas. In making the grant without any haggling over conditions, they have shown the same spirit as the veterans themselves who when men were needed to stop the German horde and save the world from Prussianism, did not stop to bargain as to what they were to receive, but jumped into khaki and went off on the great adventure overseas.

Now that the grant has been passed the representative body of Peterborough's returned soldiers can proceed to develop their plans for a headquarters that will be a credit to the city and a source of benefit to all Peterborough's ex-service men. They would be wise in not proceeding too hastily in this matter—which should be the subject of earnest consideration before any definite action is taken.

THE RESTAURANT QUESTION.

There is apparently a good prospect of the by-law restricting the hours during which restaurants may be kept open on Sunday being rescinded by the City Council. The matter has been referred to the Legal committee, who will endeavour to find a means of preventing the operation on Sunday of ice cream parlours with their mechanical pianos and other annoyances without at the same time making it necessary to close the legitimate eating houses. Restaurants are a necessity on Sunday as well as on the other six days of the week, and the restricted hours now in force by reason of the present by-law are not appreciated by the hundreds of citizens who have to depend upon the city restaurants for their meals. As far as is known there is not another city in Canada where eating houses are forced to close their doors on Sunday or where there is any restriction as to the hours of operation. The by-law passed last year was "blue law" legislation that had no beneficial result to compensate for the inconvenience and annoyance it caused to the regular patrons of restaurants. The City Council will make no mistake in removing the by-law from the statute books. It smacks more of a cross-roads village than it does of a progressive Ontario city.

POSITIONS FOR VETERANS.

At the regular meeting of the Great War Veterans' Association last evening, letters were read from the heads of practically all Peterborough manufacturing concerns promising that returned soldiers would be given every opportunity for employment. The letters were in answer to a query from the Veterans as to the willingness of the manufacturers to co-operate with the local Association in finding positions for the men who have done their bit overseas. The promptness of the replies and the expressed desire to do whatever may be possible to provide work for the veterans are gratifying. Frequent consultations between the executive body representing the returned men and the officials at the head of Peterborough's factories might do much to benefit the interests of both. There is no reason why they could not get together on a common footing, and by showing the proper spirit on both sides, do a great work in helping to solve the problems of the reconstruction period.

The manufacturers of Peterborough are sensible men. They realize that they have a duty to perform in connection with the restoration to civil life of the men who went forth from this city to fight for Canada. They also appreciate the truth of the statement made by the Mail and Empire that if the operators of factories were to stand aloof and persist in not giving the men who sacrificed so much for them a square deal, they could not justly complain if they were subjected to considerable trouble by returned men, smarting under a sense of injustice.

On the other hand the returned soldiers should understand that the present period is a trying one for the manufacturer. The conditions are unsettled and in many industries it will take considerable time before a peace footing is restored. In Peterborough for instance, the British embargo on foodstuffs is having its effect upon at least four companies who, under the circumstances, have no other alternative but to operate for the present with reduced staffs, and this is adding to the severity of the unemployment crisis.

Much can be accomplished by a friendly co-operation between the manufacturers and the representatives of the returned soldiers and it is pleasing to note not only the local efforts to achieve this result, but also the consultations that are being arranged between the Executive Council of the Dominion G.W.V.A. and the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

CURB SIDEWALK TRADE

There are still rumours circulating around Peterboro of impending attacks upon alien restaurants. It might be well for anyone who is contemplating participation in any such outrages to reflect that he stands a splendid opportunity of appearing in the police court and he may depend upon that he will receive a jolt that will surprise him if he is convicted of rioting. There is no possible way in which lawlessness in regard to the property of Peterboro citizens of foreign birth can be justified and any attempt to imitate the mob-rule that has gained Lindsay such undesirable publicity will be sternly checked by the Peterboro police department, whose efforts will be endorsed and supported by every right thinking citizen.

The majority of the people of Lindsay are heartily ashamed of what took place there on Friday night. They realize that there was no occasion for the outbreak and that the affair has brought the town before the people of Canada in an unenviable light. The Lindsay Post has the following editorial reference to the riots:

The Post as a public journal, would be remiss in its duty if it did not condemn in the strongest possible terms the disgraceful incident of Friday evening last. The citizens are confronted with a grave situation. Either law or order must be maintained or the rights of the humblest citizen as well as those of the most prominent will be abrogated. It is the plain duty of every citizen, be he civilian or returned soldier, worker or employer, professional man or business man, irrespective of opinions or economical theories to stand behind the authorities in preserving from injury the persons and property of law abiding citizens.

It is the duty of the police to preserve the public peace, and it is equally the duty of the individual citizen to assist in the preservation of order and to protect the rights of his fellows by refraining from inflammatory acts and language and by aiding the police when called upon to do so. Once passions have become inflamed and controversy has been excited, the difficulties of the situation increase with great rapidity. But above all, it must be impressed upon all sections of the community that anarchy cannot be permitted to prevail, that terrorism cannot be tolerated, and that all proper steps will be taken promptly and effectively to suppress disorder.

No class of citizen ought to refuse to co-operate with the authorities to the extent that grievances shall be submitted for reasonable solution and that differences of opinion shall not be made the excuse for lawlessness. To resort to terrorism is to deny the existence of the liberty which has been at stake in the great struggle overseas and for which many thousands of Canadians have laid down their lives.

BERNARD DALY

Here Friday in "Sweet Innisfallen"

Here Friday in "Sweet Innisfallen"

The sweetest story ever told by the sweetest singer on the stage," was the words penned by a hardened dramatic critic on witnessing a performance of the famed Irish tenor, Bernard Daly, in the justly celebrated play "Sweet Innisfallen." Mr. Daly will appear at "The Grand" Theatre next Friday for two performances in this refreshing, dramatic romance which combines smiles, and tears.

WANTS FLAX INDUSTRY.

STRATFORD, Feb. 5.—A meeting of the council of the Board of Trade was held to discuss the matter of the new linen industry which is to start in Western Ontario very shortly. The secretary was in touch with the manager and the reply received was that the company's preparations were not far enough advanced to choose a location. The message stated, however, that a representative would visit Stratford and look over the location here before a site for the new factory was chosen. In the meantime the Board of Trade will follow the matter up. Several other projects are on foot, among them being two American companies, one at least of which it is hoped to interest in the Mooney building.

LAVA FLOWING FROM KILAUEA

Huge Volcanoes of Hawaii Again Very Active.

HONOLULU, Feb. 5.—Kilauea, one of the largest volcanoes in the world, situated on the eastern slope of Mauna Loa, has resumed activity after a period of comparative quiescence. The lava column is rising from the crater with unabated force, and the fiery liquid mass has overflowed the rim of the pit in three places.

Mauna Loa is also showing signs of activity. Four columns of smoke and gas were observed to-day, rising from the mountain's main crater on the summit. Little damage is expected, however, because of the barren nature of the surrounding country.

LAST ICE ENSURES GREAT GAME TO-NIGHT

Big Bunch of Lindsay Fans Coming Down to See Junior Teams Clash at Brock St. Rink, While Peterboro Rooters Must Be Out in Force—Game is Called for 8.15 O'clock

The line-up:

| Lindsay | | Peterboro |
|---|---|---|
| McClory | Goal | Flowers |
| Garnett | Defence | Girard |
| Green | Defence | Frost |
| Kelly | Centre | Cherrett |
| Killen | Right wing | Park |
| Wilford | Left Wing | Hagerman |
| Stoddard | Sub | Williams |
| Bell | Sub | Gillespie |

The drop in temperature came along just in time to furnish the only thing needed to ensure the success of to-night's big junior battle at Brock street Rink, between Lindsay and Peterboro and with a glassy surface available everything is set for a contest that the fans will long remember.

The game is called for 8:15 o'clock sharp and fans would do well to get to the rink early as there promises to be a big time crowd on hand. Peterboro fans are taking a greater interest in Junior hockey this year than ever before, realizing that the youngsters battle for every ounce that is in them and give everything they have. The result with two teams as well matched as the Lindsay and Peterboro outfits, is a struggle from gong to gong. In Lindsay the other night the game was in doubt until the last minute of play and to-night's engagement should be equally exciting.

There is one change in the Peterboro line-up to-night. Girard who along with Williams has been doing the subbing for the Petes will replace Campbell on the defence while Jack Gillespie who was a team-mate of Williams and Hagerman on the Mark street team will make his O.H.A. debut to-night as a sub.

A big bunch of Lindsay fans will be here for the game. The whole of Scugogville is boosting for the Midgets to win and the Lindsay rink will not hold all the people who will want to see the return game on Friday night.

LINDSAY "KIDS" ARE READY FOR THE BATTLE

The Lindsay Post says: The local executive are making every endeavor to have permission to run a special train to Peterboro Wednesday evening as the crowds are clamoring for one. It is estimated that 400 supporters will take in the event by accompanying locals. In any case a large crowd will be present for the opening period.

Trainer Alf Gamble of the local junior squad had the boys out for a work out Saturday night. The "kids" are feeling fine and game, pulsating with the ambition to eliminate the city squad from the laurels of this district.

Wagner's Slide Gave World Great $28,000,000 Invention

(By Max Carey, Star Outfielder, Pittsburg Pirates.)

"Just as Honus went into third and by a wonderful slide got away from the third baseman the solution of a great invention flashed through my brain."

When the late Walter Victor Turner, Pittsburg's famous inventor and baseball fan, uttered these words several years ago he told the story of how he became an ardent baseball fan on the day that his fertile brain gave to the world a $28,000,000 invention—the K triple valve.

"I had been working for months to find the missing link to this great problem and was ready to give it up as impossible, when one day a friend of mine invited be to go with him and see the Pirates play at Forbes Field. I needed relaxation and to get away from everything, and so I went along. However, the game had very little to interest me until the sixth inning, when Wagner made a wonderful fallaway slide and ducked in under the third baseman's outstretched hand. Do you know, it was just as if a curtain had been lifted from my eyes, and I saw the simple action of the device I had been working on as if it were already completed. In a few short months it was worth millions. And I haven't missed a game since."

On another occasion this genius, who had taken out more than four hundred patents, waited after a game to tell a Pirate player—an outfielder—that if his hat had hit the ball one-thirty-second of an inch higher up Pittsburg would have won instead of lost on a short line drive to centre field, in which the opposing centre fielder had made a shoestring catch in the eleventh inning.

Come on, ye baseball fans, do you ever venture this deep into the intricacies of our great national game?

Tankard Games Will Be Played To-night

The Tankard games of this district will be played at the Charlotte street rink to-night beginning at 7.30 o'clock. Lindsay and Peterboro are the only clubs entering and each will be represented by two rinks. These games should be well worth seeing. There is the counter attraction of the Junior Hockey Match, but it is more than likely that a large gallery will watch the men of the two rival towns compete for supremacy at curling, while the "kids" are battling at the hockey rink.

Lindsay's Comment.

The Lindsay Warder, discussing the District Cup games played here on Monday admits that Peterboro excelled in the game of "chap and lie" to which Lindsay has not given much attention.

From all accounts McDermid played a perfect game in Lindsay, without making invidious distinction, for both teams won and brought home the silverware. But the President was in his best form, and his rink acclaim the style of curling he maintained end after end.

CHURCH LEAGUE GAMES TO-MORROW

The church league games scheduled for Thursday Feb. 6 will be played commencing at 6:30 o'clock. The games are:

George St. vs Murray and Park street, 6:30 o'clock.

Trinity vs. Knox, 8:00 o'clock.

All Saints vs St. Paul's 9:30 o'clock

As these are the first games played in the church league for three weeks a large number of fans are expected.

Supervised Playgrounds Up Before the School Board At Regular Monthly Meeting

Matter Was Referred to a Special Committee—Six Playgrounds Needed for the City—Inadequate Fire Protection—The School Attendance.

The question of an appropriation from the Board of Education towards furthering supervised playgrounds was brought up before the Board by Mr. J. W. Worth at the regular monthly meeting last night. Mr. Worth had previously written to Dr. Cody asking if the Board could appropriate monies and undertake the work and had received an answer that it was quite in order for the Board to do so. The idea, said Mr. Worth, had received the endorsation of practically every public body in the city, including the Board of Trade, the War Veterans and the Trades and Labor Council.

In outlining what would probably be necessary, Mr. Worth suggested that six playgrounds would adequately cover the city. At each a lady and gentleman supervisor with salary of $75 and $100 respectively would be required. With the expense of equipment the playgrounds would cost the Board $3,000 a year.

Few Accidents

He pointed out the benefits to the child, the teacher and the parent in having playgrounds using as an argument the fact that since such had been provided accidents had been remarkably few.

"Where are you going to get the money?" asked Mr. Denne, to which Mr. E. B. Fowler who expressed his favorable attitude toward playgrounds replied that there had been a deficit every year, and the expense of playgrounds could be added this year. The matter was left to a special committee of Mr. G. O. Cameron, Dr. F. C. Neill, Mr. J. McKone, Mr. E. B. Fowler and Mr. J. W. Worth to get the necessary details and present them at a future meeting of the Board.

Donated Photos

A letter was received from Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, informing the Board that enlarged photos of three soldier students who have recently made the supreme sacrifice had been presented by the boys' parents, Mr. A. E. Dixon, Mr. J. I. Davidson and Mr. John Cameron. The Secretary was instructed to acknowledge the photos and express the sympathy of the Board. A letter from the Canadian Forestry Association asking the cooperation of the Board in their giving a series of forest travellogue pictures in which an instructor would give addresses on making airplanes the history of the newspaper from the log to the finished paper, etc., was left to the supervision committee.

Inadequate Fire Protection

The Secretary of the Board of Trade reported that following a discussion of fire protection it was found there were no proper fire escapes in the schools and the lives of the pupils were endangered. The matter will be looked into by the Property Committee.

Progress Reported

Mr. Patterson, Chairman of the Building Committee reported progress in the matter of the new school. Four architects wrote asking for the contract namely C. S. Cobb, Wm. Neelands, Ellis and Ellis and Bartlett.

Letters Received

Communications were received from Mr. Maurice Park, stating he was ready to resume his duties on the school staff; from the Public School teachers acknowledging the ten per cent. increase they had recently received, and from Mr. H. R. H. Kenner acknowledging the increase in behalf of the High School teachers were also received. In the latter letter Mr. Kenner said his staff would endeavor not to flaunt their additional wealth before the eyes of the rate payers.

Voice of The People

January 31st, 1919.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Reading your voice of the people in last night's issue by "Yours for Justice." Now in my opinion he is perfectly justified in making the remarks he did regarding the Alien Question. I may say that this is not the first occasion trouble has occurred regarding them, it has been a sore spot to the veterans for at least twelve months. Surely the outbreak in Toronto was sufficient warning without a reminder from Winnipeg that the veterans do not intend to tramp the streets and visit every factory for employment without success, and quite aware of the fact that the employers are still sticking to the foreigners and with no notion of handing the returned men their jobs. And another sore spot to the returned men and all British subjects was that on the occasion of the Dominion police accompanied by a local detective visiting factories the foreigners were put to no inconvenience by having to produce credentials as to their registration, who in our opinion they should have been subject to the same examination and compelled to have done their bit for the country of their adoption. It seems preference to the foreigners first and all the time, and being considered by a prominent citizen to be expert trench diggers one would naturally expect they would be good men in France. Now a lot of the returned men would like to know what happened to the signs that were so prominent on George street stating that the returned men would be given the preference and other fine lines of bunk that it seems at present they had no notion or intention whatever of carrying out. Perhaps it would be as well for some of us to put one back in the old position to remind them of their promises which they seem to have forgotten, or would they sooner see it replaced by a Red Flag. Remember, a stitch in time saves nine, for you can't always expect men to be treated like Sunday School children.

Thanking you for your valuable space.

YOURS FOR A SQUARE DEAL.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

WHISKEY AND INFLUENZA.

Dear Sir: The liquor traffic with its usual eye to business, has been trying to coin cold cash out of a great public calamity. Statements, misleading and false, as to the value of whiskey in treating influenza and pneumonia, were industriously circulated by the liquor interests. Military and health officials soon warned the public against placing any confidence in such ridiculous rumors.

Dr. McCullough, Medical Officer for the Province of Ontario, says that "Whiskey is no good for influenza, and it is not necessary for pneumonia."

The officers at Camp Devens, Mass., informed representatives of the wholesale liquor interests, as to their attitude relative to liquor. A despatch to the Boston Post from the Camp says: "Whiskey does not hold any position in the opinion of the medical corps as a preventive against influenza and pneumonia, and none is being used as a preventative."

Concerning Camp Taylor, which the writer has had the privilege of visiting, the statement was made that "truck loads of whiskey were being rushed to Camp Taylor daily." To this Colonel Pyles, head physician at Camp Taylor, replied, saying that very little alcohol is used, and none at all except in cases of extreme prostration, then always in connection with milk and sugar.

Dr. Oscar Craven, acting Health Officer of Cincinnati, gave out this statement. "Whiskey is the worst thing a man can take into his system in these times, when everyone should take care to keep his system fit. Whiskey is a poison that lowers a man's vitality and makes him an easy prey to influenza or other disease."

A recent Associated Press despatch from New York city says: "A warning to Spanish influenza sufferers against the use of alcoholic beverages, was issued by Dr. Ryal S. Copeland, health commissioner, who declared that alcohol tended to increase the danger from disease."

Dr. William C. Woodward, Health Commissioner, of Boston, said that in his judgment the use of alcoholic liquors for the prevention of the influenza was contrary to the best medical opinion of to-day.

In Cornell Medical School, Prof. Mera warns his students against advising whiskey in pneumonia. In a letter to the Superintendent of the Department of Temperance for the World's W.C.T.U., he says: "Alcohol has been much used in pneumonia, I believe, without justification. I believe it is never a true stimulant but a depressant.....I believe there are few cases in which the patient would not be better off without alcohol. Argument for its use as a food should be met by the argument for more rational dietaries in pneumonia."

The wisest course is to let it severely alone.

J. H. Hazlewood,
Department of Social Service.

Summer Tent Meetings Are To Be Held in Peterboro

John M. Linden, a Well-Known Evangelist, Will Conduct the Services—Plan of Campaign.

Evangelist John M. Linden of Chicago, a former member of the "Billy" Sunday party, who during the past eight months has given himself to raising money for the welfare work of the Salvation Army, and who at present is the District Campaign Manager of the Red Shield Drive is aiming to make arrangements with the churches in Peterborough to hold a Summer Tent meeting in the park during July and August and his plan for it is placed in the hands of the Rev. J. R. Webb, the secretary of the Ministerial Association, who will bring the matter up before the conference at the meeting to-day.

Evangelist Linden's plan is to hold this meeting from about the 10th of July to the 10th of August, in Peterborough, in a tent large enough to seat nearly 2000. He asks no guarantee of money from the churches or individuals and pays the expenses of the campaign out of the nightly pan offerings which are taken up, and usually pay every cent of the expenses made. He and helpers receive no salary stipulation whatever. At the end of the meetings a thanksoffering is taken which is divided among these by the evangelist. He even goes so far as to keep up for the churches their weekly offerings and these envelopes are dropped in the pans each Sunday and after each service distributed to the various church treasurers.

If pastors are away during this period taking their vacation there will be no need for the churches to engage supplies for the preaching will be taken care of by the Evangelist and his helpers.

This plan gives the people an opportunity during the summer months to come to worship in God's outdoors. It aims to bring about a new consecration on the part of church members to God, to give to the community a religious expression, to lead the unsaved to Christ, and to do a special work among the boys and girls in showing them the privilege of religious duty.

Such Summer Tent Campaigns have been carried on very successfully by Evangelist John M. Linden in the cities in the States, and he feels that Peterborough is an exceptionally good place for such work, and he is hoping that the pastors and churches will look with favor upon his plan and give him this opportunity.

When the Peterborough effort be completed he is expecting to remove his tent to the Gleebe District in Ottawa for the same kind of effort during August and September.

Girls of Peterboro Could Be Power For Good in Community

National City Secretary Addressed the Girls at a Banquet Held in the Y.W.C.A.—The Speakers.

About one hundred girls and ladies were present at the banquet held at the Young Women's Christian Association last evening. The occasion was the inauguration of the Membership Campaign, and those who were present were the Board ladies, the guests of the evening, Miss E. F. Jones, and Miss Nina Yeomans, and the captains and members of the teams representing the various classes and clubs of the Association.

A splendid repast was provided and the tables in the dining room —arranged in banquet style—were beautifully decorated in red and yellow, the colors of the Association, and lighted up with candles.

Mrs. Scott, Acting President, presided, and in a few well chosen words addressed the gathering, introducing the Membership Campaign. Mrs. Kenner acted as Toast Mistress, and the following toasts were proposed and responded to: The King, Our Guests, proposed by Mrs. Scott, responded to by Miss Jones; the Y.W.C.A., by Miss Mabel Walker and Miss Florence Jackson; Our Board, by Miss Parker and Mrs. Harvey; and the Girls of Canada by Mrs. McKenzie and Miss Dorothy Mills.

Power for Good.

Miss Jones, National City Secretary, spoke in a very bright and enthusiastic manner about the general work of the Young Women's Christian Association throughout the world. It was interesting to learn that in many parts of Russia the Association is a flourishing institution, and that in Japan and China much is being done to improve the appalling factory conditions, and to bring new ideals into the lives of the girls and women. Miss Jones also commented upon the splendid equipment and flourishing condition of the Peterborough Y.W., and announced that it was looked upon by the Dominion Council as one of the best Associations; the members were urged to realize their opportunities, and make their "Y" an even greater power for good in the community.

Miss Nina Yeomans, Girls' Work Secretary from the Dominion Council, spoke in a simple and inspiring manner on a girls' vision, saying that the things we see are what makes up our lives, and asking the girls to look for what is highest and best in life. Miss Yeomans suggested that a wonderful uplift to the community could be accomplished by the girls of Peterborough all working together along the ideals of the Association.

The joys of the summer camp at Longford were pictured vividly before the girls, and altogether the Young Women's Christian Association was shown to be an institution of which any girl or woman might be glad to be a member.

The Campaign.

Details of the membership campaign were explained by Miss Parker, the General Secretary, and all the girls were supplied with the blanks necessary to solicit membership subscriptions. The Association is divided into two sides, the Reds and the Yellows, of which Mrs. Gardiner and Mrs. Scott, respectively, are the Captains. On each side are six teams of six members each, each team representing a class or club. Huge charts in the hall of the Association will record the new members who are brought in by each team, and at the close of the campaign, which will continue for a week, the work of the various teams will be summed up, and awards presented to the winning side, and the most successful team.

It is hoped the campaign will meet with a hearty response from the friends of the Association and the citizens generally. The work of the Y.W.C.A. is well known and the value of such an institution in the community is quite appreciated. This is the first time that such a campaign has has been held and those who have planned it are convinced that there are many people, both men and women, in Peterborough who will willingly lend their support by becoming members. If it should happen that some are overlooked in the canvass, those who would like to become members, are asked to hand their names in at the office, where all information as to classes, membership privileges, and fees, will be gladly given.

Those Present.

Among those who were present last evening at the banquet were Miss Dickson, Mrs. Walsh, Miss Walton, Mrs. Gardiner, Mrs. Ingall, Miss Morrow, Mrs. Widdess, Mrs. Hill, Miss Cameron, Mrs. Nugent, Mrs. Turner, Mrs. Grant, Mrs. Carmichael, Mrs. Gordon Hall, Mrs. Davidson, Miss Mabel Patterson, Miss Cressman, Miss Dawson.

Miss Florence Scott and Miss Ila Wilson contributed vocal solos to the programme, with Miss Ruth Murray as accompanist, while Miss Mabel Penrose acted as pianist for the Doxology and the National Anthem.

The banquet was provided by the ladies of the Board, and was arranged by the Social Committee under the able leadership of Mrs. Nugent. All who were present declared that the affair was a success in every particular, and augured well for the success of the campaign.

A Hard Times Party at St. John's Church

Picturesque Costumes was one of the Many Features.

The Hard Times party given last night under the auspices of the Church Women's Association, in St. John's Sunday School Hall, proved a great success, and was attended by a large representation of the congregation, most of whom came in most picturesque costumes both representing the olden days and hard times. Mrs. Cortez Fessenden carried off the first prize for the most picturesque ladies' costume, that of Mary Queen of Scots Mrs. Simmons for the best "Hard up" costume; Sergt. Eldred, the best gentleman's picturesque costume, while Mr. R. J. Devey won the honors for the toughest man. A feature of the evening was the guessing contest in which photos of members of the congregation taken years ago, were hung about. In this Mr. Albert Stratton identified the largest number of people. Mrs. S. T. Medd and Mrs. Young won the honours in the observation contest.

Pleasing Programme.

Will Investigate the American Meat Packers

British Parliament Will Take a Hand in the Case

(United Press.)

LONDON, Feb. 5. — According to plans to-day the inquiry into the activities of the American meat packers in this country will be short but effective. It is not proposed to attempt to call any of the American packers or their representatives as witnesses unless they voluntarily offer to testify.

The Investigating committee will be formed of representatives of the Board of Trade and the Food and Agricultural Ministers. Their investigation, a high official of the Board of Agriculture, told the United Press, will be informal. The American packers will be given an opportunity if they wish it, to "read in" corrections of the American Commission's report, but this will not mean the Commission will accept the "corrections." Findings will be submitted to departmental heads, who will formally submit a joint report with recommendations as to what action is advisable to Parliament. Parliament then may act.

Peterboro Health Association Held Annual Meeting Yesterday Afternoon

More Co-operation is Necessary — Association May Conduct a Motor Show—Report of the District Nurse — Officers Elected for the Year.

That more co-operation is needed between the different bodies of the city interested in the promotion of health was emphasized at the annual meeting of the Peterborough Health Association held in the Bank of Montreal Chambers yesterday afternoon. An effort will be made to consult the responsible heads of the several bodies and secure more co-operation.

Rev. Father Phelan, the President of the Association, occupied the chair, and Dr. G. S. Cameron and Dr. F. C. Neal, of the medical practitioners of the city were present. The financial statement, which was read by the treasurer, Mr. W. H. Dunsford, shows the Association with well over $600 in cash, besides the bequest of the late Dr. Burnham for $1,000.

Mr. R. Denne moved, seconded by Mr. W. R. Breyfogle, that the thousand dollar bequest of Dr. Burnham be invested in war bonds or debentures which would yield a liberal interest to the Association. The report of the nurse, Miss Edith Hamilton, was read and received.

Dr. G. S. Cameron, the secretary, congratulated Miss Hamilton on her report for the year 1918 and added that although only 24 cases of consumption were reported and only 23 last year, that there were probably many more than that in the city.

"It is unfortunate that it isn't compulsory to report consumption," added the doctor. He cited some instances where the dread disease had existed for some time, unknown to the neighbourhood and perhaps they infected the neighbours, and altogether likely the rest of the family were infected.

Returned Soldiers.

"There should be some means of getting in touch with them. I am afraid that there are many more cases of tuberculosis in the city than the Association knows anything about. I would also suggest," continued Dr. Cameron, "that the good offices of the Association be extended to returning soldiers that are infected with the disease."

"There was only one case of consumption reported last year," said Dr. Frank Neal rising to his feet. "The Medical Health Officer can make it reportable if he wishes." Dr. Neal went on to say how it was done in some of the other cities of the province. In the city of London they do everything possible when a consumptive case is heard of. If the patients refuse to take care of themselves they are taken to the sanitaria by force. Dr. Neal voiced the opinion that Peterborough ought to have a sanitarium and that other public bodies that did war work in the city during the war should cooperate with the Association to make the work more energetic. The Child Welfare League was suggested as one of these bodies.

Mr. W. R. Breyfogle was also of the opinion that a sanitarium should be built in the city and he thought that through Government assistance one could be obtained.

"The great difficulty at present is moving some of the patients to these sanitariums," concluded Mr. Breyfogle.

Social Service Work.

Mrs. Jas. Kendry spoke a good word for the Social Service Work and thought that another effort should be made to form a branch in this city. The secretary was asked to write to the Business Girls' Club, the King's Daughters, the Thursday Club and others, to ask if they would not work with the Association in furthering along the work of the Association.

Dr. Cameron also favoured the resumption of Baby Welfare work in the city. In 1914 thirty-five children were taken care of for two months by the Association and he thought that now that the war was over a bigger effort could be made.

The President brought to the attention of the Association the fact that the Peterborough branch of the Red Cross Association was not going to run the Motor Show at the Armouries this year and that they favoured handing over the work to the Health Association. The members present were in favour of it and it was moved by Mr. W. R. Breyfogle and seconded by Mr. R. Denne, that Dr. G. S. Cameron and Rev. Father Phelan look into the matter and bring in a report.

The following executive was unanimously re-elected for 1919. The officers for the coming year will be elected by the executive in the course of a week or ten days:

Rev. Father Phelan, Mr. C. C. Abbott, Mr. G. W. Powell, Dr. G. S. Cameron, Mr. E. F. Mason, Mr. E. A. Peck, Mr. W. H. Dunsford, Mr. V. J. McElderry, Dr. F. C. Neal, Mr. W. R. Breyfogle, Mrs. Aylmer, Miss Archer, Mrs. Gardiner, Mrs. Galvin, Mrs. Chil Turner, Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Coulthard, Mrs. James Kendry.

District Nurse's Report.

The report of Miss Edith Hamilton follows:

During the year 1918 there were one hundred and thirty-nine patients.

| | |
|---|---|
| Obstetric | 30 |
| Surgical | 6 |
| Medical | 103 |
| | 139 |

These had to be visited once or twice a day, thus one thousand three hundred and twenty-three visits were made in all. Of these nine hundred and eighty-one were free, as the patients were poor and could not afford to pay a nurse, and three hundred and ninety-two were paid for by patients. The total sum collected was one hundred and two dollars. In the greater part of the fall months I have had influenza patients. In one case, the whole family of eight were down, and had there been no district nurse the results might have been fatal. These patients I attended twice a day, seeing that they were fixed and made comfortable in the morning, and then I called in the evening to make their nights more comfortable. I am glad to report that the whole family recovered. Sometimes I was called in after the patients were brought from the hospital to continue the treatment they had been receiving, thus saving the patient a great expense. One very important phrase of the work is the instruction given at home. I try to teach the friends at home, how to care for their own sick and how to keep their homes aired and sanitary so that sickness will be prevented. There are two reasons which make this necessary, one being that the nurse can only spend a limited amount of time with each patient and during her absence the family must continue to carry out what she has already begun. Eight times during the year she was called out at night.

Besides free nursing the following dressings have been supplied by the Association to the free patients:

Old linen.
Gauze.
Absorbent cotton.
Lysol.
Tr. Green Soap.

Tubercular Work.

It is encouraging to note that owing to the preventative measures tuberculosis has not increased to any extent. Last year there were twenty-three patients and this year twenty-four, ten of whom were new. The unfortunate part of the matter, however, is that the cases are not reported until they are advanced. Of these, few, if any, recover, but these profit, from the special attention of the nurse. As their lives are prolonged, moreover the disease is kept from spreading, which is of the utmost importance. During the year, seven hundred and fifty-four visits have been made, seven hundred and thirty-two of which were free. The patients have been supplied with milk and eggs and medicine and the following supplies have been given out:

10 sputum cups.
1200 refills for sputum cups.
48 oz. of carbolic acid.

The following articles have been loaned:

4 air cushions.
3 tents.
Verandah curtains.
Thermometers.
Cots and soap-stones.
Coal oil stove.
2 electric fans.

The work has also been aided by the following donations:

Clothing, Miss Kerr, Mrs. Main, Mrs. Scott, and Mrs. Gallivan.

One patient through the influence of the Nurses' Supervision committee, has been sent to Muskoka for an indefinite period and this has been greatly appreciated by her. In fact, wherever I go the people express their keen appreciation of the help given them.

EDITH HAMILTON,
District Nurse.

Peterboro Soldier Mourned as Dead

Pte. Montgomery, of Peterborough, Welcomed by Lindsay Friends.

LINDSAY, Feb. 5.—Rev. Francis Johnston, Bond street, had the unique and somewhat exceptional experience yesterday of shaking hands with a Peterborough soldier, whom the reverend gentleman last September reported as "killed in action" to his sister, Mrs. Gillespie, of Lindsay.

Needless to say, it was with a great deal of surprise that Rev. Mr. Johnston met the young man in the flesh, but his surprise was not equalled by his great joy at welcoming the returned soldier.

It appears that last September Mr. Johnston was doing special ministry work in Peterborough County and when the message came through that Pte. John Montgomery had been killed in action it was his sad duty to report the sad intelligence.

It now appears that Pte. Montgomery was one of the 15,000 soldiers reported dead or missing, who in reality was a prisoner in Germany, and was recently released.

Pte. Montgomery, with his mother, are visiting Mrs. Gillespie in town, and will spend a few days here.

TAKE POSSESSION NEXT WEEK

New Bread Company Plan Activities On a Large Scale

The Peterboro Bread Company, a firm of Toronto capitalists, who have taken over the N. Lush and Sons bread business, 241 Dublin street, will take possession of theplant on Thursday the 13th of this month and will commence activities on a large scale. The men interested are thorough business people who are planning to extend their field to Ottawa, where they are looking at a bakery with an output of 5,000 loaves of bread daily.

The company has taken over the entire equipment of the plant and have an option on the building.

The day after the Toronto men took over the plant, Gilbert of Belleville, came to the city with the object of buying the business.

The new firm is not the Ideal Bread Company of the Canada Bread Company of Toronto, as was originally reported.

HAMBURG WILL BE CENTRE OF FOOD DISTRIBUTION BY ALLIES

Spartacan Outbreaks in Other German Ports.

Special to The Examiner:

The Spartacan uprisings have been reported there recently and recent despatches said that the dock workers in Koenigsberg had refused to permit the departure of ships until they had received certain concessions.

HUGE WHISKEY STILL DISCOVERED

Illicit Still Worked on Quiet, Yields Ocean of Booze

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Discoverey of an illicit still where vast quantities of "moonshine" whiskey and alcohol were being manufactured was made here at Valleystream, L.I., about sixteen miles from New York, according to local agents of the Federal Internal Revenue Service. Three alleged "moonshiners" were arrested.

The plant was found, it was said, in a cooperage and barrel factory, which had been in operation as such for more than ten years. In one shed the revenue officers, C. W. Nutt and J. M. Grossman, located pipes leading to an enormous underground tank which was filled with liquor. Laborers were engaged to dig up the entire ground of the establishment, and more tanks were expected to be revealed before nightfall.

Vann, joined the army as a private and worked up through the ranks till at the time a sniper's bullet found him, shortly before the signing the armistice, he had reached the rank of Colonel, and was in command of the Sherwood Foresters. Col. ### WHEN RUMANIA CAME IN.

PARIS, Feb, 5. — The text of a treaty signed on August 17, 1916, between Rumania and the Quadruple Entente, is published in the Temps. It embodies the conditions under which Rumania entered the war.

In part it provided for the territorial integrity of Rumania in the whole extent of its frontier; that Rumania was to declare war on and attack Austria-Hungary, and that she should cease economic relations and commercial exchanges with the enemies of all the allies; Rumania not to raise fortifications in front of Belgrade; Rumania not to make a separate peace, and to enjoy the same rights as the allies in the peace preliminaries and in the discussion of questions submitted to the Peace Conference.

Prices For Honey Must Come Down

President of the Ontario Beekeepers' Association Predicts Decline.

TORONTO, Feb. 5.—Lower prices for honey were predicted by James Armstrong, president of the Ontario Beekeepers' Association, in addressing the members at the annual convention, which opened at the Parliament Buildings yesterday. For 1918 the beekeepers of the province enjoyed exceptionally high prices, due to the scarcity of sugar, and to the high-buying power of the general public. With a return to normal conditions and with other foodstuffs coming down in price honey cannot be maintained at the present levels, according to Mr. Armstrong.

There would, however, be compensations, the president pointed out, since beekeeping material and labour would be cheaper.

Government Troops Beseige Spartacans

Bremen is Scene of Heavy Fighting—Numerous Casualties Reported..

Special to The Examiner:

ZURICH, Feb. 5.—Fighting is under way in Bremen, where the Spartacans have been besieged by the government troops, under Gen. Gerstenberger, according to despatches received here to-day. There have been numerous casualties, it was reported.

Discipline Doctors For O.T.A. Violations

TORONTO, Feb. 5.—Authority is to be given to the Executive of the Ontario Medical Council to discipline its members when it deems such action necessary. While no formal announcement has been made to this effect by the Government, Sir William Hearst told the Executive of the Medical Council, which waited on him yesterday, that he approved that principle.

Heretofore, there has been some doubt as to the disciplining authority of the Executive. The practise followed has been for the committee to make a recommendation to the full Council, which only meets annually. During the last few months there have been several convictions of doctors for violations of the Ontario Temperance Act. Members of the Executive of the Council have felt these members of the profession should be dealt with, but doubt as to the authority of the committee prevented action being taken. Because of this apparent negligence the Medical Council has been warmly criticized on different occasions.

Sir William Hearst assured the deputation that he was in accord with the principles involved and promised to give the request favourable consideration.

A Plea For Stronger Beer

Deputation Waited on Cabinet Ministers.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

OTTAWA, Feb. 5.—President Tom Moore, of Niagara Falls, Ont., President of the Trades and Labour Congress of Canada, led a deputation of prominent labour men before the Government, represented by acting-Premier Sir Thos. White, and other Cabinet Ministers this morning, to put in a pleas for stronger and more palatable beer. They said it was desirable from the standpoint both of consumer and present condition of the labour market. The Government promised consideration. The deputation suggested that beer of the future have an alcoholic strength of about six per cent. It will argue that if the Dominion permits manufacture of such beer the provinces will raise their standards and that the Federal order-in-Council was a war measure and could be modified as requested without being altogether nullified.

DIRECT COST OF THE WAR PLACED AT $500,000,000,000

LONDON, Feb. 5. — The direct cost of the war is estimated at £40,000,000,000 in a special article in the Daily Telegraph. The author estimates the indirect cost of diminshed trade and financial obligations at £50,000,000. "Vast sums," he says, "have been used for sheer destruction and vast public debts have been incurred for which there is no corresponding property."

LAXA-LIVER PILLS.

Act as a stimulant to the sluggish liver, clean the furred tongue, sweeten the foul, obnoxious breath, and clear away all the poisonous accumulations from the system by causing the bowels to move regularly and naturally every day, thus preventing as well as curing constipation, sick headaches, bilious headaches, water brash, heartburn, and all diseases arising from a lazy, slow or torpid liver.

They are purely vegetable, small and easy to take, and there is nothing of the griping, weakening and sickening effects of the old-fashioned purgatives.

Mrs. John Kadey, Chipman, N.B., writes: "I have been using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills for some time and can recommend them to anyone suffering from heartburn and liver trouble. I tried other remedies, but they only relieved me for a short time. I always recommend Laxa-Liver Pills to all sufferers, as I think they are a valuable remedy."

When you go to your dealer and ask for Laxa-Liver Pills, see that you get the genuine "Milburn's." Price 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Says a Kentucky obituarist of his subject: "She was wafted into the gloom of eternal night at 6 o'clock in the morning."

Turning Point in Allied Strength Arrived by July

November Saw Fewer Than One Million Germans in Trenches—Statistics Mark American Tide—Allies, Twenty Per Cent. Weaker in April, Reached Peak in September.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—The total strength of the United States army on November 11, when the armistice was signed and when the American war effort was at its peak, was 3,703,273 officers and men, including the Marine Corps on duty with the army in Europe. A statistical table made public here by the War Department gives this figure.

Included in the table is a comparative statement of the strength of Allied and German forces on the western front, by months, beginning April 1, 1918, showing that on July 1, for the first time the Allied "rifle strength" exceeded that of the Germans.

In rifle strength, which means men "standing in the trenches ready to go over the top with the bayonet," the Allied total on July 1 was 1,556,000, compared with 1,412,000 for the Germans. On November 1, when the enemy's reserves had been exhausted and his front line strength reduced by about half, the Allies had rifle strength of 1,485,000, representing odds of upwards of two to one.

From July 1, as the Americans continued to arrive, the Allied superiority showed continued growth over the Germans, who had dropped on November 1 to a strength of 886,000.

Foe Peak in June.

When the great German drive was launched in the spring of 1918, the enemy had a definite superiority of approximately 20 per cent. the figures for April 1 showing an Allied rifle strength of 1,245,000, and a German total of 1,569,000. The Germans reached their maximum on June 1, with 1,639,000, while the Allies reached their maximum on September 1, with 1,682,000.

The table prepared by Gen. Pershing's staff, showing the comparative strength of the armies for the eight months covered, follows:

| Month. | Allies. | German |
|---|---|---|
| April 1 | 1,245,000 | 1,569,000 |
| May 1 | 1,343,000 | 1,600,000 |
| June 1 | 1,496,000 | 1,639,000 |
| July 1 | 1,556,000 | 1,412,000 |
| August 1 | 1,672,000 | 1,395,000 |
| September 1 | 1,682,000 | 1,339,000 |
| October 1 | 1,594,000 | 1,223,000 |
| November 1 | 1,485,000 | 866,000 |

Just Try This When Hairy Growths Appear

(Modes of To-day.)

A smooth, hairless skin always follows the use of a paste made by mixing some water with plain powdered delatone. This paste is applied to the hairy surface 2 or 3 minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed, when every trace of hair will have vanished. No pain or discomfort attends the use of the delatone paste, but caution should be exercised to be sure that you get real delatone.

LOOK AT TONGUE! IF COATED, CLEAN LITTLE STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS.

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if the tongue is quoted; this is a sure sign its little stomach and liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, does not eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs,' and in a few hours all the foul waste, the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless "fruit laxative,' and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy, mother! A little given to-day saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs,' which has directions for babies, children of all ages, and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeits sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

Advertising Talks By P. E. HAYES

"No, sir, I never advertise." A merchant told me this the other day in such positive terms it made me wonder what was the matter. It made me wonder if there was something about his business that he wanted to cover up. It made me wonder if there was some undesirable feature—something of which he himself was not very proud.

I know this: When a man or merchant is really enthusiastic about his goods it's pretty hard for him to keep quiet. He wants others to know the good points. And he usually tells them. And when the public reads his advertisement it says—"There's a man who believes in himself—I shall feel safe in giving him my patronage."

Took Severe Cold ON HIS LUNGS

COUGHED PHLEGM and BLOOD.

On the first appearance of a cough or cold, do not neglect it, but get rid of it at once before it has a chance to grow worse, and gets settled on the lungs, causing bronchitis, pneumonia and other serious lung troubles.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will cure the cough or cold on its first inception and perhaps save you years of suffering.

Mr. G. F. Stratychuk, Canora, Sask., writes: "Last winter I took a most severe cold on my lungs and was coughing up phlegm and blood most of the time. I had the cough for over two months, and took a great deal of different medicines, but found no relief from them. At last a friend advised me to take Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which I did, and it gave me great relief in a very short time, and to-day I am enjoying good health again."

The marvellous results that Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup has achieved in its cures of coughs and colds has caused many so-called "pine" preparations to be put on the market, which do not contain any pine whatever. See that you get the genuine when you ask for it.

Put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c and 50c. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

THE WIFE

BY SAX PHILIPS

Ruth Blames Mollie for Brian's Anxiety to Fight.

CHAPTER CXII

Ruth comforted herself with the thought that if it should happen that America entered the war, and if Brian should go he then would think and plan for her—not because she needed it, but because he loved her. That he felt there was nothing to plan, no reason to be solicitous of her because she was perfectly able to take care of herself, she would have resented. Yet that was exactly Brian's attitude.

Brian Hackett figured that he had married a woman who preferred business to domesticity, and, such being the case, she was capable of looking out for herself without any help from him. That just because she was a woman, Ruth wanted to feel that he was anxious over her, would not have occurred to him.

He never thought of her as really feminine and helpless. It was always as needing nothing he could give her. This, in a way, tinged his manner to her, and as the time had passed, it had become a habit to think of her as a business woman more frequently than as a wife.

Brian was the sort of man who should have married a clinging, domestic woman. He would have petted the afraid-of-a-mouse kind—have hurried home to protect the timid kind, afraid to stay alone. He would have joyed in a woman who would let him bring a troop of his Bohemian acquaintances home with him, and he would have delighted in an impromptu dinner in the kitchen, all taking part in preparing—perhaps in furnishing it.

There was nothing exciting in his well-ordered home. But he took full advantage of its comforts, the while he bewailed the loss of unconventionality. It was there. So was he. Why not?

The idea of fighting appealed to him. Not only to his patriotism, but to his love of adventure. Life, as he was living it held very few thrills for him. Gladly would he seek a field for them. The hum-drum, well-ordered existence which Ruth liked, and which perforce he led, had no attraction for him—and had less, as time went on.

He had told the truth when he had told Ruth that she had robbed him of ambition. It may have been, probably was, a sign of weakness in his character, that he would not work for his own sake, his own advancement; as well as for needed money. But in this Brian was not unlike many others. Take away the incentive, and a man deteriorates. So Brian had deteriorated. He had grown more careless in his habits. He had gone back to those he indulged in before he knew dainty Ruth. He had also grown thoughtless of his speech and manner. Oftentimes Ruth had sighed and wondered what had come over Brian. Never thinking for a moment that she was in any way to blame for the change.

Yet Ruth, as though some unquiet instinct warned her, watched and wondered at the change, but never spoke of it.

She was a bit too frightened of it to want to talk.

She thought Brian surely wrong in his feeling that we would soon be at war. Of course she was as good an American as he, and would not dream of making a slacker of him. But it was time enough to talk of it when it had been decided—not now just because Mollie—her thought halted, then sped on with lightning rapidity

It had been Mollie King who had put it into his head. Of course it had. Mollie planned to go and she wanted to take Brian with her. Ruth's jealousy of Mollie flared up hot and agonizing. She was sure she was right. Brian had spent more time than she knew at Mollie's, intuitively she thought that perhaps he had taken those English officers there too—those men he would not bring home because they knew he could not afford to live as well as they were living. How did they know what he earned? They must be friends of Mollie's.

She made up her mind to ask him. Then once again Mandel sent her away. She was to be gone only two days. But never had she so hated to leave Brian. Never felt so anxious as did she when Mandel told her to go. He noticed her reluctance and said:

"Is there any reason you cannot go, Mrs. Hackett?"

"No—really, no."

"I thought you looked distressed."

"Not at all," Ruth tried to speak in her usual bright manner. She must not let this man, who had been so kind to her, think she wanted to shirk her duty.

"I should hate to have you go if you had anything that made it hard for you to leave. But the commission is an important one you can attend to better than anyone else."

"Thank you. And I am perfectly willing to go."

"I lied, I am not willing to—leave Brian just now," she said to herself as she hurried to the station after failing to get Brian on the telephone. To-morrow—Brian a True Prophet.

Lives Saved by Steel Helmet.

The British soldier, happy-go-lucky as he is, has come to recognize the value of his steel helmet. Most of us who have been in action in France have stories to tell of our own or other men's lives saved by "tin hats," "tin lids," or "battle bowlers." A brother officer of mine has worn for something like two years a steel helmet with a dent in it as big as a small potato—a souvenir of a small lump of shell which knocked him off his feet one afternoon in the Ypres salient. I have seen a helmet in the rim of which a machine gun bullet had cut a clean nick. The wearer of that helmet never knew he had been struck until he doffed his "tin hat."—London Times.

Rat Bites Policeman.

Prohibition has its terrors. Witness Policeman Phillips, of the war emergency squad, who went prowling about a house suspected of harboring a "blind pig." In search of booze Phillips found a suspicious-looking opening in the wainscoting and put his hand in, feeling about for a bottle of contraband. Then he drew his hand out and emitted a yell that brought his brother officers to him. "Did you find any?" they asked. "I found one," replied Phillips, "and the d——n thing bit me. It was a rat."

OPEN NOSTRILS! END A COLD OR CATARRH

How To Get Relief When Head and Nose are Stuffed Up.

Count fifty! Your cold in head or catarrh disappears. Your clogged nostrils will open, the air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more snuffling, hawking, mucous discharge, dryness or headache; no struggling for breath at night.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist and apply a little of this fragrant antiseptic cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of your head, soothing and healing the swollen or inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Head colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed up and miserable. Relief is sure.

War Gas Causes Appendicitis.

The various poison gases so much in use at present at the European battle zone are not only breathed, but are swallowed. This might seem strange at first, but the likelihood of swallowing some amount of a gas impregnating the atmosphere may readily be seen. This might take place incidental to the intake of food and both to normal and convulsive actions of the throat. Such swallowing of toxic vapors causes a variety of digestional disturbances, according to the amount of gas ingested.

According to an article in the Journal de Medecine et de Chirurgie Pratique, appendicitis has been found caused by swallowed gas, especially when the gas contains chlorine. The progress of the malady was rapid, but rather mild, and treatment was effective.

67 YEARS OF GROWTH

IN the early days the founder of this business made a few gross of matches a day, and sold them himself, driving his horse and wagon as far as Toronto. Today, from automatic machines, 70,000,000 matches a day are turned out to keep Canada's home fires burning. And not matches alone: indurated fibreware, household helps, and a host of paper products have been added to this line.

The House of Eddy

has become an institution which touches the daily life of the Canadian public in a thousand different ways.

There is a reason back of this steady and consistent progress. Business institutions do not grow to such proportions by accident. It takes real merit to accomplish such a result; merit in the goods themselves, and in the concern which is back of them.

When you buy matches, see that Eddy's name is on the box. When you are in need of some of the familiar household helps, such as a washtub, a pail, or a washboard, remember that there is an Eddy product which will fill your needs, made from light and durable Indurated Fibreware. Remember also that Eddy's Paper Specialties are standard.

Future of Alsace-Lorraine

ACCORDING to Clement Rueff, president of the Alsace-Lorraine Society on the continent, who, from the beginning of the world war, has been actively engaged in bringing home to the people of North America the cause of the disputed territory of Alsace-Lorraine, it will be that part of France which will lead the country in its work of reconstruction.

"The rebirth of France will be in the territory wrested from it in 1870," he said. "To-day that territory is facing the problem of changing from German rule to French. The task is a happy one for these people. Not without cause has it been said that Alsace-Lorraine is more truly French than Paris is. Nothing serves so much to nurture a feeling or a passion as an effort to suppress it, imposed from without, especially when that effort is abated one.

"Long before the hope of a speedy victory, a commission was appointed in France to undertake the problem of re-organizing Alsace-Lorraine. The unanimous decision of all its members, as well as of all of France, was to make the transition period as gradual and easy as possible. Conscious of the political, economic and industrial changes that must necessarily take place, it was decided to destroy nothing in the way of laws, customs and policies before the people were ready to assimilate the newer constructive French methods and changes.

"The attitude of France toward this section has always been thoughtful and wise. During the war, in the sections of Alsace-Lorraine occupied by French troops, even in those where French predominated, the Government of France, appreciating that a good many of the inhabitants were more familiar with the German language, had the war news printed and posted in German as well as French.

"Under German rule Alsace-Lorraine was nominally governed by its own people. There was a local legislature, which was responsible, however, for all its laws, rules, and regulations to the Kaiser and the Bundesrat. The first change that will be made there will be to incorporate this section of France into the general scheme of organization of the country—that is, it will be divided into departments the same as the rest of the country is divided. It will have its local governing body, its representatives in the French Chamber of Deputies, and its prefects. The last named are comparable to resident delegates of a central government, or, to bring it nearer to the form of government in this country, to lieutenant-governors of provinces. One must understand, of course, that the prefect has control, however, over a much smaller district. All this will take time. The work of assimilation will be done gradually. The Alsatians are a mixed people religiously. There will be no effort on the part of France to do anything in the way of imposing one religion on the community.

"It is industrially and economically that Alsace-Lorraine will truly find itself. People have long talked about the importance of returning this confiscated territory to France. Their views were based on emotion rather than knowledge of facts. I am not overstepping the mark very much when I say that, had it not been for the possession of Alsace-Lorraine, the Germans could never have held out as long as they did. Alsace-Lorraine is a storehouse of power and wealth. A short time before the war broke out Germany published its annual series of statistics of industrial wealth. Of the 27,000,000 tons of iron mined, 21,000,000 were taken out of Alsace-Lorraine. That means that more than three-quarters of the iron used in Germany all these years and especially in the war, came out of this territory.

"That is not all. In close proximity to the iron fields, in the district of Saar, we have one of the biggest coal deposits. The combination of these two, the coal and the iron, is what made Germany the industrial power that she became during the last fifty years. Anything from an iron nail to a locomotive was manufactured at the lowest cost and with the greatest efficiency—not efficiency due to the wealth and position of natural resources. In the large majority of cases it was the Alsatians who controlled the property. The wealth of it went to the country by which they were governed. It was the Alsatians, however, who were the brains of the industries.

"The Germans were aware of this. Whenever possible they tried to overrule the industrial growth of the people. It was not to their advantage to decrease the output of the coal and iron fields. Therefore, they mined them to capacity. In the question of potash, however, they were not so greatly dependent upon Alsace. Alsace possesses the largest potash fields in existence. The Germans objected to the mining of this product in regions outside their own immediate confines. This proves that they never really thought Alsace belonged to them. In order to cut off the output of the Alsatian mines a syndicate was organized, with the approval of the Reichstag, whose purpose was to regulate potash mining. One of the most conspicuous clauses in that syndicate provided that the mines of Alsace be worked to not more than 10 per cent. of their capacity."

Marked Oats.

The appearance of the letter B on oats coming up this season, which is astonishing people in the rural regions of Wisconsin, is less mysterious than what is said to have happened at Zanzibar, where, so report avers, a fish was caught with two inscriptions in Arabic characters on its tail. These, as deciphered by scholars, were respectively "The work of God" and "God alone." However, the Zanzibar narrative is a fish story.—Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin.

MRS. PANKHURST A BORN LEADER

She Prefers to Stay Outside of Parliament.

ABILITY IS RECOGNIZED

Guided the Campaign of the Women of Victory and Is Satisfied to Work With Her Ballot — Mrs. Pankhurst Told Canadian Women That She Has Become an Imperialist.

IT is a little puzzling to some women who have always regarded Mrs. Pankhurst as a leader among women, to understand why she did not run for Parliament in the recent British elections. In every point at issue that concerned women politically, Mrs. Pankhurst has figured. Thus surprise that her name did not appear in the list of nominations has been expressed over and over again, and many are curious to know her reason for not entering the fight. Mrs. Pankhurst has been heard and respected by men as well as women, and has come to be regarded as the most prominent woman in any organization of women. The verdict of one man after her last visit to Canada was that she was more effective than ever.

"She is a born leader," declared another of the male sex, "and I used to think of her as nothing but a mischievous agitator." While another declared, "If she were a man, there is no position that she could not fill."

It was during this same visit to Canada that Mrs. Pankhurst informed a group of women who had broached the subject of women obtaining seats in the House, that she was not thinking of doing that at present. Mrs. Pankhurst said that women were too much occupied with other work at the present and she thought that their influence would be greater through the vote than through having seats in Parliament. Possibly this explains the present situation.

Mrs. Pankhurst has chosen that all her daughters shall come before the public eye in a more or less degree. Both Sylvia, the clever artist, and Adela have taken part in the women's anti-Government campaign which was waged before the war. Her only son, a ardent tennis player, died some years ago from consumption.

By many people, Mrs. Pankhurst is regarded as the most impressive public speaker among women. Her voice has a pleasant tone, and her delivery is easy and comes without any apparent straining of the cords, which is often tiring to those listening to women speakers. She is absolutely familiar with the subjects on which she speaks and studies the question from every aspect, thus being ready for interruptions which she has always had to contend with at her meetings wherever and whenever she has undertaken to speak in public.

Mrs. Pankhurst's recent criticisms of certain members of the Labor Party were not well received by some when she visited Toronto in September of last year. Before the war she had been a strong supporter of the Labor Party, and her husband, the late Dr. Pankhurst was at one time the Labor representative of one of the Lancashire divisions. She announced at the luncheon given by the Women's Century, when she was in Toronto, that she had become an Imperialist. In speaking she urged the women of Canada to endeavor to get the homestead laws of Canada made equal for men and women, and prophesied that after the war many women in England who had taken up farming during the war would come to this country and till the soil.

Says Indigestion Results from an Excess of Hydrochloric Acid.

Undigested food delayed in the stomach decays, or rather, ferments the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. He also tells us that Indigestion is caused by Hyper-acidity, meaning, there is an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything eaten sours in the stomach much like garbage sours in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy, lumpy misery in the chest, we belch up gas, we eructate sour food or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead, get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and drink while it is effervescing and furthermore, to continue this for a week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.

MIGHT HAVE BEEN STARTLING

Just a Possibility That There Was Method in Passenger's Remarkable Exhibition of Drowsiness.

One afternoon, in a train running over an Illinois line, an amusing conversation took place between the conductor and a passenger who appeared to be under the influence of liquor.

The passenger was lopping against the window sill and acting sleepy.

"Wake up and gimme your ticket!" growled the conductor.

No move.

Once more the pasteboard collector admonished his snoozy (or boozy) passenger to awaken and dig up some sort of transportation.

Still no move.

The conductor went through the train and punched the local tickets. Then he returned. By that time the train had gone past two stations.

"Say, now, come out of the dumps and give me your ticket or off you go!" snorted the conductor as he grabbed the fellow rudely by the arm. The passenger revived slightly, but quickly sank back against the window sill again.

"Where is your ticket?" demanded the trainman gruffly. "You certainly have one somewhere about your person!"

The fellow offered no answer. At that the conductor grabbed him by the collar and yanked him to his feet, but he sank back limply into the seat.

Seizing the man by the collar again the conductor shook him roughly and yelled with mouth close to ear:

"Confound your pesky skin; I've searched all of your pockets and you haven't a ticket anywhere on you!"

The passenger, slightly awakened from his stupor, blandly replied:

"Well, then, never mind. Let 'er go. I ain't goin' a great way anyhow!" And he wasn't. He stepped off at the next station.

COULDN'T FOOL HIM

Employer Had Read Detective Stories to Advantage.

Why Mr. Petty, With Other Members of the Office Force, Regretted Their Choice of Birthday Present for the Boss.

Mr. Petty hurried into the office an hour later than usual and was relieved to find that his employer was late also.

"Pretty good!" laughed Mr. Petty to his assistant. "He will never know that I was late."

When the head of the firm came in he scrutinized Mr. Petty long and closely, then leaned casually against the desk.

"Your session at the bowling alley was prolonged last night," he began.

"How do you know?" asked Mr. Petty, opening his eyes very wide.

"I infer it from your stiff manner of handling the ledger this morning," replied the head of the firm severely. "You exerted yourself more than usual on the alleys. At breakfast this morning you were so drowsy from want of sleep that you dosed over your morning paper."

"So I did," admitted Mr. Petty, uncomfortably.

"I know it was at breakfast, because there is egg and coffee on the paper," frowned the head of the firm. "And while you were asleep your little six-year-old son climb into your lap."

"Y-yes, he did," gasped Mr. Petty. "But—"

"How do I know?" interrupted the head of the firm. I know because your collar is written over in a child's scrawl. It is done in the peculiar shade of lead that you had in your gold lead pencil, which is usually in your left-hand vest pocket. It is not there now. I hope that the boy has not lost it."

Mr. Petty felt for his lead pencil.

"It is gone," gasped Mr. Petty.

"You were late to work this morning," went on the head of the firm, coldly. "I do not have to be told so, because you bought an evening edition of the paper at the subway station and it is an edition that does not come out until a late hour. I am very particular about the hours of work observed here."

As the head of the firm was finally disappearing into his private office Mr. Petty wiped the perspiration from his brow and remarked to the assistant:

"We were all against giving him a watch for his birthday because he is always watching the time, but we made a great mistake to give him the detective stories instead."

Enlists at 50; Says He's 30.

American Magazine has an article about "Foghorn" Macdonald, who enlisted as a private in the Canadian forces at fifty-three and is now a major at fifty-seven. The author of the article says:

"By canoe for 31 days through the wilderness, by an old tub of a leaky steamboat, by whatever means of travel he could find, including his own feet, he made his way back to Winnipeg, only to find that the troops had left. All right! A machine gun company was being formed and he applied for that.

"The recruiting officer was a friend of his, had helped celebrate Foghorn's fifty-third birthday the previous January. But when in making out the papers he came to the question, 'How old are you?' and Foghorn whipped out: 'Thirty-nine!' he never batted an eyelash.

"Before his official cronies at Ottawa knew it, Macdonald was on his way to England—a private at fifty-three! Two years later he was a major; the only man in the forces of the allies who has risen from the ranks to that grade in the present war."

Wartime Economy.

Mr. Benson went to New York to business, but lived in Brooklyn. Often he was not able to get home in time for dinner at night. He told his wife that he would phone her every day as to whether he could leave the office or not.

Mrs. Benson was of a very thrifty disposition, and the following was her solution of the problem: "Sam, if you find that you can't be home for dinner, phone me exactly six o'clock. If the telephone rings at that hour, I'll know it is you and that you are not coming for dinner. I won't answer it, and you'll get your nickel back."—Ladies' Home Journal.

It was written on a piece of notepaper brought here by a strange carrier pigeon, which died very soon after it was found on the street.

The bird was identified as a species of California desert quail, not found in any part of Oregon save possibly in the southeastern portion. The bird refused food and water and was exhausted.

A piece of string which bound the message to the bird's leg was olive drab in color and might have been unraveled from an army uniform.

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Bitro-Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigour and Nerve Force.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and sold by MacDermid & Jury in Peterboro and most all druggists under a guarantee of entire satisfaction or your money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate quickly produces a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, soon disappear, dull eyes become bright, and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

CAUTION:— Although bitro-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its remarkable flesh-growing properties, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

TRUTH STRANGE AS FICTION

Novel by William De Morgan Has Counterpart in Real Life Story of Englishman.

A little more than ten years ago an Englishman, deep in the sixties, won great renown by going to a hospital.

His illness, though severe, was ordinary enough. The use he made of his convalescence distinguished him. Propped up in bed, William De Morgan wrote his first novel. When he was entirely recovered, he wrote another, which was destined to carry on his fame around the reading world.

The book told the story of an engineer returned to London after many adventures. There a mishap in the tube caused him to lose his memory. In the dazed state he lived a new life. By chance he met his former wife, fell in love with her and married her again.

Strange as was De Morgan's tale—critics said only he could make it convincing—London itself has duplicated it from life.

John Arthur Lewis, a returned soldier, was lately haled into court for absconding with money he had collected for his employers.

His innocence was easily proved. On the collecting trip he had been struck by a van and injured. Bereft of his memory he wandered over England, arrived at his old home, and was introduced by his mother to a young woman, said to be his wife.

He refused to accept his past until one night the German airmen dropped bombs, and the shock of the explosion restored his memory. Then all came back, even the uncompleted day's work of last August.

History here modifies the ancient observation as to truth and fiction. Truth is not stranger than good writing. Rather the artist senses probably ahead of the facts and later reality corroborates him. Who knows not at least one Enoch Arden? Tennyson guessed them all.

GROWING DEAF WITH HEAD NOISES? TRY THIS!

If you are growing hard of hearing and fear Catarrhal Deafness or if you have roaring, rumbling, hissing noises in your ears go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it 1-4 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who is threatened with Catarrhal Deafness or who has head noises should give this prescription a trial.

Old Trees Bearing.

A good deal is heard about the temporary nature of fruit trees, and it has been a large factor in preventing planting in this region, says an Ellensburg, Ore., dispatch. There seems to be an impression that in a dozen years or so apple and pear trees are down and out.

To those who hold such an idea a visit to the orchard of John Catlin, on the west side of the river, will be an eye opener. These trees are carrying a phenomenal load of fruit this year and look as though they may be producers for years to come, yet they were planted in 1878—forty years ago.

GET RID OF YOUR RHEUMATISM

"Flourless Bread."

Several German newspapers have printed under the title "Flourless Bread" reports of experiments in making bread direct from the grain without first grinding it to flour. This is done simply by soaking the grain in water and kneading it into dough. The War Committee of German Millers claims, however, that this method was tried thirty years ago, but has never been used, except in small bakeries, and the expectations of obtaining a large quantity of bread in this way have not been realized. Using the grain itself, soaked in water, would save about one and one-half per cent. ordinarily lost in dust. Even then what might be gained in weight would be lost in nutrition, as the bread made of grain would contain many impurities.

Try This If You Have Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

Electric Fowl Picker.

A machine invented by O. G. Rieske of Buffalo picks an ordinary fowl naked in less than five minutes, says Electrical Experimenter. Moreover, no feathers are scattered. A small electric motor turns a suction fan, and also a roller contained within the instrument itself, the power being transmitted by means of flexible cable. The roller is hollow and its outer surface is pierced by a number of slits which permit the incoming blast produced by the fan to pass freely through it.

The top of the instrument is hooded, and attached to this hood is a little rubber roller which rests firmly against the surface of the large drumlike wheel. The feathers of the fowl, sucked up against the two rollers, are plucked by having to squeeze between the rollers, after which they are blown to a tank.

A thumb contact permits the hood to be moved around in its axis, and thus the relative positions of the two rollers are adjusted according to the needs of each case. The smallest wild fowl or the biggest turkey may be plucked with equal ease. A fowl can readily be picked in the dry state, but ordinarily it is scalded.

Turning From Gold to Silver.

The Yukon is turning from gold to silver mining. While the value of the former, or its purchasing power, has decreased, that of silver has been doubled. There is great activity in two silver bearing areas tributary to Dawson, the Mayo district on the upper Stewart river and along the Twelvemile creek. These fields are 150 miles apart. Silver was discovered in these areas years ago, but no work was ever done.

The Canadian government has dispatched a party of geologists to investigate the prospects of developing the silver mining industry in this section.—Dawson City Dispatch.

An Eloquent Message.

Last October M. Clemenceau received a Roumanian delegation and was asked by one of the delegates to send a message to the Roumanians who had fought so gallantly and suffered so terribly in the allied cause. The French Premier's message was a pithy as it was expressive, "I rise," he said, "in the presence of your delegation; I take my hat off to the Roumanian people; I put it on again in the face of the Roumanian Government."

PLUMER'S RECORD IN GREAT WAR

British General Has Never Made a Failure.

HAS SCORED BIG VICTORIES

He Helped to Save Day When Gen. Gough Made Mess of Big Undertaking — Joffre Asserted That Plumer Was One of the Two Outstanding Generals of the European War.

Of Haig's subordinates common consent would award to Gen. Plumer the first place. His army held the old Ypres salient all the time from the close of the Second Battle in 1915 to the moment when it broke all the restraining barriers and swept down into the Flanders plain in October, insuring the recovery of Lille and the liberation of the Belgian seacoast.

GEN. HERBERT PLUMER.

At all times his professional attainments were acknowledged by the severest critics, and Field Marshal Joffre asserted that he was one of the two great generals of the war.

Among Gen. Plumer's achievements was the clearing of the Messines Ridge in June, 1917, which was a preliminary step in the Flanders' campaign. It was one of the finest examples of a scientific local offensive, comparable only with Petain's two thrusts at Verdun in 1916. It was characterized by a marvellous co-ordination of various arms and marked by such a clear evidence of accurate intelligence work that Plumer's chief intelligence officer, Harrington, won immediate promotion. As a result of the preparation, Plumer's troops advanced over the famous Messines-"Whitesheet" Ridge with incredibly small losses and abolished for the time the old Ypres salient. Later, when Gough had made a mess of the Passchendaele offensive, Plumer took over and brought order out of chaos. When Italy was overwhelmed at Caporetto Plumer was sent to command the British reserves, which were hurried south and did admirable work. His is a record that has no trace of failure, even temporary.

Substitutes for Glass.

The shortage of glass, of which enormous quantities have been destroyed, is likely to be seriously felt in the reconstruction of Europe, and recent fairs at Lyons and Paris have exhibited numerous substitute materials, including some translucent ones that may be used for the windows of such places as cellars, stables and garages. Transparent, though somewhat costly, are siloxide, a bluish glass of silica and such acid oxides as those of zirconium and titanium, and artificial mica, an electrically fused mixture of green sand, bauxite, magnesia, and alkali.

Excellent substitutes of somewhat imperfect transparency are numerous cellulose products, sheet gelatin, various products of casein and albuminoid substances, and a synthetic resin of phenols condensed with formol. A very cheap material consists of two sheets of paper united by translucent glue, with strengthening hemp strands between, the outside being coated with flexible waterproof varnish.

A better waterproof substitute, which is known as "vitro-cellose," and may be made into glass-like panes, consists of a light metal lattice work coated with non-inflammable film, and a similar material—"flexible glass," made by coating muslin, gauze or fine metal cloth with a flexible film — may be rolled up when being transported.

Creating Opportunities for Employment

BESIDES helping to distribute employment through a chain of Employment Offices, the Government has developed plans to create opportunities for employment.

Briefly, these plans cover the following phases:—

1. Public Works

During the war, many important Public Works have been held up. The Minister of Public Works has his plans and preparations made to proceed with the more necessary of these in the near future. This Committee has also been in touch with Provincial Governments and Municipalities, with a view to impressing upon them the necessity for similar action. The building and public works programme now in sight will provide employment for many returned soldiers and war-workers.

2. Railways

During the past four years, a great deal of work necessary to keep our railways up to standard has been postponed. Some millions of dollars must be expended on improving road-bed, constructing bridges, buildings and other improvements. Vast quantities of ties are being got out this winter. Equipment of various kinds must be secured. The Minister of Railways states that as soon as weather conditions will permit, some thousands of men will be absorbed in various railway undertakings. The supplies and materials required will also provide employment.

3. Shipbuilding

The shipbuilding programme arranged for by the Government will provide employment for many men during 1919. It is expected that arrangements will be completed to keep the shipbuilding yards in active operation throughout the year. The Government recognises that this ship construction is one of the best means of providing suitable employment for many skilled and other workers.

4. Export Trade

The Government has established a Canadian Trade Commission. This Commission has an office in Canada and a "trade mission" overseas. Through this trade mission it is anticipated that Canada will secure an important share in the business of providing materials and manufactured products required for reconstruction work in Europe. A short time may be required before final details are completed and definite results are announced. The business so secured will be distributed through the regular channels of trade and thus afford extra opportunities for employment.

5. Housing

The Government has set aside the large sum of $25,000,000 to be loaned through the Provinces in order to encourage the building of workmen's houses. When the season for building arrives, this work should give employment to many hundreds of men both in construction work and in the supply of materials.

6. Land Settlement

The Government, as already explained in a former announcement, has developed plans to help soldiers to become farmers, providing land, granting loans and giving training and supervision where necessary. It is expected that a large number of returning soldiers will take advantage of these opportunities. The scheme will involve the expenditure of some millions of dollars, a good deal of which will find its way into building materials, supplies, machinery, etc., all of which will assist in providing employment.

7. Road Building

The Government now has under consideration the question of joining the provincial governments in financing the construction of public highways. Should a favorable decision be reached, a large field for employment opportunities will be opened up. Regardless of Federal action, provincial governments are preparing their own road-making programmes.

The Government is alive to the necessity for providing employment opportunities, and stands prepared to assist in every way possible. If corporations and private citizens will join in this feature of Repatriation Work, Canada should have little difficulty with the employment problem.

Two Thousand Dollars Were Cut Off Estimates Of Fire Department

Committee Favour the Two Platoon System—City Will Put in a Generating System for the Fire Alarm Service—War Bonus to be Continued.

WILL SELL HORSES

What the Fire, Water and Light Committee Did Last Night.

Recommended the adoption of the two-platoon system for the Peterboro fire brigade.

Reduced the Fire Hall estimates by $1975.

Spent $2,121.00 on a new fire alarm system by which the city will generate their own power for the alarm boxes instead of purchasing power from the Bell Telephone Company.

The war bonus of the firemen amounting to 15 per cent. of their salary will be continued indefinitey.

Present at the Fire, Water, and Light Committee meeting last night were Ald. Morrison, (chairman), Mayor Duncan, Ald. Turner, Ald. Hamilton Ald. Garside and Ald. Gainey.

Two Platoon System

The two-platoon system for this city was thoroughly discussed and the Committee was in favour of its adoption. The Underwriters wrote favouring the plan but also said that more men must be added to the department or the insurance rate would be raised.

Ald. Morrison—"The staff at the fire hall at present is only 14 men because two men are off duty all the time and another is a watchman, who is only there when the brigade is away from the hall. We should appoint six more men so that eleven men would be on duty all the time."

One of the Aldermen thought the men who formed the night platoons would have rather an easy lift.

"Why they would be home all day and then come back to the fire hall to sleep at night."

Ald. Turner—"But when they are in bed they can get away just as quick or quicker if they were dressed and down in the hall. When the alarm rings it is likt chain-lightning."

Chief Grange was asked a volley of questions which sounded something like this.— "At what time will the two platoons exchange duty?"

"They change at 7 o'clock every morning."

"What about their meals?"

They have their breakfast before they come; their dinner is brought to them and they will be home for the evening meal."

"Where the firemen are in bed how long does it take them to get down?"

A Quick Hitch

"Ten to twelve seconds to get down stairs and about 20 seconds to get out in all from 30 to 32 seconds."

"Will four extra men do you?"

"I think so."

"Do you think that you can work it with 20 men?"

"I am quite confident that I can handle it."

The Mayor—"I am in favour of going into it then."

"If a man wants to go on an excursion when he is off duty what would you do?"

"He would have to obtain special permission."

"You wouldn't allow the staff to be crippled?"

"No, I would only allow one man off at a time."

Ald. Turner moved, seconded by Ald. Garside that the two-platoon system be adopted and that four men be added to the brigade, the system to commence as soon as possible. The motion was carrieid unanimously. The mayor will call a special meeting of the council so that the system can be approved and be put into effect as soon as possible.

The Estimates

Led by Ald. Hamilton the committee made a frontal attack with the pruning knife on Chief Granges 1 in timates for 1919. As a result nearly two thousand dollars was cut away.

The Mayor did not want to spend $1,500 on new hose and with the Chief's acquiescence this was struck off the estimates.

Another drive was made at the estimates when the committee refused to ratify the chief's annual trip to the Fire Chief's convention.

Lie Beneath Maple Tree

Special Plot Set Apart for Canadian Dead in Germany.

OTTAWA, Feb 6.—Fred James, official correspondent with the Canadian corps, writes from Bonn to the Director of Public Information, to the effect that since the 1st and 2nd divisions and the corps troops came into Germany there have been only 11 deaths, due to sickness, mostly pneumonia, following influenza.

The bodies of Canadians who have died in Germany are buried in Bonn in a special plot set apart for Canadians. Arrangements are now completed to locate the grave of every Canadian who has died as a prisoner of war in the territory on both sides of the Rhine occupied by the corps and the other British forces. As soon as this is done the remains of the deceased soldiers will be exhumed and reinterred by Canadian chaplains in the cemetery in Bonn.

Eventually that little hallowed spot will be enclosed with maple trees, so that the national emblem of Canada will stand as monuments to the honoured dead.

NATIONAL DEBT OF ITALY MAY TOTAL SIXTEEN BILLIONS

Luzzait Pleads With Anglo-Saxon Nations For Generosity.

ROME, Feb. 6. — Italy's national debt is now more than $12,500,000,000, whereas when she entered the war it was about $1,750,000,000, declared Luigi Luzzatti, former Premier and a leading Italian financial authority. In a statement here urging financial aid to Italy. He said that when pensions, Government bills to manufacturers and other necessary expenses had been paid, the national debt probably would total $16,000,000,000.

"Italy, I am sad to say, leads the whole world in the relative height of its war debt," he said. "Subtracting Italy's losses in men and money, her national wealth is only about $20,000,000,000. If all the war loans of the Entente should be thrown together in one concentrated sum, Italy and France, whose efforts and losses in men and subatance have been the greatest, will be compensated by bearing a smaller proportion of the war debt.

"The United States and Great Britain are not only strong, but generous and they will acknowledge that Italy and France, the two principal centres of Teutonic slaughter and devastation, should be supported financially, therefore, with correspondingly greater help."

The former Premier, who is an old enthusiastic supporter of the idea of the society of nations, said that he still believed in the principles of such an organization.

ROAD NEEDED FROM ISOLATION HOSPITAL TO PROTESTANT HOME

The construction of a road from the Protestant Home to the Isolation Hospital, which Dr. Amys proposed to the Council on Monday night, was endorsed by the Trades and Labour Council last night, because it was needed, and also because of the work that would be provided for unemployed man.

Dr. Amys also notified the Council that citizens leave their garbage and ash cans on the streets too long before and after collections are made. He suggested that some steps should be taken to put a stop to this unsightly and careless practice. Householders could arrange to put out their cans on the night before collections were made, and should bring them in the same day. He also declared that the garbage collectors are hampered by the small sized containers that are used by many citizens. The work is thus increased and the efficiency of the system is depreciated. This suggestion was referred to the Property committee.

A CRISIS EXPECTED

Government Takes Definite Steps to Cope With the Strike Situation in London.

HEAVY PENALTY

LONDON, Feb. 6. — (Canadian Press Via Reuter's.) — The Trade Union leaders are contemplating strong action dealing with the revolutionary movement which has led to the unauthorized strike in England, Scotland and Ireland. The leadership has been taken by the Amalgamated Society of Engineers, whose executive has suspended the district committees of Belfast, Clyde and London for violation of rules by participating in unauthorized strikes. Furthermore, the negotiating committee of engineering and shipbuilding trades yesterday manifested their members in Belfast, Glasgow and on the north-east coast, urging that they resume work immediately, pointing out that the strikes weaken the efficiency of Trades Unionism.

(United Press Service.)

LONDON, Feb. 6.—A crisis in the London strikes was expected to be reached to-day, when the engineers and electricians were scheduled to walk out. In the case of the latter, the Government has taken definite steps toward intervention through an order-in-Council placing the workers under the Defense of the Realm Act. The order provided that any person interfering with the city's electrical supply would be subject to six months' imprisonment and $500 fine.

The Government, without directly intervening has also adopted measures to relieve the transportation tie-up caused by the subway strike.

Great numbers of motor lorries had been placed at the disposal of the people who otherwise would have been forced to walk long distances through the slush and snow to their work.

Railwaymen Out.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Feb. 5.—The first step in the direction of threatened extension of the railroad strike beyond local lines in London, was taken last night when some of the drivers on the Brighton and the Southerwestern Road were called out. The union order was issued during the evening, but passenger trains ran until midnight. Freight service, however, was practically suspended following the issuance of the strike order. Early trains to suburbs from Waterloo Station, London terminus of Southwestern, were not started this morning as drivers did not appear. The calling out of locomotive engineers on the line, while fulfilling the treat to call a great strike on Monday, is also looked upon as retort to a letter from Andrew Bonar Law, Government leader in the House of Commons, in which he refused to meet the strikers. It isalso the result of the failure of J. Bromley, Secretary of the Association of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen, to reach a settlement with Sir Albert Stanley, President of the Board of Trade, and Sir Robert Horne, Minister of Labour.

A Motor Service.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Feb. 5.—The Government to-day was still maintaining its attitude that it could not interfere in the strikes now in progress for the reason that they were solely industrial controversies, but the great inconvenience which the London public is suffering has prompted the government to adopt measures of relief until a settlement is reached. These were initiated by the starting of a military motor service in London streets. In this situation the War Office early in the day mobilized more than one thousand motor lorries along the principal routes of traffic to supplement 'buses and take the place of the suspended tubs service. These lorries were manned by military drivers. It is estimated that they will be able to carry two hundred and fifty thousand persons daily. No fare is charged, and particular attention is paid to working women and girls. The strike of waiters and cooks in hotels and restaurants is still inconveniencing thousands of Londoners, but the staffs for these eating places are being recruited from among the unemployed.

WILL OPPOSE SPARTACANS

SOLDIERS MUTINY

(United Press.)

BERLIN, Feb. 6.—The government to-day was understood to have completed its plans for meeting the nation-wide attempt of the Spartacans to seize control scheduled for to-day, (Thursday). Aided by Soldiers' Councils ,the Spartacans are expected to undertake coups simultaneously in Berlin and Weimar, with demonstrations in other important centres. A movement is already under way to strike at both the National Assembly and the presept government, which has been moved to Weimar. Soldiers' Council have sejsed the telegraph facilities in Eisenach and Erfurt, in that district, and a large force of Spartacans and mutinous soldiers were reported yesterday to be marching on Weimar from Gotha, 35 miles to the west.

Meanwhile the Spartacans are reported to have been completely routed from Bremen. Latest advices indicated that the insurgents there, although reinforced from Hamburg and Bremenhaven, has been defeated in sharp fighting by Military Governor Noske's troops and had fled from the city.

BIG STRIKE IN SEATTLE

Sixty Thousand Union Workers Threaten to Go Out.

OTHER STRIKES

(Canadian Press.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. — A strike of approximately sixty-five thousand union workers in nearly every trade and industry was set for ten o'clock to-day, the decision of the Central Labour Council late last night ratifying the time selected previously by a conference of the majority of one hundred and thirty unions affected. A general strike was called in sympathy of between forty thousand and fifty thousand metal trade workers who left the ship yards and contract shops on Jan. 21, to enforce demands for eight and six dollars a day for basic trades, helpers and laborers respectively.

Seattle industrial and commercial life practically will be paralyzed by the strike. The newspapers are expected to suspend. Mayor Hanson and Chief of Police Warren said that they were prepared to handle the situation, should disorders arise.

NATION-WIDE STRIKE.

(United Press.)

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 6. — A nation-wide general strike was threatened to-day by the officials of the Argentine Labor Federations because of the lock-out of the port strikers. The ship-owners declared that the port strikers, who returned to work on Feb. 1st, had not carried out their agreement.

Women Honourably Sacrificed In Their Country's Service

Resolution Adopted by National American Woman Suffrage Association Concerning Treatment of Women During the War.

The appended resolution is being sent out to all the allied countries, and a copy has been received here. The resolution explains itself:

At its last board meeting the National American Women Suffrage Association adopted the following resolutions concerning treatment of women during war:

"Whereas, There is indisputable evidence that in the present war the Central European Powers have not only permitted but have systematically organized and encouraged their armies to commit all forms of sexual offence upon the women of the invaded states; and

"Whereas, Those responsible for the execution of such criminal policy can be ascertained as definitely as those responsible for inhuman treatment toward prisoners in prison camps and to crews from torpedoed vessels; and

"Whereas, Such crimes against women and girls strike at the heart of society and the home, besides being crimes under the laws of war and the conventions of the Hague Tribunal; and

"Whereas, the commissions of such crimes by the Central European Powers presents to the Peace Congress the alternative of ignoring, save by protest, the organized violation of women and girls in time of war, or of taking measures to penalize definitely those responsible for such offences, the penalization to be similar to that contemplated in cases of inhuman prison camps and submarine commanders;

"Therefore, We women of the United States, wishing to join our protest to that of the women of France against toleration of violation of womanhood in war, do hereby resolve to urge—

(1) That definite punishment for crimes against women and girls be provided for by the Peace Congress.

(2) That women so injured by a despicable enemy be considered not as shamed or degraded, but as having been honorably sacrificed in their country's service.

(3) That the committee in charge of these resolutions deliver them, duly authenticated and with the number of women represented by the state associations subscribed thereto, to all Governments called to the Peace Congress, and arrange for their publication in every allied country.

Big Shipbuilding Firm Is Moving From Clyde to British Columbia

Says British Labour Must Learn That Production is the Life Blood of a Nation.

OUTLOOK BETTER

LONDON, Feb. 6. — Discussing the decision of Messrs. Yarrow to gradually discontinue their shipbuilding on the Clyde and increase their work at Esquimalt, Vancouver Island, one of the directors of the company today freely admitted that their action in transferring the business was due to the better industrial prospects of British Columbia and the discouraging labor outlook in Scotland.

Output Greater.

The wisdom of the action of Yarrows is supported by Lynden Macassey in the Times, who after stating that at Esquimalt, owing to the output per man being anything up to 250 per cent. greater than on the Clyde, points out that wages are normally much higher. He asks if British labor, with the sands so quickly running out, will not learn that production is the life blood not merely of a nation but the paramount condition of their own prosperity.

The Times' shipping corespondent describing a recent visit to Vancouver, contrasts the activity of Tacoma and Seattle to the comparatively stagnation of Victoria and Vancouver and insists that the capacity for development of the latter's shipbuilding plant, including Yarrows', which was acquired from the British Marine Railway Company five years ago. Yarrows' Managing Director is at present in Vancouver, it is stated, preparing for the removal.

Presentation to Ed. Hanrahan

Well Known Local Singer is Leaving for Overseas.

At St. Peter's Cathedral last evening, Mr. Edward Tanrahan, who has been a faithful member of the choir for a number of years, was presented with a handsome gentleman's companion, by the members of the choir, on the event of his leaving the city; also the following address:

Mr. Ed. Hanrahan,

Peterborough, Ont.:

Dear Ed.,—It is with profound regret, that we learn you are about to take your departure from our midst.

We undoubtedly, will feel your loss and your glorious voice will be so much missed in the old Cathedral.

You were ever a faithful and painstaking member, always and at all times ready, regardless of rain or shine, to be at choir practise, and to lend your fine voice in singing the praises of God.

It is useless on our part to give you praise as words fail to do the necessary act.

That our appreciation of your past services and our good wishes for your future success, may be expressed in a small manner, we beg you to accept, together with kindest sentiments of our hearts, this little token of your friends, you have left behind you in Peterborough.

The Members of St. Peter's Cathedral Choir, Peterborough, February 5th, 1919.

Mr. Hanrahan, who was completely taken by surprise, expressed his appreciation of the handsome gift and kind words that had been expressed concerning him. Rev. Father Phelan in a few words expressed the regret of both himself and the entire parish, at losing such a valued member of the choir as Mr. Hanrahan. Mr. Minnicolo and several other members also made short remarks.

Havelock Man Fined for Trespass

Mr. Alex. Primrose was summoned before County Magistrate Langley on Monday afternoon on a charge of trespassing on the C.P.R. property recently. Although Mr. Primrose swore he was on business on the occasion of the alleged trespass, the Magistrate said that the Railway Act upheld the contention of the C.P.R. constable that it was a trespass, and he would have to find against the defendant accordingly, and fixed the fine at $2.00 and costs, or $6.75 in all. The fact that the C.P.R. constable can secure a conviction at his own will in cases where business men have occasion to go on C. P.R. property in order to transact business with the company, has aroused great resentment in town, and in all probability representations will be made to the officials of the company to remedy such a state of affairs.—Havelock Standard.

PROSPECTS BRIGHTER

Draft of League of Nations May be Ready in Time to Present to the General Peace Congress This Week.

POLICE FORCE

(United P ess.)
(Ed. L. Keene.)

PARIS, Feb. 6. — The prospects for the completion of the international draft of the League of Nations constitution in time to present it to the general peace congress this week were understood to be brighter to-day.

As the special committee having the work in charge considers the various problems contained in the twenty two articles of the tentative programme, the conferees are said to be rapidly approaching an agreement, the speed with which the details are handled increasing as the sessions continue. The two questions presenting the greatest difficulty of solution apparently are:— "Means by which the League will enforce its decisions; apportionment of representation on the administrative council of the League."

- Effective Weapon.

The majority of the conferees are believed to have agreed that the most effective weapon of the League will be an economic boycott, made possible through a blockade enforced by an international fleet to which naturally Great Britain and the United States would be the chief contributors. But some members of the committee are said to hold out for the substitution of moral for physical force. These members declare that the main subject of the League really is the understanding between the nations that will render wars unlikely, rather than forcible prevention of wars after they have been caused by political or economic jealousies. Those who favor an international police force agree to this premise yet hold that the league must possess some weapon in case any misunderstandings do arise.

Further conflict over representation arises from the fear of small nations that the big powers will dominate the league. Efforts are being made to dispel this fear, which is held to be unfounded.

Baltic Docked This Morning

Over Two Thousand Troops on Board—Speedy Home Coming.

HALIFAX, N.S., Feb. 6.—"The one thing Canada must remember above all other things in connection with the returning of her gallant soldiers is that every person connected with the work in England is doing his utmost to provide not only for their speedy home-coming but for every possible comfort."

"The Canadian soldiers are receiving every consideration, those in charge of the work basing their activities on both the splendid work our men have done in France, and the comforts to which they were accustomed before the war. Present indications are that they will be home by August.

This was the statement of Colonel Walter Gow, for two years deputy minister of Canada's overseas forces, who arrived here to-day on board the Baltic. The Baltic docked at 8 o'clock this morning after an uneventful trip. She had on board 67 officers, 27 cadets and 2,095 other ranks, of whom 9 officers, 4 cadets and 670 N.C.O.'s and men were for the Toronto district. Two special train loads of Toronto troops were despatched during the morning for Quebec, where their clearance papers were made out.

German Citizens Heavily Fined By Americans

By Webb Miller.
(United Press.)

AMERICAN HEADQUARTERS IN GERMANY, Feb. 6. — Two hundred and twenty-one German citizens have been tried in American military courts during the past week, of whom 198 were convicted. This is a big increase, due largely to more drastic enforcement of regulations. The majority of complaints were for purchase of American foodstuffs. Heavy fines were imposed.

Fourteen women, convicted of associating with American soldiers, were fined from 100 marks ($25) upward, and sentenced to as much as a month's imprisonment. One German dealer was fined for using the American flag for commercial purposes. He sold stationery, on which the American and German flags were crossed. Three of the conviction were for dissemination of enemy propaganda amongst troops.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1919.

THE CASE OF THE FIREMEN.

Organized labour in Peterboro as represented by the Trades and Labour Council, is seeking to establish an eight hour day for the employees of the city. In doing so they will probably find a sympathetic attitude on the part of the City Council, except in as far as the members of the fire department are concerned. It is said to be the intention to press for an eight hour day for the firemen as well as for the other civic employees, but those who are favoring such an extreme measure surely have not considered what an eight hour day for the fire department would mean. At present the two platoon system is under discussion. It calls for two shifts, working twelve hours each, and the adoption of the method is sure to bring from the underwriters a call for the employment of more firemen, which will run the cost of operating the department up to a figure that a few years ago would have been considered staggering. If an eight hour day were to be put in force it would necessitate three shifts and the employment of some forty men, which would be a ridiculously over-manned department for a city the size of Peterboro. The firemen, would according to the general impression be perfectly satisfied with the two platoon method, which is a great improvement over the present system, and there is no agitation for an eight-hour day.

CANADA'S FINANCIAL STRENGTH.

A little booklet just off the press and issued by the firm of A. E. Ames and Co., contains much valuable information in regard to Canada's financial status. The booklet, which bears the title, "War Loans, Resources and Progress of Canada," has been prepared to answer the numerous inquiries which are being received about Canada's War Loans. It is interesting to note that $1,400,000,000 is the total investment by Canadians in their war issues, upon which there is annually distributed in interest to the holders, $78,000,000. The booklet points out the vast extent of the security behind Canada's bonds, the wonderful natural resources, and the progress and healthy development Canada is making in all fundamental directions. Appreciation of this is coming from all quarters. For instance the New York Times "Annalist" in a recent statement said: "In developed wealth, Canada is the richest country in the world to-day in proportion to her population." A glance at the table of contents of the pamphlet shows that a mass of interesting information has been compacted in the little volume, including charts and comparative tables about Canada's Loans, her national wealth and income, investments of the United States and Great Britain in Canada, the record achievement in the matter of loans, the war debts of the belligerents, the effect of the income tax and other important matters.

PROTECTING THE PEDESTRIANS.

Chief of Police Thompson in the traffic regulations that he has published for the benefit of the public generally has earned the gratitude of those who have to travel around on foot. There has been in the minds of many motorists, judging by their actions, an impression that the pedestrian has no rights on the street. It has been a common custom of many car drivers to accelerate through the medium of loud and incessant "honking" of the horn the pace of any citizen who ventured to cross the street in front of a car. This habit is exasperating to many people who recent being "squawked" at by every gasoline-propelled vehicle that happens to come along, and so Chief Thompson's warning is timely and popular.

For the benefit of those who failed to read the first notice the sections regarding the matters referred to are re-published. They are as follows:

Pedestrians who have started to cross a street at a reasonable distance from an approaching motor car, have the right to do so at the pace of a nordinary walk, and the motorist has no right to compel pedestrians to rush or run for safety by the insolent blowing of the horn.

Slacken sped when approaching pedestrians, blow the horn if thought necessary to warn them, but permit them to cross the street in safety at a reasonable pace. Remember there are old people invalids and children.

PLAYING THE GAME.

The Peterborough junior hockey club may not win the championship honours, but it is certain that by their sportsmanlike conduct last night they have earned a very warm spot in the hearts of lovers of sport for sport's sake. The Peterborough youngsters showed that they are anxious to play the game, and although by reason of the inexcusable action of the Lindsay club in refusing to play at the scheduled hour, the Peterborough team virtually won the district honours by default, they refused to accept such a hollow victory, but decided to win victory or receive defeat on the ice. In doing so the Peterborough club has demonstrated that there is something more to hockey than the mere winning of games. Victory is not everything when players have the proper spirit, and the action of the local team in throwing away the certainty of a victory through default for the chance of winning or losing in an actual game is something upon which the players and officers are to be congratulated.

MASTERS AND SLAVES

The world's work always has been done by the solid, practical men and women of the type which trusts to its own resource and energy to meet every new hardship placed in its way. These same men and women, with feet planted squarely upon the solid earth and heads upraised in calm and independent self-respect, will be found doing the work of the world to-morrow.

By temperate habits, in thought no less than in living the daily round—by thrift, by self-denial, by remembrance of eternal principles, by honest amusement and recreation, by the open-hearted hospitality that springs from goodwill to all—these self-sufficient and unafraid fathers and mothers of happy families have come to constitute when needed the master strain of influence, the well-spring of constructive citizenship, the power that drives progressive movements, the bulwark braced against the temptations of the demagogue.

This is the truly wealthy class, with its priceless investment in the country it loves of cheerful homes enriched with the manifold blessings of robust manhood, modest womanhood and childhood patiently and earnestly taught the duties of restraint, respect and discipline as well as the rights of a life lived without sloth or whining.

These are the homes from which the strong youth of the land went out, at the first threat of organized oppression, to guard the heritage of opportunity and serve their God. In war, the country leaned upon those trusted citizens at home. They saved food, where possible. They gave to funds to help the soldiers of their families. They subscribed to the war loans. And, in the quiet hours of sudden bereavement, when life-long hopes were shattered and the yearning came to speak words of farewell never to be heard, their souls stood out in all the majesty of faith.

The staunch spirit, rising above the terrors of war, made Democracy's triumph. The national fighting power had root in their trust and stamina.

Public opinion is not made by talk. It is made and directed by the healthy active minds and bodies and the stout, untainted hearts of those who work by day and sleep by night. The country's hope in war, they are again, the country's hope in peace, and they will not be found wanting.

Red Bolshevism's snarl at the "bourgeosie" is Envy's sneer at Merit. The triflers may have their little days, but their sun will wane in obedience to laws over which they have no control. The slaves of passion, they cannot hope to triumph over its masters.—Montreal Star.

THE CASE OF THE KAISER.

The demand for the punishment of the Emperor William has been world-wide. In all the allied countries there is a conviction that he was chiefly responsible for the war; that while he tried at first to seem to be in the background, and claimed that he was driven into the war to defend Germany from her enemies, it was his hand which directed the Austrian demands on Serbia, and that he could easily have averted the conflict if he had so desired. That he should now escape after millions of his deluded subjects have been killed and staggering burdens in various forms are to be imposed on the Germans who live, does not seem to be in accordance with justice. World-wide is the hope that means may be found of bringing him out of his refuge in Holland and within the reach of justice. There are, however, occasional dissenting voices. One of these is the voice of an eminent Englishman, Lord Halifax, who has written to the London Times. "This demand for the extradition of the Kaiser," he writes, "is madness. We war with nations, not individuals. The Kaiser is no worse than his countrymen. Do we intend to ask for the extradition of all who are concerned in the guilt of the war, and if not, why not? . . . The appeal is to force, not to law. Germany has lost and the Allies, if they can enforce their demands, can imprison and behead the Kaiser, if they are so minded, but if they do they will be guilty of an act which posterity will condemn, as it has condemned the treatment of Napoleon, and which will invest the Kaiser with a halo and an interest in the imagination and hearts of men which at this moment he has last forever. 'Vengeance is fine, I will repay, saith the Lord.' And surely Divine justice, and the penalty that justice exacts, was never in the history of the world more conspicuously exhibited than it is to-day in the case of the Kaiser and the German people."

There may be grave international difficulties in obtaining the extradition of the Kaiser from Holland. Lord Halifax, it wil be noted, does not speak of these. His view is that even if the person of the Kaiser can be brought withing reach of the Allies, he should not be more severely punished than any other German.

If the Kaiser can be brought out of Holland, it might be a good idea to postpone the ultimate sentence for a period of years, and in the meantime send him, with his family, to Devil's Island, or some other isolated place to receive every day the fare and the treatment accorded by the Germans to the British prisoners of war. As a guarantee that the treatment is correct, strictly according to the German example to be followed, the Kaiser and his party might be placed under the care of a guard carefully chosen from the ranks of the British Prisoners who are now coming home from Germany. After say five years' treatment of that kind, the question of what further punishment should be imposed might then be taken up. Perhaps the tender consideration which Lord Halifax sems to desire for the Kaiser might then be more acceptable to the Allies than it is likely to be at present. —Journal of Commerce.

MURDERS BY HUNDREDS.

New York City's Appalling Totals for the Year.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6. — Two hundred and eighty-two persons were murdered in New York City in 1918 according to the annual report of Dr. Charles Norris, Chief Medical Examiner. The murder figures show a decrease over the 1917 record by 17. Of those who were killed 163 were shot to death, 39 were stabbed, 45 were victims of assault, one was burned, two were poisoned, and nine were killed by illuminating gas. Strangulation accounted for two, infanticide for 17, and the other was dragged under a train. In the highway accidents motor vehicles accounted for 643 deaths.

LUTHER BURBANK HAS NEW WHEAT

Is Result of Eleven Years of Experiments.

CLAIMS FOR "SUPERWHEAT"

It Can Be Grown Anywhere From Labrador to Patagonia and Will Yield 49.88 Bushels Per Acre Without Special Cultivation— It Grows Quickly and Is an Exceedingly Early Grain.

AMERICAN wheat is one of our most important fighting assets. "Food will win the war." (You've heard the slogan before.) Of course, meats, like beans, peas, and lentils, fats, sugar, and leguminous foods, rich in muscle-building material, are also necessary; but nothing can take the place of wheat as a staple food. If grown in cold climates it contains about 10 per cent. of gluten, its most valuable constituent; if grown in hot climates, as much as 15 per cent.

Now comes Luther Burbank to the fore again. After experiments extending over eleven years, he assures us that he has evolved a "superwheat" containing an unusually high percentage of gluten, and so sturdy that it may be grown anywhere from Labrador to Patagonia. Burbank's wheat resembles the prize-winning "Marquis," but has very large white, flinty kernels."

The new wheat is an exceedingly early grain — the earliest of some four or five hundred varieties which Burbank has been growing. He has tested it by comparison with sixty-eight of the best wheats of the world, and finds it superior in yield, uniformity, and all other desirable characteristics. It grows vigorously to a height of four feet on good ordinary soil, and thrives in almost any but the most extreme climates. On average valley soil, without special cultivation, care, or fertilizing, it produced in the past summer 49.88 bushels an acre.

Like all other wheats grown in California, the new wheat is a winter wheat. It was tried for baking bread, and the results of the tests were highly satisfactory. The loaves were of good color, texture, and taste. A high percentage of gluten in bread is of importance, because the food value of the bread depends upon it. Gluten has a high food value, and contains from 15 to 18 per cent. of nitrogen in addition to carbon hydrogen, oxygen, and sulphur.—Popular Science Monthly.

Old Newspapers.

If new paper has gone up in price 600 per cent., waste paper has increased its selling price correspondingly. The man who has a dump of old newspapers holds treasure-trove.

The quantity of paper used in London is enormous. The shavings alone cut from the edges of magazines and papers weigh something like 3,000 tons a year. The contents of waste-paper baskets in business houses of the city — just old envelopes and torn letters—weigh something like 700 tons in a year.

Old ledgers alone which are turned out of the London offices weigh 1,000 tons every year.

The wastage in newspapers is prodigious. One firm alone of pulpers deals with 60,000 tons every year.

In fact, nearly all old newspapers are repulped eventually. At the present juncture there can be no doubt that 85 per cent. of the paper actually used by the newspaper press finds its way back to the machines and appears as a new paper within six months.

The weekly yield of waste paper for all London even in war time may be placed as high as 800 tons.

A rather sad side of the paper shortage is the way that books are being pulped. Old books are worth as waste paper ten times what the second-hand book dealer could offer. In this way many treasures are doubtless disappearing. Only the other day a collector saved a set of one of the early Thackeray "numbers" which had come in among a lot of old magazines.—Tit-Bits.

Dragon Tattooed on Arm.

INDORSE YPRES MEMORIAL.

British Want City's Ruins to be a Lesson to Posterity.

LONDON.—The decision of the Belgian Government to maintain Ypres in its present condition as a permanent war memorial is endorsed heartily by the British press and public opinion.

"Ypres will be a memorial," says The Westminster Gazette, "in which future generations may learn the horrors of war. There is nothing more impressive than the sight of the stricken city with the skeletons of its once wonderful buildings rising gaunt into the sky.

"In a sense there are few things more beautiful. To patch it up would be impossible. Every one, therefore, will welcome the decision that the remains of the old city shall be left intact instead of being cleared away.

"The East abounds in the ruins of the last vestiges of once glorious civilizations which have been overthrown. Ypres will stand for centuries as a reminder that civilization itself cannot be overthrown, and as a monument to a generation sacrificed in its defence."

CALGARIANS FLOOD OTTAWA WITH WIRES THAT ARE "COLLECT"

Bill for $500 in Telegraph Tolls Will Be "Reversed" on Senders

Ottawa, Feb. 4.—Calgary went on the rampage Friday over the Government taking a particular building for a military hospital there. Several ministers, notably Sir Thomas White Sir James Lougheed and Hon. F. B Carvell, were flooded with telegrams, and they were all sent "collect."

It is figured out that the aggregate cost of them is over $500. The Government has thought the matter over and decided that he telegrapl companies will be instructed to "collect" from the senders rather than billing the government.

An exception will be made in the case of a message forwarded by city members which gave expression to the objection. The rest were along the same lines and evidently forwarded simply to add weight to the propaganda.

Virus of Influenza, Mumps and Trench Fever Isolated

British Medical Officers Announce Identification of Globular Cells—New Light Shed on Measles, Typhus and Nephritis.

LONDON, Feb. 6. — The virus of trench fever and those of influenza and of some forms of nephritis have been isolated and identified according to a report submitted to the director-general of the army medical service in France by a number of army medical officers who have been investigating the causes of these diseases.

The report which is promised soon is signed by Major-Gen. Sir John Rose Bradford, consulting physician with the British Expeditionary Forces in France, Capt. Dashford, and Capt. Wilson, and is printed in the British Medical Journal. According to this official statement the virus in each case has been proved to be a minute globular cell, varying in size and behaviour in the three types of the disease.

Investigations which have been conducted have resulted, it is believed, in the isolation of the germs of mumps, measles and typhus, the cause of which have hitherto been obscure and the bacilli of which have never before been isolated.

THE GUELPH BOARD OF HEALTH WANTS AN AMBULANCE.

GUELPH. — At the organization meeting of the 1919 Guelph Board of Health at the City Hall attended by J. A. Hewitt, J. M. Yates, Mayor Carter, Dr. H. O. Hewitt and Inspector Merewether, Mr. Hewitt was elected chairman of the board and Mayor Merewether secretary. The meeting discussed the question of the purchase of an ambulance, and was strongly in favor of the city getting an improved type. The board also favored the establishment here of the Victorian Order of Nurses, and will recommend its endorsation to the council. The members feel however that they should be represented on the Board of Directors if the order is started in Guelph.

MUSIC IN THE HOME

WANTED— A MASTER SYMPHONY

Much is expected of our composers and poets in their era of struggle be and poets in this era of struggle between right and wrong among the peoples of the earth. The sorely tried heart of humanity seems actually to cry out to the great composers and poets of our time for some form of expression for its sufferings, hopes and exultations. What could express the mingling of these emotions and preserve forever alive the spirit of this age better than a master symphony.

The composer, with his fine sensibilities, undoubtedly is conscious of this call and longs to answer it, but the bread and butter cares for the family and self tie him down to routine work, or at least seriously hamper his response.

The call, in fact, should be heeded as much as by our wealthy champions of culture as by our composers.

SINGING DID IT

From London comes an interesting anecdote of music in the field, told in a lecture by Captain Boillot of the French army. On one occasion the men of his company had to make up a lost 10 minutes. He got them singing one of the nonsensical, cumulative songs of which they—like our own Tommies—are so fond, and knowing that if they relapsed into silence the increased pace necessary to cover the extra kilometer would not be maintained, promised some relaxation for the next day if only they would keep on singing all the way. Tried as they were, the sturdy poilus trudged along to the sound of their own voices, and at last reached their destination exactly to time.

RECITALS SHOULD COME

A gentleman over in Chicago has undertaken to give people a good scolding for the tendency in recent years to affect disdain for the piano recital. He points out that such attitude is not, as those who adopt it may think a sign of musical sophistication, but of rather an indication of ignorance. It is granted that his condition may have arisen from the piano's being the most generally possessed, used and abused of musical instruments thereby following out the old saying that familiarity breeds contempt. But the man who is reproving us warns that "familiarity breeds contempt only in the contemptible." Using the vocal recital by illustration, he says "the words of a song, if understood, add to the enjoyment of the setting they have inspired, but it is the music, as music, in a song that is of first importance. If to the listener the words are of the greater import than the music, he is a votary of poetry rather than of music. If a text is needed to make the beauty of good music appreciable, one is not allowing one's imagination to have full play."

This party refers to the piano as "the most complete and self-sufficient of instruments" and claims pre-eminence for it because "not only has it the advantage over all other solo instruments in being complete in itself, but it can be made to produce unlimited harmonic combinations as well as melody in many voices. The piano under the hands of a master, may become a myriad voiced instrument each voice singing its own song, with almost the variety, but not the volume of tone that the orchestra possesses." It is a point well taken that the greatest composers have recognized the piano's pre-eminence from the fact that there are more masterpieces for the piano than for any other instrument.

A paragraph from this man's concluding remarks is of interest. He adds: "A great instrument has inspired great men of the past and present to write great works to be played upon it. Such a combination has stimulated men of interpretive genius to master the intricate technique of piano playing until each has become a medium for transmitting through his own individuality, on his chosen instrument the inspiration of the composer.

"If you really love music—if you want to learn to love it—if you would feed your soul with beauty, the great pianists in recital every time you can. I do not hesitate to assure you, if you need such an assurance, that no music can be more illuminative, more thrilling, more understanable, if the ears of your imagination are open, than that for the piano played by a master."

VALUE OF MEMORIZING

If the student finds memorizing difficult he should add another half or full hour to his practice time, to be spent in this branch of his work. Added to all of this task of establishing a repertory, the musician must also keep himself on a plane of general culture equal to that of members of any profession. This requirement, the part of the musician makes of the task of music study the most exacting, the most difficult of all branches of professional culture, for with the requireemnts of the mastery of the Science of Music, there is the stupendous task of mastering the technical difficulties of practical musical art, with the absolute requirement of many hours of daily practice.

THE SINGER AND HIS AUDIENCE

When a master singer, with an accompanist at the piano who sees eye to eye with both singer and the composer and makers of the songs has arranged a suite or programme of carefully adjusted and arranged master pieces and the room has been filled and the first chords sighs its invitation, then hope springs in the heart that for one brief hour life is going to seem worth while.

MUSIC IN THE SCHOOLS

The success of music in the school will depend on the skill of special teachers of this subject and on the ability of all teachers to appreciate its importance and to teach it in the absence of special teachers. For this reason all schools for the preparation of teachers should provide good general courses in vocal music and in music appreciation. A few of the strongest should maintain courses for the preparation of special teachers, directors and supervisors, as should also all conservatories and college departments of music.

WHAT MUSIC IN THE HOME MEANS

A well known educator, in discussing the subject of music, especially singing, in the home, said:

"We have made music too much of a secluded art. It has been something to be performed, not used. We have associated it with the piano teacher and arduous practice, with the trained soloist and quartet in church, and with the occasional, high-priced concert. We listen too much and we sing too little.

"The thing to do is to give song a regular and definite place in the home life. Let the little ones imitate our own lullabies and carols. Teach them very early fingerplays and motion songs. Turn their games into song.

"Disdain not the toy musical instruments: whistles, kazoos, jewsharps, tiny pianos. When you use canned music, don't merely listen to it, sing with it.

"Revive the old custom of a regular singing period. Try to have it daily, between the dark and the daylight. Always have it on Sunday.

"You may be proud if you can help develop a musical artist in your home. It is better if you can encourage a singing heart."

WHAT THE PHONOGRAPH DID

The problems of the convalescent soldier is one that is closely associated with music in the minds of many thoughtful students of reconstruction problems. Again and again, from the hospitals of France and England come stories of the use of music for shell-shocked minds and nerves. One army nurse recently recounted the story of a fine, young French officer who was brought into the hospital where she was stationed, suffering from the loss of both speech and hearing. He could not hear the roar of the big guns nor the loudest shout. Finally some one suggested trying him with music, and a record of the "Marseillaise" was put on the phonograph in his ward. To the astonishment of every one present he began to sing as soon as the opening bars of the song had been played, speech and hearing returning, simultaneously. The medical explanation was that the music set in vibration certain nerves that louder noises were powerless to stir.

Labour Council Rejected Motion to Exclude Politics

Will Also Ask Mr. Burnham for Details of His Proposal to Establish Minimum Wage Board—Labour Council Has Always Discussed Political Questions Affecting Interests of Workers.

LATE SESSION LAST NIGHT

The Trades and Labour Council last night apparently discovered the beguiling paths that lead the City Fathers to late sessions, meandering over, under, around but not always through questions that seem to receive more than necessary discussion that is not infrequently irrelevant. An unusual volume of communications occupied considerably more time than is usually devoted to that order of business, and in the end the whole budget was transferred to a special committee to be condensed and presented in a compendium at the next meeting.

Some of the resolutions introduced subjects that produced protracted debates, and the number of subjects seemed to be increased in the proportion of the exceptionally large attendance. Most of the Unions were well represented. Some of them had all their delegates present, and the narrow hall was overcrowded. As the evening wore on past eleven bells, President Colwell intimated that parliamentary procedure must be adhered to in future, to the effect that a delegate may only speak once on any subject until all the others who wish to discuss it have done so.

Mr. Burnham's Motion.

Mr. J. H. Burnham's announcement that he intends at the next session of Parliament to submit a motion for the establishment of a minimum wage board in connection with the Labour Department and machinery for the determination of a standard-of-living cost and its maintenance, was one of the subjects upon which argument centred for a time. Delegates quoted Senator Robertson's statement that the Dominion Government had jurisdiction over only those companies that held Federal charters, the railways for example. Railway employees, they continued, had been granted, under the McAdoo award, a minimum wage and the eight-hour-day. Hence, they contended, Mr. Burnham must have known that the object of his motion had already been accomplished.

Mr. Burnham's letter did not escape the suspicion of ulterior motive, remarked by some members, but they emphasized their sympathy with the movement and with any results he might see beyond their vision. An amendment to file the communication was defeated, and the motion was carried requesting Mr. Burnham to explain his proposal and the seeming discrepancy between Senator Robertson's and Mr. Burnham's expressions.

Eight-Hour Day for Firemen?

A delegate suggested that the City Council should establish the eight-hour day for municipal employees.

"I hope Alderman Murray will not forget this when he is with the Council," was the reminder to the only Labour Alderman present.

"Do you mean the firemen too," enquired Alderman Murray.

"The firemen too," was the reply.

Picture Operators' Sign.

The Moving Picture Operators drew the attention of the delegates to their Union emblem that is flashed upon the screens of all the local theatres, stating that it should be greeted by applause from all those who are in sympathy with organized Labour.

This subject was followed by a question as to whether the city police were employed at the rinks at which they had been seen in uniform. Several speakers declared that the police were thus depriving other men from earning money as special constables, and there were enough idle men to-day, it was added, for all such "odd jobs." It was mentioned that policemen also seemed to be engaged at the theatre.

The Restaurant Question.

The Labour men's municipal committee gave a fairly complete report of the City Council's actions on Monday night. They admitted that they didn't wait for the adjournment, but it was after midnight when they departed. The re-opening of the restaurant question elicited a doleful account by one delegate of how he had spent his first Sunday in Peterborough unable to get breakfast or dinner, and finally went to a hotel for supper, where he got his first meal that day for sixty cents. "This is the only town in Canada," he said. "where they force the restaurants to close. I the ordinary man. I see no harm in want to see justice and fair play for selling ice cream on Sunday, if that is the difficulty."

The Trades Council apparently does not favour any approach to a wide open Sunday, but they feel that restrictions can be placed upon pianolas and other musical instruments on Sunday without closing up the eating places. This question was deferred until the next meeting when the opinion of the delegates will be obtained.

What Is Politics?

The report of the special committee that undertook and carried out the organization of a branch of the Independent Labour party paved the way to a resolution that the introduction of party politics on the floor of the Council be prohibited, and that the Council endorse no candidate of any political party except he be a member in good standing of a local union recognized by the Trades Congress of Canada.

The resolution was defeated after prolonged discussion, and an amendment that the question be laid on the table for twelve months carried.

Delegates who declared their support of Labour men only, pointed out that the trades Council's platform and activities were necessarily connected with political questions. Hence, if the resolution was approved the Council would be prevented from participating in movements in the interests of organized and unorganized Labour that were political in their import and objectives.

One the other hand, it was predicted that if politics conected with elections crept into the Council animosities might be engendered among members whose opinions and party allegiance would be affronted.

Again, it was argued that the resolution would sever the Independent Labour party from the Trades Council, whose interests were common and bound up together. A reply was made that the Labour party might build up a membership in which organized Labour would be represented by a minority, and yet it could exert an influence over the Trades Council if the existing inter-relation was preserved.

Other delegates denounced the resolution and the limitations it would place upon the Council's activities. They emphasized the importance of political interests in the past, and dismissed the likelihood of dissention where none had been previously experienced.

Bolshevik Will Accept

Conditions Laid Down by the Allies Have Not Been Fulfilled.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Feb. 6. — The Supreme Council, on receiving the acceptance by the Russian Bolshevik Government of an invitation to attend the conference on Prince's Islands, immediately made arrangements to send a joint commission of two representatives each of the five great powers to meet representatives of the Soviet government.

It appears, however, according to the Havas Agency, that the conditions laid down by the Allies for the holding of the Prince's Island conference has not been fulfilled because, for one thing there is nothing to show that a truce has been arranged between the various Russian governments. For another thing, other organized groups of Russians have either definitely refused or shown themselves disinclined to meet the Bolshevik delegates. Their absense it is pointed out would cause the Prinkipo meeting to fail of attaining its principal object, which was to meet various factions in Russia and bring them to an agreement.

YOUNG CHORUS GIRL SAYS LIFE ON STAGE SOON LOSES GLITTER.

BUFFALO, Feb. 8. — A burlesque troupe, playing at one of the local playhouses this week lost one of its members when Allie George was taken into custody by Mrs. Kathryn Gunn and Miss Jeanne Gray, policewomen. The girl who is but 15 years old, was not displeased with her arrest, however, she told the policewomen.

The girl is accused of running away from her home in Atlanta, Ga., several months ago and gradually working her way north into Canada.

Upon reaching Toronto she is said to have become enamored with the grease paint and tinsel and joined the burlesque chorus. Although she was the second from the end in the first line of the chorus, she said, the first impressions had been rudely jolted by the realities of life behind the scenes.

Allie George was arrested upon the complaint of her parents. Her stage name was Louise Daley. She is at the detention home awaiting the arrival of her parents.

"SOCIALIST EISNER AFFECTS ALL POMP OF ROYAL MONARCH

Lifeguards in Gorgeous Uniforms And Lackey in Livery

Berne, Feb. 4.—The newspapers here are full of amusing stories concerning the stately manner in which Kurt Eisner, the Bavarian premier, traveled to Berne to attend the Socialist and Labor conference, and which is said to have equalled the pomp of former German monarchs. Eisner occupied a luxurious saloon car, and was accompanied by lifeguards in splendid uniforms. The railway employees at the stations where his train stopped, were dressed in their best uniforms and wore white gloves.

Eisner is the only delegate to the conference who has a lackey before the door of the hotel at which he is saying. The lackey, a portly Bavarian is dressed in livery.

WILL WELCOME THE RETURNED SOLDIERS

On Thursday evening next week, February 13th, the Y.M.C.A. will welcome the returned men in a special way. A social evening will be held on that date when every returned soldier is invited and the programme is being planned so that every man, no matter what his tastes, may be entertained. Games of different kinds will be run off in the gymnasium, baseball, basketball, etc. For those who like bowling, tournaments will be arranged or individual games rolled. The billiard tables invite those who enjoy this pastime. Checkers and chess will provide enjoyment for those who favour these quieter games. A musical programme is being arranged and refreshments will be served. The ladies have a great reputation for making the finest cup of coffee to be had anywhere.

All Men Invited.

The returned men are always welcome at the Peterborough Red Triangle centre, and every day many of the men take advantage of its many advantages, but Thursday night's event is an effort to get the men together in a social way. One of the committee, who has served in France, said that he looked forward to meeting some of his friends who have returned, but whom he has not had a chance to meet since, and no doubt this will afford an opportunity to many of meeting old comrades that they perhaps have not seen since returning. All returned men are invited, whether members of the Great War Veterans or not.

The plans are in the hands of a number of returned men and the programme will be informal, each man choosing to do as he feels inclined. Games will be arranged on arrival of the men. Every returned man is invited to help make the event a big success. The building is in your hands for the night.

Mr. J. H. Burnham is Pleased With Results

Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., is greatly pleased that the local Labour organizations have endorsed his resolution, and he assures them that they will find that it is within the competence and jurisdiction of the Federal parliament. He understands, however, that Mr. G. A. Gillespie and Mr. W. H. Bradburn, and possibly Mr. G. N. Gordon also will be candidates for the Toronto House at the next election, and it would be well to get their support. "I have never yet been defeated in a Labour movement at Ottawa and don't expect to be now," said Mr. Burnham.

Letters Received.

Letters have been received by Mr. Burnham from Mr. T. Toons, secretary of the Independent Labour Party, and Mr. W. Stevens, secretary of the Trades and Labour Council, endorsing the resolution regarding a minimum wage. Mr. Toons' communication was in the nature of an inquiry as to the jurisdiction of the Dominion House to introduce such legislation, having been informed that it was a Provisional issue.

A LAMENT FROM THE TRENCHES.

I suppose we're a lot of heathen—
Don't live on the angel plan—
But we're sticking it here in the trenches,
And doing the best we can.

While preachers over in Canada,
Who rave about "Kingdom Come,"
Ain't pleased with our ability
And are wanting to stop our rum.

"Water," they say, "would be better."
Water! Great Scott! Out here?
We're up to our knees in water —
Do you think we are standing in beer?

Oh! It sounds all right from a pulpit,
When you sit in a cushioned pew,
But try four days in the trenches
And see what water will do!

They haven't the heart to say "Thank you"
For figfiting in their behalf;
Perhaps they object to our smoking!
Perhaps it's a fault to laugh.

Some of these coffee-faced blighters,
I think must be German-bred;
It's time they called in a doctor,
For it's water they have in the head!

The Squair family is one of the few families who have planted as well as cut down. On the Squair farm there are eight acres of pines, planted by hand 12 years ago, and many of these trees are now 15 feet in height.

Price Changes in the Metal Markets

Prices Have Had a Wild Career During the War Period.

Changes that have taken place in the price lists during the week indicate that the process is developing that will bring the buyers and sellers nearer to the point where they can proceed and do business. There's a big need for an acceleration of this movement, because in some sections it is quite evident that the holding back and waiting policy is going to be carried to a dangerously long extent. Steel plate is one of the greatest lines imported. In fact, for the fiscal year ending March, 1918, the imports of plates amounted to $4,569,231. The price has had a wild career during the war period in this country. They reached a point as high as 15c per pound, which is at the rate of $300 per ton for a short interval, and for some time 12c was the prevailing price. Government action placed the figure at 10c, and there it rested at the signing of the armistice. It has declined until now 6c can be stated to be the base price for plate at Canadian warehouse. This price came from a desire to protect jobbers and dealers against loss of business.

Lower Prices.

Sheets, especially the heavier gauges, invariably follow plate and they have done so, lower prices being quoted.

Steel mills in Canada will be well served if they receive generous orders for rails from the Government now. Their equipment for the most part is intact, and stands as it did when it was part of the war machine, and is capable of very large production. The shutting down ow the steel making plant of the Scotia Steel and Coal Co., and the maintenance of the coal mining staff may mean a surplus production of coal there unless there is sufficient shipping accommodation to relieve the situation.

Scrap Metal.

The scrap metal market remains dull. In fact, "stagnant" is a better word. There are no deals put through, and the chances are that the claims made by the dealers that they are losing money on present operations are quite correct. Dealers are not anxious to buy even at the present battered down list. They fear further drops in prices, and do not care to get caught in the situation to force them to buy.

Machine Tools.

Dealers in machine tools are being asked this week for prices and deliveries on a number of machine tols for the Canadian National shops at Leaside. Sales are being made in several other lines, but they are not yet of sufficient volume to make it appear that anything approaching a revival of buying in machine tools is taking place. Dealers representing some of the large U. S. makers of machine tools report that a very large export business is being developed with Japan, and that big shipments are going forth regularly to that country.—Canadian Machinery and manufacturing News.

Overseas Bride of Peterboro Soldier Arrives in the City

Mrs. H. G. Fletcher Was the Heroine of a Romantic and Pathetic Adventure.

Mrs. Fletcher, the overseas bride of Pte. Fletcher, a Peterboro boy arrived recently in the city and is visiting her aunt, Mrs. J. Smith, 115 Smith street. Before coming to Canada Mrs. Fletcher, who was previously Mrs. Etheridge of Milford was the heroine of a romantic and pathetic adventure.

Early in the war in response to a telegram telling her that her husband Pte. W. H. Etheridge, had been severely wounded and complications had set in, Mrs. Etheridge left for France. Missing the Sunday boat, upon which she hoped to hasten to the bedside of her husband, she was delayed for 24 precious hours at Folkstone. However on Monday she reached Boulogne, and after securing the necessary papers was taken to the hospital in a motor car.

She found her husband had been terribly wounded in the chest and that pleurisy, bronchitis and other complications had set in, owing to the hardship and exposure he had undergone.

The story he was able to tell was that as he was going into action with his comrades he was shot in the chest by a sniper and lay on the battlefield unattended for 3 days and nights. Two comrades were wounded at the same time, but their injuries were not so severe. They carried him seven miles towards the clearing station, but at last they became so exhausted that they laid him down and promised to get assistance. Before they could get away they were killed, and he lay with his two dead comrades suffering agonies.

Weary Hours

After all these weary hours of pain he saw two Germans coming along towards him. "I thought," he said, "It is all up with me, but they proved to be friends. One said, 'Are you wounded, comrade?' I replied 'Yes,' and called their attention to my chest. They did their best to make me comfortable, and said they were wounded men and were making towards our lines. They gave me a drink, and remained with me all night. One took off his coat and made a pillow for my head, and the other covered me with his coat. The next morning two of our snipers came along. They took the Germans up the line, and I was afterwards carried to the clearing station."

Following Week

The following week Pte. Etheridge was removed to Bologne. Mrs. Etheridge said the doctors, nurses and everybody were very kind to him and to her. On the Saturday or Sunday before he died he was asked if there was anything for which he particularly wished. He said he would very much like to see his wife and to have a bit of chicken. The chicken was given to him at once, and a telegram was dispatched for Mrs Etheridge. One day after his wife's arrival he again fancied chicken, and with it champagne, and he was given both. During her stay, Mrs. Etheridge was taken to the hospital each morning after breakfast and remained till night when she was taken back to the hotel in time for supper. She was called out of bed twice. The first time at four o'clock in the morning and the last time at half-past two. On the second occasion she never left her husband until he died at half-past five on the Thursday afternoon.

The Funeral

The funeral took place at eight o'clock the next morning in the beautiful cemetery at Calais, and Mrs. Etheridge accompanied the body to its last resting place, a sad journey by road of 80 miles. Thirty other men were buried in the same grave, and as Mrs. Etheridge was the only mourner, the matron from the hospital accompanied her to the graveside. The funeral was carried out with full military honors, and a nice coffin was provided for each man.

Trying Journey

It was a trying journey to France and back, Mrs. Etheridge was accompanied by an agent of the Y.M.C.A. and she speaks with grateful praise of the kindness shown her. She brought back with her some bandages the German soldiers left with her husband, and a box of cigarettes which were presented to him as a parting gift by the landlord of the White Lion, Witley, whom he assisted in the management of the business before being called to the colors. He had said he would not open the packet until he came back and they could smoke them together. The box, which looks well-worn, bears the indentations caused by several bullets, and for a time preserved his life.

Alsace-Lorraine Represented in German Assembly

Members for "Franco Irredenta" Sit in German Parliament—Ebert Opens the House—Former Berlin Police Chief is Struck From the Role—Oldest Member Will Take the Chair.

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 6.— Friedrich Ebert, German Chancellor, will open the first session of the recently elected German National Assembly at Weimar at three o'clock this afternoon. Despatches from Berlin state that after the meeting of the body is thus opened the chair will be taken by the oldest member of the Assembly, probably Herr Pfannkuch.

The advices report that many members for Alsace-Lorraine have qualified themselves for the first sitting of the Assembly. The name of Herr Eichorn, former chief of the Berlin police department, who was ousted during troubles with the Spartacans, will be struck from the role of membership of the Assembly, as his whereabouts is not known. He will be succeeded by the candidate in his district who received the next largest vote.

AMERICAN COLONEL GIVES FREE ADVICE TO RHEUMATICS

Says It's Sheer Folly For Anyone to Suffer These Days.

Rheumatism can't be cured so long as your system is weak and run down.

You must first build up and get strength to fight off the disease.

Ferrozone cures because it builds up, because it renews the blood and dissolves the Uric Acid and the poisons that cause rheumatism.

It is proved right here that Ferrozone does cure.

Col. H. M. Russ, of Edwards, St. Lawrence Co., one of the fine old heroes of the Civil War, was completely restored by Ferrozone. Read his statement:

"I couldn't get around without a cane, and then only with difficulty.

"Rheumatism took complete control of my limbs.

"Suffering was more intense than hardships on the battlefield.

"When my doctor had done his best I got Ferrozone.

"Then came a quick change.

"Ferrozone gave me comfort at once, eased the pain and took the stiffness out of my muscles.

"I am well to-day Ferrozone cured me completely. I can jump and run like I did forty years ago."

Be sensible about your case. If your present medicine is useless give it up.

Don't experiment again. Ferrozone is known on all sides to be a cure that does cure. Why not get a supply to-day. The sooner you begin Ferrozone the quicker you'll get well. Price 50c per box or six for $2.50, at all dealers, or direct by mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Peterboro Soldier Shot Through Eye By a Hun Sniper

How Pte. W. H. Targett Met His Death—Reverted to Go to France.

The following letter was received by Mrs. Neale Axford, 554 Downie street. It concerns the death of her brother, Pte. W. H. Targett, who was killed in France shorty before the armistice was signed. Pte Targett went overseas with the 93rd Battalion as a Quarter-Master Sergeant but reverted in order to get to France. The letter follows:

7th Can. Inf. Batt.
B. E. F.

Dear Mrs. Axford,—Your letter of Dec. 4th last was handed to me recently I am sorry that you had at that time received no information regarding the death and burial of your brother, No. 195274 Pte. W. H. Targett, I wrote a letter to his mother on the 14th or 15th of October but suppose that my letter must have gone astray.

PTE. W. H. TARGETT.

October 12th at about 6:30 a.m. He was at the time carrying a message for his officer, Capt. Morkill, who was himself wounded a little later. Your brother's body was recovered the next day a task which was danger ous in the extreme as the enemy at that time could observe every movement. On the 14th October I laid to rest his body in the British Military Cemetery at Vis-en-Artois on the Arras-Cambrai Road, his grave being number 9 Row E of Plot 2. Your brother's duties certainly did take him into the firing line, but I suppose like many other brave lads he led his relations to believe that his duties kept him out of the danger zone. He loved you all far too much to tell you things which would have caused you anxiety and worry.

Let me express my deepest sympathy with you in this your sad bereavement.

Yours very sincerely
Geo. J. Gray,
Capt. Chaplain.

Mrs. Neale Axford,
554 Downie street.

Two Thousand Were Cut Off

This year the convention is being held in Calgary and the Chief put $200 in the estimates for expenses.

Ald. Morrison was alone in favour of the chief going to the convention.

"You can learn a lot going to the convention and besides the chief of police goes every year."

"It's too much money," said the Mayor looking at the $200 item, two or three times, and besides he would be away for two or three weeks and then I think he should be at home when this two-platoon system is being started."

"But," persisted Ald. Morrison "the Police Chief goes to these conventions?"

"The same with the Chief of Police he might as well stay at home this year. He won't go with my vote."

The vote lined up as follows:—Against the expenditure, Alds. Hamilton. Gainey. Garside. Turner, and the Mayor. For. Ald. Morrison.

Smoke Helmets

The Chief's item of $250 for smoke helmets was next attacked, with the result that $125 will be spent further, reducing the estimates by $125.

At this stage the mayor had an inspiration. "Why couldn't we get some of the military gas masks for smoke helmets?" he asked.

The Militery authorities are not disposing of them yet," replied the Chief.

"The Chief wants a $200 raise this year," said Ald. Morrison, moving his thumb down the list of estimates He also asks $100 raise for Engineer Pammett.

Ald. Garside—"He gets $1600 at present."

Ald. Morrison—"I understand that he is to get a $100 raise every year."

Mayor—"He has received two raises already and yet he has been on only two years. The additional cost this year is something tremendous and I think that the Chief can afford to wait."

More Headwork

Ald.—"We can't compare the work of the Fire Chief and the Chief of Police. The Fire Chief must use more head work and he risks his life at every fire."

The Mayor—"The Chief of Police says he has burglars and everything else to contend with but of course they both have their stories."

Ald. Turner—"The Fire Chief is on duty 24 hours a day and I don't think $200 raise is too much and besides he doesn't benefit under the two platoon system. The other firemen get the same pay for half the time."

Mayor—"The people thought we were going crazy when we gave Chief Howard $1600 a year and maybe we were."

A compromise was finally made. The Chief was given a $100 raise and Engineer Pammett a $50 increase, further reducing the estimates by $150.

Firemen's Union

"The firemen's war bonus of 15% should be cut off," said the Mayor. "It is only for the duration of the war."

"The firemen tell me they won't stand for taking off the bonus and now that they have formed a local union they are that much stronger," said Ald. Garside, all in one breath.

"Who is boss the firemen or the Fire, Water and Light Committee," asked the Mayor.

Ald. Turner —"The lowest man gets only a little over $1000.

The Mayor —"I give in that is not too much."

The committee decided to continue the bonus indefinitely.

Fire Alarm System

The committee were of the opinion that the generator and the chief's complete fire alarm system was absolutely necessary.

The Mayor—"The chairman should look into the price and see if it can't be reduced. We could go to another place where they are installed and look it over."

Ald. Turner—"We should generate sufficient power to have private alarms for the manufacturers. We could charge manufacturers a rental and in this way we might get enough to pay good interest on our investment."

Where the Sheets were Introduced

| Fire Chief's convention | $ 200 |
| Chief's salary | 100 |
| Smoke Helmets | 125 |
| Engineer's Salary | 50 |
| Extra Hose | 1500 |
| | $1975 |

"We now have an added expense of $7000 by adopting the platoon system," remarked the Mayor.

Ald. Hamilton—"These extra men that will be added to the Fire Brigade should be returned soldiers."

The Mayor —"I think the Chief will look after that."

Permission was given the Chief to sell the two horses at the fire hall at once. The Board of Works team will be used by the Fire Brigade until a new team can be purchased.

Two Fine Trucks come to Peterborough

Sterling Truck

PETERBORO needs trucks—good trucks. That is the big reason I went to Toronto to see Grace Motors, Limited. For they have introduced to Canada the two finest trucks from the American field. Now they've given me the agency for this territory—and I'm proud of it. It means that every individual and every firm in and around Peterboro who has a hauling problem can get the lowest cost, and most efficient service. I want to show these trucks to you. I want to demonstrate their wonderful ability. I won't sell you a truck if you don't actually need it. But I want every man in Peterboro to know how good Sterling and Fulton Trucks are. Come around and see them.

STERLING
HEAVY DUTY TRUCKS

Years have proved that the Sterling wood-inlaid frame means long life to the motor and power plant; minimum idle hours for repairing; and most satisfactory, constant availability—always on the job for service.

For every heavy job you'll find the Sterling the truck of proved, faithful service.

Built in 2½, 3½, 5 and 7 ton sizes—bodies for any specification.

FULTON
1½ TON LEADER

Built by the largest exclusive builders of 1½ ton trucks. The "go-everywhere do-everything" truck of America. It is scientifically designed to haul a 3000-pound load of feathers or pig-iron. You can't feaze the Fulton with a ton and a half of anything.

A pretty useful truck for your business, this Fulton. You only need to see it to recognize its quality. And Fulton owners are getting 14 to 17 miles to the gallon of gasoline.

THE HORRORS OF A HUN PRISON CAMP

The following is an interesting letter that has been received by Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Russell, from their son, Flight-lieutenant Donald Russell, who has recently been released from a German prison. Lieut. Russell is a nephew of Rev. Edgar Russell of Cavan, and is well known in Peterboro. The letter was written on December 17, aboard the Scandinavian, American line. Donald is a former student of the W.C.I. and is well known in this city. Numerous friends will rejoice to learn that he has so well survived the "kindly" treatment he suffered at the hands of the Hun:

Dear Father and Mother:

Here I am, headed homeward soon. I have been in Denmark for the last six days, and have had a wonderfully fine time. The Danish Government entertained all the British officers being repatriated, and they certainly made a success of it. Between freedom once again, fresh food and bags of it, and the splendid hospitality of the Danish people, we have had the time of our lives.

I believe I may be asked to serve for two years more, even after peace is declared, in which case, as I like flying so well, I will sign on for two years. I shall probably have a whole month's leave in Canada; then go hunting Bolsheviks in Russia.

I have fallen in love with Denmark sure enough. Nearly all the better people here speak English. You have no idea of how kind they have been, and when we left there were literally thousands of people on the docks and two or three bands. They cheered and sang as the boat pulled out the excitement was intense.

Oh, my! There is a cyclone blowing and although this is an immense ship the ocean has such a funny motion. I am sure I shall be very seasick, besides there are such pretty nurses, and after seven months of prison life we are very susceptible to feminine charms. In fact two chaps got married in December (not 11)

Later—I have succeeded in putting away a very healthy dinner, and it is still with me.

A Battle in the Air.

I will try now and make up for lapses of correspondence while in Germany. I want to try and forget all about Germany and all the insects (literal as well as otherwise) that dwell therein. I will now tell you some of what happened in the last seven months. On the 17th of May a number of us were up on an O. P. (observation party), and ran across a detachment of the late Richtofen's Circus. A dog scrap ensued.

I got on the tail of an Albatross scout that promptly went into a spin. I followed him down from 12,000 feet to where he stopped spinning. I got a burst in at close range and he went down in flames. In the meantime I had been followed by four Huns, and while trying to get back under my own formation I got a scratch on my cheek, and most of my instruments shot away. I switched emergency tank and headed for home, but another good shot finished my engine, and I finally landed in a heap in some shell holes. The next I remember I was in a field hospital near Bapaume, where I came to with a bandaged head and a knee somewhat bunged up. Three days later I was taken to a Hun hospital for airmen on the aerodrome at Douai. There I met Capt. White, a Canadian pilot. About the first of June I went to Karlsruhe with White and six German sentries to keep us company. All this time we were living on the German soup and black war bread.

An Old Hotel.

At Karlsruhe we were put in an old hotel for eight days in solitary confinement after which they tried to get information about our machines from us, and as we refused they put us back in the room without exercise and not half enough food to live on, and questioned us every day. After we had refused to answer any questions for six days more they gave up, and sent us to the main camp at Karlsruhe. Here the Red Cross provided us with enough food to enable us to live with care. After two weeks there we and seventeen other R.F.C. men, were sent to a camp at Landshut, where R.F.C. people are thoroughly and medically examined. On the way five of us plunged off the train near Ulm, and with 30 biscuits apiece tried to reach Switzerland. After five days in the open, in rain mostly, we could go no farther, and gave ourselves up. At Landshut we were sentenced to 8 days' solitary confinement on bread and water and only 90 grams of bread at that. We finished that and were then put two in a cell and allowed to get our meals sent up from a restaurant in Landshut by the kindness of a Danish government agent. The meals were only just enough to keep me alive.

Too Weak to Escape.

After three weeks we were sent to Strahlsund, which was then a new camp. It was rather awful there, as it was five weeks before any of my parcels arrived and there were no Red Cross arrangements. After three weeks there we were so weak as hardly to be able to walk the two hundred yards to the dinner hall without resting two or three times. We tried to escape but were quite unable to get off the Island. Then I got diphtheria on account of the rotten drainage and the filthiness, and was six weeks in an hospital, where just one nurse treated us like human beings.

While in the hospital I began to see we were making a big drive. After that the Huns became servile, then humble, then abject. On the 15th of December (almost the last day of the armistice) we were sent to Denmark. The last five weeks at Strahlsund were terrible. The Huns kept saying that we would be going the next day, but we never seemed to go.

This is a brief outline of my experience in Germany, without anything said about some of the most horrible brutality, but I don't like to remember anything about that. Now I am free and I can write what I like and say what I think of the Huns. I want to forget how some of our captured Tommies died off like flies from want of food and attention in the German hospitals, and the way that they were worked like slaves till they dropped from starvation, and then were sent away to die. My God! Some of the things were awful.

I shall soon be in England now, and will see about leave to Canada.

DONALD.

New Discovery Will Make "Teething" Easy

Bring Children Through Period Without Distress and Suffering

OTTAWA, Feb. 5.—A discovery of far-reaching importance has been reported to the headquarters of the Canadian Army Dental Corps here by Major F. M. Wells, who has just returned from England, where he has been engaged for the past three years in research work.

Major Wells' research work disclosed the fact that food deficient in its "vitamines" prevents the hardening of the teeth and impairs the general health and structure of bone formation. Through his discovery it will now be possible to eliminate most of the ills consequent upon decaying tooth conditions through a system of proper dieting. It will be possible to bring children through the difficult period known as "teething" without the usual distress and suffering.

It is contended by Major Wells that artificial foods in their relation to child welfare are lacking in the necessary essentials for the proper development and healthy growth of infants.

HAS BIBLICAL SANCTION

Support in Proverbs for "Spare the Rod and Spoil the Child."

The American Humane Education Society thinks it has made a point by showing that "Spare the rod and spoil the child" cannot be found in the Bible, but was written by Samuel Butler in 1663. Butler probably got the alliterative "spare and spoil" from Ralph Venning, who used it in 1649, but the idea goes back to Proverbs 13:24: "He that spareth the rod hateth his son; but he that loveth him chasteneth him betimes." We are with the Humane Society (and the chastened) in questioning the dominance of unselfish love in the average "chastening", but cannot approve of its quibbling as to the quotation, so far as substantial sanction goes.

But most people will be surprised to learn that the exact words were not Scripture, just as they would be to learn that there is no direct statement about the lion and the lamb lying down together. Many still think God tempers the wind to the shorn lamb" is from the Bible, although Sterne quoted it, without credit, from Henry Estienne. Wesley's vague quotation of an ancient Hebrew's, "Cleanliness is next to godliness" sounds like Bible. Numerous passages from hymns are also erroneously ascribed to Scripture.

But proverbs, sacred and secular, cause the most confusion. Much pithy wisdom of far later origin than even the latest dates literary critics assign to the wisdom books of the Old Testament "sounds like Bible." This is especially true of colloquial sayings collected and given a literary form at about the same time the Bible was being turned into English.

Heywood printed his "Proverbs" in 1546, and many of his collection are probably in greater daily use than of the Bible Proverbs. Among the common proverbs first printed by him, are those about haste making waste, looking before leaping, fat in the fire, making hay while the sun shines, striking when the iron is hot, the tide tarrying for no man, ruling the roost, better to bow than break, two heads are better than one, locking the stable after the horse is stolen, all is well that ends well, better late than never, and countless other expressions that are woven into common speech. Franklin contributed other common proverbs worthy to rank with the preferred ones of Scripture.

On the other hand, our literature and our colloquial speech are fairly saturated with phrases of Scripture which are seldom consciously quoted —St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

ASKS ATTENTIVE AGENT TO ACCOUNT FOR HER $11,308

New York, Feb. 3.—Confidential business agents may be all right, but Mrs. Anne Eliza Miller, who came here from Columbus, Ohio, with $11,308 to invest, doesn't think so. Her money is gone now and she is trying to make Daniel E. Wolfe, an insurance broker, of No. 1,700 Broadway, account for it. Wolfe, it is alleged, met the woman from Columbus in February 1917, and in a short time became her business agent, with power of attorney to act for her. Mrs. Miller said she turned the money over to Mr. Wolfe.

The report of the referee appointed by the court says:—"They became close friends and soon developed a relationship of mutual confidence and affection." When Mrs. Miller accompanied a wealthy friend from Columbus, a Mrs. Chittenden, to Central America, Mr. Wolfe gave the former a splendid "send off." He slipped $100 in her pocketbook, sent aboard her steamship a half dozen bottles of champagne and bottles of cognac and cocktails.

When Mrs. Miller asked for an accounting she found all these "favors" itemized and charged against her, even candy, fruit, theatre tickets and social attentions.

Julian T. Wright, the referee declared "entirely fraudulent" the investment of $2,250 in the Dealers' curity Corporation in which Wolfe was the chief figure, and disapproved of an investment of $6,000 in the American Stock Raising Corporation.

MAN SUICIDED AS WIFE'S DEATH FOLLOWS QUARREL

Peter J. Lassen, of Ridgewood, N. J., Takes Poison When Helpmate Passes Away

New York, Feb. 5.— Remorseful because his wife was stricken with heart disease and died when he was quarrelling with her, it is presumed, Peter J. Lassen, a retired business man, of No. 42 South Maple avenue, Ridgewood, N. J., committed suicide a few minutes after her death on Saturday night, it was learned yesterday. He was fifty-eight years old His wife was about fifty-five.

When Miss Lucene Lassen, twenty-two years old, their daughter, returned home from business in Manhattan about eight o'clock, it became known she found her mother apparently in one of her frequent fainting spells and Mr. Lassen striving to revive her. He sent her for Dr. William C. Craig and when the physician arrived assisted him in putting Mrs. Lassen to bed. Her condition so affected Mr. Lassen that Dr. Craig ordered him from the room. He burst in again a few minutes later, and when the physician told him his wife was dying, he suddenly seemed bereft of his senses.

Mrs. Lassen died within a few minutes. The physician and Miss Lassen found the husband lying on a bed in the adjoining room, dead. On a dresser was a cup which had contained poison.

That Mr. Lassen had intended to commit suicide at some time was evinced by the finding of several pounds of the chemical he used in a pan in the cellar of his house. He had also prepared the following note, which was found in a card case in his pocket:—

"Do not make any unnecessary noise or fuss about this. Send to No 42 South Maple avenue, Ridgewood, N. J., for a suit case which contains a complete outfit in which I want and desire to be buried. Have me buried from your place and as cheaply and quietly as possible.

"Please comply with my request as I have directed absolutely. Do not go any other way about it. People at the address given above will pay you. Hastily,

Peterboro Juniors Have a Lead of Six Goals Over Midgets

Beat Lindsay 12 to 6 in First of Home and Home Games to Decide the Group Championship—Visitors Held Up the Game for Over an Hour and Petes Could Have Won the Game by Default.

RETURN GAME TO-MORROW

The Peterborough juniors have a lead of six goals to carry with them to Lindsay on Friday night, when they play the return game in the home and home series to decide the championship of this district. Last night at Brock street rink the local youngsters handed the Midgets a 12 to 6 set-back.

There came nearly being no game at all.

As it was the engagement did not start until 9.30 o'clock. The delay was in no way the fault of the Peterborough Club, but was caused by the unprecedented action of the Lindsay management in holding up the game and refusing to play until Wilford, the speedy left wing player arrived from Toronto, where he is attending the University. Lindsay had seven men available at the rink when the time came to start the game, but they stubbornly refused to begin until Wilford arrived on the 8.40 C.P.R. train. Referee Lou Marsh ordered the teams out at 8.30, and the Peterborough team took their places, but the Midgets persisted in their stand and remained in their dressing room. Accordingly, the puck was faced and the Petes went down and scored a goal, and the game and district were theirs by default, if they had been willing to claim the title.

However, the Petes decided to go ahead and play the game, and when Wilford arrived the teams finally took the ice, after Referee Marsh had informed the crowd of the reason for the delay, and had announced that the Peterborough team had taken the sportsmanlike course of accepting victory or defeat on the ice rather than to take advantage of the opening the action of the Lindsay team had given them. The cheer that greeted this announcement showed that the decision of the local youngsters was endorsed by the fans.

Outside of the second half of the second period, when the Petes, with a long lead to their credit, grew careless and slackened their pace perceptibly, the home brigade had a big edge on the visitors. They had Lindsay 4 to 0 at the end of the first period and ran the count up 6 to 0 in the early part of the second session. It looked like a runaway affair at that stage and the Petes made the mistake of slowing up a bit. It came near being disastrous, for careless defensive work gave Lindsay a chance to break into the scoring column, and when Flowers was beaten by 2 or 3 long shots, the Midgets came to life and outplayed the local gang until the end of the period, carving three goals off the Peterborough lead, and it was only 6 to 5 when the ball rang.

Peterborough, however, came back strong in the last period and outscored the Midgets by four goals to 1. They had all the better of the last twenty minutes and only clever goal-keeping by Oliver saved a bigger score.

Frost was the outstanding figure of the Peterborough team last night. The big defence man got away time after time, and his speedy skating and wicked shot made him a constant menace to the Lindsay citadel. Frost beat Oliver four times during the game, which is a fine scoring feat for a defence man, and he was in the limelight all night.

Garnett played his usual brilliant game, both on the forward line and on defence, rushing and checking effectively, while Park was very useful, getting four counters by accurate shooting and good stick-handling. Girard, Hagerman and Williams all helped to earn the decision by their good work all through the piece. Gillespie, who was making his first O.H.A. appearance as a sub, was only on the ice for a couple of minutes, but he looked good.

For Lindsay, Oliver in goal, Garnett on the defence, and Wilford the left wing, were the most conspicuous performers. Oliver made some very clever saves on close-in plays, while Garnett checked well and did some nice rushing. Wilford's back-checking helped his defence considerably and he did some effective work on the attack as well.

The game was fast and clean, the only penalties handed out being for minor offences. The teams were out to play hockey, and rough-house tactics were left in the dressing room. Referee Lou Marsh handled the battle satisfactorily.

The teams were:

The Petes had a big edge in the first period. They gave Oliver a chance to show his ability in the first couple of minutes, and after he had made two or three nice stops, Park beat him cleanly with a quick shot from the side for the first goal.

Frost nearly scored after a pretty rush, but Oliver nailed the shot. The Petes lost two or three good chances, and finally Park dodged through the Lindsay defence with a neat rush and fooled Oliver from close in. Park was hurt a minute after and had to retire for repairs. Frost drew a penalty for mixing it in the corner, but no harm was done while he was off, and he came back in time to rush the length of the ring for a pretty goal. Park got back into the game and signalized his reappearance by slamming Goal No. 4 past Oliver. It was 4 to 0 at the end of the period.

Early in the second period the Petes increased the lead when Frost got away nicely and whistled a waist high shot past Oliver. The Petes kept pressing. Park, after stick-handling inside, batted a rebound off the post into the net and the score was 6 to 0.

It looked like a land-slide, but you never can tell about a hockey game. The Petes grew careless with a big lead, and the first thing they knew Killen found the defence wide open and sailed in for a goal. When Kelly slammed another one through from a scrimmage, Lindsay took a fresh lease of life and began to come like wild men. Flowers drew a penalty for slashing at one of the Lindsay forwards, but the Midgets failed to get a shot when he was off, while Frost sent the Peterborough stock up again by a nicely executed rush that wound up in a counter.

Flowers came back, and had hardly got into the net when Wilford fooled him with a long shot from the side.

That made it 7 to 3, and the Petes increased their lead when Hagerman batted in a rebound after a fine rush by Cherrett.

Wilford repeated his previous goal less than two minutes later, when his long shot from the side eluded Flowers.

Garnett got away nicely, and although his shot was blocked, Killen was on hand to slide the rubber into the net, and the period ended with the Petes leading by 8 to 5.

The Petes opened the last period auspiciously when Girard and Cherrett went down together, Cherrett scoring on a neat pass from his team-mate.

Lindsay got their last goal shortly after when Garnett came down alone and slid an easy one past Flowers.

With the score 9 to 6 in their favour, the Petes began to come on again. Girard increased the lead when he scored from close in, and William added another when he recovered the rubber behind the Lindsay net and swung it around the post for a score. Frost bagged the last counter of the game by a beautiful shot from centre ice that caught Oliver sound asleep.

BOTH TEAMS AWAY FROM HOME TO-MORROW

Both Peterboro Hockey teams are playing away from home to-morrow night. The intermediates have to win in Oshawa to tie up the group and stay in the running and they claim that Oshawa will know that there is a real fight on. The following players will be in the game, Legros, Schultz, Evans, Halpin, Rose, Laundrault, Murphy and Jackson.

The Peterboro Juniors leave for Lindsay on the 5.35 G. T. R. train to play the return game in the home and home series for the group honours. The team will line-up exactly as in last night's game. A large number of supporters will accompany the team to Lindsay.

TOMMY THOMPSON BELONGS TO LEAFS

Washington Club Failed to Come Through With Draft Price.

TORONTO, Feb. 5.—Secretary J. H. Farrell of the National Association, has notified President McCaffery of the Toronto baseball club that under a recent ruling of the National Commission clubs drafting players that entered the army service must pay for these players by February 1, or else they will revert to the club they originally belonged to.

This settles the Tommy Thompson case as Washington have failed to come through with the draft price to the local club and therefore the crack southpaw is now Toronto property.

At latest reports there were seventeen champions of each class in the army and navy, not to speak of the air forces. How they all gained titles is a mystery.

Fulton Alleges "Double Cross"

Claims Dempsey and He Agreed to Box Eight Rounds Last July

Benny Leonard to Make a Fifteen-Months' Tour.

Fred Fulton has authorized the statement that his bout with Jack Dempsey at Harrison Park, New Jersey, July 27, 1918, was a pre-arranged affair to the extent that he and Dempsey were to box an eight-round "exhibition," and that Dempsey won in the first round by "double-crossing" him.

Fulton said he wanted a chance to meet the winner of the proposed Willard-Dempsey match.

Benny Leonard, lightweight champion of the world, will engage in no championship bout nor any decision match in the United States for two years.

Leonard's manager and Lieut. Sydney Cohan, of New York, announce the existence of a contract requiring Leonard to make a tour of Australia, India, China, France and England, starting from San Francisco next September and concluding with the title-holder's arrival in New York some fifteen months later.

For this tour, which will be one of exhibitions chiefly, Leonard is guaranteed $104,000, with the privilege of a percentage.

Johnny Dundee, the Italian lightweight, has served notice on Scotty Monteith that in future Dundee will act as his own manager. According to Dundee, he and Monteith had a disagreement over financial matters following the Leonard-Dundee contest at Newark.

Jimmy Duffy will be mustered out of the service next week, and will then hike back to Lockport to get in shape for a busy season in the prize ring. Duffy has offers from Boston, Philadelphia and Akron. Duffy recently boxed an exhibition with Jack Britton at Hoboken, N.J., for the returned soldiers stationed there. He also boxed Fred Dyer in a four-round exhibition a week or so ago.

Bing Bang Brady and Nate Lewis are to clash at Lockport soon for ten rounds. They recently boxed a sizzling six-round bout and both claimed the decision.

It is said that Jack Kearns now is looking for a seven-footer to train with Dempsey in preparation for the bout with big Jess.

Charley Harvey has received a proposition to have Kid "Ted" Lewis, the welter champion, meet Mike Gibbons at St. Paul February 15. Previous to accepting it Lewis will train a while at Lake Placid in order to see if he gets into proper form. Eddie Wallace will also do some work at the lake.

CURLING

Vice Skips' Bonspiel.

One game in the eighth round last night, in which Felix Brownscombe defeated Sam Ray by 10 to 5. The rinks were as follows:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Geo. Metcalfe | | E. W. Glover | |
| J. H. Seels | | E. Taylor | |
| H. F. Foote | | J. H. Metheral | |
| F. Brownscombe | | Sam Ray | |
| Skip | 10 | Skip | 5 |

Ross Dobbin and Grant Copping will play their game to-night.

Fears that the Tankard and District Cup games will be called for Toronto next week, thus conflicting with the bonspiel, were expressed by the curlers this afternoon. It will mean that four of the best local rinks will be deprived of competing in the bonspiel and Peterborough's supply of skips will be considerably reduced. An effort will be made, without much hope of success, to secure the postponement of the provincial games.

By defeating George Little last night Bob Hicks established a record, it was stated. This is the first time Lindsay's crack skip has been defeated in a Tankard primary. The gallery's opinion conceded to Hicks one of the best games he has ever played. Little was at his heels all the way. The skip, however, gives the credit to his rink, with special mention for "Bill" Taylor.

At the same time the game between Pete Lang and Larry O'Connor lacked nothing in interest and keenness. The crowd in fact enjoyed the curling. Lindsay proved good losers, and have left good opinions in the local club that were not influenced by the victory. The club was delighted to know that Lindsay will be well represented at the bonspiel, and their chances of winning some of the prizes are regarded here as exceptionally bright.

How is Your Watch Running?

Is it running fast or slow? Never quite on time?

Well, perhaps your watch is capable of very accurate running, but it is not in perfect order. You know the tiny mechanism of a watch demands that each of the dozen of little parts be just right, or good time is out of the question.

Watch Repairing is a specialty of ours.

ALLIANCES TO REMAIN AFTER THE LEAGUE

PARIS, Feb. 6.—Alliances between the various nations will not be affected by the existence of the society of nations, now in process of formation, it was declared by Arthur J. Balfour to newspaper interviewers here. The British Foreign Secretary was asked the direct question as to whether the formation of the world society would involve the abolition of alliances.

"The constitution of the league of nations," responded the Foreign Secretary, "will involve no modification of the treaties of alliance previously concluded.

"As to the question whether special coalitions of two or several peoples could be formed aside from the league," Mr. Balfour added, "the conference alone can decide."

Peterboro County Farmer Suffers Heavy Loss by Fire

Barn Was Totally Destroyed, Also Fourteen Head of Cattle and Season's Grain.

Yesterday morning at nine o'clock a mysterious fire completely destroyed the barn and out-buildings of Mr. Harry Patterson, a young and progressive farmer, six miles from Warsaw.

The cause of the fire is unknown. Mr. Patterson was eating his breakfast in company with his mother, wife and family when he noticed flames darting out through the roof of the barn. Nothing could be done. The barn crammed with the season's crop burned like a bon fire and barn and contents consisting of grain, 14 head of cattle, all his seed and machinery was completely destroyed. One horse was badly burned.

The loss is estimated to be in the neighborhood of $9000 with only $2500 insurance.

The gasoline engine which was situated in the barn was also completely destroyed and practically the whole stock is gone.

Mr. Patterson is one of the best farmers in Peterboro County and his heavy stock was one of the best in the township. His father died a year and a half ago leaving him to manage the farm.

OBITUARY

WILLIAM McCORMACK.

A well known and respected resident of the city passed away this morning in the person of William McCormack following a short illness. The deceased was in his seventy-ninth year and was born in Tyrone, Ireland. He came to this country when a young man and has resided in Peterborough for many years. His wife pre-deceased him several years ago. Three daughters and one son survive, namely the Misses Eva and Phoebe at home, Mrs. Thomas Detcher, East City, and William J., also of this city.

The funeral will take place on Saturday at one-thirty o'clock from the family residence, 858 George street, to Lakefield cemetery. Service will be conducted at the house at one o'clock by the Rev. Mr. Rowand, of St. Andrew's Church, of which the deceased was a member.

ANXIOUS TO KEEP WHISKEY AT HOME.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—A small strike in Liverpool is interesting in view of the effect of the liquor question upon general Labour unrest, particularly the absence of spirits in neighbourhoods afflicted with influenza. The lockers refuse to load whiskey in cases for export on the ground that it is needed at home. While Great Britain has been going without whiskey great exports have been maintained steadily, thus depriving the nation of both public and inland revenue.

AMERICAN FORCE CAPTRES MANY BOLSHEVIKI SOLDIERS.

ARCHANGEL, Feb. 6. — Heavy losses were inflicted on the Bolsheviki by the Amtrican forces Tuesday and the enemy was driven back in disorder from the village of Vistavka, on the Vaga. The American casualties were five killed and several wounded. Many Bolsheviki soldiers were taken prisoner. The defeat of the enemy on the Vaga, together with his failure on the Dvina, typifies the spirit of the Allied troops who are fighting with the utmost determination to hold their positions until reinforcements can reach them.

THREE SHIPS SUNK BY MINES, WITH LOSS OF MANY LIVES

SOUTH SHIELDS, Eng., Feb. 6. — The British sloop Penarth has been sunk off the Tyne River by a mine. Forty members of the crew were picked up by trawlers. The Swedish ship Sphynx, coal laden from England, hit a mine off the Scotch coast and went down with 17 of the crew. A Norwegian fishing steamer was blown up outside the Norwegian port of Stavanger and eight fishermen were killed.

BELL TELEPHONE CASE RESUMES NEXT WEEK

OTTAWA, Feb. 6.—The hearing of the application of the Bell Telephone Co. for a general increase in rates will be resumed by the Railway Board on Wednesday, February 12, at Ottawa, when the representatives of the municipalities will present their case against the proposal. The chief bone of contention when the hearing is resumed will be the recommendation of Mr. Hagenah, the Chicago expert, that the company should be granted an increase for eighteen months or two years such as would increase the earnings of the company one million dollars per annum.

OWEN SOUND SOLDIERS DENY STORY OF WEBER

OWEN SOUND, Feb. 6.—At a meeting of the returned men held here, at which a number of the prominent men of the town were present, it was stated that very few returned men were implicated in the Weber case, and that those who were in the crowd that ran the reeve of Neustadt out of town protected him from the rougher element. The meeting passed resolutions deprecating mob law and also the threatening attitude adopted towards employers of labour who have aliens in their employ. Weber is recovering from an attack of pneumonia, the result of his exposure a week ago, and although he states that he was roughly handled by the returned men, they emphatically deny the charge.

LUXEMBOURG PEOPLE WILL STATE WISHES.

LUXEMBOURG, Feb. 6. — The council of the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg has introduced in the Chamber of Deputies a bill providing for a referendum to decide whether the people of the Grand Duchy wish to change the form of government to that of a republic.

A proposal to have the plebiscite determine also if Luxembourg wishes to be politically annexed to France or Belgium, was stricken from the

ACRE FOR EACH SOLDIER

British Plan to Provide Cottage Also —Farm Profit Sharing Urged

London, Feb. 5.—A bold Government scheme to aid the fighting men will be embodied in a bill at the coming Parliamentary session.

It is understood that the Government holds the opinion that the best form of settling former service men on the land in large numbers is to give them each a cottage, with perhaps one acre of land, which will be partly garden land, the other part to be used for keeping poultry, pigs, or goats, and for fruit growing. The occupier or owner will make the main part of his living by work either in a neighboring town or on the land.

It is also desired to have farms on each of which there will be a manager and which will be cultivated by men who ae not agricultural laborers, although they will get the agricultural wage of the district. They will be partners in the concern and benefit by its progress. The men will get their share of the surplus profits and the farm will be cultivated intensively.

The view is held in official quarters that with inexperienced man with very little capital this is one of the best ways of putting them on the land and giving them a real interest in industry. It is hoped that the Board of Agriculture will receive power to buy land for cash.

The Government proposes that county councils shall buy and equip the land with proper regard to economy, but for the next seven years the Board of Agriculture will pay any deficiency between receipts and expenditure of the holdings. That means that a man will be put upon a small holding at a rent which the land is capable of producing and not at a rent based on the capital outlay.

This is intended as a recognition of the debt the country owes to former service men, and for this purpose the Government, subject to the consent of Parliament, is disposed to put aside a sum of maney running into many millions. It will come from the taxpayers, and not from the local ratepayers.

The scheme applies to Scotland, except that the Scottish Board of Agriculture would act instead of the county councils. Ireland has its own separate scheme.

BARREL OF MASH PROVED COSTLY

ORILLIA, Feb. 6.—Police Magistrate Clark imposed a heavy penalty for breach of the Ontario Temperance Act. Inspector Fisher charged Chas. H. Draper, hotel keeper at Elmvale, with having a barrel of whiskey mash on his premises. The charge was proved, the inspector having found the mash simmering in the kitchen of defendant's house. The Magistrate imposed a fine of $500 and costs.

BY PERMISSION OF THE MILITARY

A copy of the Kolnische Zeitung bearing the date Saturday, January 4th, 1919, has been received in Kitchener. It consists of but two pages and across the top of the first page are the words "Erscheint mit Erlaubens der, Britischen Militarischen Behoerde." (Appears with the permission of the British Military Authorities.) It will be a new experience for the people of German cities to get their newspapers by permission of the British authorities.

HOW THE GERMAN OFFICIALS ARE TAUGHT TO SALUTE BRITISH

COLOGNE, Feb. 5.—The British have had little difficulty in enforcing the rule that German officers and officials in uniform shall salute British officers or British troops on the march. One of the means found for enforcing this rule is to compel an official who does not salute a company of guards on the march to march around at the head of the company until the soldiers decide he has had enough punishment.

"MOVIE" STARS SECURE SERVICES OF McADOO

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—Wm. Gibbs McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury, and Director-General of Railroads, has accepted the position of general counsel to the United Artists' Distributing Association, an organization of the biggest stars of action picture players in the world.

Mr. McAdoo has been resting up since he gave up his duties as general director of railroads.

No mention of his income from the movies was officially received from California to-day, but a brother of D. W. Griffith, one of the members of the association, declared it could hardly be less than $100,000. As Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. McAdoo's salary was $12,000 per year.

Besides Griffith, Mr. McAdoo will now represent legally Charlie Chaplin, Mary Pickford, Wm. S. Hart, and Douglas Fairbanks.

IN MEMORIAM

GODFREY. — In loving remembrance of our little darling Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Godfrey, died 6th of February, 1918, age 3 years and 8 months.

God wanted one more angel,
To grace His heavenly throne,
And so He took our dear one,
And bade us not to mourn.

We wanted so to keep her,
For she to us was given,
But Jesus said it could not be—
He wanted her in heaven.

God knows how much we miss her,
He knows the tears we shed,
And whispers: "Hush! she only sleeps—
Your loved one is not dead."
—From her loving Father and Mother.

IN MEMORIAM.

In Loving Remembrance of our Little Darling Margaret.

Dear is the grave where she is laid,
Sweet is the memory that won't fade,
The mid-night stars shine on her grave
Of the one we loved but could not save.

Fondly we loved her, she is dear to us still,
But in grief we must bend to God's holy will;
Our sorrow is great, our loss hard to bear,
But angels are guarding dear Margaret with care.

From her Godmother, Sarah Reeves.

MODEL VILLAGE IN LONDON.

British Government Intends to Build One in Capital.

What is the type of house that the British Government regards as ideal? According to official details of the Local Government Board's housing scheme, which is now published, the following are the principal requirements suggested:

12 houses per acre in urban areas.
8 in rural districts.

Maximum of sun for living and working rooms.

Minimum of sun for larders and stores.

Comfortable living room, 3 bedrooms, washhouse and bathroom or bath.

Standardized essential fittings, such as doors, windows, ranges, baths, bolts, locks, door handles, etc.

A good garden.

In view of the present famine in houses, the official announcement that a model village is to be erected in London is particularly timely. This village, the exact site of which is not specified, will embrace all the essenials mentioned above. The work of erecting the first houses will, it is expected, be commenced almost immediately, and developed as fast as the schemes are approved.

Throne Address Will Not Be Moved in French Tongue

Only French-Canadian Supporter of Union Government to Be Elected Seconded Address Last Session.

OTTAWA, Feb. 7.—An unusual feature of the opening of the Parliament will be the elimination of the use of the French language in connection with the moving and seconding of the address in reply to the speech from the Throne. It has been the invariable practice since Confederation for the address to be moved by an English-speaking and seconded by a French-speaking Government supporter. This session, as announced, Major Redman, of Calgary and Capt. Mancon, of Fort William and Rainy River, Conservative and Liberal Unionists respectively, will start the sessional ball rolling. Captain Mancon served with the French army in the early months of the war and presumably, has some knowledge of that language, but it is doubtful if he proposes to depart from his native tongue in making a set speech in the House. This unusual situation is due entirely to the fact that Dr. Chabot, junior member for Ottawa, was the only French-Canadian supporter of the Unionist Government elected, and he seconded the address last session.

A Cosmopolitan Aggregation in Russian City of Vladivostok

Some of the Street Scenes—Many Nations Represented—Some Difficulty in Determining Who Are Officers to Be Saluted.

VLADIVOSTOK, Feb. 7.—For an object lesson in the cosmopolitanism of the Allied cause one could find no better school in the world today than Siberia. Some of the Allied nationalities represented on the western front are absent, but their places are taken by others that never saw service in France. There are Czechs, Japanese and Chinese infantry if there are no Anzacs and Portuguese. Serbs and Rumanians are also fighting the battle against the Bolsheviki.

A street scene in Vladivostok any day affords an interesting study in Allied uniforms. Only an expert, or, at least, one who has spent many months here, can name the nationality and rank of every officer he meets. It is not always easy to distinguish even between soldier and civilian, owing to the government officials. A parade of the nations in Vladivostok, such as was staged the day the armistice with Germany was signed, is a pageant that could not be duplicated elsewhere. Something like a dozen nations were represented in that parade by military or naval detachments, or both.

The Czechs, with whom the Canadians are on perhaps especially friendly terms, are looked upon generally as the senior partners in the Allied enterprise in that they were there first. They are wonderful warriors, these Bohemians who fought their way across Russia and across the endless steppes of Siberia making for the ocean and freedom. In that battle that lasted for many months and over many thousands of miles, they learned all the lessons of war. They are the real cavaliers in this army, courteous in intercourse and rough in action.

Czechs Maintain Order.

The maintenance of order in Vladivostok is left largely to the Czechs, probably for the reason that they first drove the Bolsheviki forces out of the city, after a bloody battle opposite the railway station, when the Czechs reached the end of their long pilgrimage to the Pacific. The officer charged with this task is known as the "town major", and is a personage of consequence here. The Czech officers are for the most part charming and cultured men, many of them accomplished scholars, musicians or artists, almost all of them master linguists.

Shortly after the arrival of the Canadians here two officers from Toronto were seated in a restaurant, amusing themselves by watching the various types of military uniforms in the place. A giant officer at the next table attracted their attention, a six-foot youth in Czech uniform, with a dozen decorations on his tunic The Canadians, believing that English was the one language not spoken in Siberia, expressed their admiration for the Czech somewhat audibly. In a few minutes the officer came over to their table sat down, and opened conversation in English as perfect as their own, and without a suggestion of accent. He proved to be a veteran of many campaigns, having served even in the Russian flying corps, and taken part in the great Czech drive across Siberia.

The Czechs, to whom fell the great part of the burden of the campaign in earlier days, have a reputation for fair dealing with their enemies, but also for uncompromising sternness when such is a military necessity. They are war hardened and thoroughly disciplined. It is inspiring to see a Czech company swing down the street, tall, self-reliant chaps in their grey great-coats and grey fur caps, a good crowd to be friendly with, but bad medicine as foemen.

Japanese Businesslike

One of the most picturesque of Allied units are the Japanese with their natty uniforms of light khaki, and red trimmings. Somebody has remarked that every private in the Japanese is a "brass hat", for the hat of the Nipponese infantryman has a red band much like that worn by staff officers of the British or Canadian army. Canadian soldiers instructed to salute officers of other Allied forces, have found it very difficult to distinguish between the Japanese private and non-com .and the Japanese officer just as the Japanese have found trouble in distinguishing Canadians from Americans, and furhatted officers in our force from furhatted privates. The whole business is a species of course in heraldry, not easily to be mastered.

The Japanese are a businesslike lot. Marching at ease they ramble along any old way, not taking the trouble to keep step, because that is more comfortable for them. In point of fact there is no more thoroughly disciplined army in the world They are on the job all the while. They look after their own transport, and it is a common sight tor a long line of little carts to pass along the street, each loaded with supplies, and each guarded by a Japanese soldier. In the front and rear march non-coms., who wear swords in the Japanese army.

Considerable Fraternizing.

While the Canadian in Siberi wraps his body up warmly in cold weather, the Japanese soldier pays particular attention to his toes and his ears. He has a furlined collar on his coat which almost conceals his face and head when turned up, and he rolls warm bandages about his feet and ankles to keep out the cold. Canadians and Japanese fraternize considerably. For instance, I saw a Japanese sentry on the docks one day giving a Canadian sentry a friendly lesson in jiu-jitsu.

Canadians and Americans, who are clad more for utility than for ornamentation, add little to the picture on the streets of Vladivostok. Their fur caps and mackinaw or corduroy coats seem drab beside the brilliant hues of other units, but the outfits are warm and suit the country, and, after all, we did not come over here to embellish the scenery. The French colonial troops from Cochin-China wear the picturesque garb affected by the Little Blue Devils, light blue uniforms, with dark tam o' shanters There are Italians with their capes, and Russians in grays and browns, and swaggering Cossacks with fur caps placed at awesome angles, and the Cossack braid—in this case of yellow—down the sides of their breeches. To those mentioned must be added naval uniforms, British, Japanese, French, Italian, Russian and Chinese, and the list is still most incomplete.

Examples of Harmony

A splendid example of the spirit of harmony that exists among the troops of the various Allied nations here was seen last night when a concert party from a British battalion gave an entertainment in honor of their comrades in arms. The concert was held in the large auditorium of the American Y.M.C.A. building, which was decorated for the occasion with British and other Allied flags. The Canadian officers had been especially invited, as well as a large number of the Czechs. The excellent band of the British battalion furnished music, while the rest of the program was presented by a dozen young Britons. It was a Pierrot show or the English version of the ministrel chassic.

In the front row of the balcony was Gen. Elmsley, G.O.C., of the British-Canadian force, and beside him was Dr. Girsa local representative of the Czech Government. The British consul occupied a place of honor, as did a number of members of the Japanese staff. The Admiralty was represented by the Earl of Glasgow. Thoroughout the auditorium Czech mixed with Briton, Canadian and American and the joke on the one nationality was as loudly applauded by its butts as by the other.

The Canadians have found splendid co-operation in every quarter, one staff officer remarking that, although they arrived here late in the day, they received whatever they asked for from units which had been on the scene earlier and were thus more firmly established and organized.

GRAIN MARKET

While the general situation is essentially weak, there was a stronger feeling in the cash grain markets yesterday, due to smaller receipts and the fact that the shipments were slightly larger. At the same time there was a strong bearish sentiment in the options market, and at one time there was a sharp drop in prices, particularly in the distant markets, There are fractional changes only in local cash quotations, but in a downward direction. Promise of some prospective improvement in the flour situation is continued in a report today that the Grain Commission may resume the purchasing of flour next week for export to Europe.

CATTLE MARKET

Union Stock Yards—Receipts were 40 cars, with 534 cattle, 51 calves, 983 hogs, and 122 sheep and lambs.

The market continues strong, with a very active demand for anything of finished quality, but disposed to fight shy of the off quality and unfinished stuff. Prices practically held firm at all this week's advances, averaging from a dollar to a dollar and a half on the best butcher steers and heifers and choice steers.

Choice veal calves strong to 25c. higher.

Lambs good and firm at this week's prices. Light sheep steady. Heavy sheep and bucks slow.

Hogs again in strong position, buyers very reluctant to give out the prices they are paying, which vary from $16.75 to $17, fed and watered basis.

STOMACH TROUBLES ARE DUE TO ACIDITY

Tells Safe, Certain, Speedy, Relief For Acid Indigestion.

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, gas, sourness, stomach-ache, and inability to retain food are in probably nine cases out of ten, simply evidence that excessive secretion of acid is taking place in the stomach causing the formation of gas and acid indigestion

Gas distends the stomach and causes that full oppressive burning feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the excessive development or secretion of acid.

To stop or prevent this souring of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralise the acid and, make it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia, a good and effective corrector of acid stomach, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water after eating or whenever gas, sourness or acidity is felt. This sweetens the stomach and neutralises the acidity in a few moments and is a perfectly harmless and inexpensive remedy to use

An antacid, such as bisurated magnesia which can be obtained from any druggist in either powder or tablet form enables the stomach to do its work properly without the aid of artificial digestants. Magnesia comes in several forms so be certain to ask for and take only Bisurated Magnesia which is especially prepared for the above purpose.

BY JANE PHELPS

Brian a True Prophet

CHAPTER CXIII

The United States had declared war. What had led up to the declaration, is now an old story; too old to repeat here. Brian Hackett's excitement was intense. The night the papers proclaimed in black headlines that Uncle Sam had decided to join the Allies, he never slept a wink, neither did he allow Ruth to do so. He talked all night long.

"We will surely win, but it's going to be a stiff fight, Ruth. Lots of men who go over never will come back. But we'll whip 'em, sure as I'm a Yank. Geel but I'm glad we're in it at last. I must get down early. I don't want my name at the foot of the list of men volunteering. I should be ashamed to look in the glass if I wasn't somewhere near the top of the line."

"What am I to do, Brian?" Ruth had listened to his ravings very quietly. He had talked for such a long time, and not a word of her, his sorrow at leaving her, her loneliness when he should be gone; or the anxiety she would suffer.

"Go right along doing just what you are doing now, of course. That is what makes it possible for me to go—you being able to take care of yourself."

Brian did not intend to be cruel but nevertheless he was. Ruth shivered, and hot tears welled up in her eyes. That was all the thought he had for her. She was capable of earning her living; let her do it, was his attitude.

"I shall worry so, Brian."

"Nonsense! think of the poor women who can't earn money like you can, whose husbands will have to go. You won't hear them whining, I'll bet."

"I'm not whining—I am frightened."

"Frightened—at what?"

"For fear you won't come back."

"What's the odds if I don't? Some of us are bound to get ours; it better be me than a man with a family of kids."

Ruth opened her lips to say something, closed them tightly again. Then said:

"Oh, Brian, don't talk like that."

"It's the truth." Then: "I wonder what branch of service I am best adapted for—rather where they need me the most. I wish I knew, I can hardly wait until morning. I tell you Ruth, the little old U. S. A. will astonish those fellows over there. Not only the Germans, whom we are going to wipe off the map, but the Allies. Really none of the foreign nations have the slightest idea of what a big boy Uncle Sam is, and what a row he can kick up when he makes up his mind to scrap. They think we are a nation of money-grabbers. They will get a few eye-openers. They will find we are a nation of fighters."

"I know, Brian, but you must stop thinking and talking and go to sleep. You will be worn out with all this excitement." Ruth, as was usual in such matters, thought only of him. That he was also keeping her awake, that she would be tired and feel unlike work the next day, meant nothing as compared to his well-being.

"I can't sleep. Holy smoke! How any American can sleep to-night, I don't see. To think that at last, we are to do our part! I never envied those Canadians and those Englishmen more than I ever envied anyone in all my life. It made me almost sick to hear them talk. Wait until I hunt some of them up in the morning I'll tell them a thing or two about Uncle Sam now—I couldn't before. They thought we were afraid—not of our skins, but of our pocket-books. Those same pocket-books will help win this war and don't you forget it! It takes money, slathers of it, to raise an army; and think of the ships we will have to have, and the food. Why, Ruth, we are so far away, it will tax the wealth of the richest nation in the world to get our boys overseas. But we'll do it! And we'll do it so quickly that we'll astonish the natives."

"Oh, Brian!" Ruth laughed a bit hysterically. "Do quiet down. You'll be sick," she didn't add, "so will I," but she felt like it.

"Not on your life! no one gets sick because they are happy."

"Are you so happy?" her voice trembled, although she tried to hold it steady.

"You bet I am! I shall be some use at last. It will be a very comforting feeling that I am earning my living, and living on what I earn; even though I live in the trenches on thirty dollars a month."

Ruth made no reply. But she bit her lips until they bled. Should she tell him? No! that last bitter speech decided her. She would keep her secret.

The match shortage in England is used by the British press to recall a story of the well-known firm of Bryant & May, match manufacturers. "Hallo!" exclaimed a wit, pointing to the horses, "Bryant's got his match there."

HELPING THE WOUNDED

Our Canadian nurses are needed "over there" now as never before. This is the time to learn how to take care of the wounded, the sick—or any emergency. You can learn a great deal by obtaining the "Medical Adviser" from your nearest druggist, a book of 1,000 pages, bound in cloth, containing chapters on First Aid, Bandaging, Anatomy, Hygiene, Marriage, Mother and Babe; or send 50c to Dr. Pierce, Courtwright St., Bridgeburg, Ont.

Thousands of women in Canada have overcome their sufferings, and have been cured of woman's ills by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Fainting spells, chills or great pain at regular or irregular intervals should be corrected, and every woman who suffers from backache, headache, nervousness, should take this "Prescription" of Dr. Pierce's. Send ten cents for trial package to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., or branch, Bridgeburg, Ont., or write for free confidential medical advice.

Tweedie, Ont.—"As a tonic and builder I can highly recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to tired and run-down women. I am the mother of eight children and have frequently had need of such a tonic but did not know what to take until my sister gave me some of the 'Favorite Prescription' which she herself had found to be good. It was exactly the thing my system required and [illegible] telling others, before [illegible] this 'Prescription' a trial and be benefited just as I have been."—Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor, 254 Ontario St.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You Can Bring Back Colour and Lustre With Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is mussy and troublesome. For 50 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and not a medicine. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

War Brings Peace to New York.

All is peace in New York's toughest district since the war. A year or so ago any person who wandered through the "Gas House" district, on First avenue from Seventeenth to Twenty-second street, at night usually came away minus his watch and roll and with a battered countenance. Many were the actual and alleged breaches of the peace laid to the young manhood of this section of the city. It ran the gamut of everything from riot to murder. Today all this is changed. Since the "Gas House" gang has donned the khaki there is an air of refinement and culture in the district. Men neighbors meet on friendly terms and clothes-line fights and feuds between the women are only memories. Gone is the old order of things material. Fights have given way to celebrations in honor of the lads from the district now fighting in France. There are 171 of them from this section and the other night a service flag was unfurled. It showed five gold stars. Two thousand men, women and children, many of them mothers and fathers, lifted their voices in a paean of consecration.

Twice Cited for Bravery.

To have been cited by the French for bravery twice since his arrival in France in January is the record of Professor Stephen H. Bush of the University of Iowa. In the wake of the first official announcement came a lengthy cablegram with the details of his second citation. "Courage and tenacity in bringing in wounded over exposed places" were conspicuous on the part of Professor Bush, who is working for the Y. M. C. A. with the Moroccan divisions.

The cablegram further declares that the "French are devoted to Professor Bush and the other Y. M. C. A. workers in his division and are gaining a high opinion of Americans through contact with them." Professor Bush is head of the department of romance languages at the university.—Iowa University News Letter.

ALMOST WILLING TO GIVE UP

Mr. Gap Johnson Is Beginning to Fear He Never Will Really Understand Women.

"Women is funny folks, 'most any way you take 'em," philosophically admitted Mr. Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge. "The oldest man in America can't tell what a lady will do next, and if he could, she wouldn't do it. Day before yesterday while we was setting around the dinner table wife slapped a few of the children into shape and then sorter casually asked me if I knowed what day it was.

"'Why, Wednesday or Thursday, I reckon,' says I. 'I hain't paid much attention lately, but it's somers along there.'

"'It is Tuesday, the 10th,' says she, kind o' sternly. 'Do you know what happened 15 years ago today?'

"'Hum, now! Lez see,' says I. 'Oh, yes!—that was the day a tree fell on me and busted me up considerable. I forgot—'

"'No, it wasn't!' she snapped. 'We were married 15 years ago today.'

"'Is that so?' says I. 'Well, I knowed something happened to me, but I sorter disrecollected what. Aw-hum! I—'

"And then I'll be switched if wife didn't rise up like a queen and sling mighty nigh every dish on the place at my head—dishes that cost me good money, too! The longer I live with women, the less I know about 'em!"—Judge.

ICELAND PROUD OF CULTURE

Little Nation, Long Isolated From the Rest of the World, Has Maintained Its Spiritual Life.

There are few nations that can point to a brighter record of culture than this little nation of one hundred thousand people (Iceland), practically isolated on their arctic island for nearly one thousand years. Why did they not revert to barbarism, as has been the fate of many white groups out of touch with outside civilization? There is but one answer: The Promethean flame which kindled the genius of the old, now nameless, monks—the saga authors—has never died in Iceland. It could not die so long as the sagas lived, firing the spiritual life of the nation.

Each period of national prosperity since the saga age has seen a revival of literary activity. Now Iceland is more prosperous in a material way than ever in its history, and behold there is a pen scratching in every cottage; there is a poet apostrophizing every waterfall, dedicating the summer crop of poppies and daffodils, and charming, or at least trying to charm the innumerable host of fays and light elves, trolls and water sprites and "landvaettir" which have endowed the bleak hills and mountains of Iceland with an immortal soul.—From the Dial.

Fewer Works of Art Imported.

According to a compilation by the National City bank, the value of art works imported in 1918 is about $11,000,000, as against $23,000,000 in 1917 and $35,000,000 in 1914.

In automobiles the value in 1918 was about $50,000, against nearly $2,000,000 in 1913 and more than $2,000,000 in 1912, while the average value per machine imported in 1918 was less than one-half that before the war. Decorated chinaware imported in 1918 was about $3,000,000 in value, against $8,000,000 in 1914. Almost the same ratio was shown in decreases of precious stones and jewel importations.

TWO EX-PREMIERS IN CABINET

Situation in British Politics That Has Never Before Occurred Is Among the Possibilities.

Herbert H. Asquith, former premier is often mentioned as a possible addition to the present cabinet. The Manchester Guardian points out that if this happens Lloyd George will have two former prime ministers among his subordinates. There is no former instance of this state of things in modern history, and it is a long time now since an English government contained in a secondary place even one former premier.

The classical case occurred about the middle of last century, and is furnished by the game of see-saw which was played by Lord John Russell and Lord Palmerston. In the government of 1846-52 Lord John Russell was prime minister and Lord Palmerston foreign secretary, and in the government of 1859-65 their two positions were exactly reversed.

It was Lord John Russell's exceptional fate to be prime minister from the age of fifty-four till that of sixty, to be in and out of subordinate office, under Lord Aberdeen and then under Lord Palmerston, from sixty to seventy-three, and at that age to be prime minister again.

If Lloyd George gets Mr. Asquith as well as Mr. Balfour he will have all the living former premiers except one, the exception being Lord Rosebery, whose period of office—15 months—was so short as to compare with the meteoric premiership of the age of Canning.

New Theory as to Oat Leaf "B."

After scores of editors and correspondents throughout Ontario have by majority opinion decided that this season's marking of the oat leaves with the letter "B" presages British victory, "Sidney Farmer," in the Belleville Intelligencer," assumes to settle all speculation finally by stating that "many people never knew that the 'B' stands for blood, as our Saviour was crucified in an oatfield. It has nothing to do with Britain or the war."

Tired, Overworked Men What You Need is Vinol

Vinol creates strength because it is a non-secret combination of the most famous body-building and strength-creating elements known — Beef and Cod Liver Peptones, Iron and Manganese and Glycerophosphates. You who are run down, nervous, lack energy and working strength, we know that Vinol is what you need. Try it at our risk. Here is Proof:

Sanford, Maine.
"I suffered so much from a run-down, nervous condition and stomach trouble that I never felt like working, and had tried almost everything without relief. The first bottle of Vinol, however, helped me, and it has finally built me up so I feel better now than I have for a long time."—C. D. Haines.

Springfield, Mass.
"I am a night operator—was all run-down, couldn't sleep, had no ambition, all tired out—I had tried blood and nerve tonics without help—and thought I would try Vinol and I must say it has built me up so I feel better, look better and sleep better." — Charles T. Harder.

For all run-down, nervous, anaemic conditions, weak women, overworked men, feeble old people and delicate children, there is no remedy like Vinol.

LAST DAYS OF THE WAR

CANADIANS ENTERED MONS ON NOVEMBER 11TH.

A Number of Facts Worth Remembering About the Work Done By Our Gallant Troops During the Three Months Following the Terrible Battle at Amiens When German Retreat Commenced.

CANADIAN troops have furnished a curious coincidence in British military history. The first troops to enter Mons the day the armistice was signed were those of the 42nd Royal Highlanders of Canada, which battalion, through the parent regiment, the 5th Royal Highlanders of Canada, is affiliated with the famous Black Watch. On August 23, 1914, the last British battalion to leave Mons was the 42nd Highlanders, the Scottish Black Watch.

From August 8 to November 11, the date the armistice was declared, the Canadian Corps captured 34,000 prisoners, 750 artillery guns of all calibres, 3,500 machine guns, hundreds of trench mortars, and huge quantities of all kinds of material.

In the last three months of the war the corps advanced in depth a distance of 95 miles, covering an area of approximately 450 square miles. The principal towns captured by the Canadians in that time were Cambrai and Le Cateau on October 9; Denain, October 20; Valenciennes, November 2; Mons, November 2. At least 150 smaller towns and villages were captured in addition to those larger centres, which released from German domination over 300,000 French and Belgian civilians.

The three outstanding battles fought by the Canadian Corps since August, 1918, were: Amiens, which began August 8; Arras, on August 26; and Cambrai, September 27. In these three battle, and in the advance from Cambrai to Mons through Valenciennes, the Canadian Corps engaged and identified a total of fifty-seven German divisions, several of whom were so badly decimated as to render them useless as fighting organizations.

At Amiens we advanced in less than two weeks a depth of 15 miles. At Arras and Cambrai the depth of penetration into the enemy lines was 25 miles, and from Cambrai to Mons 55 miles. At Amiens we captured 12,000 prisoners; Arras, 10,000; Cambrai, 7,174; and from Cambrai to Mons, 2,826.

It has been definitely established that when the Canadians captured Cambrai and Le Cateau in the darkness of the morning of October 9, the enemy hopes of victory vanished entirely and the vision of sure and certain defeat on the field loomed up as inevitable. He then began to retire as rapidly as possible towards the Rhine, protecting his backward movements by fighting rearguard actions with machine guns. After the fall of Cambrai we took up a line to the north towards Douai and began the advance in the direction of Valenciennes. On October 10 the Second Division attacked and occupied Naves with little opposition. The Sixth Brigade took Thun Levec and Thun St. Martin, northeast of Cambrai, assisted by the Canadian independent force composed of the Motor Machine Gun Brigade and the Cyclists' Corps. This force peppered the enemy from the roads in several positions from which they could do good work for us and bad for the opposition.

The next day the Second Division again attacked and cleared the Boche out of Iwuy, undeterred by the enemy's artillery, which put down quite a heavy barrage on our troops. By 10.30 on that morning the Germans launched a strong counter attack from the direction of Avesnes, started by artillery and seven tanks. It was a foolhardy effort on his part, because all the tanks were quickly knocked out, his ranks were ripped to pieces, and we got 300 prisoners.

On October 12 the First Division occupied the villages of Arleux, Estrees, and several other centres in the neighborhood, while the Fifth Brigade of the Second Division pressed on and established themselves in the village of Hordain. The enemy was evidently determined not to be driven back without a fight, so to break the monotony he delivered a counter-attack north of Aubbigny au Bac, with the result that we netted two officers and 199 other ranks as prisoners and took possession of Lieu St. Aumand.

Before the enemy evacuated the territory he held he found time to destroy all the railway tracks, bridges, and blow huge holes in cross roads, and in every possible way tried to impede our advance. By October 18 the First Division had crossed the Canal de la Sensee and established a line just beyond Fechain, Fressain, Villers au Terte, Lewarde, Dichy, and Sur le Noble. At Pecquencourt and villages in the neighborhood which fell to the First Division, nearly 3,000 civilians were released on October 19. On the night of October 19-20 the Tenth Brigade of the Fourth Division entered the large mining town of Denain after a sharp fight on the outskirts, and the 28,000 civilians there welcomed our men with most hilarious enthusiasm. Before the end of the month the First and Fourth Divisions were established on the outskirts of Valenciennes on a line running north, and the number of civilians freed by that time totalled 75,000, all of whom became a charge on the Canadian Corps for rations, for the Germans had robbed them of every particle of food and left their cupboards as bare as Mother Hubbard's.

The Third Division took over from the First on a line in the vicinity of Raismes. On November 1 the Fourth Division attacked with the 22nd Corps, an attack which was an unqualified success, for over 800 enemy dead were counted after the show at the portals of the city, and we captured 1,400 prisoners, several artillery guns, and many machine guns. The next day the Eleventh and Twelfth Brigades joined hands in the Place D'Armes in Valenciennes, since named Place de Canada.

From Valenciennes the Third and Fourth Divisions began to push on towards Mons, the Fourth operating on the right of the Mons road, the Third on the left. So far as spectacular features of fighting were concerned, there were none. There was some fighting, but the enemy was too much concerned with retiring to prevent being completely routed that he had little time to offer much resistance. As our men entered towns and villages they were kissed and embraced and held as deliverers and treated as such. That section of France on the Canadian front was cleared of the enemy by about November 7, and the Fourth Division was relieved just over the Belgium border by the Second Division. By the 10th November the Second and Third Divisions were on the outskirts of Mons; the Second on the right and the Third at the very gates of the city itself.

On the morning of the 11th, at four o'clock, the 42nd Battalion (the Montreal Kilties), the P.P.C.L.I., R.C.R.'s and the 44th Battalion, of the Seventh Brigade, attacked. The city was actually captured by the 42nd Battalion and the Princess Pats, and the R.C.R. also had some troops enter the city. By eleven o'clock, the time the armistice came into effect, we had established a line five kilometers east of the city, so that in nine days the Canadians advanced thirty miles.

On the afternoon of the 11th, Lieut.-Gen. Sir Arthur Currie and his staff made a triumphant entry into Mons, and were welcomed by thousands of civilians in a most demonstrative way. Gen. Currie presented to the city a Canadian flag tied to a lance, which now has a prominent place in the council chamber of the City Hall. The bodyguard of the corps commander was a section of the 5th Imperial Lancers, all of whom wore the Mons ribbon and were among the last to leave the city on August 2, 1914.

It was at Mons that the British began fighting in the war and it was there the war ended. Throughout all the advances made by the Canadians invaluable assistance was given by the Canadian Railway Troops and the Canadian Forestry Corps, whose work was extremely difficult owing to the devastation and destruction caused to railway tracks, bridges, and roads.

Just What to Do.

Commander Capsicum, who looked after the submarine defenses at little Winkleville, had spent the morning instructing the mine-sweeper's crew in their duties.

"Now, you see," he said, fingering his models, "you ram a sub like this. Do you want to ask me any questions?"

"Please, sir," piped some son of a sea cook, "what shall I do if I see a submarine?"

The instructor gazed at the man with sparks coming out of his eyes, and the rest of the class thought out all the horrible stories of the punishments Nero inflicted on those who crossed him.

"Do!" roared Capsicum, when he found his voice, "do, man, do! Why follow the —— thing home and take its name and address!"—Pearson's Weekly.

| Income | $ 7,021,103 | Gain over 1917 | $ 596,588 |
| Paid to Policyholders | 3,291,418 | Increase over 1917 | 777,427 |
| Assets | 34,755,737 | Gain over 1917 | 2,590,305 |

War and Pestilence. In the long history of life insurance the Companies have never borne a heavier burden than during the year 1918. Through that fateful year of war and pestilence The Mutual Life of Canada has come with unimpaired stability, having met all claims—foreseen and unforeseen—and yet the Company has been able to maintain the distribution to policyholders of the liberal dividends of past years.

Intrinsic Prosperity. The adverse conditions of war and a virulent epidemic have not been without compensations. The great value of life insurance has been demonstrated as never before, resulting in a very marked impetus to the business and an enlarged sphere of usefulness and service for the Company. The new assurances procured during the year were the largest in the history of the Company.

Notable Progress. During the five-year war period just closed the Company has enjoyed a marked expansion of business, the new assurances written being 63.5% greater than in the preceding five year pre-war period. And this was achieved without any increase in the percentage of the income required to meet the general expenses of administration.

Victory and Peace. Not only have the exactions of the war period been met, but the Company, like the nation of which it forms a part, has come to the close triumphant, with the brightest prospects of prosperous development during the ensuing years of peace.

GROWTH IN TEN-YEAR PERIODS

| YEAR | INCOME | ASSETS | PAID TO POLICYHOLDERS | BUSINESS IN FORCE |

HER TOY KINGDOM.

Grand Duchess of Luxemburg Has Had Troubled Reign.

Marie Adelaide, Grand Duchess of Luxemburg, a beautiful and accomplished girl, may be the next sovereign to succumb to the stings and arrows of fortune. She succeeded her father, the Grand Duke William, as sovereign of this little mining state in the summer of 1912, when she was just eighteen.

She made a radiant picture, it was reported, when in her speech from the throne she promised her people to reign for and with them, and assured them that she would fight for the honor of the grand duchy should occasion ever demand.

The little grand duchess did not then foresee the descent of the German hosts upon her small though highly prosperous people, nor in her spirited address after taking the oath of sovereignty did she consider how harmless would be her little army of some half-dozen generals and one company of gendarmes against the terrible neighbor to the east and north. Two years later Marie Adelaide uttered a heart-broken plaint to the world concerning her people and her toy state, then in the German fist.

"My country is stolen and my people are starving. Like so many thieves they sneaked into my beautiful land, and overnight they turned my flower gardens into open-air stables for their horses."

Helpless, practically a prisoner in her palaces, as lost for proper counsel as the five younger sisters who surrounded her, Marie Adelaide could only hold high her head and show the conqueror her unquenchable disdain.

She opposed the German invading hundreds of thousands unsupported, a heroic though pathetic figure, while her generals, having no troops at their disposal, maintained themselves in discreet hiding.

As soon as the grand duchess received word that the German hordes were about to invade her picturesque and happy Lilliput she sprang into her motor car, accompanied only by a single lady-in-waiting, and despite the entreaties of her ministers sped to Adolf Bridge over which the Germans must cross.

History records few more touching pictures than the romantic endeavor of this girl ruler armed only with beauty and tears, with her motor car lengthwise across the bridge as a barricade seeking to stem the ponderous tide of Germany's soldiers on the march.

The German officer who met the angry girl, after a curt discussion and her storm of tears, turned his back on her, exclaiming:

"I have my orders. You had better go home quietly."

She did not yield in spirit, though she was forced to yield the physical possession of her grand duchy. The stormy though cautious warfare with the Germans continued, for Marie Adelaide, though she alone of her people, had reckless, rebellious courage.

As the war wore on, however, and the dreary months of occupation led all to believe that German rule was fixed upon the little land for good and all, Marie Adelaide came to some understanding with the conquerors for the benefit of her people, now broken to the purposes of the great machine which made of the little state an armorer's shop and a refitting station.

And now the stormy, sorrowful reign of the 23-year-old ruler bids fair to end upon a dismal wave of Bolshevism in the little land.

Heroes of the Everyday Life.

Illustrating the strain under which western doctors have labored during the epidemic of influenza, it is recorded that Dr. Jackson of North Battleford did not once get into his bed in fourteen days and nights, stealing his only snatches of sleep while being rushed by automobile from one sick-bed to another.

"Somewhere in Germany."

Letters received within the past few weeks from Canadian soldiers serving with Imperial units show a variation from the old familiar "Somewhere in France." The date now follows the words "Somewhere in Germany."

A Rap for Wells.

Whenever Mr. H. G. Wells feels it necessary to curb his pride, he can turn with assurance of help to Mrs. Humphrey Ward's memoirs. After he has read, Mr. Wells seems to me, a journalist of great powers of colloquial education, and much country of mind, who has inadvertently strayed into the literature of imagination" he will doubtless feel properly reduced.

Was Troubled With BOILS FOR SIX MONTHS.

From the days of Job to the present time, boils have been one of the greatest afflictions of the human race.

Very few people escape from having them at some time.

All the poulticing and lancing you may do won't cure them and stop more coming.

Boils are caused by bad blood bursting out, and the bad blood must be made pure before the boils will disappear.

Burdock Blood Bitters is the greatest blood purifier known. It cleanses the system, and purifies the blood by removing every particle of foul material from the system, and when this is done, never another boil comes and health and strength are permanently restored.

Mr. C. H. Bridges, 470 Barton St. E., Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled with boils for about six months and tried several remedies without any relief until I tried Burdock Blood Bitters, and the effect has been wonderful. After using two bottles, I was rid of them all. I feel like a new man; my appetite is better, and I sleep better than I have for years. I can highly recommend B. B. B. to all who are troubled as I was."

Burdock Blood Bitters has been on the market for the past 40 years, and manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Allied Scientists Are Able to Do Their Work Without Teuton'c Aid

GERMANY, before the war was considered by a great portion of the globe as the home of science, but, in practical discoveries since the war commenced, the men of science of Britain and her Allies have shown they need no tuition from Germany.

In July, 1914, practically the whole of the antiseptics used in the medical world were manufactured by German chemical firms. At the very moment when antiseptics became an urgent necessity, supplies were cut off. The need of satisfying the immensely increased demand led to instant experimenting, and many antiseptics of the old type, superior to those in use prior to the commencement of the war, were discovered by our scientists. Their main discoveries, however, tended to revolutionize completely ideas regarding the use of antiseptics.

Early in their investigations it was found that the old slave-drivers of the West Indies knew even more about antiseptics than did the modern German chemists. Slaves caught trying to escape were most severely thrashed to discourage such attempts on the part of the others. But it was not to the owners' benefit to be long deprived of the services of such errant slaves, and it was ascertained that, to promote rapid recovery, the wounds used to be rubbed with a mixture of sea-water and lemon-juice. The effect of a mixture of common salt and lemon juice on the blood was, therefore, carefully studied. It was found that whilst ordinary antiseptics tended to destroy not only the germs, but also the tissues of the body, and thus actually retarded the recovery of the wound, the old slave-traders' remedy promoted the flow of the healing fluids from all part of the body to the injured part, cleansing as well as healing the wound. This antiseptical method has now been generally adopted, a matter of some consideration to the Tommy whose wounds require frequent dressing, as comparatively few bandages are required.

It often happens, however, that before antiseptics can be applied, germs invade the body and dig themselves in. Lockjaw, among other maladies, was responsible for many painful deaths in the first six months of the war. The microbe responsible for this disease breeds a few inches below the surface of the soil, and the highly manured lands of France are ideal places for its cultivation. In fact, before the war, the large number of lockjaw cases from the Marne area of France was seriously occupying medical attention. In trench warfare the clothing of the men gets very muddy. When a man is wounded the projectile takes a portion of his clothing, germs and all, into the [illegible] many of our men who were [illegible] slightly wounded developed lock-jaw after their arrival in hospital in England, and died most agonizing deaths. An antidote had been known for some time, but the method first adopted of administering the remedy only after the symptoms had appeared gave very few successful results. Now that it is the general practice to administer the antitoxin to all wounded men immediately they arrive at the hospital, the disease has been practically wiped out.

Another troublesome enemy to the R.A.M.C. is the typhoid germ. In one cemetery outside Bloemfontein are the graves of over one thousand victims of this complaint, who died in the Boer War. Our total fatal casualties in that war from all causes amounted to 22,500. Of this number, 8,000, or slightly over one-third, were accounted for by typhoid fever. Happily, the Boer War also saw the first successful attempts to prevent typhoid fever by means of inoculation. Although inoculation is not yet quite universal in the British army, the vast majority of men have had the serum injected; and figures prepared to the end of June, 1916, showed that the death-rate among the — fortunately few—unprotected was seventy times as great as amongst the protected. The results of the inoculation have therefore, been extremely successful, although the conditions of modern trench warfare in France and Belgium have favored the development of this disease. In Gallipoli there was very little typhoid, but a family relative, known as "para-typhoid," was prevalent. The typhoid antitoxin unfortunately, proved useless against this germ, but continued experiment produced a toxin, with which men are now inoculated. It protects the body against both types of fever, but, alas! it was discovered too late to be of use in that ill-fated campaign.

In this respect at least good has resulted from the war, for medical science has advanced further in this direction in four years of war than in twenty of peace. The results will benefit civilization long after this war has become a dim memory. —Chambers Journal.

First Drink Merely a Sample.

It was a hot day, and two sailors had just been released from a long spell of duty on a mine-sweeper. They made a bee-line for the first public-house they saw, and one of them ordered two quarts of ale. The men emptied their mugs in one draught while the barmaid looked on in undisguised admiration.

The man who had paid stood for a second or two wiping his lips meditatively, and then turned to his comrade with a grin.

"Tain't so bad, Bill, is it?" he remarked. "Shall we 'ave some?"—London Tit-Bits.

He Ordered Pie.

My brother was telling me of a number of humorous incidents which took place at camp. This one cost the victim, a young rookie, a week end's visit to the guardhouse. He had been made believe by a few fellows who were in for some sport that if he wanted pie all he had to do was order it. When meal time came around the rookie ordered pie. Of course he didn't get it, so he raised a rumpus. After a few moments his commanding officer was heard to say, "You're in the army now. Perhaps we had better show you the guardhouse first."—Chicago Tribune.

GREATEST RULE OF HEALTH

With all their differences in regard to disease, its cause and treatment, doctors are of one mind in regard to the one greatest rule of health, viz: "Daily movement of the Bowels." Unnumbered thousands of people suffer almost continuously as the result of constipation who could be readily cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Von Hintze Is Unscrupulous

ONE better qualified than Paul von Hintze to represent the Kaiser's aims and aspirations could hardly have been chosen, to fill the place in the German Imperial Government made vacant by the retirement of Dr. Richard von Kuehlmann. For years von Hintze has been at once the confidential messenger, the chief intriguer, and the willing tool of his master. Favored early in his career by the notice of the man whose consuming ambition it is to overrun and overawe the world, von Hintze was selected as the most promising person in the court circle to travel about among nations friendly to Germany, accept their hospitality, take note of their points of strength and weakness, and plan for their betrayal or, if need be, for their ruin. Long before August, 1914, von Hintze was known to keen observers, in and out of Germany, as a night prowler, a double-dealer, and no better than a common spy.

When he was flag lieutenant to the German Vice-Admiral von Diederichs, he undertook to carry on negotiations looking to the voluntary or forced evacuation of Manila Bay by Admiral Dewey's fleet. These advances were at first insinuating, then persuasive, then offensive. Their purpose was to convince the American commander that he had no right to give orders which the German commander von Diederichs should respect. After a shot had been fired across the bow of the German warship Cormoran, to make it clear that the American fleet meant to dominate the situation, Vice-Admiral Diederichs, according to Admiral Dewey's testimony, "sent a capable young officer of the staff to me with a memorandum of grievances. When I had heard them through I made the most of the occasion by using him as a third person to state candidly and firmly my attitude in a verbal message which he conveyed to his superior so successfully that Vice-Admiral von Diederichs was able to understand my point of view. There was no further interference with the blockade, nor breach of the etiquette which had been established by consent of other foreign commanders."

The "capable young officer" was no other than Paul von Hintze, who later, doubtless at the suggestion of von Diederichs, and with the approval of the Emperor, endeavored to conceal from the world, through the medium of a false statement, the fact that in Manila Bay, following the destruction of the Spanish fleet, the German fleet, which had come to that harbor with the settled purpose of taking possession of the Philippines, was completely and humiliatingly defeated in a bloodless battle by the American commander. But the truth has become known to the world, and a part of this truth is that in the accomplishment of his victory Admiral Dewey received invaluable aid from Capt. Chichester, commander of the British fleet, who also took occasion to inform von Diederichs that if he made a hostile move against the Americans, the British fleet would do its utmost to blow his ships out of the water. This message, it may be said in passing, marked the first step toward the Anglo-American entente that has since ripened so happily for civilization and humanity.

It was after this episode that von Hintze was commissioned by the Kaiser to make friends abroad in order to betray them. He was, as Admiral Dewey described him, "capable." He acquired the English and French languages perfectly. He courted society in foreign capitals, and won confidences. He was described as a person "hard as nails, entirely impervious to any general humanitarian or altruistic ideas," one who in all international matters was a barbarian. "The possibility of war was never out of his thought," said a writer who described him as he was eighteen years ago. "When I spoke to him of the horror of such a way of settling disputes among civilized beings, I was met by a look of utter lack of comprehension. The thought that it might one day be his duty to bring war to the people he had visited gave him no pain. It seemed to him the right and only thing."

Von Hintze, who before becoming a diplomatist had attained the rank of admiral in the navy, played his favorite role of intriguer both in China and in Mexico. In China his conduct became so notoriously reprehensible that he had to be recalled. It was openly alleged that he was the associate of robber bands and spies. In Mexico he laid the groundwork of the conspiracy which later brought Zimmermann and von Bernstorff into disgrace and ridicule and hastened the entrance of the United States into the war. It was von Hintze who hatched the plot for international intervention in Mexican affairs, and who made it seem probable to the Berlin Foreign Office that all former Mexican territory could be taken from the United States. He had to leave both China and Mexico under a false name and in disguise. After his unsavory diplomatic exploits in these countries he sought appointment in the navy, but this was denied him. However, while even the Kaiser balked at placing him in charge of a fleet, he deemed him fit to represent the empire in Norway.

He is, in short, a person generally distrusted, yet he has now been chosen for a position in which Germany, more than any other nation on earth, needs a man in whom at least a modicum of confidence might with some degree of safety be placed.—Christian Science Monitor.

PAINS AND ACHES YIELD QUICKLY TO SLOAN'S LINIMENT

Are you tormented by Neuralgia, Lumbago, Sciatica or any of those aches that require a counter-irritant? Then let the soothing, warming application of Sloan's Liniment stop the pain by drawing the blood away from the congested part.

It is the pressure on the nerves by the blood rushing to the inflamed muscle or joint that makes you ache. So when Sloan's Liniment relieves the swollen blood vessels by setting up a counter-irritant on the surface, the circulation is equalized, sympathetic nerves all soothed, and soreness or lameness disappears.

Sloan's Liniment is probably the counter-irritant most widely used to overcome painful inflammation in cases of neuralgia, sore muscles, wrenched joints, strains, bruises, gout. Rubbing is not required. This clear, clean liquid is easily applied as it does not stain the skin. Made in Canada.

Generous size bottles at your druggists.

Feb. 9, 1919.

Jethro's Counsel. Exodus 18:1-27.

Golden Text: Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfil the law of Christ. Gal. 6:2.

1. Verses 1-4. Jethro was a Midianite, the father of Moses' wife; he was also a priest of a clan. Why would you say that God in those days communicated with men who were not of Abrahamic descent, the same as he did with those that were?

2. These two sons of Moses seem to have been godly men; to what cause would you attribute this?

3. Verses 5, 6. Why do you suppose that Moses had sent back his wife, Zipporah, and his two sons to his father-in-law at Midian, and why did Jethro now bring them to Moses again?

4. Verses 5, 6. Where was Moses at this time, and what was the "Mount of God?"

5. Why is it desirable that a family, husband, wife and children, should live together in one home?

6. Verses 7, 8. Why is it, in these days, that frequently fathers-in-law, and mothers-in-law, are not congenial with their sons and daughters-in-law?

7. Verses 7, 8. What would you say was the bond of union between Moses and Jethro, his father-in-law?

8. What part does the keeping up of outward forms of affection, and welcome, play in keeping the real fires of love and respect burning? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by the members of the club.)

9. When Christian relatives meet what is the effect of telling each other of God's dealing with them?

10. Verses 9-12. When we can tell our relatives, who are not Christians, of the power of God in our lives, what effect should it have in convincing them that our God is a real God?

11. When a father-in-law conducts family worship in a spiritual way, in the home of his son-in-law, what effect is it likely to have in that home?

12. Verses 13-18. When a business man in a large way, takes upon himself the entire management, and is not trusting, nor training others, to take charge of things, what is likely to happen?

13. Verses 13-18. When a mother does all the work of the home, so the grown-up daughters may have a good time, what will likely be the result to both the mother and daughters?

14. Verses 19, 20. Moses is an outstanding and strong historical character, but what weakness did his father-in-law point out to him?

15. Which is the better and why, to take pains to teach the people the benefit of keeping the laws, so that there will be few offenders or to depend upon punishing people for breaking the laws?

16. Why is a strong man in great authority under obligation to take wise advice when offered by an inferior?

17. Verses 21-23. Apart from a thorough knowledge of the law, what are the essential moral qualifications of a good judge?

18. Why is it essential in these days, that there should be courts for the trial of grave cases, also courts for the trial of trivial matters?

19. Verses 24-27. How does Moses show the greatness of his character in taking good advice from a man greatly beneath him?

Lesson for Sunday, Feb. 16, 1919. The Ten Commandments. Exodus 20:1-7.

WHEN YOU WAKE UP DRINK GLASS OF HOT WATER

Says inside-bathing makes anyone look and feel clean, sweet and refreshed.

Wash yourself on the inside before breakfast like you do on the outside. This is vastly more important because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing illness, while the bowel pores do.

For every ounce of food and drink taken into the stomach, nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out of the body. If this waste material is not eliminated day by day it quickly ferments and generates poisons, gases and toxins which are absorbed or sucked into the blood stream, through the lymph ducts which should suck only nourishment to sustain the body.

A splendid health measure is to drink, before breakfast each day, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless way to wash these poisons, gases and toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels; thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs but very little at the drug store but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on inside-bathing. Men and women who are accustomed to wake up with a dull, aching head or have furred tongue, bad taste, nasty breath, sallow complexion, others who have bilious attacks, acid stomach or constipation are assured of pronounced improvement in both health and appearance shortly.

THIN, NERVOUS PEOPLE NEED BITRO-PHOSPHATE

Guaranteed to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigour and Nerve Force.

Weak, thin people—men or women—are nearly always nervous wrecks; thus conclusively proving that thinness, weakness, debility and neurasthenia are almost invariably due to nerve starvation. Feed your nerves and all these symtoms due to nerve starvation will disappear.

Eminent specialists state that the best nerve food is an organic phosphate known among druggists as Bitro-Phosphate, a five-grain tablet of which should be taken with each meal. Being a genuine nerve builder and not a stimulant or habit-forming drug, Bitro-Phosphate can be safely taken by the weakest and most delicate sufferer, and the results following its use are often simply astonishing.

Weak, tired people regain strength and vigour; thinness and angularity give way to plumpness and curves; sleep returns to the sleepless; confidence and cheerfulness replace debility and gloom; dull eyes become bright, and pale, sunken cheeks regain the pink glow of health. Bitro-Phosphate, the use of which is inexpensive, also wonderfully promotes the assimilation of food, so much so that many people report marked gains of weight in a few weeks.

It is sold by McDermid & Jury in Peterborough and most all good druggists.

CAUTION:— Although bitro-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its remarkable flesh-growing properties, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

CO-OPERATION IN PALESTINE

Three Thousand Jews Have Successfully Combined to Fight the High Cost of Living.

It is, therefore, with the keenest pleasure that I hear of the success of an experiment on a small scale under war conditions in Palestine, Norman Hapgood writes in Leslie's. Since 1914 scarcity, disease, depreciated currency, have combined to reduce the Jewish workers almost to starvation. During the war a small group decided to take the most immediate and effective step. About three years ago 450 workers formed a cooperative society in order to fight against the rise in prices. Each worker contributed 10 francs and with this capital of 4,500 francs the society began to make its purchases. As a result the members of the society were able to purchase four times cheaper than the ordinary public. This co-operation society, "Mashbir," embraces at present about 3,000 persons and has a budget of 18,000 francs. Their first year of business showed a profit. During the second year robbery and plunder by the Turks changed this profit into a loss. The third year has now shown them again paying their way. This society includes not only workmen, but also teachers and clerks. It has applied to the commission for a credit of 120,000 francs and for authorization for one of their group to travel to Egypt to make purchases. It is, indeed, on a small scale compared with the business I cited on July 6, but the lesson is the same: The strongest single answer to the cost of living lies in co-operation.

TRAVEL ACCORDING TO MAP

Airmen on Night Raids Have Course Thoroughly Mapped Out Before Beginning Their Journey.

Before leaving on a long-distance night raid the airmen prepare their maps with great care, marking on them the detailed course from the airdrome to their objective.

By means of a small balloon, whose speed direction and height is recorded by an instrument on the ground, the force and direction of the wind at different altitudes is discovered, and the compass course, allowing for wind-drift, is marked beside the course on the map. The compass course for the return journey is also marked. The speed of the machine is calculated, and on the line of the course a series of points is marked, showing where the machine should be every ten minutes, thus enabling the airman to check his progress and to know his approximate position if he gets lost.

He watches the country below for landmarks. He sees by his map that a river should appear in a few minutes. His watch shows that he has been flying 40 minutes, and near the 45-minute mark on his map is a twisted pale blue line. He looks ahead and sees in the moonlight a silver streak and he knows he is making good time. When he is over the river he compares its outline with his map, and sees that he is crossing it at the right place.

Great Britain Honored By Large Celebrations Held in the United States

NOVEMBER 11, the day on which the armistice was signed, is likely to be observed as a great holiday by all the nations engaged in the war, but the individual nations are likely to hold in perpetual observance other days which contain especial memories for them. A more remarkable sort of commemoration is that which one of the Allied nations offers in honor of a comrade nation. In this class we must place the celebrations that were held in the United States on December 6, 7 and 8 in honor of Great Britain's part in the war. On Friday, the 6th, the schools all over the United States paid their tribute. The day following was the turn of the nation, and on Sunday the churches throughout the nation held special services to do honor to the part Great Britain has played in the war.

The celebrations are all the more remarkable in that they were arranged spontaneously without any hint from London or Washington. The organizations under whose auspices they were held are the Sulgrave Institution, the American Defence Society, the National Security League and the National Committee of Patriotic Societies. The first of these societies maintains the Washington Manor House in Northamptonshire, England, and the other societies have come into birth since the beginning of the war. Prominent Americans connected with the various societies are Mr. Taft, Alton B. Parker, a former Presidential candidate; Elihu Root, ex-Justice Hughes, Col. Roosevelt, Dr. Charles W. Eliot, Governor Whitman, Charles F. Fairchild, and other men of almost equal prominence. In the observances several ex-ambassadors participated, among them being James W. Gerard, David Jayne Hill and Robert Bacon.

The honoring of Great Britain is partly to return the great compliment paid the United States by the Empire on July 4 last. On that occasion a service was held in St. Paul's Cathedral, London, and Dr. Walter Hines Page was given equal precedence with King George, each sitting on a dais. According to P. W. Wilson, a correspondent of the London Daily News, who contributes also to the New York Tribune, King George sang the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," after thanking God for the Declaration of Independence, which, it will be recalled, makes some painfully frank references to a well-known ancestor of his Majesty's. Over the Houses of Parliament the Stars and Stripes was flown side by side with the Union Jack at the mast-head. We doubt if it is on record of one nation so royally saluting another, so handsomely celebrating an anniversary which would have aroused unpleasant memories in a country less royal-hearted.

Those three days in December must give profound satisfaction to what was only a short time ago a very small if distinguished company of American citizens who have worked so unselfishly to promote greater cordiality and better understanding between the English-speaking peoples. They had to oppose powerful, political influences, such as that controlled by the English-hating Hearst newspapers. It was not so long ago since a politician in almost any state in the Union could get a hand for a vigorous twist of the lion's tail. This unfortunate and unreasonable anti-British sentiment was fostered by the school books in the United States, which were almost invariably unfair to Great Britain, and taught the children of the republic that the War of Independence was an almost uninterrupted series of American triumphs against a cowardly and ruffianly English army. The schools are now being purged of these perverters of history, and anti-British sentiment has almost wholly disappeared.

It has been said time and again that one of the great and lasting benefits of this war has been the drawing together of the two nations, and there is every reason to believe that the new relation is a permanent one. Canada, in a sense, has been a link between the Empire as a whole and the United States, for even at a time when the efforts of Great Britain were not appreciated by our cousins, their newspapers rang with the praise of Canadian troops. Then, too, the devotion of the people of all the dominions and colonies must have been an eye-opener to those Americans who did not understand the ties of affection uniting the scattered parts of the Empire. The wonderful loyalty of the American people to the common cause, once war was declared, has also been a lesson and an inspiration to us in Canada and to the Empire at large. The war has taught us to respect each other to an extent that perhaps a century of peace could not have done. We have learned that upon the great issues one arb of one flesh and blood

Dreamy, caressing Hawaiian Music

The magic melody of the throbbing Ukelele and the singing Hawaiian Guitar—blended with the plaintive charm of native voices—instantly takes a strong hold on your imagination.

Listen to the way in which the haunting minor strains and booming major notes—redolent of giant breakers on palm fringed beaches—are recorded on Columbia Records. You CAN'T forget them!

THE DAVIDSON GOLD MINES

The action of Davidson Gold Mines stock during the past three weeks has created a good deal of speculation. Following the substantial advance in the shares at the year end, from 30 to 70 cents per share a healthy reaction occurred to below 53. During the past twenty days insistent buying has occurred. The aggregate volumes taken off the market has been large. Yet it has been done so unobtrusively, that the upward movement in the price of the shares, while steady, has been gradual. The stock is selling now between 60 and 65.

It is stated on reliable authority that the buying has been done by new and powerful financial interests. Three or four of the most prominent financiers of the country have lately been liberal buyers of the stock. There is every evidence that a strong pool has been formed in Davidson stock. That explains the constant quiet buying movement. The fact is that within the past few weeks approximately 300,000 shares of Davidson stock have been bought up by new interests in the company and the market has been drained almost dry of the stock.

The quiet buying movement that is still in progress is due no doubt to the recent significant developments at the property. The rich new ore bodies recently located will be opened up a once, and these should add so materially to the mine's physical resources as to make them appear very cheap at anything like the current price.

PRUNE COMES INTO ITS OWN

Has Won Official Recognition as Confection Worthy of Being Served to Fighting Men.

In the piping times of peace the prune was the butt of cheap wits and the bane of the boarder. Now when the acid test of utility and palatability is applied the despised prune steps into the preferred class—at least on the American army bill of fare. It has won its way solely on its own merit. The counts in its favor are food value, tonic value and value as a confection. It nourishes, stimulates, and delights.

The surgeon general of the army himself testifies to the loyal and helpful support of the once belittled fruit. He has added his recommendation to the approving report of the subsistence division. This report tells us that out of the 1917 crop 20,000,000 pounds of prunes have been consumed by our fighting men. Based on size fifty-five, which is the trade designation of the average prune, the total number consumed would be 1,100,000,000. Placed side by side it is quite possible that this total of prunes wouldn't reach from the American trenches to Berlin, but each prune, no doubt, is doing its best to help the Yankee fighters cover the distance.

There would be a sort of poetical justice in the circumstance if the cheerful idiot and the other boarders whose table wit lingered longest about the patient prune could meet it over there in Flanders and in Picardy and find it honored and extolled as the food of fighting men.

Canadian Whale-Canning.

A Canadian whaling company has been canning whale meat for a number of months in British Columbia. In a letter to the Commercial Intelligence Branch of the Canadian Department of Trade and Commerce, it says:—

"Owing to the demand for whale meat for food we have erected a cannery where we expect to pack 30,000 to 50,000 cases of whale meat this season. We have also erected three cold storage plants to handle frozen whale meat. We also own and operate two freight steamers, one of which has a cold storage capacity of 500 tons. The species of whales taken on this coast yields three to twelve tons of prime meat, and only the prime meat is used by us at the present time for canning or freezing for food. At our plants the meat is handled in an absolutely sanitary manner, and to this end we have gone to considerable expense. Owing to the whale being a hot-blooded mammal, many of the whales brought into our stations are unfit for food, as they are sometimes captured at great distances from the stations, and whales that have been killed over twenty-four hours are not used for this purpose. Samples of our canned product are only now being sent out to prospective buyers, and we have not at present made any large sales in this country or the United States, although we have shipped 1,000 cases to Samoa and Fiji. For the frozen product, however, we already have orders for over one thousand tons, the bulk of which is being shipped to Boston. Our whaling season opens about April 1 and ends about October 15. Up to the present we have put up about 18,000 cases of meat at our cannery."

A Fake Hero.

Sergt.-Major A. E. Wood had put on the Croix de Guerre, R.S.G.M., for life-saving at sea, King and Queen's South African Medal, with several clasps, Long Service Medal, Military Medal and Mons Star. When he added the ribbon of the Victoria Cross the last straw was supplied.

Deadlier Weapons in Next War

PROPHETS like Nobel and Bloch and Wells have long bidden us look forward to the day when war would be so destructive that its must be given up; when cities would be obliterated by a single bomb and a whole year's class of conscripts mown down in an afternoon's fighting. Many thought that this war would be of that type, and were surprised when despite its vast economic scope and intensity it was fought out, generally speaking, on familiar lines, with no new inventions bringing sudden and overwhelming victory. But this negative instance does not prove that the next war may not be far more a war of machines and far more destructive.

The airplane has figured most often in the imaginations of those who saw wars that ended in a week with the destruction of one of the fighting nations. The airplane as a destructive agent did not accomplish a great deal in this war, but this was not due largely to accident? Its development was rudimentary at the beginning of the war compared to the stage reached even now, and the airplane of 1930 will be far more efficient than we are likely to foresee to-day. Moreover, at the outbreak of this war both sides were insufficiently provided with airplanes, and their manufacture on both sides was, generally speaking, at an even pace, so that after the needs of the battle-front had been met there was a very small surplus left over for bombing cities far behind the lines. In a future war the nation which prepares in the air will have an enormous advantage over the one which does not. Already we have machines that can carry fifty men; soon, beyond doubt, we shall have the transatlantic flight.

If war broke out twenty years from now between the United States and a European nation, it might presumably begin by an attack on New York from the sky, says the New York Times. Such attacks have done negligible damage in this war. But the greatest attack on London was made by some thirty airplanes; the attack on New York beginning the war of 1940 would most probably be made by three or four thousand, and machines with far greater bomb-carrying capacity than those used to-day. Such a fleet could carry twenty million pounds of bombs, which would do a great deal of damage.

The submarine did not win the war for Germany, but it gave the Allies some very anxious months. If Germany had had and used at the outset of the war the submarine fleet which she possessed early in 1917 the story might have been different. Offsets to the submarine have been devised, but it is still a dangerous weapon. Then there is poison gas. The leading gas authority of the British army has said that if the first German gas attack in April, 1915, had been made on a front of thirty miles instead of three it might have broken the whole western front. Again, as in the case of air fighting, it was a matter of inadequate preparation. A nation strongly equipped with air fleets, submarines, and new types of gas might make the next war almost as disastrous to its enemies as our prophets have predicted.

Of course, no other nation would use these weapons so brutally as the Germans. But we can hardly yet rely on moral pressure to prevent their unauthorized use; the London Medical Society has urged that poison gas be prohibited in future wars, but it was prohibited in this war by The Hague convention. Agreements might be made that airplanes should not be used against undefended cities, or behind the actual fighting area; but such agreements we had already. Germany might arm again in secret; other nations are more scrupulous than Germany, but a nation which was losing a war on which its national existence depended might not be able to resist the temptation to make use of forbidden weapons which would turn the tide against its foe. The proper regulation of these destructive instruments, whose true power we have hardly yet experienced, says the Times, is one of the matters that must be considered at the Peace Conference.

A Handicap.

The question of the limitations of God was raised, the theory of the divine right of kings was shattered, the "Me und Gott" claim was blissfully ignored and the war settled by two negroes overheard at a railroad station one day before the war ended. "Dis sho' am a big war, but de bigger de better fo' we sho' is goin' to win," said the dusky prophet. The other was far from certain, and said so. "C'ose we'll win," pressed the other, "'ten thousan' shall fall at dy side'—ain't dat writ fo' us? De Lawd of Host, God A'mighty, am on the side of de righteous. Ain't all de white folks prayin', ain't all be black folks prayin', ain't you prayin', aint' you a believin' Christian?' The appeal to Scripture was weighty but not convincing, nor was the thought of "a nation's millions on their knees" a final argument to the coal-black Thomas. "Ain't all dem Germans prayin' jus' as hard as de res' of us?" he queried. "Sho' dey is, but," triumphed the other, "caim't you see it am all to no pupose? God cain't understan' what dey says in dat heathen tongue, can he?"

Poland's Long-Lost Crown.

When the Prussians took possession of Cracow, in 1794, the Polish kingdom ceased to exist. The king of Prussia coveted the traditional diadem of Poland's kings for his own adornment. It had, however, disappeared mysteriously, and the Prussian king was balked of his wish. In January, 1914, seven months before the world war broke out, during a severe storm, lightning struck a stately elm close to the city and brought to light a golden treasure which had lain buried within its roots for 128 years, the long-lost crown of Poland.

"There's your three pennies change," said the druggist.

"Wotcher givin' us?" said the small boy.

"Your change, three pennies."

"No, y'r not. Them's not pennies. You ain't got no pennies in the house."

"I've more than a hundred of 'em in the cash register."

"I'll bet you ain't got one, let alone a hundred," said the boy. "I'll bet you five soda waters."

"I'll take you," said the druggist.

"I'll prove it right now. Read what it says on that money. Don't it say 'One Cent?' You don't find any pennies in our coins. Our teacher told us."

The druggist acknowledged his error.

"Now," said the boy, "come on with your soda water. Gimme two glasses chocolate to begin with."

BETTER THAN HOT SPRINGS, HE SAYS

Ringle Says All Treatments Failed Until He Took Tanlac—Like New Man Now.

Remarkable, indeed, was the statement made recently by Charles Ringel, of 319 Washington street, Peoria, Ill. Mr. Ringel declared that, although he has taken the treatment at Hot Springs and used numbers of different medicines during the past eleven years, in his efforts to restore his health a few bottles of Tanlac have done him more good than everything else combined. His statement follows:

"Nothing ever helped me until I got Tanlac and now I'm just like a man made over. My stomach had been in a very bad fix for eleven years or more, and pained me so bad at times that I would double up like a jackknife. After nearly every meal I would bloat up with gas until I was as tight as a drum and just suffer agony. My nerves became all shattered and my health got so poor that I was forced to quit work. No kind of medicine seemed to reach my trouble and I was going down hill very fast. I was advised to go to Hot Springs, which I did, but after spending what money I had saved up, I returned home in just as bad shape as when I left, if not worse.

"While talking to a good friend one day about my deplorable condition he told me he believed a few bottles of Tanlac would straighten me up. Well, I had little faith in it to help me, but as my friend seemed to know what he was talking about, I decided to take his advice, and to my complete surprise the first bottle of Tanlac stopped the gas forming on my stomach and put me in shape to where I could eat and enjoy my meals. My food began to digest as it should, my nervousness left me, and I realized I was on the road to rapid recovery. As I continued to take Tanlac my health improved and my strength returned until now I am able to work as well as I ever could in my life. I feel more grateful than I can express for what Tanlac has done for me and am now telling my friends who are suffering to try it. I can't praise it too highly and expect to rely on it for my health as long as I live."

Such statements as the foregoing should appeal very forcibly to the thousands who suffer from the same troubles. Most people who suffer from nervousness, and dizziness, stomach and liver troubles, kidney derangements and who are in a general run-down condition, simply need something to tone up their system and to assist the vital organs in performing their proper functions. Tanlac is a powerful reconstructive and always produces most gratifying results.

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd., in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

He Was Frugal.

Here is how one frugal French-Canadian lived on the small sum of one dollar a week. "Eet is simple, vaire simple," he explained. "Sunday I go to se house of a good friend and there I dine so extrordinaire and eat so vaire much I need no more till Wednesday. On zat day I have at a restaurant one large, vaire large, dish of tripe and onions. I abhor ze tripe, yet, and ze onion also, and to-gether zey make me so seek I have no more appetite till Sunday. Eet is vaire simple."

Prince Lvov Slav Patriot

THE arrival of Prince G. E. Lvov on this continent is of utmost importance because he represents the liberal spirit of Russia, and is respected by all the Russian liberal and revolutionary factions, as the leader of the March revolution. He is one of the few leaders representing the true spirit of Russia, and in this respect, Prince Lvov, being a liberal, can be compared with such revolutionary leaders as Catherine Breshkovskaya and Peter Kropotkin. An old leader of the Russian Zemstvos, the president of the All-Russian Union of Zemstvos and Municipalities, the Prime Minister of the First and Second Provisional Cabinets Prince G. E. Lvov thinks as free Russia thinks and feels as free Russia feels.

The great war came to a finish. Every nation expresses her aspirations and desires, only Russia temporarily in a state of confusion, is unable to raise her voice through a properly organized and recognized government. Therefore, it is most significant what the recognized leaders of democratic Russia have to say at this moment, what is their understanding of the Russian situation, and what is in their opinion the proper solution of the Russian problem.

Prince G. E. Lvov does not need any special introduction before the Canadian people. His entire life, devoted to the best interests of the Russian people and humanity at large, is a sufficient introduction. Nevertheless, I will take the liberty of quoting Prince Lvov on the problems of the world's war and peace and on the problem of Russia, being sure that the thoughts and feelings of this prominent Russian liberal leader are of interest to Canadians.

In the beginning of 1916, Prince Lvov said the following about the historical and cultural sense of this war and about the life which is coming after peace is re-established: "As with a heavy curtain the war has separated the old life from the new. Whenever and however it ends, it is certain that the old order of things has come to an end and that a new order is coming in. Even now, in the midst of the mortal struggle, we can already perceive the currents of the new life. Creative energy lives side by side with destruction, just as young life springs up side by side with death. It does not die away, does not become extinguished on the advanced positions. On the contrary, it is there that it really springs into being. The hands are besmeared with blood, the face is black with powder smoke, yet within the soul the fire of love for the native lands burn brighter and brighter and call on to creative activity. In the army, as in a storage battery, accumulates war charges the air with ozone by the new life. The thunderstorm of spiritual power. Behind them will be not the years of war, but centuries upon centuries of old life. Before them will burn the rising sun of a new spiritual realization.

"These men returning from the battlefield will change radically the conditions of the life of men, raise human life to a height before unknown. Yet, the transformation that will be a thousand-fold more significant. It will create a new earth and a new heaven."

The idealism burning in the above given words is typical of Prince Lvov's thought. Being a practical statesman who united the work of all Russian Zemstvos and municipalities in supplying the armies and in taking care of millions of sick and wounded, Prince Lvov at the same time was always looking forward to the ideal of permanent peace and happiness for his country and humanity at large. He saw the dangers facing Russia immediately after the March revolution. As the head of the Provisional Government he felt the difficulties at every step in reorganizing the country and bringing it to a democratic order. He foresaw the possibility and probably the inevitability of a temporary disintegration in Russia, but nevertheless he never lost hope for his country. He was always sure that the brightest future lies before Russia.

In July, 1917, after the first attempt of the Bolsheviki to seize power in Petrograd, after the many signs of disintegration of the Russian armies at the front, Prince Lvov issued a statement in which he said: "Despite the extreme gravity of the situation, I have not lost my faith in Russia. I am confident that the nation will emerge triumphant out of all these difficulties. Such exigencies are bound to arise on the hard, thorny path of reconstruction. This is not a crisis which will end fatally. On the contrary, it will result in recovery. This is my belief not only because I am optimistically inclined and believe in the genuine vitality of the Russian people that cannot disintegrate and disappear from the earth, but because I judge impartially and weigh the facts and factors which will determine the future of our revolution. My optimistic view on the situation is grounded on the lessons of our past."

Peace on earth will bring in the near future peace in Russia. A few years will pass and we will see Russia an orderly state led by a stable democratic government. There can be no doubt that Prince Lvov will be among the leaders of new Russia.

To Hold False Teeth In Place Use CORFGA

CHEMICAL

Use Cocoanut Oil For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy, lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

They Met Again.

During the last days of the war, a German field kitchen loaded with slum, coffee, cigars and cigarettes for a hundred men, and making a slight and quite pardonable error as to the whereabouts of the somewhat jumpy German line, drove up in the darkness to a battalion of Canadian Infantry and there started to unload before the delighted Tommies discovered them. The captors were about to pitch in when a lieutenant rushed out of the dim-lit dugout and, with uplifted hand, postponed the feast, hissing out as he did so that there might be arsenic in the slum and that anyway the whole thing was probably a plot. This turn of events dejected the German cook, who was fatter than any one in Germany is supposed to be in the fifth year of the war and who had just been congratulating himself that even the fiendish Canadians could not be so very cruel to one who had brought them such unexpected refreshments. The cook brightened up, however, when it occurred to him that he and his drivers might disarm suspicion by themselves sampling all the rations on hand. They weren't allowed to do more than sample them when the bunch joined in, and in five minues 25 Canadians had cleaned up a meal which had been prepared for a hundred Germans. The cook was still a bit worried about his scout, who had gone on ahead to feel the way and of whom nothing had been heard since. He was told that he would probably meet him before morning. Sure enough, at dawn, in the prison cage far behind, the stray ration detail all met face to face. "Oh, Johann!" "Oh, Gottlieb!" It was a great reunion.

LAUGH AND GROW FAT.

"Laugh and grow fat,' is an old saying laden with value for nervous people in particular. Drop the worry habit and use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and you will soon get the nervous system restored to good condition. Digestion will improve, appetite will return, and you will find such symptoms as headache and sleeplessness fast disappearing.

Looking Far Ahead.

A wife, whose husband is on active service, recently presented him with a bouncing baby boy. She wrote to ask him when he should get leave, and also when the war would be over. His reply was as follows:

"Dear Lucy—I don't know when I shall get leave or when the war will be over, but if the baby should be called up before I get leave, give him a parcel to bring out to me.—Your loving husband, Bill."—London Tit-Bits.

Sat Up In Bed To Get Her Breath

Palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath, inability to lie on the left side, feelings as if smothering, oppressed feeling in the chest, dizzy and faint spells, tired weak, worn out feeling, involuntary twitching of the muscles sleeplessless, restless, etc., all point to the fact that either the heart or nerves, or both, are not what they should be. Any of these conditions should be remedied immediately so as to avoid a complete breakdown of the whole system.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will bring energy to the weakened constitution, strengthen and regulate the heart, and tone up the tired, overstrained nerves.

Mrs. William Steeves, Chemical Road, N.B., writes:— "I have been a great sufferer from nerve troubles and palpitation of the heart, which was so bad I had to sit up in bed to get my breath. I could not lie on my left side at all. I tried doctor after doctor, also several different remedies, but got no help from them. My mother insisted on me trying Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. By the time I had used one box, I was feeling very much better. I took in all three boxes, and now I am in perfect health and can enjoy a good sound sleep, and can lie on my left side without any trouble."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

PARIS, Feb. 7.—While it now seems certain that compulsory arbitration will not be written into the constitution of the League of Nations, the league will not lack means of enforcing its decision, the United Press learned from an authoritative source to-day.

The Blockade.

Compulsory arbitration means that disputants would be compelled not only to submit their differences to the league, but would have to abide by its decisions. As the matter now stands, the league will force submission of arbitrable questions and will prevent recourse to arms until a decision is rendered. What action will be taken in case a disputant disregards the mandate of arbitration it is impossible to learn at this time, but it is believed that the blockade, which proved so effective in the case of Germany, will constitute the league's weapon.

Refractory Nations.

The means of handling refractory nations should they disregard the award of the arbitration board, also remains a mystery. Among the theories advanced in this connection was that the blockade, or at least a boycott, would be employed.

Another Ten Days.

Following the official announcement that the special committee working on the league constitution was a "third" through its task, it became known that instead of completing the draft this week, as previously announced, a week or ten days will be required to finish the work.

Next to the League of Nations, the most important committee session now in progress are those of the reparation and newly organized blockade commissions. The economic programme for the entire world is involved in these discussions. Not only must it be determined what Germany should pay in the way of damages, but what she is able to pay and how she is to earn the money with which to pay.

A Big Problem.

The various powers will float file memoranda setting forth their claims. The biggest problem, however, centres on how Germany can pay. This necessitates working out an economic schedule. She must not only make money in marks, but in the currency of the Associated Powers. This means that her exports must exceed her imports, the amount of her credit being in proportion to the excess of her exports.

Publicity Given to Military Crimes

Germans in Occupied Territory Have Names and Crimes Published in the Newspapers — To Lessen Minor Crimes.

Canadian Press:

COBLENZ, Feb. 7.—The names of all Germans convicted of violation of the army regulations in the territory occupied by the Allied forces are being published in German newspapers, together with the address and of each offence charged and fine or sentence imposed. Publicity was decided upon as being likely to prevent an increase of minor offences, such as selling liquor or of imitation liquor to soldiers.

Old Order in Germany Has Gone Beyond Recall Said Chancellor Ebert

"We Will Be An Empire of Justice and Truth," the Chancellor Remarked at the Opening of the Assembly.

APPEAL FOR UNITY

(Canadian Press Despatch)

WEIMAR, Feb. 7.—"The old order in Germany has gone beyond recall and the people are now determined to rule themselves," declared Friedrich Ebert, Chancellor, calling the National Assembly to order here this afternoon. "We will call on the old German spirit of Weimar," he said, "We will be an empire of justice and truth."

The Chancellor opened the proceedings in the Assembly at 3:15 o'clock. He was received with applause as he advanced for the ceremony. In opening he addressed the assemblage as "Ladies and Gentlemen." A form of address never before heard in a German legislative body. The Chancellor's speech was an earnest appeal for unity and untiring labour.

Minister on Trial For Wife's Death Tells Life Story

Henry H. Hall Testifies Home Relations Were Entirely Harmonious.

SAGO, Maine, Feb. 7.— Henry H. Hall, of Wells Depot, recited his life story to the jury before which he is on trial charged with the murder of his wife. The lay preacher told of the success of his religious work, especially in Pubnico, N.S., where he said: "God must have wonderfully blessed me, for there were twenty-five or thirty conversions within a short time."

He described his relations with his wife throughout her life as entirely harmonious with never an unkind word uttered by either. He gave to the jury a picture of domesticity that showed him caring for his wife during her long periods of ill health, performing many homely household tasks, while at the same time he was employed in regular jobs of pipe laying, carpentering and wood cutting that required him to walk two miles or more from his home each day.

Hall told of his arrival in Wells Depot in January, 1918, and of incidents of his life there up to the time of his wife's death in June of that year. His story of her death was not touched on, as the recital was cut short by adjournment.

Hall was put on the witness stand at the close of a day filled with testimony contradictory of the evidence of the prosecution, regarding quarrels between husband and wife over his attentions to women.

AGAINST COUSIN-MARRIAGES.

Mr. Francoeur's Bill Allowed to Go Before Committee.

QUEBEC, Feb. 7.—The Legislature of Quebec Studied the proposed bill Mr. Francoeur, member for Lotbiniere, introduced last week to prohibit marriages between cousins. Clerical papers and reviews have strongly attacked this bill, claiming that it is up to the Church to prevent such marriages, and show leniency in certain exceptional cases when it is deemed advisable to allow cousins to marry.

Mr. Francoeur, before the House, pointed to the fact that the Protestants in Quebec also have to be protected against marriages between cousins, and said that the bill should be enacted to further prevent degeneracy. Sir Lomer Couin allowed the bill to go before a committee, although he said that such a bill would be unconstitutional.

The bill will be studied some time next week before the Public Legislation Committee.

THE WEATHER

The coldest weather of the present winter is being at the present time experienced in all sections west of the Great Lakes, while in this part of Ontario the weather is quite mild and spring-like. A year ago to-night it was 16 below zero. The 9th, 10th and 11th of Feb. were the so-called "meatless days," to conserve as much as possible the coal, a serious shortage of which appeared imminent.—W.P.

GERMANS ARE HEAVILY FINED BY AMERICANS

(United Press.)
(By Webb Miller.)

American Headquarters in Germany, Feb. 7. — The American Army officials continue to watch closely for evidences of German propaganda among the troops, and imposing heavy fines upon every violator. A German priest was fined 1,000 marks ($250) for reading propaganda matter in his church. Another German was fined two thousand marks for cursing and abusing the French before American soldiers.

Ten million marks ($2,500,000) was received to-day as part of the German government's payment of the expenses of the army of occupation. It was announced that 20,000,000 marks more were being sent.

Brantford Abolishes Public School Fees

Lady Trustees Against Dropping of Cadet Drill—Technical School Wanted.

BRANTFORD, Feb. 7. — At a meeting of the Board of Education, on motion of Trustees Lane and Armstrong, the fees in all the public schools of the city were abolished. Notice of motion to abolish the fees in the Collegiate Institute for the students from the city schools, was also given. A resolution was submitted for the discontinuance of the cadet drill in the schools, and this brought forth a lively discussion. The lady members of teh board were strongly opposed the move. The board decided to return all rifles to the government. The board decided to at once urge on the government the city's claim for a new technical school. Mr. Kilmer in his annual report declared that an average attendance of 68 per cent. was too low and that absence in most part was due to the children being sent out to work on account of living conditions.

Suggests Allies Work Foe Mines To Collect Debt

One-Time Belgian Premier Declares Germany Must Pay to Last Pfennig.

BRUSSELS, Feb. 7. — Belgium wants the United States and the Quadruple Entente to support her contention that the Allies have the right to work the German mines to help the enemy pay indemnity and reparation awards by the peace conference. J. B. Cooreman, one-time Premier, made the following statement regarding this matter to a correspondent:

"Any suggestion to let Germany off from any fraction of her debt amazes me. Indeed, such a suggestion is almost immoral — like bargaining with a burglar.

"The pretext that the enemy may not be able to restore or to pay for all she has stripped us of or destroyed is childish. I would suggest that the Allies seize and work some of the rich German coal mines to the end that we may compensate ourselves for our losses.

"These mines would in time suffice to meet Germany's debt to the last pfennig. The mines of her Austrian ally should also be taken over.

"For my part, I cannot but wonder at any kind of leniency toward such barbarians as the Germans have proved themselves to be. What they should pay they are able to pay and should be made to pay."

LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

Half of the Constitution is Already Prepared.

United Press:

PARIS, Feb. 7.—The League of Nations Committee has completed half of the draft of the constitution, it was announced to-day.

SOCIETY OF NATIONS

The Abolition of Cumpolsory Military Service Causes Some Discussion—Military Coercion.

ELEVEN ARTICLES

Canadian Press:

PARIS, Feb. 7.—Eleven articles for the Society of Nations were discussed and approved with small modifications by the Peace Conference Commission on that subject at its meeting last night. The only article not approved was a paragraph concerning the abolition of compulsory military service unless required by reasons of national defence under extraordinary circumstances. Premier Orlando of Italy opposed the paragraph, also Leon Bourgeoise, one of the French members. The paragraph was cancelled and it was decided to leave to each country the freedom to select a system of recruiting its forces up to an amount of troops which will be fixed later by the Society of Nations. Another article which caused animated discussion was that concerning the method of applying military coercion to countries refusing to comply with the decision of the Society of Nations or breaking its rules. No decision was reached.

Lloyd George Returning.

Conferences between President Wilson and Premier Lloyd George have been in progress for the purpose of determining the course to be taken by respective British and American delegations at the Peace Congress during their absence. Wilson expects to leave for America shortly and Lloyd George will probably return to England for the Parliament sitting. Both will be away for some weeks, and Wilson may not return at all.

Germans Still Using Poison Gas

Passengers in Coaches Recently Handed Over to France Overcome—Five Killed 16 Injured.

PARIS, Feb. 7.—Two railway coaches, recently handed over to France by Germany, played a most important part in a puzzling accident on the Paris-Metz railway line in which five persons lost their lives. Sixteen persons were injured.

Train No. 47, bound for Metz, had just entered the tunnel at Nanteuil when the passengers occupying the two coaches handed over by Germany began to experience trouble in breathing and strong obnoxious gases began to fill up the coaches.

The passengers smashed the windows, but as soon as fresh air came in contact with the gases the coaches became a mass of fire. The passengers, in terror, fled to the tracks in the dark tunnel. A train going in the opposite direction crashed into them and five were killed.

Of the 16 injured, all of whom were treated at the hospital at Chateau Thierry, eight suffered only from the effects of asphyxiating gas.

An official statement given out by the railroad company says: "The fire in the coaches was not due to any defect in the lighting or heating apparatus, nor to a hot-box. The presence of the obnoxious gases is still unexplained. Both coaches were consumed by the flames."

John Sangster Was Fined $200

Stepped Off Train This Morning Into the Arms of a Waiting Policeman.

John Sangster got off the 8.21 Montreal C.P.R. train this morning with two pint bottles and one quart bottle of the real old Scotch. John had likely been taking a nap on the train and had failed to button up his outer garments, which attracted the attention of one of Chief Thompson's blue coats. Result $200 and costs, or in all, $209.10.

Evidently by the appearance of John's roll he has not been idle lately. Two hundred dollars seemed little to him when separated from a $700 roll.

He gave as his address, Rockcroft P.O., Harvey township.

WILL MAKE HUNS OBEY

New Terms Will be Imposed—Germany Threatens to Break Off Negotiations.

MEETING TO-DAY

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, Feb. 7. — The allied premiers who will meet this afternoon as the Supreme Interallied War Council, probably will fix new terms to be imposed upon Germany, whose tactics of obstruction and recrimination are said to have reached the climax in a threat made at Weimar by Chancellor Ebert that Germany would break of negotiations with the Allies.

"The full will of the allies must be met," says the Matin, because of the unwillingness of Germany to carry out the armistice conditions. There has been a change in the attitude of Germany, according to that newspaper, and it is being manifested by arrogance toward the Entente.

GET ESTIMATES OF ADVERTISING THE CITY

After deciding not to accept the offer of J. J. Turner & Sons Ltd. to paint, at a cost of $100, a sign advertising Peterborough on the board north of the C.P.R. bridge, the Manufacturers committee last night turned cautiously to a consideration of newspaper and magazine advertising. The chairman of the committee, Ald. McIntyre, and City Clerk Armstrong, were instructed to obtain the rates of advertising in Toronto and Montreal papers and in any journals they would recommend, and report back. Aldermen Gainey, Murray and Phelan were present. The new members were introduced to the uncertainties and the costs of advertising campaigns. It was agreed that Peterborough's name and its resources should be presented to manufacturers who may be planning to move to Canada or from some other Canadian city to another. Lindsay's advertisement in the Toronto Globe was shown to the members, but it was vitiated by Ald. Murray's opinion by the inclusion of the name of the Lindsay Board of Trade.

Since 1911 the local Board of Trade has been represented on the Manufacturers' committee by three members. This year the Board has not been invited to send delegates, and Ald. Murray stated that he would not sanction their reception. If the Board of Trade had any communications to present to the Council, he remarked, they could approach by way of the gallery in the Council chamber, following the only way that was open to the Trades and Labour Council.

FRANK JENNE says:

To-morrow we will allow you 10% discount on our made-to-measure clothes. Here is your opportunity to buy your new spring suit. Semi-Ready Ltd., of Montreal, allows us this discount, as the present time is between seasons and in order to keep their entire staff of tailors the year round they make us this offer. ### SOLDIER HEARS BY CHANCE OF WIFE'S DEATH

GALT, Feb. 6.—Accidentally coming across a copy of a local paper in the field in Germany, Pte. W. Ladbrook, a well-known local soldier and cricket player, was shocked to read an account of the death of his wife, of which he had never received a word, from "flu," in November last.

The soldier who wrote home of the incident said Pte. Ladbrook was worried as to the whereabouts of his motherless children, but they are being well cared for. However, the youngest William, was last evening severely mauled by a hound. The lad's face was torn and he was removed to the hospital.

The dog is under observation for nine days and the police have issued a warning that all canines running at large will be shot.

PARIS, Feb. 7.—The announcement was made to-day that the Italians and Jugo-Slavs have made favourable progress toward a compromise on their territorial disputes.

THE SITUATION IN PORTUGAL IS UNCHANGED

(United Press.)

PARIS, Feb. 7.— The situation in the Portuguese Royalist revolution is practically unchanged, according to an official communique received from Lisbon. "The situation is unchanged in Castello, Porto Graca and Viana," the statement said. "Train service is normal between Lisbon and Avero. A battalion of marines has started northward toward Oporto. A Royalist column has appeared between Snaturem and Lisbon, dominating that region."

Wilsons Are Coming Home

President is Bringing Home a Few Tons of Souvenirs—May Return to Paris.

By Robt. J. Bender.
(United Press.)

PARIS, Feb. 7.—They were already packing up at the Murat Palace today.

While President Wilson is not scheduled to sail before next Thursday, his and Mrs. Wilson's gifts and souvenirs were being boxed preparatory to shipment. The pounding of hammers echoed merrily through the ancient house, as rare paintings, books, statues, jewellery and cigarette cases were stowed in wooden cases. They weight hundreds of pounds, avoirdupois and are worth hundreds of pounds sterling.

"Clearing House."

It has not been definitely determined whether the President will return to France, yet the Wilsons are "clearing house" as though they had no intention of coming back, despite the fact they would almost certainly occupy the Murat Palace again on a second trip. The President, despite the long hours he devotes to peace work, finds time to read interesting letters from all parts of the world, many of which he answered personally. One arrived to-day from Harold H. Rucker, seven years old, of Wichita, Kas., who said: "I am studying as hard as I can in school, so I will be able to do something important when I am a man." The President replied: "I am glad you are beginning early to have an ambition, and I hope you will grow up to think of the country you live in before you think of yourself."

BIG STRIKE IN BERLIN

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

BERLIN, Feb. 7.—All the Bourgeouise of the city of Dusseldorf has walked out, officials, clerks and other employees in the service of railways, post, telegraph, telephone and service lines, bankers, lawyers, physicians, school teachers, and other people engaged in professions have quit work. The employees on all public service lines are striking in keeping with the threat to the executive council of the government to call a general strike of all Bourgeouise classes if their demands were not granted. Theatres and restaurants were forced to close, as they are without service. Big industrial plants have shut down as office forces everywhere have joined in the walk-out. This unique protest is the first of its kind to be applied on a big scale as retaliation against Spartacan terrorism.

THE STRIKE SITUATION

Threatened Nation-Wide Railway Strike Settled To-day—Waiters Still on Strike.

CONDITIONS IMPROVING

(United Press.)

LONDON, Feb. 7th. — The threatened nation wide railway strike was settled to-day through an agreement reached by the employers and the employees in conference with representatives of the government and the Board of Trade.

Other strikes were cropping up in various parts of the country.

Under the settlement obtained in the railway strike, which was to be called in sympathy with the walkout of the London district subway workers, the latter return to their jobs with an eight hour day assured, not including time for their meals.

Although the full terms have not been made public it was announced that the "Employers have agreed to reasonable facilities for meeting the ordinary physical needs of the workers."

Tubes in Operation.

The tubes were again in operation this morning and tens of thousands of persons again went to their work in busses, army motor cars and private automobiles which the owners turned over to public use.

Thousands of others slept in their offices and business places last night. The walking crowds were particularly dense yesterday evening. At one time fully 50,000 persons were jammed in the Strand, completely tieing up traffic.

Electrical workers partially struck last night. Only the outside workers quit and no immediate effect was felt.

TRANSPORTATION.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Feb. 7.—To-night, for the first time in a week, there was a fair transportation service in and out of the city. Practically all employees of steam and electric surface and underground roads were again on duty after the strike periods ranging from one to ten days. There were no reports to-day of any change in the situation at Belfast or Glasgow. In both of these places it was reported yesterday that many employees had gone back to work.

POPPIES ARE BANNED

Confirmation of the warning published in the Examiner a short time ago as to the danger of the Flanders' poppy becoming a troublesome weed if introduced on any general scale as a memorial of the men who are buried beneath the poppies in France and Belgium, was given by Hon. G. S. Henry, Minister of Agriculture in an address the other evening. Hon. Mr. Henry quoted from a report on the subject made by Professor Howett of the Ontario Agricultural College in which he says "In view of the fact that the poppy is such a common weed in grain fields in Europe, and that the seeds have considerable vitality and will remain dormant in the ground for several years, it seems to me there would be considerable risk that the poppy might become a troublesome weed in Ontario if it were introduced wholesale for patriotic purposes."

It is evident from this warning that the project of importing poppies from Flanders which had been mooted here as well as in many other communities in Ontario will have to be dropped and many people who appreciated the sentimental value attracted to these bright flowers which bloom between "the crosses ,row on row," in Flanders will regret that it is not considerered advisable to use them here for memorial purposes, but in view of expert opinion on the subject there does not seem to be any other course than to abandon the scheme.

THE PROHIBITION QUESTION

There is every indication that before the Dominion Government takes final action on the question of prohibition there will be a keen fight throughout the Dominion. The action of the representatives of the Labor organization in waiting upon members of the Cabinet and urging that stronger beer be permitted in Canada is an indication of what is impending. It is significant that the deputation presented resolutions endorsing the request from almost almost hundred of the nineteen hundred labor unions in the Dominion. The unusual argument in favor of stronger beer advanced by the Labor representatives was that total prohibition would turn immigrants of British stock from Canada and divert the tide of immigration to Australia where there is no indication of a dry policy being adopted. It was the opinion of the spokesmen of the deputation that if a stronger and non-intoxicating beer was permitted in Canada it would be satisfactory to the majority of the workmen of Canada.

As to the returned soldiers of Canada, it is by no means a secret that there is among very many of the men who have fought overseas a strong feeling of resentment against the Dominion Government and here in Ontario against the Provincial Government for their temperance legislation . The attitude of the soldier generally is that an unfair advantage was taken of him by the two Governments in passing measures upon which no opportunities was given to test the feeling of the country and which many of Canada's army feel are an infringement upon personal liberty.

These facts may as well be looked in the face together with the pretty well distributed belief that the measures are more or less class legislation. "The rich man can have his cellar full" is a common expression when the prohibition question is being discussed.

What is to be the outcome when Parliament considers the question?

MUST PAY FOR IT

The Fire, Water and Light Committee of the City Council have decided to recommend the adoption of the two platoon system for the local department and will add four men to the strength, bringing the total to twenty men. In doing so they have acted directly against the wishes of the Fire Underwriters Association.

The Underwriters take the position that the addition of four men merely brings the brigade up to the strength that is required for the single platoon system. Under the double platoon system they insist upon an increase of fifty per cent. in the strength which would require Peterboro to have thirty fully paid firemen. The proposition adopted by the Fire, Water and Light Committee is pronounced by the Underwriters as "entirely inadequate" and it is claimed that it would leave the brigade "distinctly weaker than it is at present".

If the committee's recommendation is adopted by the council and the two platoon system introduced with a brigade that the Underwriters regard as fifty per cent. under manned what will be the result? Undoubtedly the insurance rates in Peterboro will go up with a bound and every body who owns a house or rents one or has any property to insure against fire will have to pay the shot to help maintain the two platoon system. There are many arguments in favour of the new system—it gives the firemen a chance to have a little time to themselves and to get acquainted with their families and should make an improvement in the morale of the department. The majority of the citizens seem to favour the change. They should, however, realize that they will have to pay for it.

The position the Underwriters have taken indicates what would be required if an eight hour day for firemen, as suggested by the Trades and Labour Council were to be adopted. Such a system would necessitate the employment of three shifts of fifteen men each, a total strength of 45 men and the pay roll alone of the department would reach the $40,000 a year mark.

THE MUTUAL LIFE

This year the financial statements of the various Mutual Life Insurance Companies will be examined with more than usual interest in view of the unprecedented strain to which such organizations have been subjected by the war and the epidemic of influenza. A perusal of the Annual Report of the Mutual Life Assurance Company of Canada will be a pleasant surprise even to the friends of that Company who, in view of the war mortality and that accompanying the influenza might, with some reason, have expected a report less favorable. But the financial strength of this company, carefully conserved during many past years had made it possible to pay the unwonted claims and yet leave a substantial surplus. Thanks to the care and foresight exercised in the past the Mutual has won through with splendid credit and, remarkable to relate, with undiminished dividends. The Mutual has during the war, dispensed to beneficiaries and their friends about two million dollars in addition to the normal mortality, yet the present position of the Company is magnificent and never before was Canada's only Mutual as popular as it is to-day. This is evident from the phenomenal amount of new business pouring in from month to month. The Company holds a reserve greater than required by the Government by $1,210,000 and the assets exceed by $5,813,000 the amount required by the Government standard.

The amount of premiums received during the year was $5,021,518.20 and the receipts for interest, rents, etc., amounted to $1,999,584,87, making a total income of $7,021,103.07.

The Disbursements were as follows:—

| | |
|---|---|
| Death and Disability... | $1,553,077.60 |
| Matured Endowments... | 479,958.62 |
| Annuities..... | 10,541.40 |
| Policies Purchased.... | 409,374.69 |
| Surplus..... | 838,466.15 |
| Total.. ..... | $3,291,418.46 |

This constitutes a wonderful record of usefulness and one of which the individual members of the organization may well feel proud, leaving, as it does, the essential stability of the Company unimpaired.

That the Mutual is extremely popular is shown by the fact that during the last five years the production of new business exceeded that of the preceding five years by 63½%. The people of Canada evidently appreciate life insurance to-day as they never have done before. This is one of the compensations of the war from a financial point of view. The war ha also made it possible for insurance companies to earn an exceptionably high rate of interest for a long term of years on their war bond investments. It is probable that before these bonds mature the excess of interest obtainable over the normal will have completely recouped the Company's holding them for the payment of the war claims.

PRESENTATION TO DETECTIVE COOKMAN

Acting Detective George Ernest Cookman whose romantic marriage was recently published in the daily papers, was presented last evening in the Court Room with a handsome eight day clock from his fellow workers of the police force. The presentation was made by Chief Thompson who in a few words wished Detective Cookman every happiness and expressed his satisfaction at having him back on the force where his efficient services had been much missed during his absence at the front. Detective Cookman replied to the address with a few well chosen words.

FIRMS ACCUSED OF SKIMPING SOLDIERS

TORONTO, Feb. 7.—A complaint to the effect that the Ontario Labor Bureaus are sending returned soldiers to firms who treat them unfairly, was made yesterday at a meeting of the biulding trades. It is alleged that many are being paid less than the prevailing scale of wages, so a strong motion of protest was adopted. It was announced that a letter had been received from the Minister of Public Works stating that any work that can be proceeded with at Osgoode Hall will be started at once.

A Chance For the Returned Man

It is quite likely that the Government policy now crystalized in the effort to induce men returned from service to go on the land is bearing fruit. The expressed intention of men who are looking to some form of occupation that will ensure a livelihood and with it some personal independence is bringing many to consider and apply for papers preliminary to considering the proposition to go on the land.

Many of the men returned have had previous training on a farm and in farm work. Several admit that they pursued that occupation just so long as they could not get away from it. For it had, at the time no other prospect than that of a farm hand for them. Now with the broader outlook, with the opportunity that if the reasonable condition be met, and with fair health and continuance of purpose they may in time become independent has appealed to many. Numbers of applications have been made through the office of the Patriotic Fund, which undertakes to do the preliminary work of application filling in of papers, etc.

A typical Case.

A case is typical, that of Pte. Fred Riddell, who returned end of November last. He had enlisted with the 109th Regiment and was transferred to the 38th Batt., and saw service in the field. Fortunately he escaped without injury. He made up his mind when abroad, that the farm was the thing for him.

He spent 20 years at farming in the township of Clarke, Durham Township, and is now 39 years of age. Not too late, he says, to make a new start. He has that invaluable essential to a man doing farming, his and children. He expects that the boys will be a substantial help and the family be happier on the farm than living and depending on the vicarious chances of continuous occupation, working for some one else.

With a very limited capital he hopes to get through. His course can be taken by any other man who will prove up. Prove up honestly of purpose, determination to catch hold and lift and stick at it. The Department makes fairly stringent regulations. These are to be met. Good for the new farming settled and good for the proposition. A most substantial help is afforded. Three years from now the problem of cost of living will have scored itself for Fred Riddell, as it will for any man who will show the enterprise to get on to the land and help himself.

Peterboro Boy Enjoying Life In Germany

Crossing the Rhine With the Canadians.

The following letter is from Corporal W. Josey, 23rd Battery, to his mother, Mrs. W. Josey, 304 Patterson street:

Bonn, Germany, Dec. 16, 1918.

My Dear Mother,— Your ever welcome letter received O.K., and very pleased to know that you were getting on well. I mentioned in my last letter that I had not received any mail from you lately. Well, just after I mailed that letter to you I received one from you almost immediately afterwards.

This isn't a bad old war at all now. We have pretty good billets in houses at present, but expect to move into barracks at any time. We arrived at Bonn a few days ago, and it was a nice place to visit believe me. It is, I understand, the main university town of Germany, and the whole division passed these universities. We were also crossing the Rhine that day, which runs almost directly through Bonn. General Currie inspected us on this bridge.

Well, dear mother, no doubt you will be surprised and also pleased to know that I have been awarded the military medal for the Amiens battle. It was read out on brigade orders a few days ago. I have instructed them to send the medal direct to you, so don't be surprised when it reaches there. I don't remember whether I told you about Charlie Martin receiving one a couple of weeks ago for the same battle. He was in hospital at South Wales at the time. No doubt in the course of a few weeks I will be presented with it officially (that is, generally by the Division General.)

I suppose you will soon be expecting me home? I wish I could think so myself, but I am afraid we will be needed here for garrison duty a couple of months anyway. No doubt by this time Dad is home. He certainly is lucky to get there by Christmas. Well, I suppose when all is said and done, we ought to be thankful that the war is over, and that we are still here to enjoy the good times which are bound to come afterwards. Margaret wrote me a letter a few days ago, and was saying that she had sent me a parcel, so with the one from home and a Christmas dinner, we ought not to fare so bad, what do you think?

No word at all from Wes. yet. I wonder if he got his leave? Ours seems to have stopped entirely, just at a time when I nearly headed the list.

Well, I think this will be all for now as time at the moment is precious. I am on guard duty to-day. I hope this letter finds you in the best of health, as it leaves me at present. Bye-bye.

From your ever loving son,
PERCY.

P.S.—Would you please tell Marg. that I received her letter O.K. Will write as soon as I can find time.—P.

SOCIAL AFTERNOON HELD IN LAKEFIELD

The Lakefield Symphony Orchestra Made Its Debut to Lakefield's "Four Hundred."

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 7.—A social afternoon was held at Mrs. F. J. Tate's residenct on Wednesday afternoon under the auspices of St. John's Church. In spite the slippery walking there was a large attendance, and more than $40 was realized. The affair partook of the nature of a musicale as the Lakefield Symphony Orchestra rendered a splendid programme during the afternoon. This was the first public appearance of the orchestra and they received well deserved plaudits on all sides. Lakefield has not had the privilege of such a musical treat for years. Mr. Keith Tate, the conductor, is to be congratulated on the success of the organization. There are three violinists, Mesdames Strickland, Britton and Morrison; two mandolins, Miss Florence Atwood and Mr. D. H. Morrison, and two banjos, Mrs. Langley and Miss Atwood. Mrs. E. R. Tate officiated at the piano.

There was a seven-minute interlude between the numbers.

Afternoon tea was served at small tables and the following ladies assisted: Mesdames Marling, T. Waldon, Chappel, and the Misses Amy Watson, Hilliard, Smith, Gwendolyn Simpson, Endora Jonkin, Ruth Crawford, Helen Lycett and Etta Ogilvie.

There were various side attractions which drew a good deal of attention and patronage. Mrs. Osborne was in charge of the "Wheel of Fortune" which was extremely popular. Mr. Jack Langley was in charge of a drawing for a fancy book, and the Misses Hampton and Graham presided over the candy table.

The A. Y. P. A.

The gentlemen of the A. Y. P. A. entertained the lady members on Wednesday night. The evening was spent in games, dancing and music, and was very enjoyable. The gentlemen prepared and served a supper, the piece de resistance being a beautiful birthday cake which was given to the president, Mrs. Waldon, whose birthday it was. The evening passed all too quickly and about 11:30 the gathering broke up after singing the National Anthem.

The committee in charge were: Rev. J. L. Taylor, Messrs. Metcalfe, Moon, Hampton, Robinson, Watson and Alford, and Lieut. Leggott.

A Debate.

On Tuesday evening the Presbyterian Young Peoples' Society had a debate, "Resolved that country life offers greater advantages than city life." Mr. W. A. Fairbairn was the leader of the negative and was supported by Miss Mary Campbell, while Mr. Edward Bailey and Miss Burgess were on the affirmative.

Oak Hall, 409-11 George St.

The subject is an old one, but many new points were brought out, and all present followed with keenest interest the arguments used. All deserved praise, but especial mention must be made of the original arguments of Mr. Bailey.

The judges were Rev. P. L. Jull, Mrs. D. H. Morrison and Mr. C. S. Tanner. The decision was given for the negative.

A Peterboro Boy

Coming to "The Grand" Next Week

Mr. Oscar O'Shea, who was raised in Peterborough and spent his boyhood days here, will be glad to meet his old friends when he appears in Peterborough at the Grand Opera House in Ed. W. Rowland's production of "A Little Mother." Since leaving Peterborough several years ago, Mr. O'Shea has been connected with several well known theatrical companies, four years in the movies, two years each with the American and Essany Photo Play Companies. Mr. O'Shea has been specially engaged by Mr. Rowland to play the leading male role in this production for the Canadian tour only.

With Mr. O'Shea is his wife (Miss Esther Evans), who also plays one of the important parts in the play. They will both be glad to welcome all their old friends when appearing in Peterborough.

During the Toronto engagement this Company turned over one thousand away from the doors, who were unable to get seats on account of the capacity of the house.

"SOCIAL EIGHT"

One hundred young people attended the first dance of the "Social Eight" held at the Conservatory of Music last evening. Moher presided at the piano, and Walter Fitzgerald took charge of the drum and effects. Supper time arrived at twelve o'clock and the alert social eight, working in unison served one of the most delicious lunches ever served at a dance. Sharp at 12.15 the music started again and for even more dances were reeled off. The dance was such an entire success that the Social Eight are contemplating another social evening in the near future.

Don't mistake for character. Most with the most character have the fewest habits.

Peterboro Men Left For France Four Years Ago

It Rained All Day and Turned Bitter Cold Towards Night.

Four years ago to-day the 2nd Canadian Battalion, of which the Peterboro contingent formed a part, left Salisbury Plain, for France. In the words of Lieut.-Col. J. Mills of this city, a veteran of that famous contingent, "The weather was the worst of that memorable winter. It rained in torrents the day the contingent left Salisbury Plain and towards night it turned bitterly cold."

Trinity Church Choir Banquet

Rev. F. E. Malott Expressed Appreciation of the Work.

On Wednesday last the members of Trinity church choir held their annual banquet in the basement of the church.

The pastor, the Rev. F. E. Malott, who responded to the unanimous call for a speech, said it was a very great pleasure indeed for him and Mrs. Malott to be present on such an occasion and it was very gratifying to be able to say how very pleased he was with the work of the choir and their good attendance at divine worship, how it helped him in the ministry of the church and was a source of inspiration at the Sunday services.

He congratulated the members on their efficiency under the very able training and leadership of the choirmaster, Mr. Geo. H. King, and he hoped the splendid harmony that existed amongst the members and between the choir and the pulpit would ever be an outstanding feature. He was interested in all their undertakings and wished them every success and a continuation of God's blessing on their work.

A Presentation.

During the evening the President, Mr. F. Skitch, on behalf of the members of the choir, presented the soprano soloist, Mrs. Geo. H. King, with a bouquet, and in a few well chosen words expressed the pleasure of the choir at having her back again after an enforced absence of a few weeks. Mrs. King, who was taken by surprise, thanked the members for their kind thoughtfulness and said such a thoughtful act tended to strengthen the feelings of friendship that already existed between them.

During the banquet some very fine selections were rendered on a Victor Victrola very kindly loaned for the occasion by Mrs. B. H. Britton of the Heintzman Music Co., whose kindness was much appreciated.

The members of the choir also wish to thank all those who helped to make the evening such a success.

Woman is Too Large For Montreal Cell

Mrs. Volkovitz Weighing Four Hundred Pounds, Was Released

MONTREAL, Feb. 7.—Nobody loves a fat man, and least of all a fat woman, but even a surplus of adipose tissue has it advantages, as Antoina Volkovitz, who keeps a restaurant on St. Domique street, learned when she was arrested the other day for assault.

Standing six feet high, with her four-hundred-pound bulk wedged tightly in the dock, Mrs. Volkovitz listened unmoved when Judge Cusson ordered her confined to the cells pending the "enquiete." She managed to leave the court without much trouble, though the door was none too large, but it was a different matter when the cells across the corridor were reached. Sideways, frontways and backways the guards tried to lever the woman into her cell, but it was of no avail. Montreal court-house was not built to accommodate giants, and, panting and sweating, the High Constable Desoulniers and his assistants had to give the job up.

"It's no good, Judge," pleaded the accused's lawyer. "You'll have to give her bail."

"All right," replied Mr. Cusson. "She can't run very far anyway."

CALLS MR. BURNHAM'S PROPOSAL "BUNK"

Mr. G. N. Gordon Says He Has No Intention of Being a Candidate For the Provincial House.

Mr. G. N. Gordon was asked by The Examiner if he had anything to say about Mr. Burnham's "understanding," that he, Mr. Gordon, would be a candidate for the Legislature against Mr. G. A. Gillespie, M.P.P.

Mr. Gordon said that Mr. Burnham was up in his sleep and that he was not a candidate for the Legislature, and what was more, that he was a supporter of Mr. Gillespie in the most absolute way and would stand by him as long as he remained in public life, as he considered him one of the best members we had ever had in Peterborough.

Mr. Gordon further said that the labour resolution proposed by Mr. Burnham was pure bunk, and if the Government passed the resolution every day for a year, it would not fix a standard of wages or living. For the Government to say, in its opinion the present standard of living should not be maintained, means nothing. If an amendment was tacked on to the Industrial Disputes Act, which provides for Concilliation Boards fixing a minimum wage scale for different trades in certain zones in the Dominion, that might be effective, but for an opinion resolution to be passed by a Government made up of millionaire cabinet ministers, is about as effective as a dog barking at the moon.

However, this kind of chaff may catch somebody, and this, Mr. Gordon said, was probably what Mr. Burnham had in mind.

ST. GEORGE'S CHURCH.

Last evening one of the most successful and enjoyable concerts ever held in St. George's Church schoolroom, Braidwood avenue, was given. The schoolroom was crowded and all seemed highly pleased with all they saw and heard. Space will not allow us to give in detail the programme, and the enthusiastic way in which each item was received. We must confine ourselves to giving only the names of the artists.

They were: Mrs. Barnes, Miss Barnes, the Misses Lancaster, the Misses Blake, Miss Lesurf, Miss Verna Manley, the Loader Family, Mr. Harry Rew, Jr.; and Mr. Sowden, with recitations by Miss Barbara Simmons, Miss Dorothy Hopkins, and Mr. Macdonald, from Bobcaygeon.

Mr. Macdonald's personification of "Harry Lauder," was most entertaining, and caused the greatest merriment, and so was the acting and singing of the Loader Family. All were most enthusiastically applauded.

The rector, Rev. J. Price, took the chair, and on the motion of Mr. Davis, the church warden, which was seconded by Mr. Fred Holmes, the heartiest vote of thanks was given to all who took part in the concert.

THE CHAUTAUQUA

With her glorious voice and charming stage presence, Miss Bertha Farrar, the celebrated soprano, who appeared in the third entertainment of the Chautauqua Course, brought to a close, under the Local Council of Women, took her large audience at the Grand Opera House by storm last night. Her clear bell-like voice, which had already won her many friends when heard at the Summer Chautauqua here, afforded a treat for the music lovers of the city.

In opening her programme, Miss Farrar gave selections from the operas in French and Italian in which her resonant voice was greatly appreciated. Later, however, and possibly more appreciated, were her solos in English, including such old favorites as Weatherly's "Blackbird," "My Laddie," "Keep on Hoping," and "Annie Laurie."

The closing item of her programme "Ring out, Wild Bells," was particularly effective, with the support of her talented company. Each of the company was well worth hearing individually. Miss Alexander, the violinist, who also appeared in the Summer Chautauqua, and Miss Murray, the 'cellist, are undoubtedly artists, while Mr. Earle Brown is a pianist of rare talent, and his sympathetic accompaniment was a pleasing feature of the performance. Each artist gave most generous encores to the different numbers.

Epidemic of Presentations Struck City Hall Yesterday

The Resignation of the Deputy City Treasurer Was Marked by Many Evidences of Appreciation for Long and Faithful Service.

A pleasant epidemic of presentations struck the City Hall yesterday afternoon on the occasion of the resignation of one of the most popular members of the City Hall staff in the person of Miss Jessie Campbell Swinton, who for the past fifteen years has been Assistant City Treasurer.

At six o'clock the girls of the City Hall entertained Miss Swinton at tea in the rest room which had been charmingly decorated in Valentine fashion by the girls with no detail lacking from the lampshades to the place cards which were carried out in heart shaped designs. After tea the guest of honor was presented with some beautiful silverware of the 'Old Colony" pattern by Miss A. Jackson while the accompanying address was read by Miss Helen Burgess.

The Address

Jessie Campbell Swinton,
Peterborough.

Dear Jessie,—As a slight reminder of the pleasant hours we have spent together in our daily calling, we ask you to accept this small token of our love and esteem.

We are truly sorry to lose you, but under existing circumstances must bow to the inevitable and we take this opportunity to wish you Health, Wealth and Happiness in your new home.

Your sincere friends,
Helen Burgess,
Florence Johnston,
Alice E. Jackson,
Mable Young,
Marjorie Gladman.

6th February, 1919.

To this Miss Swinton responded in a few words thanking the girls for their kindness.

From the Council

Following the presentation by the girls, Miss Swinton was much surprised by receiving a message to come to the Council Chamber where the Mayor and City Officials were assembled. On behalf of the assembly Mr. J. W. Greene presented Miss Swinton with a purse of gold, while Mr. Armstrong read the following address:

To Miss Jessie Campbell Swinton,

Dear Miss Swinton,—We members and former members of the City Council and Officials of the city of Peterboro, having learned of your intentions to resign your position as Assistant City Treasurer and to sever your connection with the civic service after fifteen years faithful and efficient service in that capacity, desire to express to you our appreciation of your real and ability and spirit of friendship co-operation and desire to assist that you have always shown and also our heartfelt best wishes for your future happiness and welfare. We ask you to accept the accompanying gift as some evidence of our friendship and good wishes.

Signed on behalf of those mentioned above

George H. Duncan, Mayor,
S. R. Armstrong, City Clerk.

Peterborough, Feb. 6th, 1919.

In the Court Room

Miss Swinton was then told her presence was desired in the Court Room and here were assembled members of the police force and Chief Grange of Fire Department. Then followed an address by Chief Thompson in which he expressed the regret felt by the Police Department at Miss Swinton's leaving.

Sergt. James Reid presented her with some handsome flat silverware, also in "Old Colony" pattern. Chief Grange then in a short address told Miss Swinton of the general regret felt at the Fire Department at her leaving while Assistant Chief Johnson on behalf of the Department presented her with a splendid marble mantel clock.

Graceful Replies

Although quite unaware that such presentations were to be made Miss Swinton made graceful little replies to each and expressed her regret at severing her connection with her fellow workers of who mah would carlow workers of whom she would carry many happy memories.

The remainder of the evening was pleasantly spent in music and songs during which in the singing of "She's a Jolly Good Fellow" the girls lifted Miss Swinton on their shoulders.

CUT THIS OUT

OLD ENGLISH RECIPE FOR CATARRH, CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES.

If you know of some one who is troubled with Catarrhal Deafness, head noises or ordinary catarrh cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. In England the scientists for a long time past have recognized that catarrh is a constitutional disease and necessarily requires constitutional treatment.

Sprays, inhalers and nose douches are liable to irritate the delicate air passages and force the disease into the middle ear which frequently means total deafness, or else the disease may be driven down the air passages towards the lungs, which is equally as dangerous. The following formula which is used extensively in the damp English climate is a constitutional treatment and should prove especially efficacious to sufferers here who live under more favorable climate conditions.

Secure from your druggist 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength). Take this home and add to it 1-4 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day. This will often bring quick relief from distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and hearing improve as the inflammation in the euctachian tubes is reduced. Parmint used in this way acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system and has a tonic action that helps to obtain the desired results. The preparation is easy to make, costs little and is pleasant to take. Every person who has catarrah or head noises or is hard of hearing should give this treatment a trial.

Former Peterboro Pastor Accepts a Winnipeg Call

Rev. H. J. Keith Has Been in Edmonton For Past Four Years.

Rev. H. J. Keith, former pastor of Knox Church, Peterborough, and for the past four years pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian Church, Edmonton, has accepted a call to St. Andrew's Church, Winnipeg.

An exchange says:

"Rev. A. J. Keith, for four years pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian Church of this city has accepted the call which he received some time ago from St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Winnipeg. Mr. Keith's resignation takes effect on February 23, but he will preach his farewell sermon at Westminster on Sunday, February 16th.

"At the meeting of the Presbytry, held Friday night, Mr. Keith received the official sanction to accept his new charge. Strong efforts were made to induce him to remain in Edmonton, speeches being made before the Presbytry by Aubrey Fulerton, J. M. Armstrong and F. H. Smith, representing the session of Westminster Church and H. Orr and R. Gillis, for the Board of Management. Rev. Dr. Miller and A. M. MacKenzie spoke by request in behalf of St. Andrew's Church.

"The Winnipeg call was unanimous and unsolicited and was signed by 474 members of the congregation and 76 adherents. Mr. Keith, in addressing the Presbytry, said that while he deeply regretted leaving Edmonton and breaking the ties of the past four years, nevertheless he felt obliged to obey the call of an opportunity for larger service and greater usefulness that was held out to him. Therefore he would accept the offer.

"Dr. McQueen was elected moderator, pro tem, of the Presbytry. Mr. Keith resigned as moderator at Namayo and Rev. F. D. Roxburgh, pastor of Grierson and McQueen churches, was appointed to the position. Mr. Keith came to Edmonton from Peterborough, Ont."

PAY FOR ALDERMEN.

City Council of Edmonton Arranges Schedule.

EDMONTON, Feb. 7. — The city council has voted to recommend a charter amendment to allow the payment of $5 to every alderman for every council meeting attended and $3 for each committee meeting attended, with a $1000 a year limit.

An amendment to the charter covering the civic income tax, providing for a number of exemptions on small incomes, which had been introduced by Mayor J. A. Clark, was lost on a tie vote.

Made German Sailors Jump to Attention

How British Officer Showed German How to Handle Undisciplined Men.

LONDON, Feb. 7. — One British naval officer showed a German naval captain how to handle his undisciplined sailors during the surrender of the German warships to the Allied fleet off the Firth of Forth.

It is related that when the British officer boarded a German battleship to make the official examination he found numbers of German sailors lolling about in the captain's lobby and some of them making themselves very much at home in the captain's cabin. Many were wearing armlets inscribed "Soldaten und Arbeiter," indicating their allegiance to the Soldiers' and Workers' Councils which brought about the revolution.

"You will need no explanation, sir, for my presence here," said the German captain approaching the Englishman. "You see how things are."

"You will please converse with me in your own language," replied the British officer, returning the salute. "You will also order these men out of these quarters before we do anything else."

"What would be the good to command them?" asked the German.

"Very well," snapped the Britisher as he swung around. "Look here, you men," he thundered in German, "if I have any more of this insubordination, I'll have all of you in irons. Attention!"

Every man sprang to his feet. Cigars and cigarettes disappeared and the talking ceased.

"Fall in there," ordered the Britisher. "And you — he indicated a petty officer—"you take these men away. And clear the lobby too. See that they behave themselves, or I'll know the reason why. That'll do. Carry on."

The petty officer stiffened, saluted and rapped out a word of command. In a moment the cabin was cleared.

"Now," said the English commander, "I'll give you your orders."

Voice of The People

Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,— The editorial in Thursday's Review, "Third Party in Politics," is a very narrow-minded piece of reasoning, and unless the Review rises to the feeling of the times, and gets out of the old mud rut, one is inclined to think it is fast becoming a back number like some of the authorities it quotes, who should be pensioned off. The United States have formed a new American Labour Party. Mr. Gompers wants to know who is to be their leader. "It won't be Mr. Gompers." If we workers are to enjoy freedom, and embrace our full opportunities in the new nation about to emerge out of the suffering and sacrifice of the great world conflict now closed, it behooves labour to formulate its own programme of fundamental, social, economic and political changes, and establish an Independent Labour Party. If we are to escape from the decay of the civilization upheld by the Review we must ensure a social order, not based on competitive struggle for means of bare life, but on a deliberate planned co-operation in production and distribution by and for the benefit of all who participate with hand or brain, not on the inequality of riches, but a systematic approval towards a healthy equality of material circumstance.

The Independent Labour Party of Canada is destined to take the place of judge; we have the two old parties acting as plaintiff and defendant; the judge listens, looks on, forms his judgment, gives his decision, which is the law. So with a minority Labour Party, it will always be in a position to swing the balance of power to the benefit of the toiler. T. TOOMS.

BALL TALK FROM OTTAWA HAS BEEN OF RUMOR NATURE

Ottawa Feb. 7.—Though a lot of talk has been heard throughout the province lately of Ottawa's baseball intentions for the coming season, nothing has yet been done. It is a fact that Ottawa baseball interests were recently offered the opportuhity of acquiring a franchise in the International Baseball league but the proposition came in a roundabout way, and the Ottawa interests declined to act until a concrete offer was made to them.

ELECTRICAL LINE FOR PETERBORO.

In connection with the electric radial feeders to the C. N. R. lines in Ontario, Mr. H. B. Hanna, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Canadian National Railways, intimated that the acquirement of the Toronto and Eastern Electric franchise, would enable the company, through comparatively inexpensive electric branch line extensions to get access to the industrial centres of Oshawa, Bowmanville, Port Hope, Peterboro and Lindsay, and other towns in Eastern Ontario. He added that there was no authoritative grounds for the rumour that the Metropolitan Electric Railway, or other Mackenzie and Mann electric railway interests were to be taken over by the government system.

Government to Establish Huge Cold Storage Plants

$1,000,000 to Be Expended at Montreal at Once, and Similiar Equipment to be Provided Later at Halifax and St. John.

TORONTO, Feb. 7.—Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Agriculture in the Dominian Cabinet, made the announcement last evening that the Government had decided to expend nearly $1,000,000 this year in constructing an immense cold storage plant in Montreal, to aid in the development of the export meat trade. He also intimated that the Montreal scheme was but the beginning of the Government's efforts to stimulate agriculture, that that at some future period, not far distant, similar equipment would be provided at Halifax, St. John and other ports. The official announcement was in the course of the Minister's address at the complimentary dinner tendered by the Canadian National Exhibition directors at the King Edward Hotel last night to the live stock breeders and exhibitors, together with the other agriculturists who are holding their annual convention in the city this week. Incidentally the question of holding a Winter Live Stock Fair in Toronto was referred to by the several speakers, and the favourable reception given their remarks made it very evident that the project has the hearty support of the breeders.

Splendid Opportunities.

In the course of his remarks Hon. Mr. Crerar referred to the splendid opportunities [illegible]culturists had to build up a large export trade in the older countries of the world now that the war was over. He pointed out that in no country in the world was there a surplus of foods. There was a temporary tie-up in England, which affected Canada for the moment, but he thought that would soon be overcome. He quoted statistics to show that the shortage of live stock, cattle, sheep and swine, in the countries which had been at war, was approximately 50,000,000 head, but if all the countries of the world were considered the shortage would be double. He also referred to the large quantities of farm products imported by Great Britain in the past, of which but an infinite amount came from Canada. The Canadian farmers should endeavour to cultivate the English market as they were in a most favourable position to compete with other countries. Another thing that must not be overlooked was that the United States, which for many years had been regarded as Europe's storehouse for food, would, in a very few years, become a food importing country, which would give Canadians another profitable market. This might seem strange, but there was no doubt the industrial population of the United States was increasing very rapidly and would continue to increase, as the manufacturers and merchants of that country sought new markets for their products in the older countries.

Great Picture At the Royal

Prices in New York Were as High as $1.50 to See It.

The following is a copy of an advertisement taken from a New York paper advertising Tarzan of the Apes, which is at the Royal to-night and to-morrow and can be seen for 16c, as against $1.50 in New York. Moral if you want good pictures at a low price go to the Royal.

"Within the frontiers of a desolate God-forsaken jungle on the dark, silent coast of Africa, this giant white man, reared by an ape mother, roams and kills.

"He slays the lion and tiger with his bare hands; the jaguar flees at his terrible cry; the massive elephants fear him.

"The dreadful gorilla and stealthy panther are but babes in his hands. All the terrible beasts of the jungle skulk away at his approach.

"Then comes the beautiful white girl and TARZAN OF THE APES takes her to his breast and covers her face with kisses.

"This astounding picture showing twice daily at the Broadway Theatre Broadway and 41st street. Phone 6841. Matinee daily, 25c, 50, and 75c Evenings 25c to $1.50. All seats reserved.'

WINNIPEG GRANTS WERE UNLAWFUL

WINNIPEG, Feb. 7.—The grants made by the City Council of 1918 to the Bonspielers, as well as the grant towards the holding of the Winter Fair, were found to be unlawful by Chief Justice Mathers. The grant of $15,000 to the Sailors' Dependent Fund was, however, found to have been correct and in keeping with the city charters. The questions has come up in the form of an injunction asked for by N. T. MacMillan, to restrain the city from making grants to charitable concerns and sporting events on the ground that the ratepayers did not sanction such grants except in the case of the Sailors Fund.

SOLDIERS' MAIL CONGESTED AT BREST, SAYS MR. BAKER

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Following an inspection trip at Hoboken, in the course of which he was accompanied by officials of the Post Office Department, Secretary Baker explained that he was seeking the reasons for the delay in the handling of soldiers' mail. He declined to make any comment upon conditions at Hoboken, but said that the congestion of mail matter at Brest and Bordeaux was a serious element in the situation and that it might be necessary to greatly increase the staffs and erect more mail buildings at both French ports.

Regarding Hoboken, Mr. Baker said he had investigated many complaints and had sought the reason for them, but that his efforts of a day had not resulted in sufficient information regarding the general mail situation to warrant a statement of his recommendations. He said that several reports in the premises would be made and that any changes necessary then would be considered.

TWENTY-THREE MONTHS FOR JOSEPH MURPHY

Prisoner Was Convicted of Burglary, Committed Last Month.

Francis Joseph Murphy, who was found guilty yesterday by His Honour Judge Huycke of the charge of burglarizing the Regent Tailors on the eve of January 20th, was sentenced to twenty-three months' imprisonment in the Ontario Reformatory at Guelph at this morning's session of the Criminal Court.

His Honour told the prisoner that if he were steady and his conduct good he would recommend his parole a considerable time before his term of imprisonment expired.

TO GROW HAIR ON BALD HEADS

Specialist Gives Simple Recipe That Works Fine.

Thousands of people suffer from baldness, and falling hair who having tried nearly every advertised hair tonic and hair-grower without results, have resigned themselves to baldness and its attendant discomforts. Yet their case is not hopeless; the following simple home prescription has made hair grow after years of baldness, and it also is unequalled for restoring gray hair to its original colour, stopping hair from falling out, and destroying the dandruff germ. It will not make the hair greasy, and can be put up by any druggist: Bay Rum, 6 ounces, Lavona de Compose 2 ounces, Menthol Crystals, one half drachm. If you wish it perfumed add 1 drachm of your favourite perfume. This preparation is highly recommended by physicians and specialists and is absolutely harmless, as it contains none of the poisonous wood alcohol so frequently found in hair tonics. Ladies using this preparation should be careful not to get it on the face or where hair is not desired.

WILL BE PRESIDENT OF ASSEMBLY WITH SCHEIDEMAN AS HIS DEPUTY.

(By Frank J. Taylor—United Press).

WEIMAR, Germany, Feb. 6.—The official welcoming of Austria into the German Republic was expected to be the first act of the National Assembly, following its organization meeting late to-day. The Assembly then planned to adjourn until Monday, when Chancellor Ebert will formally transfer the Government to the new Cabinet which will be formed in the interim.

A caucus held by the Majority parties last night revealed that Ebert is the choice for President of the Assembly, with Philip Scheidemann as as Vice-President. Ebert was to make the opening speech late to-day and was to be followed by Herr Pfankuch, the oldest Majority Socialist. Initial balloting on the Provincial Constitutional Government was to begin immediately afterwards. The work of the Assembly was not expected to be long drawn out as a virtual agreement on all the more important questions had been reached by the parties forming the Majority bloc.

Weimar is well guarded in anticipation of Spartacan interruption.

Tarzan rescues his friends from the besieged hut in the jungle

ROYAL

This thrilling story with its jungle life, its wild animal atmosphere, the great combats between the super-man Tarzan and the lions, tigers and canibals and its romantic touches cannot fail to strike a responsive chord. Capacity audiences ruled at all performances and the New York prices ranged from 75c to $1.50 for each performance. You can see this wonderful picture at the Royal To-Night for 16c including war tax. ## CURLING

BASIS OF POSSIBLE BONSPIEL

It is altogether unlikely that the curlers will find themselves in a position similar to that which marked the close of last season, when the ice remained firm until late in March and everybody was satiated with both winter and curling Scratch games of every conceivable kind were played, but nearly four months of the sport had dulled the edge of interest and everybody was willing to put the stones away, satisfied that they had received more than their money's worth. However, should winter revive this year and linger into the first half of Spring, a bonspiel on an occupational basis might be arranged. For instance, rinks representing various industries, professions and other pursuits including that of leisure, could be readily formed and drawn in a contest that should add a new note of interest.

The Trent Canal office should select a strong rink from the following members: George Giroux, Alex. Kay, Dave Eason, Herb. Hair, W. Montgomery and A.L. Killaly.

The Quaker Oats Company are represented by the following: P. D. Fitzgerald, W. G. Menzies, George MacDonald, Ira Moore, J. A. Dodds and M. J. Kirn.

The Bankers could select a strong rink from the following members: C. H. Pennefather, J. W. Frazer, C. C. Parsons, John Crane, A. J. Kelly and possibly George Morrow

The Druggists have a rink in F. C. Weber, W. B. Warne, Ernie Payne and J. W. McDermid.

Then there is the Hardware rink, just as it won the district cup primary: W. D. Campbell, Ray Best Alex Archibald and Ross Dobbin.

The Insurance men have a raft of players: W. H. Taylor, W. R. Widdess, W. J. Thompson, George Benor, George Stevenson, A. C. Gray, A. G. Roberts.

The Railways: E. L. Bowes, Jas. Skinner, A. Mcnab and J. H. Seels.

Doctors: Greer, Wightman, Amys and Weldon.

Manufacturers: E. G. Patterson, W. C. Ackerman, G. W. Green, W. T. Hall, T. F Matthews, W. A. Richardson and others.

Merchants: J. H. Connal, Walter Oke, Sam Ray, C. E. Smith, A. M. Laidlaw, T .H. Hooper, Herb Stenson, Robert Neill.

Contractors: A. R. Moore, A. H. Webb, J. H. Sherwood, Mayor Duncan, T. C. Ephgrave H. T. Hickey and others.

Sanitary Engineers: R. G. Sturgeon, L. G. Dobbin, R. M. Miller and W. R. Turner.

There are other groups that could be mentioned, not forgetting that formidable leisure section that is to be found around the rink at almost any hour of any day in the playing season. But the proposal has been sufficiently out-lined for any serious attention it may deserve, in the event of a prolonged season. That failing it might be put in storage for another year.

THE CURLING SPIRIT.

The spirit that permeates the Curling Club is reflected in the manner in which funds for the open bonspiel were raised. On the first suggestion of the need of finances, twenty-five members contributed ten dollars each, and another twenty-five gave five dollars each. The response was as spontaneous as it was generous, and provided a substantial working basis for the plans of the committee.

TANKARD FINALS IN TORONTO ON TUESDAY.

TORONTO, Feb. 7. — (Special.) — President G. S. Pearcy, of the Ontario Curling Association, announced this morning that the finals for the group winners will be played on Tuesday next, beginning at 9 a.m. The draw will be made at the Victoria Rink on Monday night.

"VICES" Have Reached Fours.

The Vice-Skips bonspiel has reached the fours with the following rinks in the running: W. H. Taylor, F. Brownscombe, Grant Copping and C. G. Graham. Two of the games in the eights were disposed of last night as follows:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Geo. Hall, | | W. A. Richardson, | |
| B. McNeeley, | | Geo. Macdonald, | |
| A. C. Kay, | | R. M. Waddell, | |

SPORTING COMMENT

Did you ever hear of a "big" man who didn't start on the road to success by peddling papers? George Washington Grant, one of the new owners of the New York Giants, did this very thing, the press agents say.

Tommy Thompson, the Toronto southpaw pitcher, will be back with the Leafs this summer. The Washington club has cancelled its draft on him.

John Madigan, president of the Niagara Racing club, who has been confined to his room in New Orleans through illness, has recovered, and is able to attend the races again.

The price of eggs doesn't seem to bother Tillsonburg folks much. The other night they were heaving them in droves at Referee Davenport, who handled the Tillsonburg-Glencoe hockey clash. Glencoe won by 11-3. The margin was so great that it is surprising that the referee should be blamed for the defeat.

Not to be behind in this golf epidemic that has broken out this winter, some of Galt's leading citizens indulged in a match on the Waterloo links on Monday afternoon.

LANSING AND FLINT IN CANADIAN LEAGUE?

BRANTFORD, Feb. 7.—President T. J. Nelson, of the Brantford Baseball Club, announced here that he had received word from Knotty Lee, at present in Michigan endeavouring to get three Michigan cities into the reorganized Canadian League, that Lansing and Flint promoters had agreed to place teams in the league. Another large city was also sure, and an announcement would be made when grounds were secured, for which a deal was now pending. Arrangements are under way here for the securing of a team to represent this city, Mickey Lalonge, the former Tornoto catcher, having applied for the job of manager.

Ship's Loss is Mystery of Sea

Disappearance of 50-Year-Old Norwegian Barque on Way to New York

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—A sea mystery involving the disappearance of a fifty-year-old Norwegian barque, the Superior, and her captain and eigh of the crew, was disclosed in a cablegram received here by the Norwegian-American Trading Company charterers of the vessel, from agents in Manila. The men missing were recruited in San Francisco, and their ship was last seen off the Island of Bali, in the Malay Archipelago, while on a voyage from Manila to New York with 4,000 bales of hemp and 1,000 tons of sugar.

The Superior, 1,327 tons gross, formerly the Lake Superior, was built in Scotland in 1869.

Hun Bands Playing British Tunes Now

Canadian and British Officers Keep Them at it Night and Day.

KINGSTON, Feb. 7.— In the German territory occupied by the allies Hun orchestras in the cafes, restaurants and hotels, are now playing "Rule, Britannia," "God Save the King" and "The Maple Leaf."

They play them at the command of Canadian and British officers in their territory, who keep them going at it night and day in Colorne and other German centres. Lieut.-Col Stewart, son of Postmaster Stewart, writes to say that they go at their new scores without any apparent objections.

Rioting and Plundering Near Berlin—Valley Placed Under Martial Law.

(United Press.)

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 7.—Strikers are rioting and plundering in the Ruhr region of Westphalia, according to a despatch received from Berlin to-day. The towns in the Ruhr valley are said to have been placed under martial law.

$400,000,000,000 ESTIMATED AS DIRECT COST OF THE WAR

LONDON, Feb. 7.—The direct cost of the war is estimated at £40,000,000,000 in a special article in The Daily Telegraph to-day. The author estimates the indirect cost of diminished trade and of financial disturbance of £50,000,000,000

"Vast sums," he says, "have been used for sheer destruction and vast public debts have been incurred for which there is no corresponding property. Throughout two-thirds of the world the work of useful production has been suspended during four years and its place has been taken by the slaughter of human lives and the annihilation of accumulated wealth."

Third Canadian Division On the Way to England

Demobilization May be Affected by the Strike—Several Thousand Canadians in England.

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Feb. 7.—The Third Canadian Division was due to arrive in England to-day. Demobilization may be affected by the strike on the London and South-western railway system. It is possible that military drivers and stokers may be forthcoming to convey the division to Bramshott.

Anticipating the return of the division, several thousands of Canadian soldiers arrived in London, having been granted eight day British leave with orders to report on return to Bramshott and Witley.

There is general resentment regarding food conditions around Lille since the armistice was signed. The shortage is said to be due to return by trains of civilians from Northern France. There are also instances of French and Belgians who lived in basement cellars during four years of German occupation refusing to afford any accommodation to Canadian officers during recent weeks.

Receives Supply of Famous Wheat

Mr. Thomas Hunter Obtained Sack of Seed Which Will Be Grown Here.

Four years ago Mr. T. H. Hunter introduced the famous Marquis wheat into the Peterboro district and popularized it among the farmers who have gained thousands of dollars, it is believed, from the use of this variety. It was obtained through Mr. J. H. Ferguson and yielded an average of 25 to 30 bushels an acre. This afternoon Mr. Hunter received fifteen pounds of the new "Kitchener" wheat developed by Seegar Wheeler who won the American sweepstakes with it last yeart. Mr. Wheeler specializes in hybridizing grains, and produced the Kitchener spring wheat from the Marquis and a Hungarian variety. Mr. Hunter is making a present of the sack to Mr. Frank Staples of North Monaghan. He arranged for the supply of seed from Mr. Turnbull of Winnipeg whom he met last autumn in the course of an enquiry for new and special seed. He has also obtained some of the Montana Surprise oats which in the Peace River district with a latitude of 57 degrees produced 110 bushels to the acre. The Kitchener wheat was first grown at Rosthern, Sask. Although he has retired from active farming, Mr. Hunter evidently retains a lively and practical interest in agriculture.

CANDYMAKERS ORGANIZE.

MONTREAL, Feb. 7. — Chocolate biscuit and confectionery manufacturers from all over Canada met at the Windsor Hotel and formed themselves into an association. A. D. Ganong, St. Stephen, N.B., was elected president, and Robert Christie, Toronto, first vice-president.

PROVES NOT DRY GOODS, BUT WET, IN CASES

NORTH BAY, Feb. 7.—Several cases marked "Cloth," consigned to a firm in Wahnapitae, on the C. P. R., excited the suspicion of the inspector here, and, on his opening one, it was found to contain bottles of liquor. The whole were seized, and the firm was served with a notice to appear in North Bay Police Court, but no one could be found to claim the goods.

APPARATUS FOR CANADA.

Valuable Nucleus in Gift of Munitions Board.

OTTAWA, Feb. 7.—The valuable apparatus collected during the past three years by the gauge laboratories of the Imperial Munitions Board has been turned over to the Council for Scientific and Industrial Research. It will form the nucleus of the equipment of the proposed new Central Research Institute at Ottawa and will be very serviceable in connection with the technical standardization work of the institute.

How is Your Watch Running?

Is it running fast or slow? Never quite on time?

Well, perhaps your watch is capable of very accurate running, but it is not in perfect order. You know the tiny mechanism of a watch demands that each of the dozen of little parts be just right, or good time is out of the question.

Watch Repairing is a specialty of ours.

Card of Thanks

Dear Mrs. Scriver,—At the regular monthly meeting of the Hastings Chapter, I. O. D. E. on Monday, the ladies asked me to convey to you and the other relatives of Russel Scriver their deepest sympathy in your time of great sorrow. He has given even his life for freedom of the world, and since peace has come again, we know it was not given in vain. He has just passed on to his exceedingly great reward.

Most sincerely,
Myrtle T. Plant,
Sec'y I.O.D.E.

Housewives Are Promised Lower Price as Wholesale Figure Falls to 42 Cents a Dozen

New York, Feb. 7.—The retail prices are 58 cents a dozen and wholesale prices 42 cents a dozen.

Enormous shipments of eggs in the last few days have caused the wholesale price to drop and housewives are promised a corresponding decrease in the retail price. The change should become affective today, or not later than to-morrow, experts state. They also predict a further fall in wholesale prices, so that the consumer may be able to buy eggs at a price approaching that paid before the war sent the cost of living soaring.

Insomnia Cured Without Drugs

INTERNAL BATHING RELIEVES THE CAUSE.

If you do not sleep there is always some cause. Don't start dosing with Anodyne Nervine—don't consume them. Remove the cause and a good, sound sleep will be the result.

The system cannot be right if the Colon or large intestine is not kept clean, and free from all waste matter. Bathe internally if you want perfect health.

Mr. F. C. Voight, Rapid City, Man., writes: "For several years I suffered from Indigestion, Nervous Debility, Insomnia, and Constipation. Had no appetite, and the doctors did not expect that I would live throughout the winter. Your book interested me. I got a 'J.B.L. Cascade,' and in a few days obtained remarkable results. I now sleep and enjoy my meals better than for years before. I regard the 'J.B.L. Cascade' as a God-send to me."

The "J.B.L. Cascade" as a perfected appliance for Internal Bathing invented by Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell of New York, and has been the means of restoring thousands to perfect health. It is shown and explained by the Warne Drug Co., who will be pleased to give you an interesting book called "The What, The Why, The Way of Internal Bathing," on request. Ask for it.

GRAIN MARKET

Cash grain markets hardened a little again yesterday. It is said the Government is discouraging a too free shipment out of farmers' hands, as it is estimated a much larger quantity than usual will be needed for seed purposes. Receipts at all events have decreased considerably the past few days, with the resultant hardening of prices, both at Winnipeg on oats and barley and on corn in the south-western cash markets. This induced a lot of short-covering in the option markets and a consequent advance in option prices.

Manitoba wheat—In store, Fort William; No. 1 northern, $2.24 1-2; No. 2 northern, $2.20 1-2; No. 3 northern, $2.17; No. 4 wheat, $2.11 1-2.

NEW MAP OF EUROPE IS NOW TAKING FORM

Likely to Show Five Great States in Central Area Friendly to the Allies —General Willingness Indicated to Renounce Secret Treaty Rights in Interests of World Harmony.

ITALY NOW CONCILIATORY

PARIS, Feb. 8.—It is now possible to indicate in rough outline, at least, what is likely to be the map of the new Europe which will be born of the Peace Conference.

The composition of New Germany, and whether or not there will be a drawing together of some elements of Old Germany with the German elements of Old Austria is not for the moment more than one of the speculative problems before the Paris Conference, although bearings on such a grouping are naturally receiving serious consideration in view of the possible resurgence of the Teutonic ambitions of weltpolitik.

The new map of Central Europe, which it is within the scope of the Conference's power to draw, shows five great States friendly to the Allies: First, Poland, on the north, with access to the sea; second, Czechoslovakia, embodying the Slovak districts of the Hungarian borderland, with Bohemia in the centre; third, a Greater Roumania; fourth, an enlarged South Slav Kingdom, with the Serbian Prince Regent at its head; and, fifth, a Greater Greece.

Austria and Hungary will not only be much reduced in size, but will have no seaboards of their own. But for them, as for Poland and Bohemia, access to the sea must be secured if there is to be a good peace.

Venizelos has concluded his presentation of the Greek claims before the Council of Ten, and there is a general idea that this veteran European statesman made out an extremely good case. The Italian delegates issued a statement, indicating their sympathetic attitude. This is taken to mean that the understanding between Italy and Greece is within reach, even if a report, current last week, that one had already been made, was a little premature. Greek interests in Constantinople and its district will be safeguarded by internationalization of that territory, and its railways and waterways.

Coal Fields.

The Saar coal field, demanded by France, is unequal to French needs, as it produces only a small supply. Hence the French are demanding that the Germans supply coal cheaply in payment as reparation. Danger in excessive demands upon Germany is seen by Americans interested in the larger future of the world.

One of the most encouraging deductions drawn from these rearrangements which, of course, until ratified by the plenary conference, are tentative and provisional, is that there is a common belief that the difficulties which would have been created by strict adherence to the letter of the so-called secret treaties on the part of any of the signatories, are sufficiently relieved to make the principle of self-determination compatible with the principle of security of frontiers.

That it should be possible to take this hopeful view at this relatively early stage of the Paris Conference is regarded as striking proof that good progress is being made toward a settlement and that the European territorial questions are going to be more easily dealt with than had been supposed possible.

The treaty of August 17, 1916, between Roumania and the Quadruple Entente is an instance in point. Clause 6 of this treaty provided that Roumania should be on a level of equality with the four great powers in the peace negotiations. There is no vestige of a literal interpretation of this clause being given. On the contrary, the Roumanian delegates have been called before the bar of the Council of Ten to present their claims in just the same way as other smaller powers which had no secret treaty authorizing any such claim to equality of bargaining.

While the question of the Italian claims under her treaties with the Allied powers is much more important in both scope and quality, it is deduced that neither Orlando nor Sonnino will adopt an intransigeant attitude in view of the changed condition which came into operation between the period at which the treaties were entered into and the date of the signature of the armistice. In fact, as already intimated in these despatches, the spirit in which the Italian delegates have approached their European colleagues has won unstinted praise.

Letters of Germans Belie Compliments to U. S. Troops

Censor's Bureau Reveals the True Feelings of the People Who Strive to Create Favourable Impression Among Soldiers in Occupied Territory.

PART OF PROPAGANDA

Coplenz, Feb. 8.—Examination of a large number of letters written by Germans in the territory occupied by the American Third Army to friends and relatives in the United States and other countries reveals a wide range of expression of harted of Americans. Here is an example taken from a letter of a wealthy women here:

What One Woman Wrote

"These detestible Americans have been here again in my house. First they came searching for arms, and now they come again, searching for food. God speed the day when the curse of their presence will be removed from us."

Incidentally it may be stated that this search to discover food hoarders was undertaken not to obtain any for Americans, but to protect the poorer Germans against their wealthy neighbors.

Many of the letters express resentment because the Aanericans are filleted with the writers, who seem to have forgotten that the Germans in France did not content themselves with taking only spare rooms as the Americans in Germany do, but often drove out the families.

Scores of letters accuse the Americans of deeds of which they were never guilty, and criticize the behavior of our army, which is perhaps more exemplary than any other army of occupation in history.

There are few statements of facts in these letters. They are simply the expression of the innate feeling which needs no overt act of the Americans to force to the surface. They show how these same Germans hate us. They know that Americans caused them to lose the war, and they hate them for it, their sweet words and servile obeisances to the contrary notwithstanding.

If one heard any of these expressions in his daily contact with Germans, it would be different. But one never does. It is always praise of the Americans and their army and their behavior, and talk of how "we hope the French do not come when you go, because the French are so cruel and the Americans are so nice."

German's Frank Talk to Frenchman

That reminds one of an incident which throws light on the situation. Yesterday I was seated in a cafe at a table next to that of a French lieutenant. In came a German, well-dressed and speaking excellent French. He asked the lieuteant if it were true that the French were coming into Coblenz. The lieutenant replied diplomatically that he didn't know.

"I hope they do," said the German. "They treat the people in Mayence so well and these Americans are good for nothing."

He was one of the Germans who had been praising the Americans whenever he talked of them. There one sees the German attitude in a nutshell. The aspect of friendliness for Americans is false in its entirety and intended for only personal and national gain. They continue to try to stir up trouble between the Americans and French.

One may quote the words of an American Colonel, who is in a position to know what he is talking about. He said:

"The German 'comrade' business got a start among our soldiers, but it has gone to the bad. You cannot appeal to an American by servility, and our boys are learning that the Germans are not friendly, but servile, and the reaction is setting in fast. If hostilities were to be resumed to-morrow, there would not be ten deserters in 300,000 American soldiers on German soil."

NOTHING CAN COMPARE WITH IT

Mr. Fred Adams, New Ross N.S., writes—"I have tried many medicines for coughs and colds but never found anything to compare to Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. We have had the greatest never fails to relieve a cough and loosen satisfaction with this medicine for it is up."

CATTLE MARKET

An active demand and a brisk snappy market for cattle of practically all grades all through the week has kept prices well up to the top levels, with a strong upward tendency. Early in the week an advance of 75c. to $1 over the previous week's average was recorded, and by the mid-week and week-end closing markets a still further advance of 25c. to 50c. was added, making a total advance on an average of from $1 to $1.50, according to grade, over the previous week. While the very top prices paid earlier in the week were not exceeded in the later markets, the average quality of the week-end offerings was not as high as the first markets, but prices were equally as high or higher on an average for the less finished cattle. The fact that there has been a continued export outlet for the best grade and best finished heavy steers, and choice steers and heifers of the regular butcher class, has contributed chiefly to the present strength of the market locally, while the generally high markets at Buffalo and other United States points has also helped the markets here.

Whether the present high levels in the local market will be maintained for the next week or so will depend largely on the quality and quantity of the cattle shipped in. If the market is loaded up next week with a lot of poorly finished cattle, then it is practically certain that there will be a sharp slump in prices. If, on the other hand, a good proportion of well finished cattle are shipped in, there is no reason why the present high levels should not be well maintained for some time to come.

Calves have held strong all week.

Sheep and lambs have held steady to firm at recent advances.

Hogs as usual have been the most uncertain feaure of the market, but finally coming out strong at an advance over the previous week.

Cattle Receipts.

Union Stock Yards—Total receipts this week, 308 cars, with 4,992 cattle, 551 calves, 5,275 hogs, and 1,079 sheep and lambs.

City Cattle Market 14 cars with 145 cattle, 282 sheep and lambs, 169 hogs, 29 calves, and 10 horses.

Under Orders.

CHAPTER CXIV

Brian was in camp learning to be a soldier. He came home nearly every Sunday. In spite of the hard training, he looked and said he felt better than he had for years. He was as hard as nails, tanned the color of an Indian. Also he was full of enthusiasm and could talk of nothing but the war, the time when he could start "over there."

"I'll be in the first load, or I miss my guess," he said to her after he told her he was a lieutenant, second of course, he explained. He had neither eyes or ears for anything but "his job" as he called it.

As always he accepted what Ruth did for him as a matter of course; all the little camp comforts he was allowed to have; as well as money to spend—"Until you get your pay," she had told him to save his feelings. But she need not have felt afraid of hurting him. He would have taken money for his needs from any civilian without embarrassment, thinking it their duty to provide for a man who was fighting for freedom—at least until the machinery managed by Uncle Sam could get to work. So the time passed until there were rumors that the time was nearly arrived for the boys to go over.

Ruth heard these rumors even before Brian came home and told her his time would now be short. She realized that great secrecy must of necessity surround their departure, and wondered once more if she should tell Brian her secret. Had she any right to keep it from him?

Mandel had noticed that Ruth was unlike herself; that her work, always before done so easily, now seemed a burden; but he was far from suspecting the cause. He laid her lassitude, her pale face and shadowed eyes, to the fact that Brian was going overseas.

His age precuded his being called to do actual fighting. To be truthful, he was, perhaps for the first time he had known Ruth glad he was so much older than she. Not that he was not patriotic, for he was. Already he had offered his services and his money to the government, the former without pay. But Brian would soon be away. He might, perhaps would, take Mollie King with him. Mandel had kept posted upon Brian's affairs; and of late had included those of Mollie King. It is easy for a man of wealth to find out almost anything he wishes to know; and Arthur Mandel knew that Mollie was going over as a nurse, and that all her actions pointed to her going soon.

He also knew—and this would have surprised and distressed Ruth immeasurably had she been aware of it—that whenever Brian came home on a furlough, he always saw Mollie. He usually spent an hour or two in the little studio before he went up home to Ruth.

Naturally Mandel had no way of knowing that their time was spent talking of the war, and what they expected and hoped to do for their country. He only knew that they were together, and took it to mean that they were more than ever in love with each other.

Mandel was a bright man. But he was also a worldly one. He had no conception of the fire of patriotism that burned in those two who were ready to give their lives for their country—also who both loved adventure, which love, while it added zest to their plans, took not a whit from their love of country.

Ruth drooped. Unostentatiously Mandel tried to make things easy for her, to make her happy. Occasionally he gave her theatre tickets, saying:

"It must be lonely for you now that Mr. Hackett is in camp. Take some friend and see that show. It will help you pass the time." He wisely never offered to take her himself. Or, again, he would order some flowers sent her, saying: "You looked a bit depressed today. I thought they might cheer you up." Then he would commence to talk of something else to evade her thanks. But the thoughtfulness of his acts touched her, and in a way comforted Ruth in her loneliness.

Then one night after she had gone to bed the telephone rang. Brian would rush up to see her, he said over the wire, but they were to sail immediately.

Ruth stood holding the receiver in her hand for several minutes after it had hung up. While she knew he was to go, it had come with startling suddenness, as such things always do. Suddenly she sat down, her hand at her throat. It was hard to breathe. Brian, her Brian, going to leave her going into such fearful danger.

"Shall I tell him now?" she asked herself again and again as she waited.

I have just seen a legionnaire, writes Algernon Sartoris in the Chicago News. He happened to be of my company, the Seventh. "Do you know that Victor is dead?" he asked. It seemed to me almost impossible. The legion without Victor! I asked how he had died. "He was killed, but he gave them hell," was the answer. Of course he did; that was his habit. "I am one of the five who are left," continued my informant.

In April we were 120 strong. There may be more now, but they must be recruits. Victor, a short time ago, captured 10 Germans and received the military medal. Now he is dead, at his post.

Sergt. Bouligny has a snapshot of Victor. Underneath is written: "A typical legionnaire." Victor was a Breton, born in Morlaix. He was tattooed all over. There was nothing in his notebook save records of his numerous campaigns. He was a soldier, pure and simple. As Bouligny says, he was a typical legionnaire; that is, he was typical of all that was best in the legion — courage, honesty, bravery.

His history was written in his heart. He wore the medals of Morocco, Tonkin, the war cross with several palms and finally the military medal—a glorious record. Victor acted always as a stimulant; he was always gay and always kind. He encouraged us by his endurance of every hardship without a murmur. He was absolutely loyal to his country and in the darkest moments he kept among us the light of hope burning brightly.

On one of our long marches he saw that I was suffering. He came to me and offered to carry my haversack in addition to his own. I declined his offer, but his courage and kindness went to my heart, and, in spite of sore feet, I arrived in Mount Meton with my company, thanks to Victor.

Among the soldiers Victor's name was proverbial for gallantry. On the banks of the fetid rivers of Annam, on the burning sands of Morocco, Victor was there. In the mud and mire of the trenches of France he was also there. Always kind, always thoughtful of others! Simple and unaffected, he related deeds of valor that would have moved a stone; deeds that would enrich the already glorious military history of France. I asked him how many [illegible] Victor got. He answered: "When I last saw him he was whirling his gun over his head. There were about a dozen dead boches around him. I think an officer killed him with a revolver; I couldn't swear to it, but I think so."

When I had last seen Victor in Paris a little while ago I had asked him how he had won his military medal. "In a fit of bravery," he had answered. Victor was always having those fits of bravery; they are common in the legion.

In the death of Victor not only the legion, but France, sustains a loss. He was only a corporal, but he was a typical legionnaire, a true French poilu, and I am proud that I was his friend. In many of my darkest moments his smile has raised me out of my depression.

Now he is dead on some lonely battlefield, but his is the death that he would have asked. In the words of Gen. de Castelnau, "It is the best possible death," the only possible death for such as he.

FLASH LIGHTS IN UNISON

Fireflies Seem to Have an Understanding as to When to Begin an Illumination.

Various observers testify to the fact that myriads of glow worms very occasionally indulge in synchronous flashing with very beautiful effect. It is thought by some that this phenomenon is accidental, although in this light some cases would seem incredible.

John V. Purcell of Washington, D. C., records that in the town of Cotabato, island of Mindanao, P. I., a few years ago there were two trees about the size of apple trees and perhaps a hundred yards apart, and every evening these were filled with fireflies which flashed in unison, first one tree lighting up and then the other. There must have been several thousand insects in each tree, yet the synchronism was so perfect that rarely or never did a single firefly flash at the wrong time.

"To the best of my recollection the illumination period lasted about two or three seconds and the dark periods perhaps twice that long. I can positively vouch for the accuracy of the statement, for it seemed so strange and produced so beautiful an effect that I thought it one of the most remarkable things in the Philippines, and it made a deep impression on me."

SMILE NEVER OUT OF PLACE

If One Thinks It Can Be, Here Is a Little List to Be Used as a Guide.

Get a smile in your voice, an exchange suggests.

When you talk over the telephone.

When your wife tells you what you ought to have done and you try to explain why you didn't.

When your little boy asks you for something and you have to refuse.

When a confused woman with a scrambled mind is buying at your counter and doesn't know what she wants.

When you're selling tickets at the railway window and an irritating purchaser is asking forty-nine useless questions.

When you tell the waiter to hurry along with the food, as you have an engagement.

When you call up the grocer and tell him that the things you ordered two hours ago haven't come yet, and here it is about dinner time.

When you're a policeman and tell an automobilist that he can't park there, but must go over to the other side of the street.

When you're an usher in a theater and ask somebody to rise so that some other people may pass.

When you take your husband out into the next room and ask him why he brought those men to dinner without letting you know, so you could have prepared for them.

When you inform the young man that while you cannot love him as he asks, yet you will be a sister to him.

When you tell Willie and the neighbor boys not to rehearse the battle of the Somme on the front porch.

When you tell the bore, "Don't go. Here is your hat."

When you're busy and worried and somebody asks you foolish question No. 96.

When you meet an old friend unexpectedly.

When the hired girl tells you she is sorry, but the roast is burnt.

When the pup has gone off with your overshoe, or your young son has made ink marks all over an important paper on your desk, or you can't find your hat although you are positive you hung it right there, or the missus is not ready and you have barely time now to get to the show if you would see the first act, or you have to tell your clerk the same thing the tenth time, or you have done a fine act with the best of intentions and find you're in the wrong and everybody blames you for it.

Smile when you may it. You'd just as well. And don't you forget the telephone.

Ancient Czecho-Slovaks.

The Czechs are an ancient race. They were flourishing in Bohemia away back in the fifth century before Christ, and they have always been noted for their progressive spirit, for their longings in the direction of liberalism and democracy, and above all for their industrial and commercial enterprise, thanks to which they have been for the past 400 years the economic backbone of the Hapsburg monarchy.

They were independent, and therefore unfettered, until they foolishly elected Emperor Ferdinand of Austria as their ruler in 1520, not only because he was married to the daughter and heiress of St. Wenceslaus, but also because he solemnly pledged himself to respect their national rights and liberties. Needless to add that Ferdinand failed to keep his promises. This is a peculiarity of the house of Hapsburg, which is at last to bring ruin upon their empire.

Excuses Somewhat "Fishy."

Two men, who are quite well off, but very miserly in their expenditure, met recently in the gallery of a theater.

Each was annoyed to be seen by the other in the cheapest place of the house.

"What brings you here?" each asked the other.

"To tell the truth," said the first, "I've got a fearful cold in my head, and as the heat ascends, I came up here where it is warm. Besides, I'm a terrible sufferer from rheumatism. But what brings you here?"

"My opera glasses!"

"Your opera glasses?"

"Yes; they enlarge too much. I can't see from the boxes what is going on on the stage. I have to come up here in the gallery to be able to see with them at all!"

Edible Fish in Bosporus.

Dr. William W. Peet, who recently returned to the United States from Turkey, says that there are 80 varieties of edible fish in the Bosporus. During normal times great wagonloads of these fish were carried through Constantinople. A fish 20 inches long often sold for the equivalent of five cents. The poor were thus able to obtain food for very little money. Today a similar fish is sold for ten times the usual price. "This is not because there are fewer fish in the Bosporus," said Doctor Peet, "but because there is no longer an adequate supply of fishermen."

Much Money in Australia.

The supply of sugar in Australia is as limited as it is here, but one part, the state of New South Wales, has an abundance of sweet on hand. It is honey. A record crop was gathered last year and next month this season's crop will be collected. Because of limited shipping space exports were stopped, but the beekeepers are now asking that the embargo be raised.

Uncle Sam Beneficiary.

Members of the American Flint Glass Workers' union, assembled in Memorial hall, Toledo, were told an inspiring story of patriotic devotion by a member of their union at the unfurling of a service flag, with 366 stars, representing union men in the army.

After an introductory speech, in which John J. Quinlivan, business agent of the Toledo Central Labor union, told of the determination of the unions to back the government, President William P. Clarke described the heroic death of Charles H. McCarthy, who sacrificed his own life in France for the sake of a friend.

Not only had McCarthy, a former member of the Glass Workers' union, died heroically, but he had lived patriotically, Mr. Clarke said, for in taking out $10,000 insurance when he entered the army, he asked that the sum be made payable to the United States government.

Saving Man-Power.

One of the recent devices designed to save man labor is the slab-handling storage battery truck, which is employed at the plant of a steel company in Cleveland to haul heavy pieces of steel from the storage yard to the heating furnaces, says Popular Science Monthly. The distance approximates 500 feet. Before electricity was substituted for man-power the slabs were loaded on hand trucks.

The new truck is similar to the elevating platform truck, except that for its elevating mechanism a tilting platform is provided. This platform is secured to the rear axle by a pivot, being operated by a horizontal ram. By manipulating the ram the platform is moved toward a vertical position and its front edges are lowered.

STRONG FOR CIVILIZED GARB

Sartorial Variety Seems to Be Chief Aim of Natives of Villages of Rhodesia.

Although we have not thought the people of Africa to be much concerned about clothes and fashions, yet styles such as they are, have entered the villages of the dark continent and are beginning to cause the people much anxiety. Miss Pearl Mulliken, Methodist missionary to Rhodesia, writes of the African dress as seen in a day school, according to the Centenary Bulletin.

"Many of the pupils, who range from the kindergarten age to grandparents, are dressed in store clothes. Their store clothes, however, have largely lost their identity beneath a covering of many colored patches. Weather has nothing to do with clothes in this part of Africa. It may be a real summer day and you are wondering how you can keep cool, but not so these boys who have been to town to work and have clothes to exhibit to their less fortunate brothers. If these riches consist of somebody's castoff overcoat he is sure to have it on and perhaps a bath towel around his neck, while most of the small boys are content with a yard of unbleached cotton for their entire outfit. But sometimes the big boys are quite generous with their little brothers and divide with them; such is the case of one little fellow who is the proud possessor of a vest which about covers him. Two or three others wear their big brother's shirts, which is quite sufficient for all purposes.

"Some of the girls are dressed principally in beads, brass bracelets and anklets; while others have cloth draped around them forming a skirt and they are without a waist. One girl wears a pink silk waist with a dirty calico skirt. They often appear in evening dresses, the cast-off finery of the town women, and they may be seen digging in their gardens with these on. One came to school draped in a white bedspread."

Styles in names changing as well as in clothing. The following are some of the names which the African mothers have given their children: Spoon, Saucepan, Hotel, Pumpkin, Gingerbeer, Cigarette, Shilling, Sixpence, Penny, Coffee, Sweet Pudding, Very Nice, Office, Tomato, Fifteen, Vinegar, Sugar.

Two Brave Seamen Commended.

Two men of the United States navy have recently been commended for risking their lives to save shipmates. Turner S. Lux, boatswain's mate, national naval volunteers, saved a painter who fell overboard from the United States steamer Houston. A life belt had been thrown to the man, but he failed to grasp it and was going down for the second time when Lux came to his rescue. Lux gave as his nearest kin G. H. Lux, 1827 Valence street, Birmingham, Ala. A similar service was performed by Chief Boatswain John M. Penix, whose mother, Mrs. Mary Stout, lives in Kingston, Ala.

War Strategy and Chess.

The affinity between strategy and chess, recognized by Napoleon, is not very surprising, notes the London Chronicle. The game seems to have crystallized out of some old—perhaps prehistoric—military system akin to that overthrown by Alexander at the Hydaspes. Of that battle Arrian has left us a most spirited picture, in which we can now recognize a singular touch of modernity—the long line of Indian elephants wading, tanklike, into the Macedonian Phalanx. Probably at its birth chess was a branch of military education rather than a form of amusement; and the various early changes in the game, of which we have record, were doubtless attempts to keep the instruction up to date and abreast with current alterations in armament and tactics.

Doctors Stand Amazed at Power of Bon-Opto to Make Weak Eyes Strong---According to Dr. Lewis

Guaranteed to Strengthen Eyesight 50% In One Week's Time in Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home

Philadelphia, Pa. Victims of eye strain and other eye weaknesses, and those who wear glasses, will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is real hope and help for them. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored by this remarkable prescription and many who once wore glasses say they have thrown them away. One man says, after using it: "I was almost blind. Could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without my glasses and my eyes do not hurt any more. At night they would pain dreadfully. Now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for 15 days everything seems clear. I can read even fine print without glasses." Another who used it says: "I was bothered with eye strain caused by overworked, tired eyes which induced fierce headaches. I have worn glasses for several years both for distance and work, and without them I could not read my own name on an envelope or the typewriting on the machine before me. I can do both now and have discarded my long distance glasses altogether. I can count the fluttering leaves on the trees across the street now, which for several years have looked like a dim green blur to me. I cannot express my joy at what it has done for me."

It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by the use of this prescription. Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and let it dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation and redness will quickly disappear. If your eyes bother you even a little it is your duty to take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have saved their sight if they had cared for their eyes in time.

Note: Another prominent Physician to whom the above article was submitted, said: "Yes, the Bon-Opto prescription is truly a wonderful eye remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists and widely prescribed by them. I have used it very successfully in my own practice on patients whose eyes were strained through overwork or misfit glasses. I can highly recommend it in case of weak, watery, aching, smarting, itching, burning eyes, red lids, blurred vision or for eyes inflamed from exposure to smoke, sun, dust or wind. It is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family." Bon-Opto, referred to above, is not a patent medicine or a secret remedy. It is an ethical preparation, the formula being printed on the package. The manufacturers guarantee it to strengthen eyes 50 per cent in one week's time in many instances or refund the money. It can be obtained from any good druggist and is sold in this city by Wayne Drug Co. and Others.

WAGE WAR ON GRASSHOPPERS

California Authorities Devising Ways and Means to Protect Agricultural Lands From Pest.

County horticultural commissioners throughout California have been asked to forward information on the grasshopper pest reported prevalent in a number of districts, particularly in northern California, to George H. Hecke, state horticultural commissioner.

Fragmentary reports received at Hecke's office have indicated that large swarms of grasshoppers have infested agricultural districts in Sutter, Modoc Lassen, Butte and other counties and have caused considerable damage to crops.

One of the best methods of extermination, an official said, is the spreading of poisoned bran mash, which the hoppers devour quickly. Burning of the grass also is an effective means, but the fire menace at this season necessitates the exercise of greatest caution.

Harrowing, by which means the eggs of the hoppers are brought to the surface to be eaten by ants or other insects and flooding the ground also are advocated to prevent hatching.

The enforcement of laws for the curbing of pests is vested in the county horticultural commissioners, but in cases where the menace to crops is extensive the state commission co-operates in a concerted campaign of extermination, as was done this spring when the state-wide rodent drive was conducted.

Cyclist in Spectacular Feat.

An army motorcyclist at one of the training camps recently averted the death of a young lieutenant by a most extraordinary feat of heroism, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. Racing at high speed across rough ground, he drove his machine into a runaway parachute that was dragging the officer to his death. The latter had made a practice parachute jump of 2,000 feet from an observation balloon. A high wind had carried him a considerable distance, and in landing he became hopelessly entangled in the cordage. The parachute was caught by a strong air current and blown at terrific speed across the field, pulling its helpless prisoner with it. At the same instant the cyclist, passing along a nearby motor road, saw the officer's plight. He swerved his machine into the field and raced at top speed squarely into the middle of the bellied parachute. The ropes fouled the machine and the weight of the latter anchored the device fast against further movement.

Chocolate-a food

IT is now universally admitted that chocolate is a food—a sustaining food.

During the war millions of tons of chocolate were sent to the Front.

Our Canadian soldiers early found that eating chocolate was not only pleasing to the taste, but restored vitality and gave renewed energy.

Brigadier-General L. W. Waller of the U.S. Marines, referring to the food value of chocolate, said—

"I never went into a campaign without chocolate. I always have a few cakes in my haversack when I go into action. Men fight like the devil on chocolate. Seasoned soldiers take it on the march with them."

It is a matter of actual scientific demonstration that one pound of chocolate produces the same amount of body-building nutriment as six eggs, a pint of milk and one pound of steak.

As a ready, nourishing and sustaining food, chocolate is unequalled.

Serve Chocolate as a Dessert.

WOULD ABOLISH MONEY.

Japanese Prescription for Bringing In a Paradise of Peace.

We will make here a suggestion which furnishes us a method to prevent the appearance of the rich, and avert the consequent result of the difference between rich and poor. The suggestion consists of the entire disuse of the money over the world, in order to give the struggle for existence a check, to make way with the difference of rich and poor, and thus to promote peace and equality in the public life of mankind.

It is through the medium of the money that wealth is accumulated, and the accumulation entails the difference of rich and poor, with its resultant struggle for existence.

This state of things is most undesirable. The end of mankind is not to be proud of individual talent or ability, but to co-enjoy the peace in the world, just as in a family, and any cause which brings about any inequality in public life must be radically eliminated. It is for this reason that we dare to suggest the disuse of the money to prevent the difference of rich and poor.

What crafty fellow ever introduced the money for use in human life? Of course, nationalism of various valuables, such as gold, silver, jewels, etc., shall be implied in the disuse of the money and their ownership by individuals be prohibited. Such valuables retain their values only when they are used as a means of inequality, but will be nothing more than these pebbles on the road when equality is to be prevalent. They may have some value in giving us a good feeling on account of their elegance, then they may be used, under public ownership, for the decoration of shrines, temples, churches, halls and many other like buildings to the common pleasure of the public at large.

Most complicated troubles may arise from the adjustment of properties after the enforcement of the disuse of the money. With the proposed suggestion mines, railroads, ships, electric and gas plants, waterworks, and many other properties essential to the common interest of a nation shall be transferred to the national ownership, not to say of the nationalization of land, and they shall be equally compensated for, as for the confiscation of money and several bonds, with a kind of registration bond newly issued for the purpose, which should have the characteristic of temporary transitional means until an improved feature makes its appearance in a new society.

In other regards individuals may be permitted to retain their own property, personal and real, and maintain their professions or occupations. Transactions shall be carried on by the exchange of kind in kind, or barter. But as barter is too inconvenient to be enforced, a ticket system may be taken for the remedy of this defect. As has been stated, our ideal disuse of the money does not admit any accumulation of wealth, and so the tickets shall be given each a certain period of time, say ten, twenty, thirty years or more, during which they can be in use, and after which their circulation ceases.

When this is accomplished, there can be no more complaints, no more dissatisfactions, no more contradictions, and no more misunderstandings, and the world will be reorganized into a paradise of peace.—Seijiro Bawashima in Dai Nippon.

THE WAR CHEMISTS.

What Will They Do In Times of Peace?

It is agreed that the returning soldiers and those engaged in various forms of war work shall be taken back into industry with little disturbance. That is as little as we can do in recognition of their many sacrifices. But what of those members of the chemical family who went to war? Who has a job for Benzine and Toluene? Those hard-working twins, Sodium Caustic and Chlorine, are still full of energy and will tackle most anything if given the proper chance. There is a whole regiment of sulphuric acid soon to be mustered out of war service, and equipment used in making mountains of picric acid. T N T, and similar things will be looking for employment.

The problems of the chemist in caring for his own are perhaps greater and surely as gre[illegible]ere those of quickly provid[illegible] that was sought. Benzine [illegible]eing produced at the rate o[illegible] million gallons annually and it may be found possible to use it along with surplus alcohol, legislation willing, and gasoline to conserve our resources of motor spirit.

Depending on price, benzine and toluene may become more extensively used as solvents, and surely actene will be sufficiently plentiful to make it a cheaper solvent than before the war. Our new dye industry may now obtain the toluene desired for important new colors not recently on our market, while the abundance of various raw materials should help in bringing dye prices down to a point permitting competition with the German article the world over.

It is to be hoped that uses for caustic, chlorine, etc., may be found such as to permit continued large scale production and lowered prices, which should encourage experiments looking to new applications. Estimates based upon the acid phosphate fertilizer used in some of the more progressive states indicate that a similar demand from all our farms requiring such fertilizer would mean the continuation of our sulphuric acid industry on its present gigantic scale.

However, the youngest members of the family — some just out of the nursery — poison gases, are the most in need of a job. There seems some opportunity for lachrymators to earn an honest living, for what could be better for subduing a mob? Lachrymators cause no harmful effects and within a few hours the influence passes off.

Now that we know something of handling poisonous gases and have gas masks developed, may we not expect practical application in destroying rats and other destructive pests in buildings sealed for the purpose and then thoroughly purged of gas before re-use? Perhaps such a building might be considered a test tube and the last traces of a harmful gas destroyed with some other gas used as a reagent.

It seems quite likely that some poisonous gases may become reagents on a manufacturing scale, now that they may be had in quantity cheaply. One gas formerly costing $1.50 a pound has been made for 10 cents a pound, and that means chemists can consider it for industrial application. Phosgene is known to give excellent reduction or iron oxide, while not attacking pure iron. It has already been used to purify sand required for high grade optical glass.

Therefore, one of the chemists' problems becomes the continued employment of present facilities along the lines for which they were designed and with which the staffs are familiar, rather than the expensive conversion of these plants to other lines of industrial activity.

MIRACLES IN MENDING.

A Form of Work Almost on Same Plane as War Knitting.

The knitting bag now has a rival in the mending bag, and the soldier sock or sweater must share the honors with the garment in need of repairs; for it has become decidedly the thing to mend one's own clothes and the clothes of one's family. Patches and darns are things to be proud of nowadays, and where women meet — even women whose dressmakers' bills are usually stupendous and are still considerable— one hears notes compared as to the extent of various darning and mending achievements.

The idea is not to mend one's old clothes and give them to the needy, but to mend them to wear one's self. Stockings from last year are rescued from the discard and transformed into a goodly hosiery supply for this season's needs. A coat that received a rent last year is brought to light and mended into fitness for service now, thus making it possible to save the price of a new one and conserve wool and labor.

When women first began to do soldier knitting there was a surprising amount of chatter about it. It was regarded as ostentatious to knit in one's box in the theatre or opera. And some prominent women who were seen to knit thus in the theatre could not have received more criticism than they did had they puffed at a cigarette on the same occasion. Their conduct was branded as insincere, ostentatious, almost indecent. And now, of course, we take it as a matter of course. It was once a part of the most accepted courtesy to discontinue any needlework that we might be doing when a caller arrived, and to continue any sort of finger work even when a member of one's own family addressed us augured inattention if not actual discourtesy. But not so has it been with war knitting, and the men who were at first annoyed because the women would go on knitting just as energetically when they talked as when they did not simply had to get used to the situation.

And the new craze for mending has put that form of finger work on almost the same plane as war knitting; women carry their mending bags to other people's houses and continue their work of restoring old clothes to usefulness in season and out. Even mending socks is carried into the drawing-room, and one no longer feels that just because a Jacob's ladder has appeared in a pair of stockings should they be given to the maid or a poor relation.

The Japanese Empire.

An official census of the Japanese empire will be taken two years hence, but according to statistics recently published the population of Japan proper on Dec. 31, 1917, was 57,998,373, distributed among 10,241,851 dwellings, or 5.7 per cent. habitation. Compared with the census of 1916, a growth in population of 799,096 is seen. This rate of increase exceeds 14 per cent.

Nemesis.

Nemesis was a goddess of justice and retribution. In Greek mythology, Nemesis was a goddess personifying allotment, of the Divine distribution to every man of the precise share of fortune, good and bad.

COUGHED, COUGHED ALL NIGHT LONG

Terribly wearing on the system is the cough that comes at night and prevents sleep. Sometimes it is a constant cough, cough that will not be quieted.

Sometimes it is a choked-up, stuffed-up feeling that makes breathing difficult, and sleep impossible.

Whatever kind of a cold or cough you have, Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is the remedy you need to cure it, for the simple reason that this valuable preparation combines all the lung healing virtues of the Norway pine tree with which is combined wild cherry bark, and the soothing, healing and expectorant properties of other excellent herbs and barks.

Miss Margaret Landly, Bristol, P.E. I., writes: "I am writing to tell you the benefit I have received from Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

Last fall I took a severe cough and cold in my head. I was unable to do anything. At night I could not sleep, but cough, cough, all night long. A friend advised me to use Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and before the second bottle was used, I was entirely cured, and I have found this the best cough medicine I can buy."

Do not accept any other "pine" preparations when you ask for "Dr. Wood's." This remedy has been on the market for a quarter of a century. It is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c. and 50c. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont

Gentle Germans Quite Insulted.

Mr. H. J. Riggs writes this short but pointed letter to the New York Sun about Germas squealing: "On reading in the Sun that German newspapers are indignant because American soldiers are using shotguns, I was reminded of a 'card shark' in Leadville in '79. He had held out a big hand for a killing and had it stuck in the top of his boot. Finally he got his bank roll into a big pot and reached for his holdout to switch in, but found it gone. 'Hold on!' he yelled; 'I ain't going to play in this game—there's cheating going on.'"

Scenery on the Way.

Writing home from France a St. Louis soldier says:

"The first days out I was seasick, later I was homesick, but before the end of the trip I was feeling fine.

"There was a negro battalion in the fore part of the ship and a white one aft. I think I saw every kind of a fish on the way across."

Soldiers and Spartacans Made An Attack On the War Office in Berlin

The Telephone Exchange Was Seized—Majority Socialist Elected President of German Constituent Government.

NEWS FROM GERMANY

United Press:

LONDON, Feb. 8.—A despatch to the Daily Mail from Berlin, filed at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, reported that the "War Office Telephone Exchange" was in the hands of the Soldiers' Council. The newspaper said it was inferred that the whole War Office had been seized by the soldiers.

Spartacans, aided by the Soldiers' Council, planned a simultaneous coup in Berlin and Weimar for Thursday. The plan failed in Weimar, but the above despatch would indicate that the soldiers won a small success in Berlin.

CASUALTIES WERE REPORTED HEAVY.

United Press:

BERLIN, Feb. 8.—The casualties in the fighting between Spartacans and Government troops in Bremen yesterday were heavy, according to reports received here to-day. Many buildings were badly damaged by artillery. Most of the Spartacan leaders are said to have escaped. The Government has obtained complete control of the city.

Miners in the Essen district resumed their strike to-day. Twenty thousand are idle.

The show on Monday afternoon will feature Mae Murray in a six-reel picture entitled "Modern Love," also Alice Howell in a two-reel comedy—"In Dutch." This is an extra special picture programme. On account of the proceeds going to the McIntosh fund, there will be no war tax for the matinee.

United Press:

BERLIN, Feb. 8. — Fourteen hundred volunteers left to-day to reinforce the German troops who are holding off the Polish forces attacking the Breslau-Kissa railway, on the Silesian frontier.

Unconfirmed despatches received earlier in the week reported that an armistice had been affected between the Germans and the Poles. The above despatch would indicate that these reports were groundless.

Sacred Concert in St. James Church Was A Success

Well Selected Programme was Ably Presented By Competent Artists.

St. James' Methodist Church was crowded last evening to hear the first Sacred Concert ever held in St. James' Church. The chairman, Rev. B. Greatrix, after a brief address, presented the numbers of the programme.

The boy soloist, Master Ashton Fife, a lad of only seven summers, sang "Be a Her—o," which elicited more than one encore. His childish treble voice was heard to great advantage when he recited "What Can a Little Boy Do?"

Miss Winnifred Parker, secretary of the Y.W.C.A., recited "The Soul of the Violin," in which she represents an old man talking to his violin, which he is obliged to sell on account of poverty.

Every item of the long programme was enthusiastically received and in the words of Mr. Kitney, "the concert was a decided success."

MOTION PICTURE MEN IN CONFERENCE

Mr. F. Schneider of This City Was Among Those Present.

TORONTO, Feb. 8.—The Ontario Motion Picture Exhibitors' Protective Association held its regular monthly meeting here, with the following out-of-town members present: F. Guest, Hamilton; A. E. Cooper, Huntsville; E. Glascoe, Windsor; F. Schneider, Peterborough; Messrs. McMullen and Simpson, Guelph; F. Smart, Port Hope, and G. A. Graham, president of the Manitoba Exhibitors' Association, Winnipeg; J. H. Morrison, Meaford, and E. T. Wykes, Schrieber. G. A. Graham gave a lengthy address, complimenting the Ontario Association on the steps taken regarding its exchange, and informed the members that when he arrived back in Winnipeg it could feel sure of the hearty support of the Manitoba exhibitors. The chief reason of Mr. Graham's visit to Toronto was to get the affiliation of all the exhibitors in Canada, including British Columbia, Manitoba, Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces, and by so doing the exhibitors would have complete control. Nearly every member signed the application forms for shares in the new exchange. J. C. Brady, of the Madison Theatre, took twenty shares, as also Mr. Feighein. Secretary Thomas Scott announced that fifty theatres had already signed with the new exchange, and with Montreal and other centres included the total will increase to more than a hundred.

SPEEDING UP WORK

Special Meeting Was Held This Morning in Effort to Expedite Work on Draft of Constitution.

MAY DEFER SAILING

United Press:

PARIS, Feb. 8.—The League of Nations Commission held a special meeting this morning in an effort to speed up the work on the draft of the constitution.

It was officially announced that a substantial agreement was reached on the chief points discussed at last night's meeting, but that the Commission had decided to refer certain changes it had made to the sub-committees for clarification.

Owing to the amount of work in connection with the League that is yet incomplete, President Wilson probably will defer his sailing for home—scheduled for next Friday—to February 16 or 17.

Will Investigate Soldiers Camps

Charges of "Disgraceful" Conditions Will Be Heard By Congressional Commission.

United Press:

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Charges of "disgraceful" conditions in American embarkation camps probably will be aired before a Congressional Commission. Conditions at Brest and Staigman have been severely criticized in complaints reaching Senators from several sources.

Transfer German Merchant Shipping

The commission is said to have been well received.

Big Contract to Hamilton Company

Westinghouse Company to Make Electric Generators For Hydro Commission.

The Canadian Engineer publishes the following:

Just two units will comprise the initial installation in the Queenstown power house of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission. The proposition submitted by the Canadian Westinghouse Co., Ltd., for the supply of two generators, was accepted last Saturday.

It is said that the price was in the neighbourhood of $425,000 per machine. The only other bidder was the Canadian General Electric Co., Ltd., whose price was a little higher.

The contract for the water turbines will be awarded within the very near future, either to the I. P. Morris Co., Philadelphia, or the Wellman-Seaver-Morgan Co., Cleveland, the competition being narrowed down to these two firms.

The lowest quotation on the turbines is in the neighbourhood of $250,000 each. Therefore each unit will cost about $675,000 for the water turbine and generator alone, exclusive of any auxiliary apparatus.

Each of the two generators, for which contract has been awarded, will have an output capacity of 45,000 k.v.a. at the terminals. Each turbine will have a mechanical horse-power of 52,500 at the generator coupling. The normal speed will be 187.5 r.p.m. and the frequency 25 cycles per second. The rated capacity is to be delivered at a normal potential of 12,000 volts.

Was a Prominent Lawyer in Peterboro for Many Years—Ill for Some Time.

Colonel E. Burritt Edwards, senior partner of the firm of Edwards and Bubuc of Edmonton, died last night in Edmonton after about a year's illness. The late Col. Edwards was a prominent lawyer in the city for many years before removing to Edmonton. While with the 57th Regiment Peterboro, he earned his title of Colonel and in Edmonton organized the 101st Edmonton Fusiliers. He was 68 years of age. He leaves of the immediate family his wife and six children. Two sisters, Mrs. James Wood and Miss Edwards reside in the city.

Girls Needed On the Farms

Dr. W. A. Riddell Says That "Girl Grangers" Here to Stay.

TORONTO, Feb. 8.—"Farmerettes have proved such a satisfaction on the farms of Ontario that we can scarcely do without them now." Such is the opinion of Dr. W. A. Riddell, Director of the Toronto Labour Bureau, who spoke on "Farm Labour Needs for 1919" before the Ontario Women's Institution delegates here.

"It has been shown that there will be more farm labour needed now than ever before, and I feel safe in predicting that there will be more help used on farms during the summer of 1919, than ever before in the history of Canada. As for the farmerettes, they must also always be with us from now on. Twenty-four hundred women worked on the farms of Ontario last summer, and they did everything that it is possible for a human being to do, from picking berries to plowing. We will need them still, and lots of them," he concluded.

Campaign is Well Under Way

Why You Should Be a Member of the Y.W.C.A.

The Young Women's Christian Association Membership Campaign is still on, and many new members are coming in, but there is lots of room for more.

You should be a member. You need the "Y." If you are a girl you need the exercise, mental and physical, provided by our gymnasium and swimming pool and various classes. You need the companionship and fellowship of other girls, you need the fun and frolic of the outdoor sports. Look for the announcement of membership privileges.

If you are a parent, you need a place where your girls may have the best of exercises, and the best of companionship, and there are privileges that you, too, may enjoy.

If you are an employer, you need a place in this city, where the girls in your employ may meet with other girls, and have the best of recreation under the best of conditions. You should be a member.

The "Y" needs you. If you are a girl, the "Y" needs you in its gym classes. It needs your interest and enthusiasm. It needs you to help other girls to develop what is best in them.

If you are a parent, the "Y" needs your sympathy and co-operation. If you are an employer, the "Y" needs your goodwill and your support. You should be a member.

IMPORTANT DISCUSSION

War Council Met to Consider the Extension of the Armistice With Germany.

LIGHTEN BLOCKADE

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, Feb. 8. — Many important matters were before the Supreme War Council, comprising a council of the Great Powers and military commanders on all fronts, when it met to consider primarily the extension of the armistice with Germany, which expires on February 17th. Although the final decisions have not been given out, the sessions were interesting from the number of subjects demanding attention that were presented by the naval and military chiefs.

Reports were made to the council by the military High Commander on the subjects of demobilization, and relative forces to be maintained in occupied regions. The Versailles military Council also submitted a report as to military forces available for the disturbed regions of Turkey.

The naval branch of the council presented recommendations formulated as a result of consultations among the British, French, Italian and American naval forces bearing mainly on the turning over of the German submarines, blockade restrictions and surrender of the German commercial fleet. This fleet, it is said, is ready to be turned over, but the allies thus far have not agreed upon the allotment of steamer among the various allied nations, nor upon the compensation for the use of the vessels.

The commission on blockade also presented a report favoring the lightening of the blockade restrictions in the Mediterranean and the Adriatic.

A tendency was manifested in some military quarters to impose further drastic terms up on eGrmany, when the armistice was extended, but no decision was reached as to what measures might be taken.

The Normalites Were Entertained At Murray Street

Interesting Programme Was Provided—Those Who Took Part.

It was Normal night last evening at Murray Street Baptist Church when the Baptist Young Peoples' Union entertained the Normal students. The programme, which was presented was very appropriate for the occasion, especially the pancake song which will stand most of them in good stead in the future. The recitations of Master Hughson Johnstone and his dual role in "Who can tell the biggest lie," was especially pleasing. The last number on the programme was a novelty and the different types of girls presented made a "hit" with the male minority of the Normal Schol students.

At the close of the programme refreshments were served by members of the B.Y.P.U.

The Programme.

Dialogue—"The Art Critic." Mrs. (Dr.) Morgan, Mrs. A. S. Zavitz.
Solo—Miss Florence Scott.
Recitations — Master Hughson Johnstone.
Pantcake Song—"A lesson in domestic science." Mrs. J. Jary, Mrs. A. S. Zavitz, Miss Lillian Eastwood, Miss Mary Scott, Miss Marjorie Stenton.
Tableau—"His Old Sweethearts." Him—Mr. Edward Armstrong.
His Sweethearts—Miss Jessie Pollard, Miss Wilhelmine Perrin, Miss Mamie Cottingham, Miss Lillian Scott, Miss Gertrude Middleton, Miss Hazel Gillespie, Miss Elizabeth McDonald, Miss Gladys Yelland, Miss Ida Sanderson and Mrs. J. Jary.

ST. PAUL'S FOREIGN MINISTER RETURNED.

The Rev. D. A. Macdonald, missionary of St. Paul's Church in Korea, his wife and two children came to Peterborough to-day by the noon train to remain in the city for a week as the guests of St. Paul's Church. Mr. Macdonald has been in Korea for seven years. He is supported entirely by the congregation of St. Paul's. He will speak at both services to-morrow and address a mass meeting of the Sunday School in the afternoon. A very full programme has been arranged for him and Mrs. Macdonald for the week, which includes a lecture by him on Korea next Wednesday evening, and then a reception and congregational tea for Thursday evening. Korea is the most fruitful missionary field in the world to-day, and his addresses ought to be of great interest to the Christian people of the city.

The Smaller Powers Lost Their Claim For Larger Reprsentation

The Executive Committee of the League of Nations Will Be Composed of One Representative For Each of the Five Great Powers and Two for the Smaller Countries.

(United Press Service.)
(By Fred S. Ferguson.)

PARIS, Feb. 8.—The initial governing body of the League of Nations will be an executive committee of seven; one representative for each of the five great powers and two for the smaller countries—it was learned from a reliable source to-day.

This agreement is said to have been contained in one of the twenty-two articles of the constitution, half of which were officially announced as being accepted by the committee on the League of Nations. It would indicate that the minor powers lost their contention for larger representation on the executive committee.

Another agreement understood to have been reached is that the Central Powers must make full reparation for all past offenses before they will be admitted to the League.

The two or three individual plans for the framework of the League have now been merged into a single composite draft, upon which the committee is centring all its efforts. The remaining articles which are believed to include comparatively minor problems have all been agreed to in principle.

With continued progress at the two sessions scheduled for to-day and the meeting to-morrow night, it was believed the draft would be ready for presentation to the General Peace Congress early next week.

The committee working on the internationalization of waterways will get down to business next week. One of its first subjects will be the question of whether the Rhine is to be made an open waterway or placed under a commission similar to that which will control the Danube.

Armistice Has Been Effected In the Great Industrial War Being Waged in Great Britain

Electrical Workers and Subway Employees Are Back at Their Posts—An Agreement Reached—The Situation in Belfast and Glasgow.

LEADERS ARRESTED

(United Press.)

LONDON, Feb. 8.—An armistice apparently had been effected to-day in the industrial war being waged in Great Britain.

While the subway strike was called off, and all electrical workers were back at their posts, announcement was made that a mass meeting of trades unions would be held to decide whether there shall be a nation-wide general strike.

Agreement Reached.

Rival tube unions reached an agreement with the government representatives shortly before dawn to-day. A settlement was thought to have been made Thursday night, but the agreement was repudiated by some of the factions of the subway organizations, necessitating a new conference last night. This resulted in the striking workers deciding to return to-day, enabling hundreds of thousands of other workers, who had been forced to sleep in their places of business, take their chance with makeshift transportation or walk, to resume their normal methods of travel. One of the factors resulting in the partial accession to the tube workers' demands was the threat of Alfred Smith, representing the motor bus drivers, to call them out if the government persisted in running army motor lorries for passenger service.

Returned to Work.

The return to work of the electrical employes relieved a tense situation resulting from the government's threat to fine or imprison any one who interfered with the city's power or light service. The waiters were still on strike, however, affecting all the first-class hotels, restaurants and clubs in London.

The general strike in Belfast was reported to be nearing a settlement. The employers have offered the strikers a forty-eight hour week, agreeing to concede a forty-four hour week as soon as peace is signed.

The Evening Star, however, published a Belfast despatch stating that warrants have been signed authorizing the arrest of most of the strike leaders. The situation in the Glasgow shipbuilding strike was said to be unchanged.

WILL RESUME RAILWAY SERVICE.

Canadian Press.

LONDON, Feb. 8. — Sir Albert Stanley, President of the Board of Trade, announced at 9.30 o'clock this morning that an arrangement with union executives had been reached, and that the railway service would be resumed as soon as possible. Acting Secretary Hudson of unions subsequently declared that he was satisfied with the agreement which had been reached. He said he expected that the tube trains would be running normally at noon to-day. The situation on the Clyde is virtually unchanged. The Scottish miners have all resumed work, pending the discussion of the whole situation at the Miners' Conference at Southport on February 12.

WILL CONTINUE THE STRUGGLE.

LONDON (Canadian Press via Reuter), Feb. 8.—A mass meeting of Glasgow, Govan and Clydebank workers yesterday resolved to continue the struggle for a forty-hour week and called on the Executive Committee

THE DISPOSITION OF ALSACE-LORRAINE

BERNE, Feb. 8.— German majority Socialists attending the International Labour and Socialist Congress here, have accepted a resolution urging a plebiscite, under the direction of the League of Nations, to determine the disposition of Alsace-Lorraine.

Left An Estate Of $18,000

Will of Former Peterboro Man Probated in Toronto—Local Relatives Benefit

When Robert Austin Dutton, grocer, of 275 Roncesvalles avenue, Toronto, formerly of Peterborough, died January 11, he left an estate valued at $18,829. This included personal effects to the value of $100; furniture, $600; fixtures of store, $3,800; a horse, $200; Canada Life Assurance, $4,000; cash in bank, $2,129; No. 275 Roncesvalles avenue, $8,000. By a will made on October 1, 1918, he left his widow a life interest in the premises at 275 Roncesvalles avenue and the income from $4,000; to his son who bears his father's name he left the stock-in-trade of the grocery store; the son is also to be able to rent the store at $50 a month as long as he wishes, and to have the option of buying it at a price of $8,000 when his mother dies. There are three daughters, Mrs. Beatrice B. Hall, Edmonton; Mrs. Dora Hazeldean Huffman, Peterborough; and Mrs. Odee Isabel Harris, Toronto, who, with their brother, receive an equal share in the residue of the estate. The wife and son are appointed executors.

A REPATRIATION LEAGUE.

Toronto which has been an example to the rest of Canada in patriotic endeavour from the first day of the war, still continues to point the way for other municipalities. The organization on Thursday of a Citizens' Repatriation League to deal with the problems of repatriation in a practical form is a step that might well be taken by other centres throughout the Dominion. It is to be a voluntary organization, consisting of at least 50,000 members, who will charge themselves with the responsibility of looking after the returned soldiers in their respective districts. As Mayor Church expressed it: "It is not sufficient simply to give the men a cheer on their arrival home." A public reception to each returning soldier will be undertaken by the League as a matter of course, but it is proposed to do much more than this. The League will co-operate with the Government and the municipality to provide employment for the returned men and will care for and encourage them until they have been fully restored to civilian life. The committees selected in Toronto are composed of the city's leaders, big men who can look at things in a big way, and the new organization should go a long way towards solving the big problems that are facing every municipality just now.

SOLDIERS' DEPENDENTS.

The Dominion Government has decided to provide free transportation for the wives and families of Canada's soldiers wives coming home from England. There is little fault to be found with this plan as it is of much utility in helping to repatriate the soldiers as quickly as possible. The new arrangement, however, only takes effect from November 11 of last year, those who have paid their own expenses since that date to be reimbursed by the Government and in this respect it discriminates against the soldiers' dependents who returned to Canada before the armistice was signed. This is unfortunate inasmuch as in many cases it is penalizing those who were loyal enough to act upon the request of the authorities. In the early days of the war the wives of many Canadian soldiers went to England to be with their husbands as long as possible before the men went to France. Later, when the food situation in the Old Country began to be critical, it was intimated by the authorities that it was the duty of Canadian women to ease the pressure in England by returning to Canada where there was no food shortage. Many of them realizing the justice of this warning, returned to their homes on this side of the water at their own expense. The others who chose to defy the official intimation and decided to remain in England until the war was over, regardless of the food shortage or the fact that their presence was adding to the difficulties arising out of that shortage, are now being returned to Canada at the public expense.

THE UNEMPLOYMENT QUESTION.

The advertisements of the Repatriation Committee of the Dominion Government continue to blazon forth the methods by which the Government is meeting the problems of repatriation. On paper the plans to provide employment for the returned men sound rosy, but the facts as they present themselves daily, do not bear out the optimistic language of the press agent of Messrs. Daly and company. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Minister of the Interior, is one member of the Cabinet who evidently has not been consulted in the wording of the advertisements, for in a speech at Winnipeg he is credited with the following reference o the matter of repatriation:

"I do not agree with those who think soldier re-establishment an easy task. The experience of past great wars argues the other way. The lot of the survivors of the Napoleonic wars was pitiful, and it is said that seventy-five per cent. of the veterans of the Crimea died in work houses."

The words used by Hon. Mr. Meighen are more in accordance with the condition of affairs than is the cheerful advertising of the Government which reads nicely, but which does not do much to meet the need of the hour. As a matter of fact there are already in Peterborough scores of returned soldiers who are unable to find employment. Many of them men whom the Government has pronounced ont eligible for the new war gratuity. Nobody seems to be worrying much about whether these men find positions or not, except the Great War Veterans' Association, the men themselves, and the members of their families.

THE STRIKE EPIDEMIC.

As might have been suspected, it has been discovered that the strikes which are paralyzing several branches of industry in Britain were started and are directed by aliens. The chief strike promoter in Glasgow, a Russian named Emmanuel Spinwell, has been arreseed, and it is reported that more arrests will soon follow.

One significant feature of these strikes is that they have almost all been sprung without the consent and against the advice and protest of the union executive, who have been powerless to prevent them. In every case the movement appears to have started obscurely as the result of secret propaganda among the rank and file of the workers. In most cases the alleged motive for striking was trivial—such, for instance, as a demand for a few minutes extra for lunch. The general demand for a shorter work day is not unreasonable and might be made with the excellent motive of creating employment for all who need it. But it is to be feared that this demand is only an excuse for striking, and that the real motive is not on the surface, but is in harmony with the spirit of Bolshevism.

It will doubtless be discovered that Bolshevist agents have been busy in Britain and are mainly responsible for the present state of things in the great industrial centres. When the majority of the British trades unionists realize this, they will make short work of the bad business, for the typical British workman has no use for red revolutionary methods.

One outcome of the series of strikes which have done and are still doing much harm to British industry may be, and should be, an increase of the authority with which the union executive officials are endowed. They should be entrusted by the government with certain disciplinary powers over the union members — the power to exclude them from benefits as punishment for engaging in an unauthorized strike, and power to recommend the disfranchisement of all members who obstinately refuse to obey the union executives. It is evident that some such unusual measures will have to be resorted to in order to save British industrialism from drifting into something resembling the condition of things in Russia.

Probably what is needed most at present is the deportation of alien agitators, especially those who may be caught in the work of secret propagandism. But whatever is done should be done with the full concurrence of the tried and trusted labour leaders, who are the best judges of the measures which it would be safe to adopt to achieve the purpose desired.—Hamilton Herald.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Alderman Murray's suggestion that aldermen should be paid for overtime might lead eventually to a more efficient council. If the ratepayers had to provide salaries for the aldermen they might be more careful in the selection of men for the positions.

There does not seem to be any truth in the report that Baron Flavelle is to be director of the Government's new cold storage system.

THE CANADIAN BACON INDUSTRY

"The Canadian bacon industry is facing its most critical period," said President John Flatt at the annual meeting of the Ontario Swine Breeders' Association held at the Carls-Rite. This critical period was due to the fact that European markets are flooded with American pork products while like products cannot be shipped from Canada.

Funeral of Former Peterboro Resident

Death of the Late Mrs. Melissa A. Weir.

OBITUARY OF MRS. MELISSA A. WEIR.

The body of Mrs. Melissa A. Weir, who died at Davenport, December 17, was brought to Monticello by her children, and consigned to the grave in Oakwood cemetery, last Friday morning. The services at the grave were conducted by Rev. C. E. Cushman, the pastor of the local Congregational church.

Mrs. Weir had been a resident of Monticello, for a period of nearly 40 years. Her usefulness, her unfailing good nature and her sympathetic disposition endeared her to a wide circle of appreciative friends. She was a good mother, a kind and helpful neighbour. The following obituary is taken from the Davenport Democrat:

Mrs. Melissa A. Weir, mother of Mrs. Isaac L. Sears, Robert F. Weir and Wm. R. Weir, of this city, passed away, Wednesday evening, at 6 o'clock, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Sears, 1213 Second avenue, after an extended illness, which became acute only during the past ten days, when the infirmities attending advanced age brought great weakness and finally death.

Melissa Young Weir was born in Murry, Ontario, Can., March 15, 1836. Her marriage to William Weir, of Peterborough, took place at Trenton, Can., in 1856, and she came with her husband to Monticello, Iowa, in 1865, that place being the family home until after the death of Mr. Weir, some 20 or more years ago.

About 13 years ago, Mrs. Weir came to Davenport to make her home with her daughter, Mrs. Sears.

The survivors are six children, Mrs. I. L. Sears, R. F. and W. R. Weir, of this city; Mrs. Thomas Kingsley and Mrs. Wm. Fairbairn of Cascade, Iowa; and S. S. Weir, of Cambridge, Iowa; 14 grandchildren and two great grandchildren, a brother, Sheldon Young, of Los Angeles, Calif., and three sisters, Mrs. John Blanchard, of Minneapolis, Minn., Mrs. Wm. Rutherford, of Peterborough, Ont., and Mrs. Jessie Annis, of Council Bluffs, Ia.

The funeral was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the late home. Very Rev. Marmaduke Hare, dean of Trinity Cathedral, conducting the service. The body will be taken to Monticello, where interment will be, Friday, in the family lot by the side of the husband, services at the grave to be conducted by the Congregational minister of Monticello.

The funeral party left this afternoon on the 3.35 train for Monticello. Immediate relatives were the pallbearers here, and old friends and neighbours of Monticello will act in that capacity at the grave.

Mrs. Weir made many friends in Davenport since coming here to make her home, her cheery, sunny personality and charm making her beloved by all who knew her. This bright, lovable disposition made her sick room, where for over a year she has been confined to her bed, a happy place, in spite of the double affliction of being unable to hear the voices of her children and grandchildren about her. Her death will bring a sense of loss to all who knew and loved her.

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry

For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal. Easily and cheaply prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It is very easily prepared, and really there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a 16-oz. bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, this mixture saves about four-fifths of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and then disappear altogether. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

WHERE HONOR IS DUE

Glorious Devon! most beautiful of English counties, birthplace of Drake and of a great host of heroes of Elizabethan England has added fresh laurels to her chaplet, says a writer in the Scottish American. We still remember how the Devons saved the day at Waggon Hill, in the South African war, but what are we to say or think of the 2nd Battalion Devonshire Regiment in the present war? It now transpires that in May last the entire battalion, including their colonel and 28 officers, preferred death to surrender. This is a record which may be equalled, but can never be surpassed by any other British regiment, Highland or Lowland far or near. Leonidas and his Greeks did no more.

I am quite certain that no Scotsman will hesitate for one moment to give honor to Devonshire's illustrious dead, and I am also certain that the proudest regiment that wears the tartan would consider it an honor to fight alongside the famous men of Devon.

A contemporary suggests that Devonshire should erect a memorial to the men who died so nobly, but I would suggest that all Britain should contribute to such a memorial, and let Scotland (remembering the chivalry of Chevy Chase) lead the way. A gallant nation can recognize gallantry (to the last degree even in her one time "auld enemy of England.)

ITALIANS BUSY IN TRIPOLI

Rebuilding Railroad Destroyed by the Turks and Germans.

ROME, Feb. 7.—The military situation in Tripolitania is daily growing better, especially since the occupation of the Zansur Oasis and Beera without meeting much resistance from the enemy. Tripoli, the capital of this colony, can take up its commercial life again instead of feeling like a besieged city, as it did during these four years of war.

From the Tunisian frontier to Tripoli the whole coast is now free from enemy treachery, and the railway leading to Zavia, which had been destroyed by the Turks and Germans is being rapidly reconstructed by Italian soldiers.

The press deplores the lack of firmness shown by those in authority in Tripolitania during the war, contending that a more courageous attitude might have prevented the loss of territory, which must now be reconquered at the cost of lives and money.

Mr. D. W. Dumble Suggests a Way of Saving Three Hundred Thousand Dollars For the City

Peterboro's Police Magistrate Believes a Strong Pile Bridge Over the River at Dublin Street Would Fill the Bill.

REPLY TO MR. DOBBIN

I have read Mr. Frank Dobbin's article dealing with this bridge, with very great interest. It is a great pity that the City Council, of which Mr. Dobbin was a member, had not given this project more consideration before they committed the city to a $400,000 project.

Who is to be accommodated by the proposed viaduct?

1st—The Quaker Oats people, who don't propose to contribute a cent to its construction.

2nd—The railway companies— the G.T.R. and the C. P. R. or a Street Railway Company—who don't offer to pay one cent for its construction.

3rd—The public who want to come over the river or to go over the river. These are the people of Peterborough East and of Peterborough West. All the taxes paid by Peterborough East will hardly pay the interest and sinking fund required to meet the cost of construction, and, if land damages must be paid, will not pay the yearly amount required to meet cost of intest and sinking fund debentures.

4th—The people who want to cross over to go into the country—east or west—can cross at Red Mills, at Auburn, or at the Locks by the three existing bridges, without lengthening their journey.

If the Street Railway Company company want to use a bridge they can cross by a cheap piled bridge, to be built above the Q. O. dam. When their cars cross the pile bridge they will require to make a circuit of Ashburnham to accomodate the people and they can come back by the way they went over. When the car gets to George street a transfer ticket will take passengers north or south as desired, and thus they can reach all parts of the city.

Is it necessary to build a $400,000 viaduct to accommodate a street railway, when a $10,000 or $20,000 bridge above the Dixon dam will amply accommodate a street railway?

But you say the railway switches on Hunter street are dangerous. Perhaps they are, but no one has yet been killed or hurt there.

The interest and sinking fund of a $400,000 expenditure would pay for 30 men standing there on guard at $1,000 a year each, or 60 men at $500 a year each. But some one says the barges bringing wheat to the Quaker Oats call for a high bridge. Stop, my friend! How many barges will turn off from the through route to come up to the Q. O.? None whatever—save those for the Q. O. Mills, perhaps a barge or two per diem—and then only in summer. But perhaps, you say, there must be a high level bridge. No, my friend, the barges won't be brought up by big ships. A wee, gasoline tug can go under the present bridges on the river, those of the G.T.R., the C.P.R. and the town bridge. Such barges will not, loaded or unloaded, require more than 10 or 12 ft. of headway above water. Loaded they will draw about 7 ft. of water and empty, about 2 or 3 ft. So that empty they may require 10 or 12 ft. of head-room under the bridges, and loaded possibly 7 or 8 ft. No high smoke-stacked steamer will be required for the half-mile haul from the lake to the mill. The old Erie canal had thousands of canal boats, all drawn by mules or horses, never by steam. There is another consideration. When you spend your $400,000 to accommodate the railways, have you any way to compel the Q. O. to use the canal? Won't they bargain with the railway companies and say, this is a government canal, and the railway companies cannot control the freights by canal, but they now have the choice of water or rail and they will use this lever to compel the railways to give them the cheap rates they ask for by rail. The cars will suit the Q. O. best, as they can take in their grain and ship out their products by cars at any of the Q. O. buildings by any of the tracks and from the east side of these buildings or the west side as suits them. The canal will be only on one side of one building. They will simply use the canal to beat down the railways. The history of the Erie canal, the old one and the new one will be, that the great gain to New York State was that power to keep down freight rates of the railways. The Q. O. people are the great gainers by the fact of the canal construction. Peterborough will be greatly pleased to help the Q. O. Company, but they will not be greatly elated with the prospect of making a useless $400,000 capital of expenditure to enable the Q. O. people to beat down the railway freight rates.

My advice to the citizens is that they build a strong pile bridge over the river at Dublin street. Make the bridge wide enough for horse and auto vehicles and street railway—a single track is all that will be wanted for 30 years. Make the roads to and from the crossing wide and good. Compel all vehicles to travel and use that route, and that will relieve Hunter street so that the railway traffic will not be inconvenienced, and by this method you will save $300,000, and when Peterborough gets Mr. Dobbin's 60,000 population and taxes it will again make people realize that the property they bought, improved and paid for is really their own instead of being practically owned by the city, as it now is.

I may have more to say on this subject. Meanwhile I recommend my friend Dobbin carefully to read and re-read this paper. He is a loyal citizen and will appreciate a good suggestion form any quarter.

D. W. DUMBLE.

N.B.—The Otonabee is a navigable river, the bed of the stream is owned by the Crown, and if the Government permits, no one can prevent the erection of a new bridge above the dam.

"SWEET INNISFALLEN."

It was an appreciative and well satisfied audience that gathered in the Grand Opera House last evening to witness the presentation of "Sweet Innisfallen," a romantic Irish comedy, with Bernard Daly playing the stellar role. The play itself was a type that has been familiar for a generation past, with love, heart interest, pathos, hatred, spying, conspiracy, and genuine honour tangled in a most confusing manner only to be satisfactorily unravelled in the end. All ended well. The dialogue was especially bright and clever and applause was frequent and spontaneous.

Mr. Daly's singing was the feature of the evening. He has a voice of marvellous range, extreme flexibility and dramatic expressiveness. Each of his numbers, "Believe Me if all those Endearing Young Charms," "Mavis," "Hide and Seek," "Call of the Wind," "Song of the Dove" and "Sweet Innisfallen" was rapturously received and applauded.

The cast was a most capable and well balanced one. The costuming and scenery were especially elaborate and beautiful and appropriate to the period and action of the play.

Keep the Bowels Regular and You Won't Be Sick

If the bowels do not move regularly they will sooner or later become constinated, and constipation is productive of more ill-health than almost any other trouble.

The sole cause of constipation is an inactive liver, and unless the liver is kept active, you may be sure that headaches, piles, heartburn, biliousness, jaundice, floating specks before the eyes, and many other troubles will follow the wrong action of this one of the most important organs of the body.

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will regulate the bowels so that you will have a free and easy motion every day, and one pill a night for thirty days will cure the worst cases of constipation.

They do this by acting directly on the liver and making the bile pass through the bowels instead of allowing it to get into the blood, thus causing many stomach and bowel troubles.

Mrs. Jos. Labrec, Louise Apts., Calgary, Alta., writes:—"I have been troubled with constipation for the last two years. I have tried numerous treatments, but have never been relieved by anything until I used Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills which are helping me wonderfully."

We do not claim that Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are a "cure-all," but we do claim that there is nothing better for a sluggish liver.

Price 25 cents a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

WOMEN ON LAND

Farmers Will Likely Want Them This Year

Farmers in this district have not as yet made any application to the local office of the Government Employment Bureau for female help on the land for the coming season. This does not necessarily mean that girls will not be largely used again this year, for, despite the fact of the war being over, there is not likely to be a surplus of farm help. The head office of the bureau in Toronto has already begun a campaign of circularizing farmers as to their needs for farmerettes this season. The local office states that it expects to see some applications next month, or in March but that as yet it is early for the farmers to decide as to the help they will require.

It is thought that a good number of women will be glad to go on the land this year.

Arab Scene on Asbestos Curtain At The Grand

The Curtain Weighs Two Tons—Local Artists Carried out Contract.

Patrons of the Grand Opera House to whom the Ben Hur scene of the asbestos curtain has become a familiar feature have witnessed the scene for the last time as during the past four weeks, Mr. S. Harris and Mr. H. Boddy of the sign department of J. J. Turner & Sons, Limited, have replaced the old standby by a real work of art in the shape of an Arab scene which with its artistic colorings of red and grey harmonizes admirably with the colour scheme of the Opera House.

The scene which is original represents two rug merchants garbed in the vivid colorings of the East crossing the desert from one Eastern city to another mounted on camels. From an artistic standpoint the picture is worthy of great praise and the artists have been heartily congratulated upon their excellent work. Casual observation of the finished product does not in any way indicate the immense amount of work the redecorating represents. The curtain which weighs two tons had to be lifted down and placed on the back wall of the theatre where artists work from a dizzy height. The curtain will be used for the first time at the McIntosh benefit concert on Monday.

TORTURING, ITCHING ECZEMA

Mrs. J. B. Horth, Paspebiac, Bonaventure Co., Que., writes:—"Thanks to Dr Chase's Ointment I have been completely cured of that horrible disease eczema. I was held as if in prison from going among other people, for I was ashamed of the raw, flaming sores. Doctors could do nothing for me and I was almost desperate with suffering when I began to use Dr. Chase's Ointment. In one month I was completely cured and think that this was little short of a miracle."

IF BACKACHY OR KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat less meat and take a glass of Salts to flush out Kidneys. Drink plenty water.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or there times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headaches, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lia-water drink which everyone could take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

The Socks Were "A Life Saver" Declared Several Peterboro Men

Letters of Appreciation Received From the Boys in France, Belgium and Germany—A Few of the Letters.

The secretary of St. Albans' Girl Guides, which organization has been instrumental in making many soldiers Christmas happier, by sending parcels containing all manner of good things for the men on active service, has received several letters from France and Germany thanking the workers for their generosity. Corp. Frost, No. 2 Canadian Advance Depot Medical, France, writes: "I am sure that every parcel your committee sent to France would bring with it the conviction that the ones who received them were still remembered by those at home, and in every case helped to make our Christmas brighter."

Bombadier Frank Stinson, at present in England, wrote, "I am sure your work this Christmas in sending boxes overseas will be deeply appreciated by all those concerned, and is worthy of far greater praise than rests in my power to bestow."

From Hunland.

From Hunland came the following graceful recognition from Driver A. Knight: "The socks were a life saver, as I had not had a change for weeks and we were constantly on the move."

Other Letters.

Other letters, each expressing the same grateful sentiment were received from Thomas Taylor, 2nd Canadian Infantry Battalion, France, Gunner A. H. Milliken, at the time of writing at Ramesdorf, Germany; Sergt. Lasenby, with the 19th Battalion, Germany; William McKinley, with the 5th C.M.R. in France; Corp. Ridyard, Ramilles, Belgium; Pte. W. J. Gadoua, Belgium; W. T. Logan, 38th Battalion, France; Pte. Jim Black, 5th C.M.R., Belgium; Pte. E. Wellwood, and Pte. C. Barrett, in France.

Practically every letter refers to the splendid condition the parcel was in on receipt at the destination.

HARDWARE AND METAL MARKETS

Lower Prices Recorded on a Number of Articles.

Prices on plate have undergone a further revision downward in some quarters this week, and the heavy gauges of black sheets have also narrowed towards the lowest basis. Supplies are now very good in these lines ,and the same is true of galvanized sheets, on which business is being keenly developed. Tin plate has declined $5 per box, and terne plate is $3 per box lower. Ample supplies are available, but trading as yet is rather limited.

Many miscellaneous lines in which the retailer is interested have been revised this week, declines being frequent. Barn door hangers and track, steel thumb latches and copper rivets and burrs are among the lines to decline. Sleigh bells are down about 10 per cent., and easier prices on cow ties seem a prospect.

More Declines

Declines have been recorded in barb wire, plain twist wire, and galvanized wire this week in some markets, and a lower scale of prices is provided for in brass spring wire in new discounts issued to the trade this week.

Chalk lines, masons' lines and pump oilers are higher in prices, the latter being up about 20 per cent. Revised quotations issued on fishing tackle show advances ranging from 5 to 25 per cent., according to class of goods affected. Tennis balls are also higher, new prices ranging about 33 1-3 per cent. above quotations ruling last season. Buck saws, lunch kits, pine tar and spring balances are other lines to register advances this week.

Cotton Waste

Cotton waste has undergone a revision to lower levels, prices being down from 1c to 2c per pound, according to grade. Game traps have come in for some further revision this week, and prices listed last week have in some instances been advanced slightly; this is just a readjustment.

Linseed oil has advanced 3c per gallon this week in some quarters, narrowing the range towards the higher figure. Crushers and jobbers report a better movement of oil to the retail trade, and a steadily improved demand is now expected.

Turpentine has sagged 2c to 5c per gallon in the various markets, and some movement is now in progress. Southern markets developed weakness late last week and early this, but the tone has strengthened again and advances from low point reached have been made.

Business as a whole shows a much better feeling. Some sources supplying the building trade report sales for January this year well above same month of last year, and all seem to be quite satisfied that the outlook is decidedly encouraging.

GOOD DIGESTION A GREAT BLESSING

An Acute Sufferer Tells How She Found New Health.

Very few people appreciate what good digestion means until they lose it. To be able to eat what you want and to properly digest it is a priceless blessing. But if you find that your digestion is in any way impaired you cannot afford to risk experiments by trying uncertain remedies. Strong medicines are hard on the stomach; pre-digested foods only aggravate the trouble. What is needed is a tonic that will so strengthen the stomach as to enable it to do its own work. There is no tonic for the stomach that is not at the same time a tonic for every other part of the body. As the blood circulates through all the body an improvement in its condition quickly results in strengthening any weak organ. Rich red blood is absolutely necessary to good digestion. If your stomach is weak ,if you are troubled with sour risings in your throat a feeling of nausea after eating pains or fluttering about the heart, try at once the true tonic treatment of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. So many people have been helped by this treatment that every sufferer from indigestion should promptly try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Among the many who rejoice in a renewed digestion through the use of this medicine is Mrs. William Dale, Midland, Ont., who says:—"I suffered for a long time from a severe form of indigestion, and had doctored so much without benefit that I had all but given up hope of getting better. Everything I ate caused me intense pain and some days I did not touch a thing but a cup of cold water, and even that distressed me. As a result I was very much run down, and slept so poorly that I dreaded night coming on. I was continually taking medicine but was actually growing worse instead of better. Having often read the cures made by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I finally decided to give them a trial. I have had great cause to bless this decision for by the time I had used a couple of boxes there was no doubt the pills were helping me, and in less time than I had anticipated the pills had cured me, and I was again enjoying not only good digestion, but better health in every way than before."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any medicine dealer, or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Milking the Cows AND Cleaning the Milk Bottles

Just as there are many grades of cows so are there many grades of milk.

Many of the ways by which disease-producing organisms pass from the cows or the milkers to the consumer are now known, and scientific methods used to safeguard health.

Medical Milk Commissioners and others are unanimous that RAW MILK IS NEVER SAFE, and to make it safe it must be CLARIFIED AND PASTEURIZED.

But we must have clean bottles for clean milk. Housewives who are in the habit of rinsing their milk bottles before returning them will probably not believe that bottles come back in such condition that they cannot be used again.

Too much stress cannot be laid upon this important end of the milk business, for when milk bottles get into such out-of-the-way places and are used for purposes even beyond description here, it is most urgent that they be subjected to a cleansing process that is sure and safe.

Our milk bottles are washed and sterilized by machine, for the reason that the human hand cannot stand the high temperature of the water so necessary for efficient cleansing and sterilizing. With this outfit we use water ranging in temperature from 130 degrees to 212 degrees, F.—the boiling point. Then there is the steam to consider, too, for steam sterilizes the bottles just as it does the surgeon's instruments.

Conference to Be Representative

Difficulties Arising Out of the Bolshevik Situation.

By Lowell Mellett.
(United Press.)

PARIS, Feb. 8.—The position of the Russian anti-Bolshevik factions, in view of the Soviet government's acceptance of the Associated Powers' proposals for a joint conference at Prinkipos, was regarded as untenable in certain quarters to-day.

The American delegates' attitude in this regard was understood to be that the Soviet's acceptance necessitated the Associated Powers going through with the conference regardless of the Russian elements. On the other hand, a high French official declared that he would oppose his government's participation in the conference unless the other nations are represented.

But the British were said to side with the Americans and it was believed that all opposition—allied as well as Russian anti-Bolshevik—would be overcome and that the conference would be fully representative.

How the American's view the Prinkipos conference is evidenced by the expression of one of the delegates, who said, "We're going to find out what this Bolshevik business really means."

Motored Across Stoney Lake

Ice is About Eleven Inches Thick.

Owners of cottages at Stoney Lake will be gratified to know that the ice on Stoney Lake is eleven inches thick. Last week Mr. Levi Payne and his son-in-law, Mr. John Bottrell, both of Lakefield, motored across the ice one day this week and filled their ice-house at the cottage. They left Lakefield about eight o'clock in the morning, motored through Douro, Dummer, to McCracken's Landing, and then took the ice across Stoney Lake to their cottage at Payne's Island. They returned to Lakefield about five o'clock in the evening.

A SICKLY WIFE NO FIT MATE FOR ANY MAN

GIRLS AND WOMEN SHOULD LOOK WELL TO THEIR HEALTH AND STRENGTH.

Never before was physical health and vigour so highly esteemed and so eagerly sought for as to-day.

No man finds happiness in a sickly wife, and the woman who wishes to enjoy the pleasures of life should spare no effort to maintain perfect health.

Is your daughter growing up strong and ruddy? Has she strength to drink in greedily all the pleasures that youth so zealously seeks—or is she compelled to use the street car instead of enjoying the delightful exercise of walking—does she after the ball arise refreshed and vigorous, or is she exhausted, indifferent, and perhaps irritable?

When strength and vigour can be so easily maintained by Ferrozone, when the glow of health is so quickly brought to the cheeks and elasticity to the step, it is plainly a mother's duty to see that Ferrozone is on hand to assist her daughter back to health.

Upon the wake of Ferrozone quickly follows a stream of rich, nourishing blood which imparts that power and surplus energy so earnestly desired by those in ill-health.

Stop and think what this means for your daughter—certainly a great deal and it can be accomplished by Ferrozone.

Every growing girl and young woman derives enormous benefit in many ways from this nutritive vitalizing tonic.

It is specially suited for young women and is a guarantee of health and regularity as long as it is used.

Ferrozone is free from alcohol and perfectly safe to use. Prepared in the form of a chocolate-coated tablet and sold in 50c. boxes or six for $2.50, at all dealers, or direct from The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Peterboro Real Estate Men Claim Workingmen's Houses Are Plentiful in the City

There is No Housing Problem in the City, According to the Renting Men—Do Not Favour Idea of City Appropriating Money For the Erection of Homes.

HOUSES CAN BE BOUGHT CHEAPER

Of three local real estate dealers interviewed not one was in favour of the city appropriating money to build houses for the workingman. Two of them said that there was no housing problem in this city and thought that money used in this way was money misspent and would react on the city in the future.

Mr. H. P. Lindsay of the Lindsay Agency situated on Water street alone was of the opinion that small houses in the city were scarce.

"I don't think that you would find five empty houses in the city," said Mr. Lindsay. "Houses at present are scarce and are badly needed."

Mr. Lndsay is the sponsor of a new idea which should receive some attention from the City Fathers. He is not in favour of the city building workingmen's homes for the benefit of the manufacturers who are the ones at present clamouring for more houses for employees.

"Let the city borrow some of the the appropriation from the Provincial Government and lend it to the manufacturers at the same rate of interest that they borrowed it from the Government" explained Mr. Lindsay. "In this way the city would be protected and the factory could take care of the houses. They are the ones that want the houses for their employees near the factory and they should assume the risk. The city would then have as security both the factory and the house. If the tenant of the house failed to keep up his payments the city would not suffer. It would be the factory who are asking for the houses.

These houses under the present plan of the city would be built to suit the workman and if he moved away perhaps not paying his rent up to date the city would lose the rent and the house may not suit the next workman and it would then stand idle until a tenant could be found, working that particular factory who would find the house suitable.

When it was explained to Mr. Lindsay that in the opinion of the manufacturers thebuilding of these houses would do away with the present transient labour and create a home influence that would keep the worker in his comfortable home in spite of the magnet of higher wages, Mr. Lindsay was somewhat dubious.

"I think that the workman will move wherever he can do the best because he can always get a home to live in."

"As an investemnt I wouldn't advise a man to build now. I have many houses for sale but not many to rent. Those that I have to rent are not fit to live in."

Few are Central

"There are any amount of houses in the city," said Mr. A. Gibbs of the Peterboro Realty Company. "The city can't build houses as cheap as we can sell them. Peterboro is the same as other cities, dozens of good houses in the outskirts of the city to rent but very few that are central. The houses are turning over very good so far but there is so rush, just an average sale. The spring opening looks good at present and prospects are good. They will be especially good when the new bridge is started and the opening up of new factories. I expect that selling will be brisk but I don't think that values will be cheaper from the mere fact that lumber, material and labour is so high. I estimate that a workman's house can be called those below $2500 and there are many in the city below that price for sale. There is no such thing ir Peterboro as a housing problem.

Can Buy Cheaper.

"The city will burn their fingers," said Mr. M. H. Quinlan, a Water street, real estate dealer, when asked what he thought of the city going into the contracting business and building houses for the workingman. The city can buy houses in this city, workingmen's houses or any other kind of a house cheaper than they can be built. There are any amount of houses from $1000 up in the city and they can be purchased reasonably. Mr. Quinlan told of a citizen who has a house on Perry street to sell for less than $1500.

"He has been actually peddling this house yet he can't sell it." said Mr. Quinlan. "It is a good house and in a good locality yet he can't find a buyer.

"There are a good many contractors in this city," went on Mr. Quinlan, "but they are all idle. They're not building houses. Why? Because it wouldn't pay them. They would be busy if there was any dearth of houses in the city. I have six or eight building lots in the city and all the time I am paying taxes on them but I wouldn't put houses on them. He said that occasionally there are deals going through for expensive residences but the most of the turnovers are the small $1500 to $2000 homes. January was a very good month but it is a wise man who can tell anything about the spring but I don't think that we are facing a slump.

Mr. Quinlan thought that if the city had money to spend in this way that they should buy houses in the city and not construct more.

"They can buy houses, just the type that they say that they want for less than they can build them. Every kind of building material is sky high and they would find that it would do them no good in the end because they could not find tenants to fill them."

Mr. Quinlan thought that the Government idea of putting soldiers on the land was a splendid one.

"They should't huddle them up in the city."

Intermediates Put Up Game Fight But Lose To Oshawa By 9 to 5

The Peterboro intermediates are out of the running in the O.H.A. race but they did not go down before making a game fight. Beaten here 10 to 3 on Monday night they went back to Oshawa last night and gave Manager Bradley's outfit a terrible scare before the Oshawa gang finally won out by 9 goals to 5.

The Petes started out by scoring two goals and at the end of the first period were leading 2 to 1. They continued in front until well into the second period when three of the team were penalized at once and Oshawa took advantage of the opening given them to slam in three goals and to rally. It was 6 to 3 at the end of the second period and in third session Oshawa outscored the Petes by 3 to 2.

The Peterboro team was considerably changed from that which met Oshawa here. Hodgins and Murphy were dropped and Schultz and Lowes took charge of the defence position while the forward line was made up of Halpin, Evans and Rose with Laundrault and Jackson acting as subs. The team played a much improved brand of hockey and gave Oshawa a merry battle for the honours. In fact if Referee Bobby Hewitt son had not handed out so many penalties, the Petes would have come pdetty near tying up the group. Schultz and Lowe made a hard checking defence pair who held Oshawa out in great style and each had a hand in the goal-getting while the forwards distinguished themselves and Legros did great work in the nets. The Peterboro team lined up as follows:

Profits in Foresight

The market for Ontario gold securities of proved worth has almost unlimited possibilities. Now that the war is over the gold mines have everything before them. The prices of supplies and equipment have declined heavily and a good class of miners is entering the camp in large numbers.

The mine whose immediate future promises greater results than any other is the Davidson. We know that the Davidson property possesses indicated ore bodies, recently located, of immense possibilities. As these will be opened up immediately, we wish to go on record as stating our belief that the Davidson will provide the sensation of the year.

We advise immediate purchase. Wire us your order for Davidson.

Peterboro Rangers Will Be Organized On Pre-War Basis

Lieut.-Col. J. Mills Has Received Instructions From Headquarters —Places for Returned Soldiers.

Lieut.-Col. J. Mills has received word from Militia Headquarters to undertake steps towards the re-organization of the 57th Regiment, Peterborough Rangers. The staff of non-commissioned officers will be largely recruited from men who have seen overseas service. The position of Battalion Sergeant-Major will be reserved for Battalion Seregant-Major E. Nicholls, D.C.M., of the 2nd Battalion, who went overseas with the 1st Contingent.

Concerning this matter, Colonel Mills has received the following letter from Divisional Headquarters at Kingston:

Lieut.-Colonel J. Mills,
O C. 57th Regt., Peterborough.

Sir,—It has been decided by Militia Headquarters that all city corps should be immediately re-organized, special efforts being made to enrol reliable types of returned soldiers and to establish a regimental reserve of such men as are not willing to re-enlist in active militia units. This reserve should be well organized and if possible a room in your armouries should be made available to encourage them to meet and become an active organization.

On receipt of this communication will you be good enough to at once inform me what steps you intend to take in this regard and what you consider are the prospects of the unit under your command. It is desired that this matter be expedited as much as possible.

Yours,
Harry Genet, Lieut.-Col.,
Asst. Adjt.-General.
Military Dist. No. 3.

Meeting Called.

Colonel Mills replied that the organization of the 57th Regiment would be proceeded with at once. A meeting of officers will be called for on Monday evening, February 10, and another meeting of N.C.O.'s with overseas service on Tuesday evening, February 11, in the sergeants' mess in the armouries. Preference of all appointments will be to men of overseas service and seniority in the same, coupled with efficiency. It is the intention of the Officer Commanding to keep the important appointment of battalion sergeant-major in reserve for B.S.M. E. Nicholls, D.C.M., at present sergeant-major of the Second Battalion. Appointments in the meantime will be provisional.

Colonel Mills expects to get orders to dismantle the bunks at present in the armouries and restore the office furniture and fixtures to their usual places.

Captain Maurice Park is appointed Acting Adjutant of the 57th Regiment. The regiment will be organized on the pre-war plan, that is with eight companies of 100 men each, and not the active overseas service battalions, which consist of four companies of 250 men each. The regiment will have if recruited to full strength, a total of 360 officers, N.C.O.'s and men.

PRISONER HURLS INK BOTTLE MISSING JUSTICE M'NERNEY

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 — Incensed when he was remanded for sentence in Special Sessions, following conviction for distribution of narcotic drugs, Ralph Napoli, released recently from jail, raised a well filled ink bottle from the desk of a clerk and threw it at the Justices. The object missed Justice J. McInerney by inches, and crashed against the wall behind the bench.

Attendants and policemen seized the prisoner, who fought and struggled, shouting invectives at the Justices. Several minutes intervened before order was restored.

William M. Fuller, clerk, and George Demm, stenographer, both of whom were seated between the prisoner and Justice McInerney, received most of the ink on their faces and clothing. Had not Policeman Breen struck Napoli's arm slightly as he hurled the ink, it is believed the missile would have struck Justice McInerney.

CHILD GETS SICK CROSS, FEVERISH IF CONSTIPATED

Look at tongue! Then give fruit laxative for stomach, liver, bowels.

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm children and they love it.

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Syrup of Figs" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious "fruit laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside" cleansing. Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

There is one redeeming feature about a chronic borrower he never strikes a man when he is down.

ROYAL

ANOTHER UNUSUAL PICTURE is being shown at the Royal Theatre To-Night entitled "Tarzan of the Apes." This thrilling story with its jungle life, its wild animal atmosphere, the great combats between the super-man Tarzan and the lions, tigers and canibals and its romantic touches cannot fail to strike a responsive chord For days the largest theatres in New York City turned away thousands who were unable to witness this wonderful picture. Capacity audiences ruled at all performances and the New York prices ranged from 75c to $1.50 for each performance. You can see this wonderful picture at the Royal To-Night for 16c including war tax. A Peterboro audience has never seen a more entertaining picture since films were introduced This wonderful picture is shown in eight parts. In addition to this great picture there will shown a Pathe serial, Pearl White in "The Lightning Raider." also W. S Hart in "The Silent Stranger" and a High-Class Keystone Comedy in two parts entitled 'A Lady Killer s Doom." Tonight's Programme is one of the best that has been shown in this city for some time and is easily worth one dollar, but you can see it at the ROYAL To-Night at the usual price of 16c.

SEVERAL HUNDRED CURLERS EXPECTED NEXT WEEK FOR PETERBORO'S OPEN BONSPIEL

Splendid Trophies and Prizes Are Offered, Two Rinks Will Be Used and With Favourable Curling Weather the Bonspiel Should Be a Big Success—Preparations Complete for the Expeditious Conduct of This Feature of the Season.

SUCCESS DEPENDS ON WEATHER

THE BONSPIEL COMMITTEE.

W. G. Morrow, chairman; H. F. Foote, secretary; Robert Hicks, W. H. Denham, E. G. Patterson.

The Peterborough Bonspiel, which has been suspended for several years as a result of the restrictive and depressive effects of the war, will open, on Tuesday morning next at 9 o'clock, the feature event of this season of curling vicissitudes. Some of those who profess a knowledge of lunar lore have offered the assurance that the weather will be cold at the "full of the moon," a few days hence. This doubtful encouragement affords some hope that the ice will be hard and the weather impelling to any rinks that may be hesitating to accept the Peterborough Club's farsent invitations, but the inrush of optimism meets a frigid and uncompromising counter-current in the pronouncements of such precise students of the stars as Dave Eason and T. C. Elliott, who have declared on occasion that the phases of the moon have no more influence upon the weather than has the Kickers' Club.

A votive acknowledgment must be made at the outset, propitiatory to the Weather Man, that the success of the Bonspiel primarily depends upon his mood next week. George Morrow, Harry Foote and their painstaking assistants will have sacrificed their time and attentions in vain if the wind continues bland and blighting to hard, pebbled ice. But should the weather change the sweet whim it has followed since a cold night or two heralded the mildest mannered winter immemorial, and make things comfortable for the curlers before it is Spring, then the long discontent will vanish in the pleasant hub-bub of the Bonspiel reunions, the highly colored recollections between draws of broom battles long ago, in the appearance of good humoured confusion as the rinks collect themselves and get into action, and in the exchange felicities. Just about ten degrees of frost, twenty would be better, and the visitors are going to sweep through the biggest and best Bonspiel this section of the province has enjoyed in a long time.

Use Two Rinks.

The Bonspiel Committee has rented the Brock Street Rink to provide extra playing accommodation, and Angus McIntosh will lay out three or four ices, imprinting the rings and setting out the hog and hacks on Monday morning. This will afford eleven rinks, an ample supply for the smooth running of the draws. It is expected that fifty rinks from outside clubs will register. There may be more or less; but even with that number there will be two hundred visiting curlers. Hotel accommodation has been arranged as suitably as possible for them, and other preparations should make their stay pleasant. The Bonspiel will run at least two or three days, it will be an asset to the city, financial and otherwise, and the curlers, as guests, assume the entire expenditure.

Excellent Prizes.

For this year's Bonspiel the Club is enabled, through the sportsmanlike and generous assistance of the members, to offer a splendid list of prizes. Mr. Morrow, Mr. Matthews and Mr. Waddell have presented three handsome silver cups for annual competition. This is their first time out, and with them is the Peterborough Cup. The prizes for the winners and runners-up possess intrinsic value that make them well worth striving for. Money was not stinted in their purchase, and the winners of the various events will take home with them useful articles they will feel proud to have won. After all, however, this consideration is secondary to the sport that appeals so strongly to curlers.

Biggest Surprise of Season

Juniors Swamped at Lindsay

Petes Went All to Pieces After First Period in Last Night's Game and Lost the Round to Midgets—Score Was 17 to 2.

HOW IT ALL HAPPENED

Lindsay 17, Peterborough 2.

No, gentle reader, your eyes do not deceive you, nor is the above score a typographical error.

It represents in concrete form the result of last night's junior O.H.A. game at Lindsay, and shows that Lindsay wins the round and the district championship.

Two nights before the Petes, playing at Brock street rink, had beaten the Midgets 12 to 6 and a week before lost a game in Lindsay by only two goals after a battle from gong to gong. And yet last night Lindsay set them back by a margin of fifteen counters. It was the biggest surprise of the hockey season, as big to the Lindsay players and supporters as it was to the Petes. The result is almost incredible to any one who saw the other three games the teams have played this season.

The Petes opened up in last night's fixture as if they were going to win the game, let alone hold their lead. They scored the first counter, and it was not until almost the end of the first period that Lindsay scored the equalizing goal, and the teams were even with one counter each when they skated off for the rest. There was not a man in the rink at that stage who conceded Lindsay a chance to win the round, and they did not appear to have more than a fifty-fifty prospect of winning the game.

The break came in the second period. Lindsay changed their tactics on the advice of Pete Spratt and threw Garnett and Green, their defence pair, up on the forward line, leaving Oliver alone to look after the defence. As a result the Petes had difficulty in breaking away from their own nets, especially as the ice grew very sticky and the superior stick-handling ability of the maroon and white team was of no advantage. With five men up on the line, Lindsay pressed and finally they drifted a couple of easy goals past Flowers. This success acted like a spur on the Midgets, and they worked like wild men, while the Petes promptly proceeded to blow up. They simply went to pieces, and although they were trying all they knew, they could not pull themselves together Lindsay kept plugging along, shooting at every opportunity and kept the Petes sewed up at their own end of the rink. They quickly ran the score up to 5 to 1 and then Park stopped the avalanche for a while by scoring the Petes' second goal. The slump of the Peterborough crew seemed to be over then, for they held Lindsay out nicely for the next five or six minutes and nearly scored themselves on several occasions Then two or three shots from scrimmages eluded Flowers, and when the smoke had cleared away at the end of the second period Lindsay were leading 8 to 2, and the score was tied on the round.

The last period was a night-mare for the Peterborough fans who saw the game. Try as they might the bewildered Petes could not get the rubber away from their nets. They could not get started, and the Lindsay gang tasting a victory that was all the sweeter from being unexpected, simply went crazy. They batted the rubber, shot from all kinds of angles, and hammered in goal after goal. Those who have watched the other games of the series could not believe the evidence of their own eyes. The game grew into a burlesque before the final bell, with the Petes go far up in the air that a Church League team could have spotted them half a dozen goals and trimmed them to a finish

Lindsay was wild with joy after the game and as for the Peterborough players and the three-score fans who accompanied them to Lindsay, they were dazed, and still are for that matter. It was unaccountable. Make allowance as you will for the small rink, which has always bothered the Petes in Lindsay, and for the sticky ice after the first period, and still you cannot dope out how a team which has beaten its opponents two out of three games and only lost the third by an eye-lash, could lose by such an overwhelming score.

Man for man, outside of the goal-keeping, the Petes had demonstrated their superiority in three games, and yet in the final test the team that looked to have the series won, cracked wide open and were beaten by a city block.

It was a queer game of hockey. Of the nineteen goals scored, there were not more than two or three that were annexed as a result of a clean rush. They were nearly all bagged from mix-ups or from long shots, and as an exhibition of hockey, it did not compare with any of the other three games, but the Lindsay fans enjoyed it and who can blame them.

The winners did not use either of the subs, the regular six going through the game without a change. The whole team worked as if they were inspired and every man had his share of the glory. It was hard to pick out who was the star for the winners, although Kelly, Wilford and Garnett probably stood out a little from the rest.

The Petes, outside of the first period, never looked like themselves. Flowers was beaten by a lot of easy shots and the defence was slow in clearing. Neither Cherrett or Frost played up to their usual standard, nor in fact did any of the team, except little Micky Williams, who was the best of the squad all through the engagement. The little substitute nearly wore himself out trying to prevent the deluge of goals, and his work all through was in contrast to that of some of the others. Park showed his usual ability to get goals, by scoring both of Peterborough's counters. The little right wing players had his knee hurt towards the end of the game and could not finish.

Lou Marsh handled the bell and the teams were:

The first period was very fast, with the checking close and hard and the play even. It took 12 minutes of up and down hockey to score the first goal, Park finding the nets for the Petes by a quick shot from a scrimmage. Four minutes after, Garnett got away, and shooting from outside the defence, beat Flowers for the lying goal. It was 1-1 at the end of the period.

Lindsay opened the scoring early in the second period. Wilford started the fun by scoring from a scrimmage, and a minute later Green banged one through from well out. Two side shots by Wilford ran the score up to 5 to 1. Then Park got away and found the nets. The goal seemed to steady the Petes, and for the next few minutes they held Lindsay safe, until Garnett scored on an easy shot from the side. Kelly batted another through from a mix-up, and Green tied the score on the round on another long shot. It was 8 to 2 when the period ended.

There was nothing to the last period but Lindsay, and the summary tells the story. Here it is:

First Period.

1 Peterborough, Park.
2 Lindsay, Garnett.

Second Period.

3 Lindsay, Wilford.
4 Lindsay, Green.

CURLING

PETERBOROUGH'S CHANCES FOR PROVINCIAL HONORS.

By winning the local group in the Tankard and District Cup competitions this week, the Peterborough Curling Club has qualified for the finals, which will be played in Toronto. The Tankard games will begin on Tuesday next, and the District Cup or Governor-General's competition will likely be called next week too. The conflict with the Bonspiel is unfortunate, but the Tankard rinks have decided to compete for the Provincial honours, and the District Cup rinks are waiting for official announcement of the dates of their games.

In both competitions Peterborough will be represented by strong rinks, and there is a good chance of bringing home one "bacon" or the other. The premier prize is, of course, the old battle scratched Tankard, with its associations of more spirited days, and the silk banner that becomes the permanent possession of the winning club. Peterborough's rinks are:

Llewellyn Hall, R. G. Sturgeon, R. M. Waddell, and W. M. Lang, skip: and L. G. Bowes, W. H. Taylor, Alex. Kay and Robert Hicks.

Both rinks are composed of well seasoned curlers, and here's hoping they will bring home the gonfalon. Give them ice of the McIntosh brand and they should go a long way. They proved their mettle in defeating Lindsay's crack players, and in ordinary form they should give the best rinks in the province a real battle. There is room in the front of the silver cabinet for the Tankard, and, as "Bob" Sturgeon significantly remarked, "We haven't had a look at it yet." Since 1875, when the Hamilton Thistles won it, Peterborough were runners up twice, in 1917 and in 1892. Lindsay took it home five times, and even Bobcaygeon held it for one year. According to the law of averages it is about due to come this way.

The District Cup Contenders.

The local District Cup rinks are composed of:

R. L. Dobbin, A. W. Archibald, W. B. Campbell and Ray Best, skip; and Herb. Hair, J. H. Metheral, P. D. Fitzgerald, and J. W. McDermid, skip.

Since 1896 Peterborough have been runners-up twice, in 1899 and in 1909. On these four rinks depend the Club's aspirations of writing Peterborough in one or other of the honour rolls. It would be too much to suggest both.

CHURCH HOCKEY LEAGUE NEXT WEEK.

Next week will be a big week for the Church Hockey League. Three games will be played on Monday commencing at 6.30 o'clock, as well as the regular Thursday night games. The games to be played Monday night are:

6.30—St. Paul's vs. Murray and Park Streets.
8.00—All Saints' vs. Knox.
9.30—Trinity vs. George Street.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA HOCKEY TEAM WIN

At a brisk game of hockey played on Mark street rink last evening the King George School team were whitewashed by the Queen Alexandra school team. The northend boys chased the puck for 10 goals.

With Other Councils

Brantford Township authorities decided to join with Dunnville and Caledonia in a fight against the pollution of the waters of the Grand River, caused by the disposal of Brantford sewage in the river.

Grants Illegal.

The grants made by the Winnipeg Council of 1918 to the bonspielers, as well as the grant toward the holding of the Winter Fair, were found, by Chief Justice Mathews, to be unlawful.

Police Chief.

At a meeting of the Tillsonburg Town Council, G. M. Creighton was reappointed Chief of Police.

Teachers' Increases.

London Board of Education recommend teachers' increases from $800 to $1,000.

Hydrochloric acid is especially good for iron rust.

AERIAL VIEWS TAKEN BY A LOCAL OFFICER.

Some remarkable specimens of aerial photography are on view in the Roy Studio window. The pictures which are of the last bombing raid on Constantinople, were taken by Flight Lieutenant Percy Stock, at an altitude of two miles above the city. One particularly clear view shown is the landing place of the British aeroplanes after the armistice was signed. Another picture clearly shows burned portions of the walls of the city and the destroyed houses, while in a third the Turkish war office is plainly distinguishable.

Celebrates His 80th Birthday

Mr. John Riddell's Friends Compliment Him on the Event.

On Monday evening, February 3rd, a very pleasant and enjoyable time was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Riddell, Homewood avenue. A short programme was presented, Rev. D. Brown acting as chairman. The occasion was the celebration of Mr. John Riddell's eightieth birthday. Reminiscences and congratulations were freely expressed by all present. The invited guests were Mr. B. Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Switzer, Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Smyth, Mr. and Mrs. John Buckham and Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Morrison, and Mr. E. Elcome.

These long tried and true friends of Mr. and Mrs. Riddell of many years' standing, wished them continued blessing and happiness.

Mr. Riddell replied in a pleasing and suitable manner to the congratulations.

Not many are privileged to reach the age of eighty and enjoy the measure of health and strength of Mr. Riddell.

The ladies present also spoke of the high esteem and large place Mrs. Riddell holds in their thoughts and life, and who has also reached her eightieth year.

Refreshments were then served, and a pleasant evening was brought to a close, after singing two stanzas of "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

Looking to Europe For Electric Goods

A significant news item in the Canadian Engineer may prove interestig to the local Electrical Workers:

"Next week E. T. Brandon, electric engineer of the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario, accompanied by E. V. Buchanan, local manager of the system at London, Ont., will leave for England to interview British manufacturers, study their methods, to let them know just what class of electrical material is required in Ontario, and to find out to what extent the British manufacturers are prepared to compete in that province.

"Mr. Buchanan will represent the municipalities in a business way while Mr. Brandon will be his technical adviser, handling all engineering matters.

"While on the other side of the Atlantic they will also visit certain European countries to investigate the latest practice in Hydro Electric work and to review manufacturing conditions in those countries. Among other countries that will be visited will be Sweden and Holland.

"It has been rumoured that one of the principal objects of the trip is to induce the Swedish General Electric Company to bid on any additional generators that may be required for the Queenstown plant besides the two for which contracts were let last Saturday, but this is denied by officials of the commission."

THE WEEK'S GROCERY MARKET

Primary markets on coffee are again attracting attention by their very strong tone which has resulted in advances of from 1c to 1½c per pound, says the Canadian Grocer. European business is, it is indicated, developing to a greater extent following the substantial reduction in the ocean freight rates, but the present movement bids fair to give the producers the difference, in the prices they are asking for coffee.

Stocks Exhausted.

Stocks in first hands are virtually exhausted, and coffee in transit for Canada is a comparatively small factor. Roasters are still very well supplied but it looks as though prices here must go to higher levels before long unless a decided reaction sets in at primary points. Coffee to-day is selling on the local markets at figures below replacement values, and this is a condition which cannot continue for very long. Higher prices in the next few weeks can, it is felt, be expected.

White Beans Down.

Further declines have been recorded in white beans and it is hard to determine just what the market is today. Even lower levels would not come as any surprise but just how much further they will go is a question.

The result of this movement to lower levels may mean a reduction in the price of canned baked beans at an early date also. Some quarters are quoting a slightly easier price on tomatoes, but other lines seem to be holding their own fairly well.

Car of Dates.

A car of dates is due on the local market this week, the first to arrive since the end of last September. The prices will range around the present levels, it is thought. Tanglefoot has registered an advance and sulphur has declined.

Prices on corn syrup have declined, bulk goods coming down ½c per pound, and package goods 25c per case. Cornstarch and laundry starch are also easier, the decline amounting to 1-2c per pound, and package goods 25c per case. Cornstarch and laundry starch are also easier, the decline amounting to 1-2c per pound all around.

Potatoes Lower.

Cereals remain in an uncertain position as yet, and the market is decidedly in favor of the buyer. However sales are being made to cover immediate repirements only, and the movement is not heavy.

Pork Products.

Pork products have sagged again slightly this week, both fresh cuts and some lines of cured meats reaching lower levels. Fresh beef on the contrary has strengthened and even higher prices do not seem so far away.

Business shows improvement for the week and some of the wholesalers report January sales for 1919 ahead of those of one year ago.

WASHING CARS

"Why don't you keep your car clean?"

"Clean! How can I keep it clean with the work it has to do?"

"Take it over to the Duffus Garage bathroom. They'll clean it for you in a jiff; so it will look like new all season."

The big new Duffus Garage is equipped with an up-to-date car washing service. If you have never seen good car washing ask them for a demonstration. The washing is done almost by magic, and a human machine with lashons of clean water, linseed soap, fine cheese cloth, and plenty of elbow grease.

CHARGED WITH BEING ABSENTEE.

William Everist Carey, a farm labourer, was arrested yesterday by the Dominion Police on a charge of being an absentee and failing to report to his battalion for duty. Mr. E. A. Peck appeared for the defence, and Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton for the prosecution.

The case was adjourned until Monday, February 17, and Carey was allowed out on two sureties of $500 each.

BOLSHEVIKI CALL ALL MEN FROM 20 TO 45 TO WAR IF PACT FAILS.

HELSINGFORDS, Feb. 7. (Havas) — A decree issued by the Central Soviet of Moscow has called to the colours all men between the ages of 20 and 45 years. The men will be ordered to prosecute the war in case the proposed conference on the Island of Prinkipo fails.

MAY SELL THE NEW SHIPS

Permanency of Shipbuilding in Canada in Doubt Owing to Greater Cost as Compared with England.

OTTAWA, Feb. 8.—Involved in the question of the future of the ship building policy of the Government is that of what to do with the 45 ships which are now under construction.

The original plan announced was that the shipbuildig industry was to be permanent, and that the ships would be operated by connection with the Government railways. There is now a considerable doubt of its permanency in view of the relative costs here and in England, the former being double the latter.

Will Be Snapped up.

If no more ships are to be built those now under construction may be sold, and they are likely to be snapped up.

Inquiry elicited the report that the whole matter is undecided, but a decision is likely to be come to before the session. The contract with Dominion Steel for a $5,000,000 plate rolling mill is a complicated feature of the situation.

KNIGHTS HELD A PRESENTATION DANCE

Mr. E. Hanrahan Was Presented With a Gold Watch.

A presentation dance in honour of Mr. Edward Hanrahan, who is leaving shortly for Montreal, was held in the Knights of Columbus club rooms on Simcoe street, last night. Grand Knight J. J. Duffus occupied the chair. The musical numbers were provided by: Vocal, Miss Florence Hanhy; Mrs. Grover Halpin; duet, Miss Gertrude Clancy and Mr. Euclid Picard; vocal, Mr. Kirns; cornet solo, Mr. J. Minniocla; violin solo, Miss Regina Hill; instrumental, Miss Mary Lonergan; vocal, Miss Annie Simons.

Mr. Hanrahan was presented with a gold watch by the Misses Martin, after which short addresses were heard from the Grand Knight, Mr. James Doris, Mr. J. E. Sullivan and Mr. Hill, all of whom expressed regret in losing such a valuable member of St. Peter's choir and the Knights of Columbus. Light lunch was served, after which dancing continued until midnight.

The regular monthly meeting of the Executive of the Local Red Cross Society will be held Monday afternoon, February 10th, at 3.30 o'clock, in the Public Library.

Lord Robert Cecil of Great Britain, Premier Venizelos of Greece, Senator Bourgeois of France, and Paul Hymans of Belgium, were appointed the drafting committee.

Another Paris despatch says it is learned from a reliable source that the constitution as adopted for the League of Nations, provides for an Executive committee of seven. One representative appointed for each of the five great powers, and two for the smaller countries.

Another Paris despatch says the Allied representatives yesterday discussed the lifting of entire foodstuffs blockade of neutral countries; also permitting neutrals to trade with Germany in foodstuffs up to a limit set by the Supreme war Council.

A Nation of Bond-holders

Before the War, Canada looked outside her borders for Capital. During the last three and a half years, Canada has become a nation of Capitalists,—for the man who buys a $50 Victory Bond, or a $5 War-Savings Stamp, is a Capitalist of the best type.

By the discovery of ten times the number of Capitalists, or Bond-holders, that she previously had, Canada has made a great stride forward. Interest charges, necessarily high at this time, do not withdraw money from the country. Home industry is fostered, and the problem of the War Burden is solved.

EVERY CANADIAN SHOULD BE A CAPITALIST. The opportunity is provided by the offer of War-Savings Stamps at $4.01 this month, and redeemed for $5.00 on the first day of 1924.

Mr. Wilson in Right Place in France Doing Duty Under Constitution, Says Mr. Taft

One-time President Denounces Critics of Nation's Chief Executive and Defines Law—League of Nation Conference Cheers Stand and Joins in Laugh at Congress Carpers.

New York, Feb. 8.—In the course of a two hour address delivered at the opening of the Atlantic Congress for a League of Nations, William H. Taft made a ringing defence of the course of President Wilson in crossing the sea, "where his constitutional duty lay."

The one-time republican President brought to their feet with cheers the two thousand delegates from the Atlantic seaboard States, who crowded the ballroom of the Astor Hotel, when he inveighed against the injection of partisanship with "a subject that overshadows parties and nations."

The Right Rev. James H. Darlington, Bishop of Harrisburg, Pa., who had opened the congress with the invocation, and who sat upon the platform, leaped to his feet and led in the applause. He was garbed in the robes of his episcopal office.

Probably one half those in attendance were women, but all without distinction, arose and joined in the ovation to Mr. Taft, who was compelled to wait for the demonstration to subside before he could proceed with his address. Then he ridiculed recent utterances of his party colleague, Senator Boran, and aroused renewed applause and laughter, when he dismissed with humorous scorn what he called "Websterian eloquence in the United States Senate."

Mr. Taft was in his most felicitious mood. His audience followed him attentively as he described what a League to Enforce Peace stands for, and what it has embodied in its scheme for a lasting League of Nations. He explained that under the auspices of the League to Enforce Peace, of which he is the President, there are now being held nine congresses in as many different sections of the country.

After he had dismissed each phase of the league plan, traversing ground covered by him in many speeches, Mr. Taft said:—

Says President is Doing Duty

"I know you have heard a great deal about the violation of the constitution. Well, I yield to no man in my worship of that fundamental instrument, and I worship it more because there are a good many gentlemen whom I would trust with that instrument over night. (Laughter.) But you cannot find any line in that constitution which forbids the President going to the place where his highest constitutional duty is when occasion calls for it. (Applause.) And it has done him good! (Applause) And it would do some gentlemen in Washington good too! (Applause.)

This theory that party lines should restrain your expression on a subject that overshadows parties and nations (prolonged applause, all rising and giving three cheers for Mr. Taft), and I do not want any misconstruction of what I have said when I say overshadows parties and nations. I yield to no man in my conception that the Advance of the world is to be through the national spirit and through real patriotism. (Applause.) And I have no use for those who would dilute nationalism—real progressive nationalism which will work no good for anybody. But I regard nationalism as much the strength of universal brotherhood as I do the home and the family as affective for the cultivation and the maintenance of real patriotism at home. (Applause.)

Seven Spies Were Shot in Great Britain During War

Few Preliminaries in Connection With Work of Shooting a Spy—The Mythical Barrage in the English Channel.

LONDON, Feb. 10. — In the possession of a sergeant-major of the British Military Police is a peculairly made leather strap—or, rather, a series of straps—for which Madame Tussaud doubtless would pay a large sum of money.

It is the strap with which German spies caught in this country and condemned to death were fastened in a special chair at the Tower of London prior to being shot. Like a wise man, the sergeant-major had the strap made to his own design and paid for it with his own money. It is to him a priceless relic of the great war.

Germany's vaunted spy system, like the over-boomed German navy, hardly realized expectations. There were it is true a great many spies in England, both before and after the war, acting on behalf of the Kaiser. Most of them were neutrals and came originally from the South American states.

The British secret service resembled its magnificent navy. It did its work as effectively and silently, and the necessary reticence observed as to its doings contributed very materially to the discomfiture felt by the German government owing to the misleading information which which "fell" into German hands.

Mythical Barrage in Channel.

As a matter of fact the Naval Intelligence Department, under Rear Admiral Hall, acting in conjunction with the censor's department, provided false information to the Germans, a instance being the mythical Strait of Dover submarine barrage revealed by Sir Roger Keyes.

Nearly all Germany's spies in this country attempted to forward their information by post. But thanks to the astuteness of the censor's staff it was rarely these letters, even although written in invisible ink, went undetected.

All spies were not arrested immediately they were detected. The British secret service, ever considerate, allowed them to send and to receive letters and collect information; but it reserved the privilege of opening the correspondence both ways and making alterations likely to be of more use to the allies than to Germany.

It is difficult to estimate the value of the information obtained by this method. The Hun, with his profound disrespect for British finesse, probably never will believe that Britain could be guilty of such astuteness.

It is certain that Germany obtained very little that was useful from her spies in England. From the outbreak of the war the ports were too carefully watched to permit of much leakage. The wild stories of wireless telegraphy and signalling to sea, had little or no substance in fact; the risks of detection were too great.

Up and down the east and south west coasts of England, were, however, many "hydros," palatial hotels, built right on the sea, with large copper domes twinkling brightly for many miles out at sea. And the manager was often a German.

Eight German spies were executed in this country while many more are undergoing long terms of penal servitude. For obvious reasons, the names of many never were revealed. The Imperial Government continued to communicate with them, blissfully unaware that their agents had gone to a bourne from which not even a German spy returns. The British secret service kindly acted as the spy's deputy.

The execution of these spies is naturally an unpleasant subject, but none the less interesting. After the secret trial and condemnation to death the spy was taken to the Tower, there to await the dread summons in the early hours of the morning. Taken from his cell by a party of military police, the spy was strapped to a chair in the quadrangle of the Tower. There facing him about ten paces distant was a firing party, usually of eight men, from the battalion of guards on duty at the time.

Bared Chest the Target.

The preliminaries were soon arranged. The spy was placed in the chair and his body and limbs were tightly strapped to it. Then his chest was bared to receive the bullets of the Englishmen whose country he had wronged.

That was his last look at the world. A handkerchief was tightly bound around his eyes by the sergeant-major of the military police. The firing party leaning on their rifles, stood up and brought them up to the aim as the sergeant-major stood clear. A low instruction from the officer in command to aim at the heart, a sharp order "Fire." A burst of flame and the crack of eight rifles had ended the career of another of Germany's spies.

Some of the spies stood their execution stoically; others again made a last despairing fight and went to their death shrieking and cursing their Maker.

Great Brtain, France and Italy Are Loaned 120,000,000 Pesos.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Details of the cereal convention negotiated at Buenos Aires, between Argentine and the European allies, were received by the State Department, showing that Great Britain and France are to be loned 80,000,000 pesos each, and Italy 40,000,00 pesos for the purchase of Argentina's surplus grain. The conventions are to run for two years.

A NERVOUS BREAKDOWN

Miss Kelly Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health.

Newark, N. J.—"For about three years I suffered from nervous breakdown and got so weak I could hardly stand, and had headaches every day. I tried everything. I could think of and was under a physician's care for two years. A girl friend had used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she told me about it. From the first day I took it I began to feel better and now I am well and able to do most any kind of work. I have been recommending the Compound ever since and give you my permission to publish this letter."—Miss FLO KELLY, 476 So. 14th St., Newark, N. J.

The reason this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, was so successful in Miss Kelly's case was because it went to the root of her trouble, restored her to a normal healthy condition and as a result her nervousness disappeared.

Brian Ordered Overseas

CHAPTER CXV.

"Brian—hurry—" she gasped. He was going to leave her, and perhaps she never would see him again. Had she any right to keep from him the wonderful thing that was coming to them? Wasn't it wrong to let him go in ignorance?

Then, as she still held the receiver to her ear, she heard another voice—a woman's. As she listened, Brian's tones came to her muffled, as if he were holding the mouthpiece against some object.

"I'll hurry—yes, and—of course!" The last rather impatiently, Ruth thought as she strained to listen. Then: "Yes, it will be fully an hour—no—not if I can help it." Then once again he spoke to her. "Hello Ruth!"

"Hello"—

"I'll be up just as soon as I can, about twenty minutes. I'll jump in a taxi so that I may have more time with you."

"Wait a minute, Brian—how long will you be with me?" She had what he had said in her mind: fully an hour—not longer, if I can help it." Who was Brian talking to—what woman? And why was he going to hurry to get back to her?

"Just long enough to pack up and say good-bye, Ruth. Hurry orders, dear. I will be right along." The receiver clicked. She was shut off.

She sat like one benumbed until she heard his key in the door. All power of thought seemed to have been taken from her. She neither thought anything of the question which had seemed so vital to her a while before, nor did she think of anything else. Her mind had atrophied for the present.

'Hello, Ruth, where are you?"

came Brian's voice with a ring of something so like joy in it. She hastily brushed her hand across her eyes before she answered.

"Here, dear! in the bedroom."

"Isn't it wonderful, Ruth? I am going over at last. Gee! how we have chaffed under the waiting; how we have longed to go! Why, you should have seen the boys when the order came. Such shouting you never heard. I tell you, Ruth, those damned Germans will open their eyes when they see us—if they do sneer at us because we are green at the fighting game. We'll show them a trick or two, even if they have been at it for forty years so they could whip us. We've a bag full of them, you know! I tell you, Ruth, all the other nations have got to get up mighty early if they are going to get anything on Uncle Sam. Not that they arn't wonderful—but just wait until we get across and give them a breathing spell. You see, Ruth, the British, the French, and the Italians, to say nothing of Belgians and men of the other smaller principalities, have got to be helped and it is up to us to do it. I'll be proud to fight on the same line with the Canadians! Think of the time the poor devils have been bucking that Hun proposition, over there. Maybe they won't give us Yanks a warm welcome. I wish you were going along, Ruth."

He had not stopped talking a moment, while he was rummaging through his chiffonier drawers, and in the closet; but that had been the first word he had said that showed he had any thought of her. The tears filled her eyes, but resolutely she winked them back. If he didn't care anything about leaving her, she wouldn't let him see how near to heart-break she was because of his going.

"No—I'll not tell him!"—she whispered, her lips quivering.

"Can I go to the boat with you?" she asked when she could control her voice.

"No, dear. They won't let anyone go. We will have to say good-bye here." His voice trembled just a little.

Just then Rachel came in and Ruth told her to get Brian something to eat, and some coffee.

"You'll have to hustle, Rachel," he looked at his watch, "I shall have to be out of here in about half an hour."

"As soon as that, Brian? What time do you sail?" Ruth watched him narrowly as she spoke. The flush that dyed his face for a moment did not pass unnoticed.

"Yes, and I don't know the time of sailing or anything about it. We are told only one thing at a time, you know."

"Yes,—I have read that even the Captain of the boats sail under sealed orders, but I had forgotten it." Once more her eyes filled. And as before, she would not let Brian see.

"Yo' supper am on the table, Marse' Brian," Rachel interrupted.

To-morrow—Brian Leaves Ruth. She Is Heart-broken.

THE TAYING TIME IN A WOMAN'S LIFE

Mrs. H. Membury, 325 Seaton St., Toronto, Ont., writes: "I have used Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and found them to be of great benefit to me, in fact, I consider they saved my life, and I have told many of my neighbours about them.

Two years ago last November I was in poor health. The doctor said it was change of life, as I was over forty years old, and that I would have to be very careful of myself. Shortly after that I received an awful shock that nearly killed me. The doctor my husband sent for said I would soon be all right, and sent up some medicine, but it only seemed to increase the trouble. I was then taken to the hospital. The doctors examined me, but could not understand my case.

Then they sent for a specialist, as they began to think it was my mind.

When the specialist came he was baffled, for I answered his questions all right. Every day I was getting weaker, and when my husband came he could see that I was going, as I could read his thoughts, but said nothing.

Next day a friend came with a cab and took me to their home. They got a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I started taking them and began to get better, and at the end of two weeks, I could walk around the room. I am now well and able to do my own work."

HOW TO GET RID OF RHEUMATISM

"Fruit-a-tives" Point the Way to Quick Relief

VERONA, ONT.

"I suffered for a number of years with Rheumatism and severe Pains in my Side and Back, caused by strains and heavy lifting.

When I had given up hope of ever being well again, a friend recommended 'Fruit-a-tives' to me and after using the first box I felt so much better that I continued to take them; and now I am enjoying the best of health, thanks to your wonderful fruit medicine".

"Fruit-a-tives" are sold by all dealers at 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c.—or sent postpaid by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

means of existence. The argument that the re-opening of the breweries will provide employment is economically unsound, and reflects the intellectual attainments of the pseudo-economists who support this contention. Therefore we would urge upon the more intelligent members of the labour movement, to oppose the action of some of our officials who are actively engaged in trying to restore a trade which has done more to deaden the intelligence, and weaken the physique of the workers than any other weapon the capitalists have in their possession.

How Fat Actress Was Made Slim

Many stage people now depend entirely upon Marmola Prescription Tablets for reducing and controlling fat. One clever actress tells that she reduced two to four pounds a week by using this new form of the famous Marmola Prescription and now, by taking Marmola Tablets several times a year, keeps her weight just right. All druggists sell Marmola Prescription Tablets at 75 cents for a large case. Or you can get them by sending price direct to the Marmola Co., 864 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. If you have not tried them do so. They are harmless and effective.

Old Mesopotamia.

Seekers of "soft snaps" are turning their wistful optics on Mesopotamia, which seems to have maintained Utopian conditions in spite of Turkish oppression. Prince Raphael Emmanuel, son of a Chaldean high priest, who has been lecturing in America, is largely responsible for their wistful attitude. According to the prince's fascinating account of his native land, the soil is so rich that it is only necessary to work four months in the year. Then there are the additional lures of beautiful climate and comfortable habits and customs which add a potent charm to inherent laziness. The Kansas City Star reports him as saying:

There is no money in Mesopotamia. There is need for none. We pay no taxes, neither do we pay tribute. Wheat, fruit and skins are the only medium of exchange. We have no policemen, no courts, no judges. The people do not know there is a war. They would not understand the meaning of fighting for liberty, as they always have been free.

There is no record of time in Mesopotamia. We never know what day of the week it is and do not care. Clocks or watches are unknown; my people would not know what to do with them. Time is told by the height of the sun and servants arise by the cock's crow as they did in the days of Jesus.

We raise the finest tobacco in Mesopotamia, but we do not chew it or smoke cigars. The men smoke cigarettes or pipes. Our women do not smoke. There are no saloons in Mesopotamia. My people make wine, but it is not the fermented kind that you have here. It is only used on occasions, however, and then it is not considered proper for women to drink it.

A Powerful Explosive.

For many years mercury fulminate has held its place as a detonating substance superior to all others. Of recent years, however, its place has been threatened by other compounds which bid fair to displace it. One of the most promising of these is lead azide, a salt of hydronitric acid. This acid forms a great number of salts, as mercury azide, silver azide and sodium azide. Large crystals of lead azide and mercury azide have been found to be very sensitive to mechanical shock, says the Scientific American, the sensitiveness increasing with the size of the crystals. Even the breaking of a single large crystal is said to bring about explosion. Crystals as large as 3mm. in length, when dry, often explode when brushed with a feather.

Compressed Paper Fuel.

Italy makes excellent use of her waste paper. It is made into a cheap and portable fuel for the soldiers.

Boys and girls go about the cities collecting all the discarded newspapers they can find. These are brought to establishments where the sheets are converted by machinery into little tight rolls about an inch in diameter and two inches long, which are packed into small bags and dispatched to the army.

This compressed paper fuel is most convenient whenever an individual soldier wishes to warm up a mugful of soup or coffee.—Tit-Bits.

Scarlet Sponges.

Five scarlet sponges have been picked up in Lake Biwa, Japan. The authorities of the lake laboratory at Otsu, attached to the Kyoto Imperial University, are quoted as saying that scarlet sponges have never been discovered anywhere in the world.

GERMANS ESTABLISH FIRST AERIAL NEWSPAPER DELIVERY

WEIMAR, Feb. 7.—One of the Berlin newspapers has established for the sessions of the National Assembly the first regular airplane delivery inaugurated on the continent. The morning and noon editions of this newspaper are delivered at Weimar two hours after publication.

WANT ROADS ACT AMENDED.

KITCHENER, Feb. 7.—At the meeting of the City Council a committee composed of Aldermen Uttley, Bowman and Asmussen, was appointed to draft a protest against the provisions of the Rural Roads Act, to be forwarded to the Ontario Legislature. Objection is taken to the share that urban municipalities are called upon to assume to keep the highways in repair.

LONDON MAY SECURE GREAT FLAX PLANT WHICH IS PROJECTED

A linen industry, capitalized at $2,000,000, is to be established "somewhere in Western Ontario," to take care of the present flax acreage in this end of the province. It is stated that London's claim to the industry will be presented through S. F. Glass M.P., who has had a prominent part in fostering flax growing in Western Ontario and obtaining Government encouragement. The establishment of such a industry, says Mr. Glass, will be an immediate result of the Government's policy in giving a bounty for the spinning of textiles from flax grown in Canada. Up to the present time, flax fiber has been sent out of the country to be made into yarn, linen thread or materials for nets.

The flax raising industry has developed in a marked degree in the past few years in Lambton, Middlesex, Huron, Perth and Waterloo Counties. Representatives of the new $2,000,000 concern are already in the old country obtaining machinery for the plant. Owing to the fact that the industry is a new one in this country, it will undoubtedly be necessary to bring experts to take charge and give instruction. Mr. Glass states that machinery of the class required will be brought into Canada free of charge owing to the fact that none of the kind is manufactured in this country.

Large doses of pills for the liver are not as efficient as small doses. The big dose purges its way through the system fast, but does not cleanse thoroughly.

The small dose (if right) acts gently on the liver, and gives it just the slight help it needs to do its own work, and do it well.

Take one pill regularly, until you know you are all right.

MANY CASES OF RHEUMATISM NOW

Says We Must Keep Feet Dry, Avoid Exposure and Eat Less Meat

Stay off the damp ground, avoid exposure, keep feet dry, eat less meat, drink lots of water and above all take a spoonful of salts occasionally to keep down uric acid.

Rheumatism is caused by poisonous toxin, called uric acid, which is generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine. The pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which overcomes uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.

Educating Returned Soldiers

ABOUT 18 months ago it first became possible for a returned soldier, who had been so disabled by service that it was impossible for him to resume his former civil occupation, to take a course of training under government supervision and pay, which fitted him for some new occupation, the pursuit of which would not be prevented by his disability. In other words, his case was carefully considered, his disability taken into account, and his training arranged so that in his new occupation he could develop 100% efficiency. As an example take a machinist who had lost a leg; obviously his disability was such that he could not resume that occupation. He had a knowledge of blue prints and drawing and some latent ability in a drawing line. He was passed for a course as a mechanical draughtsman. At the termination of his course he was employed at a wage nearly equal to his wage as a machinist. The loss of a leg was no handicap as his new occupation did not call for any moving around. Thus this man, seriously handicapped as a machinist, was enabled to overcome his handicap and compete successfully with any other draughtsman.

Owing to the increasing number of different trades and occupations in which it was necessary to train such men it became imperative that training places should be found. Obviously if a man was to be trained for a position in a machine shop, the place to train him was right in the particular machine shop in which he would eventually be employed. This resulted in the institution of industrial surveys. One of the first industries in Montreal to be surveyed was the Angus Shops (Canadian Pacific Railway). It can readily be understood that these shops, employing thousands of skilled men in practically all kinds of mechanical work, offered great opportunities for the training of disabled men. The above mentioned industrial survey consisted of a detailed report on every position in the Angus Shops; it showed among other things the exact nature of the work done and what disabilities would hinder a man from doing the work. This survey was a guide to the District Vocational Officer, as a reference to it showed immediately what mechanical work a disabled man would be physically able to do without being troubled by his disability.

From the outset every official of the C. P. R. who was approached expressed great interest in the work and by co-operation rendered most material assistance in the re-instating of disabled soldiers in civilian occupations.

The general scheme of training adopted by the Invalided Soldiers' Commission is to give any man taking a machine shop training about three-quarters of his course in the machine shop at McGill University, then place him out with an industry such as the Angus Shops to finish that course and gain the necessary practical experience. During the time that the man is taking this training, he is drawing full pay and allowances from the Invalided Soldiers' Commission so the firm with which he is working is not called on to pay him anything. In this way the man becomes accustomed to his work in a place where he will probably be employed at the termination of his course, and the employer, having had the man under him for some time knows something about his work. This method generally results in disabled men being absorbed into the industries for which they have been trained with no gap between termination of course and employment and is thus satisfactory to all concerned.

Cabinet Making, Angus Shops.

Making a locomotive side rod bushing.

It might appear from the foregoing that the employment offered by the C. P. R. to men being trained by the Invalided Soldiers' Commission is confined to positions in the Angus Shops. Such however is not the case. Every department has taken on men: clerks, draughtsmen, telegraphers.

In some industries there has been a tendency to fight shy of the returned men, the reason stated being his inability and apparent lack of power of concentration on his work. Not so with the C. P. R. Every consideration is shown the returned man and every possible allowance is made which will assist him in re-establishing himself in civil life. The attitude taken by the higher officials of the C. P. R. in regard to disabled soldier students is mirrored in the following letter of instructions issued to foremen:—

THE RETURNED SOLDIER AS AN EMPLOYEE.

How do you treat a returned soldier working under you? Do you consider him as an ordinary workman, let him shift for himself and look on his mistakes only as you would an ordinary employee? If so, you are assuming that he is in all respects just a normal man and should be able to do the same work as quickly and as well as the average employee. If you do, you are wrong.

Many returned soldiers' conditions are broken down. They have been gassed, shell shocked and tortured by wounds, and consequently are highly strung and nervous and will be for some time to come. What they make of themselves depends on you. If one of these men make a mistake and is roughly reprimanded, he is likely to shake like a leaf, get excited, etc., and be very difficult to make anything of; this is wrong. The greatest tact, care and attention that you can give these men in helping them to become useful employees is what the Company expects, and, moreover, you owe it to them.

There are bound to be some exceptions and some men will fail to make good. The success or failure of the majority, however, depends on you, and it is your privilege to help your country in this national crisis by endeavoring to make useful citizens out of the nerve-shattered men that are commencing to come back to us from the front.

Is further proof of the interest of the C. P. R. necessary? No!

Now for results. Of the first hundred men to complete Industrial Reeducational Courses in this unit, ten were employed by the C. P. R. on the termination of their courses. Up to date, about two hundred men have completed courses and now many of these men are employed by the C. P. R., i. e.: These men have taken courses in no less than 12 different trades as it is obvious that the C. P. R. is absorbing splendidly.

Girl's Wild Leap Ends Night Trip to "See Broadway"

Magistrate Severely Censures Young Women Who Rode in Automobile With Men.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—A timorous knock on the door of their isolated home in Astoria road, Queens, roused Mr. and Mrs. John Fittler at three o'clock yesterday morning. As Mr. Fittler cautiously opened the door the unconscious body of a girl about seventeen years old fell across the threshold. The Fittlers were still seeking to revive her an hour later when Policeman James Flynn, of the Astoria station, arrived, one of scores of regulars and reserves who had been searching the sparsely settled and wooded section for the girl since half-past two.

She was identified as Miss Florence Gould, of Rahway, N. J., who with Miss Julia Raymond, eighteen, of Middletown, Conn., had started out from the Y.W.C.A. at Lexington avenue and Forty-first street, to "see Broadway." Their night of romantic adventure began when they accepted a ride in the automobile of Morris Rochman, chauffeur, of No. 329 East Forty-ninth street. It increased a hundredfold when Rochman stopped for his friend, Thomas Healy, automobile mechanic, of No. 144 East 145th street.

Through Dark, Wooded Roads.

Its business was clouded, however, when they found themselves speeding through dark Long Island roads, and it reached an almost tragic climax when Miss Gould, objecting to the behaviour of one of the men, leaned from the vehicle and disappeared. She wandered around blindly, failing up to her waist in an ice cold brook, until the dim outlines of the Fittler home offered sanctuary.

Miss Gould's dangerous leap, similar in motive to the one taken less than a week before by Miss Emily Stratford, of Rosedale, L.I., which resulted in her death, unnerved the two men. They drove slowly thereafter, until they met Sergeant John Cunningham, at Ehret and Flushing avenues, Astoria, a wild section half a mile south of North Beach. Rothman asked if he had seen the girl and related her abrupt action. The policeman took the two men and Miss Raymond to the Astoria Station house; and searching parties were sent out.

Later in the day Miss Gould was revived and appeared with the others in the Long Island City police court, where the men were arraigned on charges of disorderly conduct. There the girls repeated substantially the same story they told the police—that they had been employed in the Connecticut State Hospital for the Insane at Middletown, Conn., and were on their way to meet a girl friend in Trenton, N.J., who told them how they could obtain better posts in a New Jersey State Hospital. Being in New York they decided to inspect for themselves the oft heralded 'bright lights." In a side street they had been approached by Rothman, who, when they refused to go for a long ride, offered to take them bank to the Y.W.C.A. He did so, which gave them confidence in them and they consented to take a long ride.

Magistrate Holds the Girls.

Hearing that story, Magistrate Kochendorfer discharged the men with a warning and severely lectured the two girls.

"Both these young men are not entirely to blame," he told the girls. "You are the worse. You are taking your first step toward the gutter."

The magistrate ordered the girls held until the Bureau of Missing Persons investigates their stories and makes inquiries at their homes.

PARIS, Feb. 8. — Le Matin draws attention to the arrogant conduct of Germany, which it says among other things, is refusing to give passports to delegates of the allied armistice commission at Spa, who were to have gone to Berlin to draw up a list of sequestered allied property. Le Matin attributes this to the illusion on the part of Berlin that there are grave dissensions among the allies, and to the German government's triumphs over the Spartacists. Le Matin says that the Allies, however, will not permit the enemy to take advantage of their leniency.

May Maintain City Militia

Re-Organization of Whole Scheme Likely, But Not at Once — Appropriations of Dept. Cut Down.

OTTAWA, Feb. 8.—The termination of the war naturally diminishes very greatly the expenditure upon the Canadian army, but this year's budget will, nevertheless, be substantial. Last year the Militia Department's estimates were around $450,000,000. This year it is understood that they will be about $265,000,000, including the appropriations here and overseas. How long the Overseas Ministry will be kept up is a question. Inevitably it won't survive longer than the period of demobilization. Considerable is to be said in favour of the Overseas Ministry being kept on the job till everything it initiated is cleared up, but on the other hand, central control from Ottawa, where the responsibility must rest, is favoured in some quarters. The Overseas Ministry is more or less of a low unto itself by reason of its isolation.

The future of the Canadian Militia is not a problem to be attacked immediately. Reorganization has not been considered in any way as yet. There will be always need for a militia if for no other reason than to assist the civil power. The permanent force establishment, it is proposed, is to be increased to five thousand.

It is not improbable that a commission will be appointed eventually to report on the militia system, and the extent to which it may be reverted to or developed in the light of the terms of peace. In whatever plan is evolved the city regiments are certain to be maintained probably with the nucleus of rural battalions. It is furthermore probable that in future more attention will be directed to the training of officers and less to the training of men.

WAS AFRAID TO GO ON TOP OF HOUSE

Painter Was So Weak Could Hardly Walk—Gains Twenty Pounds Taking Tanlac.

"I will cheerfully tell anyone who is looking for something to build them up, that Tanlac certainly brought me out of the kinks," was the characteristic statement made by John A. Meyers, house painter and decorator of Reardan, Washington, while in Murgottroyd's at Spokane, recently.

"I can't say that I suffered any particular pain," he continued, "I just had no appetite and got into a terribly run-down condition. I believe I could have gone a week without feeling hungry. What little I did eat was forced down and seemed to do me no good, as I lost weight and strength all the time. I had gotten down to almost skin and bones and was so weak that I was actually afraid to go up on a house to paint. My energy all left me and I had gotten to where I couldn't hold out to do a whole day's work.

"I had read about Tanlac being fine for people in a run-down condition, and I now know for myself, for it has put me in shape to where I have already gained twenty pounds. And speaking of appetites, I've got the best one I ever had. Meal times come too slow for me and when they do get around I hardly know when to quit eating. I have gotten my strength and energy back, too, and now I can do as much work as any man my age. I had been losing ground two or three years and nothing ever hit the spot until I got Tanlac, so it certainly is the medicine for me."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co. Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co. Ltd.; in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

LIQUOR MISAPPROPRIATED BY SENIOR OFFICERS OF TORONTO POLICE FORCE

Toronto, Feb. 4.—Acting upon complaints that whiskey seized for infractions of the Ontario Temperance Act, had never reached the Provincial Government, Chief Constable Grassett on Friday questioned several of the senior officers of the police force.

After an examination in which they at first denied the charges preferred against them, it is stated that they admitted that whiskey had been given away, and that reports to the Government were altered. The chief constable will report to the board of police commissioners.

Farmers Have Lost Power

Ballot Box Only Way to Win it Back, Says Secretary of U. F. O.

MOUNT ALBERT, Feb. 7.—There is not a vestige of doubt in the minds of the 1,500 North Ontario members of the United Farmers of Ontario that on February 18 the riding will select Mr. J. W. Widdifield farmer of Uxbridge, to represent it in the Legislature. More than 100 of them, besides numerous Government supporters, drove in from nearby points, to hear Mr. J. J. Morrison, Secretary for the U.F.O., expound the platform of the organization. Opposing Mr. Widdifield is Major Harry S. Cameron, merchant, and returned soldier, of Beaverton. The by-election arises out of the death of Hon. Dr. W. H. Hoyle, who was elected over Mr. Widdifield in 1914 by a majority of 277.

There were just two speakers, Mr. Morrison and Mr. W. L. Smith, former editor of The Weekly Sun, Mr. Widdifield was speaking at Uxbridge Both speakers appealed to the farmer-electors to break away from Grit and Tory affliations and elect a farmer candidate who would help look after the farming industry. "In this election," said Mr. Morrison, "we are fighting for a big principle, and the fight has just started in Ontario."

Set Aside Party Politics

"I am not going to talk party politics," declared Mr. J. J. Morrison, Secretary of the United Farmers of Ontario, in opening his address. "I think that the time has come when party politics should be set aside. There was a time when the Province of Ontario did not have any big debt hanging over it. I am not concerned whether it was a Grit or Tory Government, but I want to point out to you that 75 per cent., of the representatives in the Legislature then were farmers. As time went by, the reins of power slipped from the farmers and went into the hands of other people, who are more used to spending money.

A BUILDER OF HEALTH

Nothing can be of greater assistance in building up the system than Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, for this food-cure forms new rich blood, and nourishes and restores the feeble, wasted nerve cells. Gradually and naturally the body and mind regain vigor and energy, and you feel again the joy of living which comes only to people in good health.

PREACHER FACES MURDER COUNT

SACO, Me., Feb. 5.—After two hours of examination by the prosecution in his trial for murder of his wife, Henry H. Hall, the Wells Depot preacher was permitted to retire from the witness stand. The defence then rested and it was announced that during the afternoon recess rebuttal evidence would be offered by the State.

POLICE INSPECTOR COSTIGAN REDUCED TO CAPTAIN'S RANK.

Mr. Enright Says "Too Many in Budget is One Reason for Change."

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Inspector Daniel E. Costigan, known in the Police Department as "Honest Dan," arch enemy of gamblers and other denizens of the underworld, was reduced in rank and transferred as captain to the Beach Street Station. Captain Costigan was promoted by Police Commissioner Arthur Woods in October, 1917, and left in charge of the vice squad, whose activities he directed for nearly fifteen years.

Announcing the transfer Richard E. Enright, Police Commissioner, said:

"I have one inspector over in the budget and that is one of the reasons why I reduced Costigan."

Beyond that and the usual police reason, "for the good of the service," Commissioner Enright declined to comment.

Stomach So Bad

THOUGHT HE WOULD DIE. CAN EAT ANYTHING NOW.

But for indigestion and dyspepsia, many a life might be a pleasant one.

The misery which stomach troubles cause the sufferer knows only too well and any one who has suffered knows what joy it would give to be able to eat three good meals a day and not be punished for it after.

Nearly everything that enters a weak stomach acts as an irritant, and even the little that is eaten causes such torture and is digested so imperfectly that it does little good.

Before you can eat heartily, and not pick and choose your food, you must put your stomach right so that it will manufacture its own digestive ferments.

For forty years now Burdock Blood Bitters has been making weak stomachs strong, and permanently curing severe cases of indigestion and dyspepsia that other remedies were powerless to reach.

Mr. H. L. Fairweather, Cumberland Bay, N. B., writes:—"I was troubled with my stomach for two years, and sometimes was so bad I thought I would die. I tried everything I ever heard tell of, and had medicine from three doctors, but continued to grow worse. One day I read of some wonderful cures made with Burdock Blood Bitters. After taking two bottles I could eat any kind of food without any bad effects and by the time I had taken four I was in perfet health."

Y.M.C.A. MEETING OVER.

Winnipeg Will Be the Next Place Where National Council Meets.

HAMILTON, Feb. 8.—Winnipeg has been chosen as the place for the next National Council of the Y. M. C. A., which will be held in December. This decision was reached here yesterday by the National Council which is in session at the Royal Connaught Hotel.

G. H. Wood, of Toronto, was unable to offer himself for re-election as chairman of the council, although he agreed to act until a successor could be found.

C. W. Bishop, general secretary of the National Council, paid a warm tribute to the splendid services rendered by Mr. Wood during his tenure of office during the past five troubled years.

Mr. Wood said he felt that the time had arrived when a man should be elected who could devote all his time to the work.

MINISTERIAL RESOLUTION

Itinerant Propagandists Are Not Wanted in Peterboro, Declare the Ministers of the City.

MEETING TO-DAY

The Ministerial Association held the most largely attended meeting of the year this morning, the essayist being Mr. W. R. Breyfogle, whose subject was "Business Methods in the Church of Christ.' The subject was ably handled, the speaker dealing with all departments of church business in the half hour which he occupied. The usual discussion took place after the address.

Before any one of the ministers had retired, and after careful discussion, the following resolution was unanimously adopted by a standing vote, and ordered to be reported in the daily press:

THE RESOLUTION.

"Resolved, that this Association expresses its regret that this city has at the present time no branch of the Social Service Council, especially in view of the fact that during recent weeks plays have been staged in our midst which, in the opinion of many of our most broad-minded and sane men have been offensive to the moral instincts of both men and women. That we further urgently request that the societies in this city, so worthily engaged in work for the Empire and humanity, shall in the future be most careful not to encourage any itinerant propagandist who must depend upon the use of our young people for the success of his questionable productions."

STRIKERS GOING BACK TO WORK

Several Labour Organizations Open Negotiations.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Feb. 10. — Miners, railway men and transport workers, numbering 1,500,000, to-day began a campaign for reforms. A committee of the Miners' Federation was to meet government leaders to ask for a six hour day ,thirty per cent. increase in wages, and full pay to demobilized miners during unemployment.

Railway workers will open negotiations on Wednesday with the Board of Trade and the Government Railway Committee on behalf of an eight hour day, and double pay for over-time, and other concessions.

The Transport Workers Committee is ready to report to the union that the employers offer 46 1-2 hours working week.

The electricians are balloting this week on a proposition to enforce the demand for a 40 hour week.

The London underground railways, which were tied up the most of last week because of the strikes were running on normal schedule at noon.

On the Clyde 50 per cent. of the workers resumed work to-day. All the men are expected to be back at work on Wednesday.

It was reported to-day that representatives of 50,000 dock workers had decided to strike for a 44 hour week.

Mistook Jones for a German

Member of Overseas Trade Commission Had His Hat Knocked Off by a Sergeant.

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 10.—A story is going the rounds at the Capital concerning Frank P. Jones, of the Overseas Trade Commission. Mr. Jones, it is said, happened to be at Bonn on a certain afternoon when a Canadian Battalion was parading with the King's colours at their head. German bystanders obsequiously saluted as the colours came by. When the head of the Battalion came opposite to the place where Mr. Jones stood, one of the sergeants, who was making way for the troops, noticed a somewhat pompous individual with chest and chin stuck out in what appeared to himsto be an attitude of proud defiance.

The sergeant's sick swept around and the hat of the arrogant one dropped to the ground. "Don't you know enough to salute the colours, you bloomming German," said the sergeant, passing n.

The hat belonged to Mr. Jones. His attitude was one of pride, but not of defiant pride. He was proud to see how obsequious Germans saluted the King's colours, and in his satisfaction at the sight himself forgot to do the homage. He is now a sadder but wiser man.

SITUATION IN GERMANY

Attempts to Establish a Northwest Republic—Civilians Attack Government Troops.

MANY CASUALTIES

United Press:

BERLIN, Feb. 10.—The Soldatenrat (Soldiers' Council) at Braanschweig has invited all Soldatenrats in Germany to send delegates to that city for the purpose of establishing a Northern Republic, according to information obtained here to-day.

The Soldiers' Council in various parts of Germany, in common with the Spartacans, are drawing away from the present Government with the intention of perpetuating Soviet rule, which was established directly after the revolution.

SEARCHING FOR ARMS.

A mob of four hundred civilians attacked the Government troops which were searching for arms in one of the poorer districts of Berlin yesterday. They had overpowered and disarmed the troops when help arrived. The mob turned the captured weapons on the reinforcements, but the latter's fusilade dispersed the rioters. Five persons were killed and a dozen wounded. A continuation of the search revealed many weapons.

DEMAND REFUSED.

BERLIN, Feb. 10.—The Polish Volksrat has refused the German demand for the withdrawal of its troops from the Province of Posen, and has called all Poles of military age to the colours for the defence of that territory, it was learned to-day.

WEIMAR, Feb. 10.—The Provisional Constitution of the new German Republic is expected to be presented to the National Assembly for ratification yesterday. As soon as it is adopted the Assembly will proceed to elect a Provisional German President and Premier.

Lakefield Soldier Visits Scotland

Interesting Letter From Sergeant Isbister.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 10.—Mrs. Robert Garbutt received the following letter from Sergt. A. Isbister, who spent Christmas leave in the "land of cakes." He enclosed a clipping from the Jedborough paper describing an entertainment given by the townspeople for the soldiers on leave.

The soldiers presented the ladies on the committee with souvenirs of the event, Sergt. Isbister making the presentation. Sergt. Isbister acknowledges the Christmas parcel sent him by the ladies of the Lakefield Baptist Church of which he was a member.

Jedborough, Scotland.
December 26, 1918.

My dear Mrs. Garbutt,—On December 24th I received your parcel which was appreciated very much as it just landed the day before Christmas and I was in camp for Christmas I did not open it till that morning. It arrive in good shape and I along with some pals, soon made it small and we had sugar in our tea for Christmas day. I might just say the socks fit O.K. in fact I have them on right now. Please extend my thanks to all ladies of the church that were instrumental in sending the parcel and can say many and many a time, especially this time of the year, I think of old Lakefield and also our little church.

The ladies of this Scotch town gave a dinner to the soldiers here, a concert and a dance which I partook of. and I enclose a clipping of the paper printed here two days later and it will explain which it all was. You might let "Squire" Jim, also Clarke read it too. Tell them I am not an orator but I done my best under difficult circumstances as it was in front of an audience of about three hundred boys and ladies.

Scotland is a great country. Glad to say there is some Scotch in me. I am invited out to a Scotch home for New Year's calling at midnight of December 31st. Will tell you all about it when I get home which I hope and pray will be very shortly, probably in two months time. 'Oh happy Day.'

Again thanking you and the ladies of the kirk and asking you to remember me to Mr. Garbutt. Tell him I will soon be back to run gardens on shares again.

I must close wishing all the best wishes for the coming year.

I am yours sincerely,
Corley.

Denial That Britain Used Cash to Influence the Hedjas.

PARIS, Feb. 10.—A semi-official denial is issued with regard to intimations that the King of the Hedjas had received subventions from Great Britain for taking part in the war. It was stated that any payments made to the King of the Hedjas by the allies were purely for military purposes in order to sustain the King's power.

Policy of Non-intervention, Military Or Politically, Designed For Russia

Allies Will Carry Out Their Intention to Withdraw All Troops Now on Russian Territory —Russian Ports Are Frozen Up.

JOINT CONFERENCE

(United Press Service.)
(By Lowell Mellett.)

PARIS, Feb. 10.—The Associated Powers are expected within a few days to proclaim formally the principle of non-intervention in Russia, military or politically, it was learned from a reliable source to-day.

It is possible to state further that in this connection they will carry out their intention to withdraw as rapidly as possible the troops now on Russian territory. This is the outcome of the Anglo-American representations made to France ten days ago, and exclusively reported by the United Press.

PORT FROZEN UP.

Advices from Northern Russia indicate it.. will be impossible to get boats to Archangel for several weeks, as that port is tightly frozen in. The Allies do not desire to withdraw their forces from Murmansk while their troops are still on the.. Archangel front, as that would leave the latter exposed to an attack from the west. The British, however, are understood to be mobilizing a large fleet of ice-crushers, and operations in the meantime — even local offensive movements—will be designed solely to expedite evacuation.

Before the joint conference convenes at Prinkipos Island it is believed that an understanding may be reached by the Soviet government and the Associated Powers regarding cessation of hostilities, since this would.... be acceptable under present conditions to both sides.

VOLUNTEER ARMY.

On ironic incident occurred while the proposition to declare a policy of non-intervention was brought out. Sergius Sazanaff, once the Czar's premier, received American correspondents at the Russian Embassy here. He explained the hopes of the anti-Bolshevik elements he represents to obtain a voluntary army from the present Allied forces in France for the purpose of occupying Kieff, Odessa, Alexandrieff and similar strategic points, and acting as guardians during the process of forming an antiSoviet government in their rear. Sazanoff said 150,000 troops would be sufficient.

Bridge Committee To Meet Cabinet

Will Go to Ottawa as a Deputation On Tuesday.

The City's Special Bridge Committee will go to Ottawa to-morrow for a meeting with the Cabinet, at which Peterboro's claim for government assistance in the construction of the Hunter street bridge, will be considered.

Mayor Duncan received a letter from Hon. Dr. Reid, Minister of Railways and Canals, on Saturday, notifying him of an appointment that had been made for Wednesday. The Mayor and Mr. J. H. Burnham will leave on the noon train to-morrow and the other members of the committee will follow on the midnight train. The importance of this deputation's mission will be recognized from the fact that the government will hear the city's case for a federal grant toward the construction of the new bridge, in which it is maintained, the government has an interest and liability previously acknowledged. It is hoped from this trip that assurance will be given Peterboro that the new estimates will include an appropriation toward this local work.

VISCOUNT GREY, FORMER FOREIGN SECRETARY NOW TOTALLY BLIND

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Eye trouble with which Viscount Grey, former British Foreign Secretary, has been afflicted for years, has now culminated in total blindness, says the Daily Mail to-day. Viscount Grey is learning to read by the Braille system of characters for the blind.

Viscount Grey, the former British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, who played such an important part in the world's diplomacy at the beginning of the war, is going blind, according to Sir Arthur Pearson, Bart, G.C.B.E., founder of St. Dunstan's Hotel for Blinded Sailors and Soldiers, himself blind. Viscount Grey's sight has been failing for several years until now he can no longer see to read or write, and is learning to typewrite as the only civilian pupils of St. Dunstan's.

"Viscount Grey's sight has been going for three or four years," said Sir Arthur, the success of whose methods in aiding the blind are world famous, "and he has been unable to read for about three months. In fact, he can no longer see to write."

Sir Arthur was asked whether he thought Viscount Grey had permanently retired from public affairs in Great Britain.

"He never told me that he was going to retire because his sight was failing. He is only 58 years old, and I would not feel at liberty to discuss that, because I have not been so informed by Viscount Grey himself," Sir Arthur replied.

Every man who enters St. Dunstan's is taught to read Braille print and to operate a typewriter. This last requirement has a psychological effect, Sir Arthur declared, as it aided a man in regaining his lost independence. Every man is presented with a typewriter as soon as he has passed the required test, which is as stringent as that given in any commercial school to students who can see.

Viscount Grey, who as Sir Edward Grey, was the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs for more than eleven years, has been often called the ablest diplomat of the present generation. He was credited with having done much toward keeping the great powers of Europe at peace during the troubled period of the Balkan wars and with having done his utmost to prevent the great war. In Germany he was denounced as a "sinister conspirator" and was regarded during the war as one of those chiefly responsible for the Entente coalition against the Central Powers.

He backed France unhesitatingly in the Morocco episode which almost plunged France and Germany into war. One of the main principles of his policy as Foreign Secretary was to support France. At the same time, up to the outbreak of the war, he worked toward reaching a better understanding with Germany and removing all possible causes for friction between the two nations.

He ruled the Foreign Office longer than any other man since Canning and in those eleven years no one outside the Foreign Office seemed interested in foreign affairs and as a result there was more secret diplomacy than usual. He succeeded his father to a baronetcy in 1882 and has sat in the House of Commons for more than thirty-three years.

The German Government May Refuse to Sign Peace Treaty If Terms Are "Unreasonable"

This Would Immediately Create a Chaotic Condition—The Military Class in Germany Shows Defiance.

ALSACE-LORRAINE

(United Press Service.)
(By Frank Taylor.)

WEIMAR, Germany. Feb. 10.—The German government may attempt to use the Spartacans as a weapon to force the Allies into making the terms of the peace settlement less "severe," according to reports in circulation here to-day.

Government officials openly declare they will refuse to sign the treaty if its provisions are "unreasonable." They intimate that the government would resign, turning the country to the radical elements, which they believe would immediately create a chaotic condition. Germany would thus not only be unable to pay anay indemnities, but, in the belief of government officials, would menace the rest of Europe with the threat of the Spartacan movement spreading. This condition, some Germans argue, would be no worse than the "commercial slavery" they foree from the peace settlement.

Mental Attitude.

The mental attitude of the military class in Germany has developed during the last two months from one of absolute depression to defiance and general condemnation of the Entente. The change has been wrought, it is said, by "the lack of sympathy in the Entente countries for the present economic, social and political conditions in Germany."

Germans who still retain the old military idea are confident that in case the government should turn the country over to the Spartacans the Allies would not attempt to occupy the remainder of Germany for some time. As one Pan-German is reported to have said "the world is sick of war, there is unrest everywhere, and the Entente can't take Germany anyway."

Saar Basin.

The Foreign Office is seizing upon everything possible to protest to the Allies as a part of the general resistance. Count Von Bernstorff has joined the Democrats and becomes the government's principal advisor on foreign affairs. He publicly accused France of changing the boundaries of Lorraine.

"It is very evident," he said recently, "that France proposes if possible to seize the purely German 'Saar Basin.' The German government has protested against arbituary change in the Lorraine frontier, yet Clemenceau persists in claiming the 'Saar Basin.'"

This same sentiment was evident in Chancellor Ebert's sneech before

PROPOSAL ABANDONED

OFFICIAL BACK

United Press:

OTTAWA, Feb. 10.—The proposal to establish model farms in England and France in connection with the soldiers' settlement scheme, has to all intents and purposes been abandoned. It had been proposed that these farms should be utilized by Canadian soldiers intent on going to the land in the interval between the armistice and demobilization.

Major Ashton, who went over to establish these farms, is back in Ottawa to-day. A few days after his arrival in England he buried his father; a week later he learned of the death of his wife in Canada.

Major Ashton states that demobilization plans are such as to render the original plans for soldiers' farms in England impracticable. The men are anxious to get home, and are not inclined to settle down to the study of an agricultural course. The Khaki Universities at Whitley and Bramshore, however, in full swing, and agricultural courses have been established there.

Major Ashton also visited France and decided, after extensive enquiry, that the established of proposed farms either there or in England would not justify the expense, in view of the rapid demobilization of troops now going on.

FIELD MARSHAL FRENCH THREATENS TO RESIGN

Insists that the Sinn Feiners Be Released.

(United Press.)

LONDON, Feb. 10.— Field Marshal French may resign as Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, unless Premier Lloyd George agrees to release of Sinn Feiners imprisoned in England, according to reports received from Dublin to-day.

Following a conference with Irish leaders, French is understood to have urgently recommended that the Sinn Feiners be liberated at once, and to have expressed great dissatisfaction at the War Cabinet's refusal to heed his advice last week. Lloyd George who has returned to London from Paris, is expected to make known his decision shortly.

FORMER PETERBOROUGH CITIZEN HONOURED

As a tribute to the memory of a former Peterborough citizen, Lieut.-Col. E. Burritt Edwards, who died at his residence in Edmonton on Saturday, the People's Chimes in St. John's Anglican church played several appropriate selections this afternoon, coincident with the time that the funeral was held in Edmonton.

BOLSHEVISM IN RUSSIA

The Bolsheviks Are at the Turning Point—Trotzky May Become Emperor.

TIRED OF DISORDER

(Canadian Press.)

WARSAW, Feb. 10. — That Bolshevism is in its critical stage, either turning to imperialism, with perhaps Leon Trotzky, Minister of War and Marine, as the new Emperor, or slipping back to the idea of the old Nihilism, with a sort of orderly disorder, is the impression given by many refugees of all nationalities who have arrived here from Russia "Our chief characteristic," said one informant, is that we are tired of fooling, tired of killing, tired of fighting and tired of wandering from pillar to post. There is no doubt that Leon Trotzky is attempting to obtain order and to whip the troops into shape. He is known to be terribly ambitious and possibly he is dreaming of becoming Czar, knowing that Bolshevism has failed."

A TRIBUTE TO THE LATE COL. EDWARDS

Was Formerly a Superintendent of the Murray Street Baptist Sunday School.

At the Murray Street Baptist Sunday School yesterday, Mr. W. G. Shiner, Assistant Superintendent, spoke of the splendid work accomplished for the Sunday school by the late Colonel E. B. Edwards. During the pastorate of Rev. Mr. Trotter an appeal was made from the pulpit for workers for the Sunday School, and Colonel Edwards was one of those who responded. Later he became Superintendent, and Mr. Shiner gave him the credit of introducing the splendid discipline that has characterized the Sunday School ever since.

A feature of the afternoon was the visit of Mr. Ma T. K. Wou, the leader in Chinese religious work in Toronto. He gave an address in English to the Sunday School, and later addressed the Chinese Department of the Sunday School in Chinese. Mr. Wou mentioned the fact that he had come east to clear the atmosphere in Lindsay, and emphasized the need or giving the Chinese the opportunity of learning the teachings of Christ, which, he said, would be carried by them into all parts of China when they returned home.

WELCOMING OUR HEROES.

A few years ago when a Peterborough painter, well up in years, defeated a Port Hope barber of about the same age in a walking match in Toronto, half of Peterborough's population met the victor at the station on his return and there was a procession with fireworks, and bands, speeches in Central park, a proposal to present him with a house and lot, and all the noise and excitement that usually attends an affair of that nature. The incident is mentioned merely as a contrast to the manner in which Peterborough receives her heroes of to-day. Each week brings home men whose smallest exploit in the fiery test overtops was titanic compared with the feat performed by the walking wonder of the highways, but they are not welcomed by thousands of people and escorted in triumphal procession through the streets. Within the past few days we have come back to Peterborough men like Cadet Herbert O'Heron who, going overseas as a sergeant in the machine gun section of the 83rd, duly won promotion to the rank of lieutenant-major in France, won the Military Cross and the Distinguished Conduct Medal and the Military Medal for bravery in action and was finally recommended for a commission. Cadet Jimmy Robertson, who enlisted as a private in the 2nd battalion, won his stripes, the D.C.M. and promotion to the commissioned ranks in France, and Sergt. Norman Saxby, M.M., who won his decoration for engaging the Huns and beating them with no other weapon than his bare hands. Men like these, whose deeds cause the exploits of our professional heroes to fade into insignificance, are allowed to drop into town almost unnoticed. Perhaps a handshake from the alderman at the station and a few lines in the newspapers—but beyond these things no recognition of the admiration their home city should feel for them. Has the story of the heroism of our soldier citizens grown stale to us? Have we got so accustomed to the coming home of our brave men that we treat them much the same as if they were getting back from a holiday trip instead of returning to us from the very jaws of death?

THE PETERBORO RANGERS

The announcement that the 57th Regiment Peterboro Rangers is to be re-organized will be an interesting one to the citizens of Peterboro generally. In the days before the war, many people were inclined to look upon the militia regiments of Canada as more or less of a joke. "The country's safe now" was a favorite jeer when the red coats were seen on the street and many were the slighting references that were made to the officers and men who saw fit to enrol themselves in the militia units. But people don't laugh at the Canadian Militia battalions now because when the world went mad with war the officers and non-commissioned officers and men of these battalions—the great majority of them at least—showed that they were not merely church parade soldiers but that they were ready and willing to offer all they had and were to fight for Canada. It was the militia that provided the organization for Canada's famous corps. Officers who had gained what knowledge they had of military affairs in the armouries of regiments like the Peterboro Rangers, took the men whose training had been attained much in the same way as theirs—albeit seasoned of course with soldiers of Imperial experience—to France and matched their brains and wit and the valour of their Canadian soldiers against the trained German war machine. And the world knows the result. The man who has led the Canadian corps during all its triumphs from the capture of Vimy Ridge right through to the Rhine, Sir Arthur Currie, was but the commanding officer of a Vancouver regiment of volunteer infantry when the war broke out and his world-famous success is symbolic of what the Canadian militia has done for the cause of democracy.

The Peterboro Rangers should naturally attract to themselves many of the men who have fought for Canada in the world war and who if commanded by officers and non-coms who were themselves with the Canadian army in France would be glad to serve in the unit which has provided so many fighting men. The Rangers are commanded by Lieut. Col. Jos. Mills, himself a veteran of the 2nd Battalion and it is interesting to note that the important position of regimental sergeant major is to be held open for Sergt.-Major Ernie Nicholls D.C.M. of the 2nd Battalion. Sergt. Nicholls went overseas with the First Division and has been carrying on at the front for practically four years, winning his crown and the Distinguished Conduct Medal for his gallantry in the field. Capt. M. H. Park of the 59th Battalion C.E.F., and the Royal Flying Corps is acting adjutant of the 57th. If the other officers and non-coms selected for the Rangers are of the same calibre as these, it will be a very popular unit with the ex-service men.

WHAT IS TO BE DONE IN RUSSIA?

They are making peace or they are going to make it, in Paris. They are going to provide for the future peace and security of the world. Meanwhile, in Russia, the warriors of the most fatal and brutal and selfish war in the world are carrying on their campaign of cruelty and class. What that war is we know too well. It does not stop. It has no terms of treaty or compromise. It has the merit of being absolutely intelligible. And we, all the civilized nations, must not intervene. The Red Guards may drive, they are near driving, the poor little American force that is all we have dared or cared to send, into the sea. The Czechoslovaks we admire, but must not help. The Governments of Russians that have opposed the deliberate madness of the Leninites and Trotskyites we must not aid. What is the sacred character of these sons of murder that they must not be attacked? When a great nation is held helpless by an extreme minority, aided by foreign mercenaries, why must we not, why must not all the friends of order and civilization, "intervene?" It may be too late now, but last April it was not too late.

Was it the I.W.W. was it chaste consideration of conscientious objectors and what not, that kept us back? We saw the blackest murder, the most deliberate permanent intentional loot and rapine, the willed destruction of all th eintelligent and all thrifty, planned and done. But we were restrained from doing anything about it. There are sympathizers with the Bolshevist type of revolution, apparently, that love its doings, and the conglomerated soapboxes of the world demand that Russia, exploited by intelligent madmen, shall be left alone.

That intolerable cruelties and such widespread works of destruction as never before the world has seen should go on, unchecked, uncontrolled in Russia, is revolting to our sense of humanity, but we shouldn't interfere with "self-determination" or some other sacred symbol of universal disaster. We must "keep our hands off."

The Bolsheviki could have been put down, easily put down, six months ago. We preferred to be kind to them. Not alone for harried Russia, but for civilization itself, attacked on the eastern border, and subtly or savagely assailed in every country by the partisans of anarchy or class supremacy, must this work of disorganization be put down? It means the downfall of endurable economic and social life. Are we to be so tender to this company of scoundrels that is ruining Russia and the rest of the world? They intervene with strikes and other weapons of German propaganda. We mustn't. Let them destroy their own country and stretch fatal hands to other countries. We must fold our hands.

Russia is not the only nation involved in this series of calamities, but let Russia have what her people want—representative government, agrarian reform—whatever all-Russia needs she will be sure of from outside. From the Lenine-Trotsky gang she will get nothing. The hopes of the Russian peasants, the immense maibrity of the Russian people, the hopes of the free world, irritated and endangered by a pretense of peace that coddles permanent hatred, depend upon the action to be taken or not to be taken in Russia—New York Times.

THE EXAMINER'S POSITION

Because the Examiner the other day referred to a possibility of a fight over the question of prohibition, instancing the labour deputations request for stronger beer and the feeling that many returned soldiers had against the temperance measures now in force the Review with a characteristic desire to make political capital asserts that the Examiner is in favour of stronger beer and, inferentially, is opposed to prohibition. Such a charge is ridiculous. The Examiner has consistently supported temperance legislation. It stood unwaveringly for the abolition of the bars when the Review clung to the party which at that time was steadfastly opposed to advanced temperance legislation. Upon the day that provincial prohibition came into effect in Ontario the Examiner refused to publish any more liquor advertising. It believed that to fill its pages with display advertisements, extolling the virtues of Smith's Whisky and Jones' gin and telling the thirsty whereabouts in Montreal these beverages could be procured was directly opposed to the spirit of the Ontario Temperance Act. These advertisements were refused at a great monetary sacrifice because the liquor interests were prepared to pay the highest rates for the displays. Our contemporary which is now endeavouring to accuse the Examiner of being in sympathy with the anti-prohibition movement, showed how little any support it may have given to the cause of temperance in its editorial columns counted by accepting greedily more and more of these advertisements from Montreal liquor houses until at one time the Review looked more like an issue of the Wine and Spirits Journal than it did a daily newspaper. The paradox of a journal, partly at least financed by the money of the liquor traffic, gravely preaching temperance in its editorial columns, was not over-looked by many citizens of Peterboro who as a result are not yet prepared to accept the Review as an authority on temperance matters.

As a matter of fact the Examiner's position in regard to prohibition is surely well known. The article published the other night was written as a warning to the friends of a dry Canada, that there is a difference of opinion on the subject—strong opposition to the Dominion law being made permanent that will have to be faced and overcome. The liquor interests are not sleeping and they are taking advantage of every opportunity to gain support. Among the working men and among retured soldiers they hope to gain many adherents. These facts should be known to everyone but, because the Examin ventured to point them out our contemporary the ex-press agent of the Montreal liquor houses tries to convince its readers that we are in favour of stronger beer and against prohibition.

It would be unnecessary to deny such asinine assertions were it not that there is a possibility that some readers of the Review, might be deceived by the editorial which appeared in Saturday's issue of that journal For their benefit the Examiner wishes to make it clear that this paper does not favour stronger beer, that it believes in a Dominion wide prohibition act, and in a bone dry Canada It believes that the manufacture sale and importation of spirituous liquors in the Dominion for use as a beverage should be absolutely prohibited and that the law in this regard should be administered strictly and impartially for all classes alike.

It agrees with the Buffalo News that "the liquor traffic is as dead as a door-nail," and that for the benefit of all Canada there should be no attempt to revive it.

And holding such beliefs surely the Examiner is privileged to point out that there is a sentiment among many people in the country that is not the same as our own, without being accused of forsaking the policy which we have always supported.

DEMOCRACY AND BOLSHEVISM.

In the long history of the world, Bolshevism may be accorded representation as an exclamation mark or an expletive, a gesture of despair or disgust.

To-day, high prices and strange events have made widespread the habit of thinking impatiently and talking loosely, and many who know better do not stop to realize either the differences between or the similarity of Western Democracy and Bolshevism.

In the first place, of course, Bolshevism is something of an enigma. The inventors who tell of its advantages are still experimenting with it. Involved in a maze of grandiose phrases and riding a wave of popular exhilaration, its terms supply a ready means of expressing the daring philosophy of the times.

The hard-working and successful citizen, even, discusing problems and evils with something of the zeal of the crusader, often finds it convenient to say, in a proudly apologetic aside, "I'm a bit of a Bolshevist, you know".

He is not. He merely wishes to make known his reforming zeal. His success in life bars him from Bolshevism.

"You have nothing to lose and the world to gain!"

That is the keynote of the recruiting campaign carried on by the Bolsheviki. It is being sounded by their agents in Canada to-day.

The slogan is of interest because it throws light upon the character of their organization, also because it indicates the absurdity of entertaining the idea of Bolshevism in this country.

Where is the Canadian born and bred to the opportunities and advantages of life in Canada, who has nothing to lose in an overturning of the present order of things? Assuredly, few worthy citizens of industrious habits and ordinary intelligence lack some asset or investment which they prize, which they have honestly earned and which they deserve and desire to retain.

The preacher of Bolshevism who says to the self-respecting Canadian, "You have nothing to lose and everything to gain," errs by the mechanical repetition of a formula designed for use elsewhere, as in Russia when Czarism collapsed. The betrayed Russian soldiers may have been ready to believe that they had nothing to lose and everything to gain from the overturnings of Bolshevism. Canadians are entitled to a more patient examination of the two futures.

As a matter of fact, Democracy is more Bolshevik than is Bolshevism as the average man understands it. So long as the majority vote counts, we can have Bolshevism or anything else.

Russia was entitled to her revolution and to its back-wash. But humanity foreign to Russia should not be taxed for the sins of Czarism.

If ever we get ready for Bolshevism, we have a straight road to the goal. In the other hand, it seems, from Petrograd cables, that the way out of Bolshevism is not so easy to find.—Montreal Star.

The tongue of a woman is her sword—and she never allows it to rust. Lots of people seem to think it bad form to be polite in public.

"FOX" PROGRAMME ROYAL TO-NIGHT

HIGH-CLASS Features, Dramas, Western Pictures and several Comedies. These pictures are shown only at the Royal theatre in this city. Our programme is the same as that shown in the largest theatres in Toronto, including Leow's and Shea's hippodrome, where the usual charge is from 25c. to 50c. The Royal prices are Sixteen cents to all.

One of the two big features to be shown today is the great Fox production, starring Jewel Carman in "THE BRIDE OF FEAR," in five acts. It is a story of true womanhood with a past. Another high-class feature is a Fox production introducing Tom Mix in "FAME AND FORTUNE," a peppery western story of warm hearts and cold lead, in five parts. Also a Sunshine Comedy, entitled "THE SON OF A HUN," in two parts. In addition to this we are showing a one reel MUTT AND JEFF Comedy. Tonight's programme is unusually good. Do not fail to miss it. Admission sixteen cents to all.

BCAYGEON HERE TO-NIGHT

e Tankard finals have been post-d for one week. They were duled to begin to-morrow in To-o, and the local rinks had their s and grips packed and ready ight when the announcement this afternoon wrapped up in mation that mild weather was way. It seems that Mr. G. S. , secretary of the O.C.A., in-ved the Weather Man in To-this morning, and upon his t of an ascending thermome-Tankard games are deferred ther week nearer spring. hange was warmly welcomed local club, especially the Tan-players, who were bewailing exclusion from the Bonspiel opens here to-morrow. At the e time, the cause for the post-onement aroused feelings of un-siness and apprehension as to the ssibility of milder weather spoil-g the Bonspiel.

Fitzgerald-Bottom Games.

The local end of the annual home d home games for the Fitzgerald-ttom Cup will be played at the arlotte Street Rink to-night. W. Bradburn and Dave Eason are the terborough skips opposing the bcaygeon rinks.

Vice-Skips Reach Finals.

V. H. Taylor and Grant Copping the survivors for the finals in the e-Skips Bonspiel. The Alderman tched a win from Felix Browns-be on Saturday night with a three d, winning by 10 shots to 9. Cop-g defeated Chris Graham by 8-5. The rinks were as follows:

he eve of the Bonspiel provided teresting diversion today as the were filling up their rinks for e big show. The Tankard rinks are lit up, but otherwise here are a ring of strong groups already en-tered from the local Club. Some of them are what is called "packed," but others boasts of personnel of "ordinary" players who are setting out to humble the mighty. Some of the players were balking at the barrier, jockeying for position so to speak, but other skips were all set, complacently waiting for the draw against home talent anad visitors alike. The atmosphere was charged with increasing but well suppressed excitement, good humour, and the tempering effect of doubtful weather.

Embassies in Washington Will be Only Oasis When Dry Law Goes Into Effect

They Are Considered Territory of Country Represented, So Diplomatists May Stock Cellars Liberally—Their Friendship to Be Much Sought After.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 10.—Members of the different embassies in Washington expect a great increase in their social popularity after the nation-wide prohibition amendment goes into effect. Throughout the country embassies will be the only oases for the thirsty.

Under the theory that an embassy is the territory of the country represented they will not be subject to the nation-wide dry law. While the nation goes thirsty the representatives of the different foreign countries may have their cellars stocked with liquors.

While there have been no social ukases whether it will be proper to serve wines and liquors at official dinners, there is no question but the personal friendship of the Ambassadors and Ministers and their assistants will be highly appreciated in a capitol of desert-like aridity.

Embarrassment is added to the situation by the fact that Represenative Barckley, who singularly enough comes from Kentucky, is engineering the passage of a bill which would confiscate all of the supplies which are now being cached all over the country in cellars, under garage cement floors and in other places, including safety deposits vaults.

The oases offered by the embassies under these trying circumstances promise to furnish questions of international propriety, which may even go so far as to require submission to the league of nations. Members of the Ambassadorial corps frankly admit they have not decided upon a course of procedure and are anxious to remove the question of the equipment of their tables from the realm of "open covenants openly arrived at."

They recognize the diplomatic and international embarrassment that would be likely to ensue in returning an American official dinner at which the leading drinks were cold water and grape juice, with a feast where champagne would sit enthroned with all of its one-time poetic grandeur.

By doing so, they fear to invite an international propaganda by the Anti-Saloon League which would make that of the Bolsheviki look sickly and anaemic.

The possibilities of the commission of social contretemps are so many that it has even been suggested that the matter be broached at the peace conference with the view of deciding whether the problem can be solved on the basis of "self-determination."
